Each member of the league brought a gift to be sent to various mission schools supported by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission society. The gifts, as they were brought, were placed about a prettily decorated Christmas tree. The program was given as follows:

JUDGE LOOKED OVER TAXI CAB EVIDENCE

Two taxi cabs ranged side by side at the curb in Union square were the evidence that Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court went out into the street to look over Friday to determine whether a temporary injunction should issue against Joseph Siragusa of New London, upon the application of the Yellow Cab Co., conducted by Meyer Rubin, in that city. Attorney Earl Mathewson, associated with Attorney Thomas F. Dorsey as counsel for Siragusa, argued that the checker marks on that cab gave a distinguishing characteristic that removed it from infringement upon the Yellow Cab business. Attorney Arthur T. Keefe represented the petitioner.

Judge Hinman reserved decision.

JUDGE HINMAN ARRANGES TO VISIT PUMPING STATION SITE

Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court, before whom a partial hearing was given here Friday afternoon on the petition of the Norwich water department to establish a small reservoir in connection with the pumping station on Trading Cove brook, will visit the proposed site next Monday morning at 10 o'clock and continue the hearing in court at 11 o'clock.

The water department's case was presented in court by Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., and the opposition was represented by Attorneys Clayton S. Smith and G. C. Morgan who appeared for G. Warren Davis of the Cooking road.

The case comes before the superior court because of a statute requirement that permission from the court is necessary in order to be able to use a site for a reservoir that is located within a certain distance of a cemetery. Judge Hinman had an appointment in Bridgeport for Friday afternoon and was able to give only a short time to the case after 2 o'clock and when he found that the opposition proposed to contest the location on various grounds, he adjourned the hearing and announced that he would visit the site with the attorneys and the Norwich water officials Warren J. Scott of Hartford, sanitary engineer of the state department of health, was first called to the stand. He has been with the state department for a year and before that in employment in Massachusetts. Mr. Scott testified that he had examined the watershed twice and found on it the West Plain cemetery and another small one on the west side of the brook. He knew of no water supply that had ever been contaminated by a cemetery and he said these two cemeteries would not, by their location within half a mile of the water supply, be detrimental to public health. There are not many indications of recent burials in the West Plain cemetery, which is about 400 feet from Gold Mine brook, a tributary of Trading Cove brook. The soil is sandy. The percolation distance through soil would be about 25 feet.

On cross examination, he said about a quarter of an acre would be the drainage area for the proposed reservoir. There is a small swamp between the cemetery and the reservoir, from which a brook runs into Trading Cove brook below the point of the reservoir. There may be underground seepage into the brook. If the reservoir were located above the junction of Trading Cove and Gold Mine brooks it would get water free from seepage from the cemetery, he said, in answer to a question. This location would probably reduce the flow of water one-quarter, due to cutting out Gold Mine brook.

On a question from Attorney Shields, Mr. Scott said he did not believe there was any possibility of contamination of the water here on account of the cemetery.

The engineer said there were cemeteries contiguous to reservoir water supplies at New Haven and Danbury.

At this point Judge Hinman inquired from the attorneys for the opposition whether they intended to contest the location on any other grounds than the possible contamination. Attorney Smith responded that they proposed to make the contest on all possible grounds and they would allege that no emergency existed now, that Norwich has plenty of water as it has one reservoir which is shut off and from which no water is being drawn. He further claimed that the situation was not as bad as it had been some time ago.

The reasons which Mr. Davis, et al, state through their attorneys, as an objection why the city of Norwich should not be allowed to us the water from Trading Cove are as follows:

1.—There is no necessity which exists for the use of so much water at this time.

2.—If there is a necessity then there are other more desirable and available sites on hand to supplement the water supply for the city of Norwich.

3.—It is extremely detrimental to the public health for the proposed site to be annexed.

4.—That it is in contravention with the statutes of the state which strictly prohibits the erection of a water shed on a site which is within one quarter of a mile of a public cemetery.

5.—In the particular site in question, it is particularly dangerous because of its location of 600 feet from a new and active cemetery.

There were 131 members of the association present, representing 34 mills of Eastern Connecticut, also several guests.

Throughout the banquet the Winged-foot Serenaders providing a pleasing musical entertainment, their numbers being interspersed by two cleverly presented acts of vaudeville.

Special guests of the evening were Frederick L. Babcock, editor of Fibre & Fabric, Cambridge, Mass., George Goulston of Cambridge, Mass., also connected with Fibre & Fabric and George Dunn of Worcester, Mass., secretary of the Blackstone Valley Mills association.

Following the banquet several members responded with brief speeches and a short business session was conducted, in charge of President Norman Parkhurst of Jewett City.

SEDGWICK RELIEF CORPS ELECTS FOR YEAR

The annual meeting of Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps was held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Buckingham Memorial with President Mrs. Clara P. Burke in the chair. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and one application was voted upon. Patriotic Instructor Mrs. E. Grace Fowler gave a report of the presentation of American flags to the Norwich Lions club and to Norwich Grange. It was voted that the corps purchase a health bond to aid in the tuberculosis fight.

The election of officers took place during the meeting resulting as follows: President, D. Louisa Atterbury; senior vice president, Maud Moody; junior vice president, E. Grace Fowler; treasurer, Iola Bjurstrom; chaplain, Annie B. Newton; conductor, Inez Hill; guard, Hattie Thatcher; first delegate, Jennie S. Mrs. Mary E. Beswick, the retiring chaplain, leaves the office after an unusual length of service, having filled the position for twenty years and with a record for faithfulness as notable as her length of service.

The meeting came to a close in the usual manner with the salute to the flag and the singing of America.

At the next meeting of the corps on Dec. 26, an old fashioned candidate has been planned, to follow the regular meeting. Members of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans will be guests of the Woman's Relief Corps, at this event.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Returns up to Friday night from the sale of Christmas seals and tuberculosis bonds had reached a total of $2,312.52, but those in charge of the sale in Norwich expect the quota of $3,000 will be reached when final returns are in their hands.

Several thousand letters enclosing $1 worth of stamps or a bond, together with a self-addressed letter, have been sent out by the committee, Lucius Briggs, chairman. The response to this appeal has been most gratifying and the acceptance has been nearly 100 per cent in the returns made.

There are still about 1000 letters from which the committee has received no return and people having these letters are requested by the committee to make a return as soon as possible. It is desired, naturally, that the stamps be kept by the people to whom the letters were sent and the money sent to the committee, but, provided the stamps are not taken, people are asked to send them back to the committee, that they may be disposed of elsewhere and a complete checkup be kept.

Returns at the various booths in banks, theatres, stores and other places, have been gratifying to the committee many sales of stamps or bonds being made through these mediums.

EAST HADDAM-NORWICH TRUNK LINE HIGHWAY

It is said at Moodus that John Arborio of New Haven, the successful bidder for the East Haddam-Lyme section of highway, plans to do considerable grading and filling on the road this winter unless the weather is too severe. There is a big sand fill on the eastern end of the road, and this can be done unless there are heavy snows.

The completion of this section will make a trunk line highway from East Haddam bridge to the city of Norwich. It will pass through the villages of East Haddam, Town street, Hadlyme, North Plain, Salem and Gardner Lake and will open up one of the most picturesque sections of Middlesex and New London counties. It passes the summer home of Governor-elect Hiram Bingham in the town of Salem.

Has Norwich Relatives.

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co., whose picture appeared on the first page of Friday morning's issue of The Bulletin, is an uncle of John C. Atterbury of Page street, in the Greeneville section of Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Atterbury's third son, Wallace Atterbury, is named for his great-uncle, General Atterbury.

TENOR AND HARPIST ARE GIVEN OVATION

The Slater Hall musical course opened auspiciously for the season Friday evening, with an audience that filled the hall for the joint recital by Lambert Murphy, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Marcel Grandjany, the French harpist; both of whom were given the warmest kind of a welcome by the discriminating audience of music lovers. The programme was a full one but it was not enough for the big house which gave encore after encore for each artist and was evidently reluctant to leave when the evening came to a close, although it had been prolonged far beyond the usual hour by delay in the arrival of Mr. Grandjany's harp at the hall.

Recitative and Aria from "Jephtha". Handel

Chevanchee Cosaque Fourdrain
Le Chanson des Cloches Fourdrain
Aria from Griselidis Massenet

Mr. Murphy:

Charles Albert Baker at the piano. Wurlitzer harp used.

After his first group Mr. Murphy gave as a first encore, Absent (Metcalf) and followed this with Rachmaninoff's In the Silence of Night, when a second encore was demanded. He sang Roses of Picardy for an encore after his next group and gave two encores after his final group, these extra numbers being When The Roses Bloom (Reinhardt) and I Will Sing the Songs of Araby (Clegg).

Mr. Grandjany fascinated his audience by the deftness and delicacy of his touch upon the strings and the loveliness of his tone. He was called back to bow several times after his first numbers and he responded with a beautiful encore number. Again there was insistent applause as he concluded his appearance on the programme, which by a rearrangement came at the end of the evening, and the audience remained seated until he had come back and given one of his own compositions as an encore number. It is of interest to know that "Legend," one of the selections, is a composition by the harpist's wife.

Grandjany, who is only 33, has a charming wife, a French girl, born in New York, although she left that city for France when ten years old. The harpist is a teacher at the American Conservatory at Fontainbleau, also at the National Conservatory in Paris. He is a skilled pianist and organist also. He has won high rank as concert harpist of the Lamareau orchestra in Paris. With all these gifts, he is a successful composer.

Following the concert Friday evening, M. Grandjany received a number of callers at The Wauregan. After midnight Henry J. La Fontaine drove the distinguished musician to New London, where he boarded the 2 o'clock express this (Saturday) morning, en route to Chicago. From that city he goes to Seattle before returning to New York.

Miss Harriet A. Shaw, the Boston harpist, composer and teacher, who came to Norwich to attend the concert, is a pupil of M. Grandjany. Several seasons ago, Miss Shaw played the harp at one of the concerts in the Slater Hall course.

Harp Was Late.

A complication for the concert management was introduced by the non-arrival of Mr. Grandjany's harp in time for the opening of the programme. Mr. Grandjany reached here during the afternoon but through some misunderstanding the harp was left behind in New York. When this was learned there was some long distance telephoning through which the harp was put aboard the 5 o'clock train, reaching New London at 7.30. A motor truck was there to meet it and bring it to Norwich but this trip consumed over an hour because of the slippery condition of the roads and it was after 9.15 o'clock before Mr. Grandjany was able to play his first number on the programme.

Meanwhile the delay at the hall was overcome somewhat by having Mr. Murphy go on with his first two numbers and then after an interval sing his third group after he had told the audience about the difficulty with Mr. Grandjany's instrument, but displayed his Irish wit when he remarked that the "harp is still here," when he came out to sing for the third time.

A smoker followed the meeting and the refreshment committee furnished appetizers.

The meeting of the lodge next Tuesday will also be followed by a fine entertainment. More chapters of The Haunted House will be told and other stories previded by members.

Love and poetry are seldom hampered by facts.

TO SUPERIOR COURT FOR THEFTS IN CITY

Riggie Barbetti, 18, who resides on Lake street, pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary, preferred against him by City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins, in police court Friday morning and was bound over to the next criminal term of the superior court by Judge Arthur F. Libby. Bonds were fixed at $1,000 which the accused was unable to secure.

The arrest of Barbetti was due to good work by Officer Patrick Shahan after the youth had been under observation for some time. Barbetti's record and his suspicious moves about the city made the officer keep a lookout for him and the arrest followed.

Barbetti, when quizzed at headquarters in relation to petty robberies committed about the city, confessed that he was responsible for the recent breaks saying that he had robbed the news stand in the Thayer building, Sisk's drug store and the City Market on Franklin street. When searched, Barbetti had on his person several keys, one of them a Yale key, exactly fitting the lock on the Thayer building door. Others were evidently used in making other breaks.

In the city court Thursday Henry Christopher, alias Carboni, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Angeline Carboni of 270 Main street, was bound over to the superior court on the charge of violation of the motor vehicle law by perjury. Bonds were set at $500.

Young Christopher was specifically charged with falsely stating that he was 18 years of age, while as a matter of fact he had just passed his 16th birthday, and did by making this false statement obtain a driver's license to operate a motor vehicle.

It was upon the complaint of his mother, Mrs. Angeline Carboni, that young Christopher was arrested and locked up at police headquarters. Mrs. Carboni charged her son with stealing money from her, small sums at various times, with the result that the first warrant charged the accused with theft. Later it was found that Christopher had committed perjury.

Christopher stated that he had taken out the license after someone had offered him a position as driver, but he did not get the job.

Ella Penharlow, 17, American, of Norwich, was committed to the State Farm for Women at East Lyme. The girl was charged with being incorrigible. Officer P. Shahan took the girl to the state farm.

DEATH RATE IN U. S. IS SHOWING INCREASE

The death rate in the registration area of the United States increased to 12.3 per 1,000 population in 1923 from 11.8 in 1922. Mortality figures for last year, made public by the department of commerce, show that only seven states out of the total of 38 comprising the death registration had a lower rate than in 1922. These were Colorado, Idaho Montana, Oregon, South Carolina, Utah and Washington.

To afford a true basis of comparison between states and communities the late table showed "refined" rates arrived at by adjustment for differences in the age and sex distribution of the population and for deaths of non-residents.

Maryland with 14.3 per 1,000 showed the highest refined rate among the states, while the lowest, 8.7, was recorded by Montana. Next to Maryland, Louisiana showed a rate of 13.5, while a rate of 13.3 was reported for Florida. Virginia and Delaware. The next lowest rate to that of Montana was Nebraska's figure of 9.3.

Of six states for which the refined rate was figured separately for the white population and that classified as colored, Maryland had the highest rate in both divisions with 12.6 for white and 22.8 for colored. Mississippi showed the lowest in the group for both, with 9.7 for white and 15 for colored.

Of the 44 cities with population exceeding 100,000 for which the refined rate was figured only on the population as a whole, the highest 15.7 appears for San Antonio and the lowest 2.5 for Portland, Ore.

Among 11 cities in this population class for which the rate was figured on the race division, Atlanta recorded the highest rate, 31.6 for colored, and New Orleans, the highest, 14.5 for white. Norfolk showed the lowest rates for both white and colored with 8.3 and 18.7 respectively.

PROMISES COURT HE WILL SUPPORT DAUGHTER

When Howard N. Lincoln, a druggist of Middletown, assured Judge G. E. Hinman in the superior court on Friday morning here that he would support his daughter Betty in school for the rest of the school year the judge denied pro forma a motion to modify decree de alimony that had been brought by Mr. Lincoln's divorced wife, Ina B. Lincoln, now of New Haven. The petitioner brought the motion on the ground that Mr. Lincoln had refused to carry out the terms of a written agreement for the support of his daughter. Mr. Lincoln has recently married again, it was shown, and the difficulties between Mr. Lincoln and his divorced wife over providing clothes for his daughter were discussed in court.

It was shown that the daughter had this fall had purchased about $200 worth of clothes and had them charged to her father, upon which Judge Hinman remarked that it put her in a poor light to come before the court as the man who had to pay the bills was certainly entitled to be consulted befgre bills were contracted.

If Mr. Lincoln did not keep his agreement, the court said another petition might be brought.

198 CATTLE KILLED FOR TUBERCULOSIS IN STATE

During the month of October the cattle commissioner's department of the state tested 6,030 cattle with the tuberclin test, condemned 198 and quarantined four. There were 972 cattle imported into the state during the month, 439 being for immediate slaughter. The number of permits issued for importation was thirty-seven. Seven certificates were issued for accredited herds in which there were ninety-two cattle.

There were twenty native horses tested, 105 imported and six retested.

There were 293 hogs treated for hog cholera and 606 for hemorrhage septicaemia. There was one infected herd of hogs. There were nineteen permits issued for the importation of hogs, the number of hogs imported was 475.

BULKELEY OPENS SEASON WITH WIN OVER SO. KINGSTON BASKETBALL FIVE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 12—Bulkeley awoke from a two year lethargy on the basketball court and revived the chalk court game with that convincing manner that has been characteristic of the athletic teams which represent that school. Bulkeley was obliged to win this afternoon's game, for there were a number of reasons and the fact that the Orange and Black turned in a victory carries with it a number of incidents which are noteworthy of mention. First of all the score of this afternoon's game on the Y. M. C. A. court was 28 to 25 in favor of the locals.

The game marked the first time a Bulkeley team has revived this sport and successfully. While it cannot be said that great things will attend the revival of this sport, yet the Orange and Black may rise over that mediocre state with the continuance of this sport in succeeding seasons.

Two teams with such evenly balanced power could not given a better account of themselves than did Bulkeley and South Kingston Highs this afternoon.

It was a toss up and nothing more or less, neither team showing a consistent attack which could be relied upon in the pinch to net scores.

However, Bulkeley's power laid in her defensive ability. Using the five man defense, Bulkeley thwarted the attempts of little Rhody's sons to sift through the phalanx. Bulkeley was also a team to take advantage of opportunities. The few openings that did present themselves, Bulkeley did not fail to take advantage of them, which was a contrast to South Kingston's affairs during the afternoon. What few open shots the South Kingston players did have, they missed with a consistency that semed to lack purpose behind their efforts.

The game throughout was a nip and tuck affair, and only once was Bulkeley obliged to trail behind the visitors. This was in the first quarter, and South Kingston had a 4 to 2 advantage against the Orange and Black. Two baskets by Vogt and another by Parisi, while South Kingston was held to a single double decker was the manner in which the next scores were made. The quarter ended with Bulkeley in the van by an 8 to 6 score. Play in the second quarter found both teams speeding it up in order to draw away from its rival. But Bulkeley had better consistent policies and took the lead holding it throughout, although South Kingston tied up the contest at 8-all soon after the game got under way. At half time the score stood 17 to 12 for Bulkeley.

Parisi led the Bulkeley team in scoring with four field goals and three goals from the foul line. Evans and Allen for South Kingston played well.

FRANKIE BUSCH LOSES CLOSE DECISION TO PELKY

Frankie Busch lost a close decision to Young Pelky of Worcester in the eight-round star bout at Southbridge Thursday evening. The decision was so close that it was very unpopular with a large number of the fans. Pelky and Busch fought toe to toe the greater part of the eight rounds and there was so little difference between the two that the majority of fans at the ringside thought a draw would have been the most satisfactory decision.

Busch and Pelky fought a draw at the Danielson Casino on October 16th and this was a regular battle the same as the fight Thursday evening in Southbridge. Busch is improving and gaining no small amount of ring experience in his numerous bouts about the state. It is possible that Busch and Pelky will be matched for a bout in the near future, neither boy being satisfied with the results of either of the bouts.

SENATORS GET RID OF THREE RESERVE PLAYERS

Washington, Dec. 12.—Jim Frothe, Byron Speece and Carr Smith, the three players swapped by the Washington club in the trades which bring Pitcher Stanley Coveleskie of Cleveland and Infielder Mike McNally, most recently of the Boston Americans, to the local club, were used mainly as reserve material during their service with the Senators.

Frothe, who went to Boston in exchange for McNally, has been twice tried out by the Senators and each time shunted back to the minors. Last season, however, he set a fast pace with the bat, accumulating an average of .333 while here. A foot ailment was the chief reason for his being traded in mid-season to Memphis of the Southern association. Impressive batting and much improved work around third base for Memphis, however, caused the Washington management to obtain him again in a trade.

Speece, who, with Smith, goes to Cleveland for Coveleskie, is a submarine right hand pitcher. He was purchased by Washington from the Omaha Western league club last season. The price, although not officially announced, was said to have been between $25,000 and $50,000. Speece was used but little here, winning two games and losing one.

Outfielder Smith is still more or less of an unknown quantity. He came to the Senators at the beginning of the last campaign from Raleigh of the Piedmont league, where the previous season he had a batting average of over .400. His shortcomings in the field, however, caused Manager Harris to send him to Memphis for more seasoning, from which club he recently was recalled.

BIG TEAMS HAVE CHOSEN THEIR CAPTAINS FOR 1925

Chicago, Dec. 12 (By the A. P.).—Next year's Big Ten football captains have been selected by all the schools of the conference, and show selections well divided between line and backfield.

The Chicago Maroons, conference champions, named Fred (Bub) Henderson, Butte, Mont., a tackle, as captain.

The youngest captain was selected by Northwestern. He is Tim Lowry, 19 year old center, who will end his period of competition next season.

The Iowa Hawkeyes have picked Harold (Tub) Giffen, regular center for two seasons.

The Purdue gridmen will be piloted by Harold Harmeson of Indianapolis. Harold Cunningham, end, captain of the Ohio State eleven, was one of the few wing men ever named as team leader.

PADDOCK AND MURCHISON TO MAKE TOUR OF WORLD

New York, Dec. 12.—Charley Paddock, famous California sprinter who won the 1924 national championships, and Loren Murchison of Newark, 1923 national champion, will make a seven months' tour of the world next year, giving exhibitions and appearing in various national competitions.

Plans for the tour were disclosed tonight by the Amateur Athletic union in announcing acceptance by the sprinters of an invitation to visit New Zealand in February.

They plan to sail from the Pacific coast in January, stopping at Honolulu then going to New Zealand, Australia, Japan and continuing to Europe, where they will appear in Germany and Sweden, among other countries.

An invitation to visit Germany was sent to Paddock and Murchison as a result of the exhibitions they gave there last summer after the Olympics. The athletes plan to return to the United States early in August, in time for the national championships at San Francisco.

BOXING INSTINCT TO FORE WHEN MIND FAILS

Baltimore, Dec. 12.—How Joe Dundee, Baltimore lightweight, fought 11 rounds against Alex Hart of Philadelphia here last Monday night with his mind a blank, and how his seconds held lighted matches against his back in an effort to awaken him from his ring somnambulism, was told in local pugilistic circles today.

In the fourth round Hart landed a short right to Dundee's chin. The punch "scrambled" Joe's brains. When he walked to his corner at the end of the round his seconds realized he wasn't right. Usual restorative methods failed. Then they resorted to the matches, in an effort to shock him sufficiently to bring him back mentally. The flames failed, but Dundee finished the fight through instinct, his great rally in the last round earning him a draw.

PLAYER-WRITER QUESTION MAY BE SOLVED TODAY

New York, Dec. 12.—Solution of the player-writer issue, which has agitated tennis circles for the past year, is expected to result tomorrow from the action of the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association upon the report of a special committee authorized to consider the question.

The members of this special committee include William T. Tilden, national champion, and the most conspicuous of player-writers, who came into conflict with the U. S. L. T. A. last season after the association's decision to interpret its annual rule as barring player-writers from amateur ranks after Jan. 1, 1925. This decision, however, has been shelved to enable reconsideration of the issues involved by the special committee.

Suggs and Murray Matched.

Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—Chick Suggs of Newport, R. I., and Tommy Murray, Philadelphia bantamweight, have signed articles for a ten round fight to a decision in Newport on Dec. 18, Pete Moran, local promoter, announced tonight.

KAPLAN KNOCKS OUT LOMBARDO IN FOURTH ROUND WITH FURIOUS ATTACK

New York, Dec. 12.—Louis Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., knocked out Jose Lombardo of Panama, in the fourth round of a scheduled 12 round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

By virtue of the victory Kaplan advances to the final round in the featherweight elimination tournament and will meet Dan Kramer, Philadelphia southpaw, in the title round of the tournament three weeks from tonight.

The end came with dramatic suddenness when Kaplan boring in furiously floored the Panamanian with a well directed left hook. He was down for the count of eight but got up apparently unhurt. Following up his advantage, Kaplan rushed Lombardo to the ropes where he delivered the finishing blow which knocked out Lombardo and all but sent him completely out of the ring.

There was a little clinching in the fourth round, both men standing toe to toe and swinging from all directions, landing telling blows. Kaplan, in missing a wild left, slipped and fell to the floor but Lombardo walked over and picked him up.

A viciously delivered left, well-timed, floored Lombardo a moment later for a count of eight but he got up immediately and renewed the struggle. Kaplan followed up his advantage with another left, flooring Lombardo and all but knocking him completely out of the ring. He was counted out. The end came within 27 seconds of the close of the fourth round.

Lombardo reached Kaplan during one of his rushes in the second round and the Connecticut representative seemed to be worried but he refused to halt his attack, evidently bent upon a knockout.

The next round saw Lombardo still fighting but unable to stand the pace, although the scoring was almost even. Kaplan had a good lead at this time.

The knockout came as somewhat of a surprise, a clean left hook reaching the Panaman's jaw and two blows of the same nature following it. Lombardo got to his feet at the count of eight, attempted to defend himself but two more lefts to the head sent him through the ropes and he lay on the edge of the ring, unable to arise.

Lombardo is reported to have experienced a serious stomach attack which necessitated the attendance of a physician about an hour before the bout.

Mike Dundee and Bobby Garcia, of Camp Holabird, Md., who were eliminated as contenders in the preliminaries three weeks ago, fought a vicious 12-round contest in which Dundee obtained the decision by taking the first eight rounds. Garcia appeared to be receiving a large amount of punishment in the early rounds but weathered the attack to remain for the distance and was actually outfighting Dundee at the final bell.

Kaplan, the winner of tonight, main contest, was given a decision over Garcia in the first meeting of the tournament.

In a six round bout, preliminary to the Kaplan-Lombardo contest, Charley Rosen of New York, decisively outpointed Pasquale Bargano of New Haven. George Doherty of New York easily won a judges' verdict over Willie Shugrue of Waterbury, Conn., in another six-rounder.

ROBINSON-THOMAS FIGHT EXPECTED TO BE FAST

Local boxing fans who saw Battling Thomas of East Boston plaster Baltimore Joe Gans all over the ring at Danielson several weeks ago are anticipating a real battle on the 18th of this month at Danielson when Thomas will clash with George Robinson, another Boston Turbaby.

Robinson is no stranger to local boxing fans as it will be remembered that during the war he and Sailor Carroll of the Submarine Base put up a wonderful battle at Pulaski hall. Those who saw the fight will remember what a hard-hitting boy Robinson is and will go to Danielson to see him take a poke at Thomas. Robinson although getting well along in years for a boxer still retains his hitting power and is even more shifty than when he boxed here. He has met some good boys in and around the Hub and will give Thomas a real battle which is just what the fans are expecting.

Many of the big and little colleges in all sections report that the athletic year now drawing to a close has been the most successful financially on record.

Arrow golf is the name given to a new sport which combines golf and archery. It is played over a regular golf course, shooting with bow and arrow into cardboard discs.

Buffalo, which has not entertained a tournament of the National Archery association since 1882, will make a strong bid for the next championship meet of that organization.

The Miami motorboat season promises to be more exciting this year than ever, and an unusually large number of followers of the sport have already signified their intention of being on hand.

A 12-round contest between Eddie Burnbrook of Baltimore and Georgie Ward, the Elizabeth welterweight, will feature a boxing show to be held in Hartford, Conn., on the night of Dec. 18.

On Dec. 18 Ty Cobb will begin his fifth year as manager of the Detroit Tigers. It was on that date in 1920 that Ty signed the contract which made him the successor of the veteran Hugh Jennings.

Time was, only a little more than a decade since, when Harvard's concrete horseshoe was the only example of the species extant in America. The Crimson's open end ellipse flocked all alone by itself. Then came the Harvard bowl, and now the woods are full of bowls and stadia and the western prairies are dotted with these modernized monuments to Greek and Roman architects.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE FIRM ON WAR DEBT FUNDING

Washington, Dec. 12.—President Coolidge was represented today as being opposed to any plan for submission to the world court or any other tribunal of the adjudication of war claims against Germany under the Dawes plan. His position also was said to be unchanged regarding war debt debt funding to the United States by France and other powers.

Mr. Coolidge is known to be convinced that the American position regarding claims collection is perfectly understood by foreign governments interested and that the right of collection is established by treaty agreement.

The president's position that there is no need of referring the subject of claims collections to a tribunal for adjudication is understood to be based on the belief that whatever differences may exist between the United States and Great Britain can be adjusted by regular negotiations conducted through representatives of the two governments.

He feels it is evident that the position of the Washington administration, which has been outlined to the allied and associated powers by Ambassador Kellogg during the London conference, will be recognized by the interested governments as the negotiations now being carried on between Washington and London progress.

The American policy has been firmly in opposition to cancellation of any part of the debts owed the United States, coupled with a desire that the debtor nations should refund their obligations, and the president sees no possibility that it may be altered in the slightest detail.

THREATENED TO KILL THOSE WHO INTERFERED

Los Angeles, Dec. 12.—While a phonograph in the antique shop of Mors, Inc., on the morning of August 13, last, played a popular dance music, Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist, charged with the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mors on the previous night, "swaggered" about the place, threatening to kill all those who had interfered with his affair with the woman with whom he had lived as "Mr. and Mrs. N. Shields," Y. C. Emden, business manager of the shop, testified at McCoy's trial here today.

Emden's testimony, which included an account of McCoy's alleged reign of terror during which three people were shot and wounded, closed the case for the week-end. The trial will be resumed next Monday morning.

"McCoy entered the establishment in a drunken, disheveled condition," Emden said. "In a holster beneath his coat I saw the butt of a gun. He immediately became dictatorial and proceeded to rob myself and several other patrons who were in the store."

"He started the phonograph on a lively dance record and commanded the men of the gathering to disrobe and give him their valuables. During this time he swaggered about the place saying: "Theresa was the only woman I ever loved, and I am going to the electric chair for her,'" Emden testified.

During the scene in the store, Emden further testified, William G. Ross, one of the men in the store, attempted to flee to the street. He was shot and wounded, the prosecution will contend, by McCoy.

McCoy then went to the millinery store of Ann and Sam Schapps, next door, where Mr. and Mrs. Schapps were both shot and wounded, testimony recorded.

Then the accused man is alleged to have attempted an escape but was taken into custody by a policeman.

EXAMINE WITNESSES IN AIRCRAFT INVESTIGATION

Washington, Dec. 12.—The special house committee investigating the aircraft industry, beginning the examination of witnesses today on the basis of a six months survey by its experts of the field to be covered, was told by James V. Martin, flying pioneer and inventor, that numerous inventions had been submitted to the air service had not been adopted although the merit of some of them had been recognized by foreign governments. He also said that in considering bids for the construction of planes, the services had not always chosen the best of the most economical plans submitted.

Representative Nelson, republican, Wisconsin, also appeared before the committee to explain the reasons which had prompted him to introduce the resolution under which the investigation is being conducted. Evidence had come to him, he said, which led him to believe that there was danger of the flying industry becoming a trust, and he also desired to know how government subsidies to airplanes manufacturing concerns had been spent. He emphasized that he was not making any charges of fraud, his criticisms being purely constructive and motivated by a wish to see the airplane industry put on a sound basis.

SALE OF THE NATIONAL SUGAR REFINING CO.

New York, Dec. 12.—Officers and directors of the National Sugar Refining Company completed negotiations today to sell the concern to the American Sugar Refining Company for $16,500,000 cash. The sale is held subject to the approval of proper legal authorities and of the national stockholders. The latter will vote on the plan at a meeting January 12 in Jersey City.

Meanwhile, the protective committee formed recently by some of the national stockholders to prevent the American from absorbing the company "will oppose the present proposition first last and all the time," said Harold G. Aron, counsel. Mr. Aron said the committee would present its side to the attorney general at Washington next Tuesday. This group contends that the American is restrained by an existing federal court decree from extending its present holding of 25 per cent. of stock in the National. Any merger would be illegal, in this opinion, until the decree were modified by the court.

PUBLICITY OF HAARMANN TRIAL IS UNAVOIDABLE

Berlin, Dec. 12.—The protest of the Federation of German Women's clubs against the publication of the revolting details of the trial of Fritz Haarmann for murder at Hanover was answered today by the government which stated that it greatly regretted the attitude of the press but that it could not exclude the newspapers and the public from the trial because it had no authority to do so.

N. H. LABOR MEN VOTE CONFIDENCE IN TONE

New Haven, Dec. 12.—The New Haven Building Trades Council has extended to Joseph Tone a vote of confidence and a belief in his fidelity. Senator Tone, who was a leader of the railroad shopmen's strike two years ago, was the subject recently of an attack by a local labor newspaper, after he had accepted a position with the New York, Ontario and Western company. The resolution says the Tone "used all honorable means of notifying his organization and his international officers and getting their approval before accepting his present position."

Middletown, Dec. 12.—Jeremiah Dugan, 49 years old, of 13 Bank street, Portland, was picked up in a dying condition near his home late today by Officer Webber, of the state police and, expired while being taken to the Middlesex hospital in this city. Near the body was found a pint bottle containing a few drops of liquor. It is believed to be diluted alcohol and is thought to have been the cause of death.

SEARCH FOR BOOTLEGGERS UNCOVERED $50,000 IN BILLS

Boston, Dec. 12. — Police officers searching a North End house that was under suspicion as a bootlegging rendezvous found no contraband, but did discover nearly $50,000 in bills of many denominations tucked away in a bureau drawer. Sergeant Maurice Sullivan, in charge of the raiding officers, got varying explanations from the owner of the house as to the source of the money, but finding no evidence to warrant police action accompanied the man to a bank with the money. It took ten tellers 45 minutes to count it. The owner said he did not know how much there was in the pile.

NEW HAVEN LETTER CARRIER HELD IN JAIL

New Haven, Dec. 12. — George A. Platt, a letter carrier who was arrested last night by postal inspectors, charged with taking money from letters, was sent to the county jail tonight when he failed to furnish a $1,000 bond for his appearance in the federal court in Hartford, Monday.

Platt was arraigned before United States Commissioner Bernard E. Lynch, this afternoon and was held for the federal court. According to post office officials, Platt said he took the money to use in paying hospital bills.

Will-Power Overworked

Not many of the really important things of life are the result of personal will power. Sickness certainly is not acquired by any exercise of the will. Loves comes phantomlike, emotional, not by the will. Marriage occasionally is the result of will power, but usually it is following the line of least resistance toward comfort. Death comes, finally, and removes us from the stage to make room for another, even though one has a will like steel.—Exchange.

Rooks Affected by Cholera

In the years 1831-1832 cholera visited the British Islands and killed over 60,000 people. On the estate of the marquess of Sligo was the largest rookery in Ireland, and as soon as the disease broke out in the neighborhood the rooks cleared out. They appear to have gone to the sea, for on the coast immense numbers were found lying dead. When the outbreak was over the survivors straggled back.

Unchanging Climate

The Isle of Pines has one continuous summer, the variations of temperature throughout the entire year being scarcely as great as often occur in a single summer month in many of the northern states. It is rare, indeed, when the thermometer in summer on the island registers as high as 90 degrees, and in winter the mercury never falls below 50 degrees.

"News" in "Newport News"

The origin of the name of the city of Newport News is uncertain. It is believed to be derived from two proper names—Newport and Newce. Captain Newport commanded the first vessel to bring immigrants to Virginia and William Newce was one of the early treasurers of the colony. John Smith wrote the latter name "Nuse."

Where the Day Is Long

At Leningrad the longest day is 19 hours, and at Tornia, Finland June 21 is nearly 22 hours. At Wardburg, Norway, however, the longest day starts on May 21 and ends on July 22, while in Spitzbergen they have a day of three and a half months, during which the sun never sets.

Ants Burrow Into Logs

Saws are not the only makers of sawdust. Ants are in the business, too. In the West, where many fallen logs are found in the forests, ants burrow their homes in the logs. Small piles of sawdust along a log indicate that ant home makers have been at work. The ants live in tunnels running deep into the logs.—Grit.

English Leaning Tower

The tower of the Salisbury cathedral in England, too heavy for its chalky site, leans about twenty-eight inches out of plumb.

Using One's Abilities

The art of being able to make a good use of moderate abilities wins esteem, and often confers more reputation than real merit.—Rochefoucauld

THE SUN'S ECLIPSE ON JANUARY 24

The eclipse of the sun which will be total on Jan. 24, 1925, over Connecticut and parts of the states of New York, Michigan and Wisconsin, will be studied at the observatories within the zone and other observatories will send expeditions into the zone, bringing their own instruments. But anyone can do some observing on his own account without anything to assist him except a bit of smoked glass and perhaps a pair of binoculars. One or two of the things he can do may be of service to astronomy, writes Prof. E. W. Brown of Yale in The Scientific American.

For hundreds of years we have been trying to find out the exact path of the moon in the sky. Indeed, the first records go back more than 2500 years when the Chaldeans found out a rule about the occurrence of eclipses. With every year this knowledge increases and an eclipse is a particularly favorable occasion to improve it because the edges of the shadow cast by the moon on the earth can be easily seen. And the exact time that the shadow passes can be obtained with a fraction of a second by a good observer.

The Edges of the Shadow

The astronomer can predict the positions of these edges within a mile or so, but it can be observed much more closely than this. It is very easy for anyone near the edge to say whether the sun was totally eclipsed or not at the place where he happens to be. There are several ways in which this can be done. As the moon creeps over the face of the sun and covers up more and more of it, there will finally be left a narrow crescent of the shape of the new moon, but of course very much brighter. If this narrow crescent completely disappears, even for less than a second, the eclipse is total at the place where the observer is stationed. It may be that before it has totally disappeared a bright point of the sun will appear at another part of the edge, and if this happens the eclipse is not total. A difference in position of the observer of even a hundred yards may make the difference between a total eclipse and one which is not quite total.

The Corona

When the sun is very nearly obscured a fringe of light will begin to be visible on the side farthest away from the bright crescent. As the crescent lessens this fringe will appear to spread round the edge, and finally, when the crescent of bright light has totally disappeared, the fringe will be seen all round. Hence another test for totality is for the observer to say whether he saw this fringe of light the whole way round at anw moment. The reason why it cannot be seen properly until the sun is totally obscured is because the actual face of the sun is so bright that it appears to dim anything in its neighborhood. This fringe, which is called the corona, is never seen except at a total eclipse. It is a wonderful sight. The color is not like that of ordinary daylight, but much whiter, or perhaps even greenish-blue, so that the earth and objects have an ashen tint very different from the light which we get from the full moon or at dusk and dawn. It is the corona that the astronomers usually journey so far to see and observe. Quite apart from its scientific interest no one who has ever seen it will forget the sight.

Stars and Planets Visible

Even before the descent of the sun has disappeared, stars will begin to be visible to those who are on the lookout for them but it is not until the sun is totally obscured that any but the brightest stars are seen. An observer who is familiar with the sky in this region will be able to detect a certain number of them as soon as the sun is totally obscured, and though this is not a very good test for totality it is of interest to know just what stars can be seen during totality. Those who are not too near the edge of the band of totality can give an idea of the total light furnished by the corona by telling what stars they were able to see. Not very far away from the sun there is a group of three planets close together which should be visible, namely, Jupiter, Venus and Mercury, and these should stand out brilliantly.

The Rush of the Shadow

But perhaps the most impressive sight of the whole eclipse for those who are in the region where the sun is totally obscured is the moment before the face of the sun is quite blotted out. If he keeps his eyes fixed on the earth he will see a black shadow approaching from the west and covering up sky and earth as though some huge monster were closing his jaws. It travels with enormous velocity, rushes over the observer's head, and passes off to the east. Even if one misses everything else in the eclipse this sight should not be missed. No one should look at the sun too much even through smoked glass before it is totally eclipsed. The eye gets tired and is not able to appreciate the sudden change which comes on when darkness comes on. Anyone with a good watch can say within a small fraction of a second by watching this shadow the exact moment that the totality began, and this is another important thing for the astronomer. If the observer is situated very near the edge the sun will only be obscured for a few seconds or less and it is not very hard to judge the exact time during which it is obscured by means of a good watch held to the ear or even by counting. The time during which the sun is totally obscured, if it is taken near the edge, gives another bit of information which is useful to the astronomer even if it is only known to the nearest second.

Many of these wonderful sights can be better seen if the observer is stationed on some height where he can get a view of the surrounding country a mile or more in all directions. The impressive rush of the shadow can be better appreciated. If he can watch whether it covers certain buildings and whether other buildings are never in shadow, and if, instead of looking at the sun, he notes these buildings and sends the information together with his own position at the time, the knowledge can be used effectively for predicting more accurately the place of the moon in the future.

Shadow Bands

Another curious appearance can be seen just before the eclipse becomes total and before the black shadow comes up. The light is diminishing rapidly and if one looks at any white surface, such as the side of a house or on a sheet laid on the ground he will often see a number of parallel bands going by. These bands are usually about a foot apart and are alternately light and dark. It is generally thought that they are due to some peculiarity in our own atmosphere because it is difficult to explain them in any other way. As they can never be seen except just before and just after a total eclipse the chance to find something out about them should not be neglected. Anyone can give some information by having a couple of sticks, one in each hand, and laying them on a white sheet spread on the ground so as to cover two of the dark bands at one instant. Later he can get the direction of the sticks and their distance apart.

A map showing the places within the band of territory where the eclipse is total has been published by the Naval Observatory at Washington, and they have calculated the position of the edges of the band as exactly as possible. Everyone, however, will not be able to find exactly how he is situated and arrangements are being made so that every town and city can be fully informed as to its position with reference to the edge. Some towns, for example, Duluth, Menominee, Frankfort, London, Dunkirk, and Wilkes-Barre, are only just inside the southern edge, while Syracuse, Springfield, and Providence are just outside the northern edge. New York city north of the northern end of Central Park is inside; the rest of the city is outside. It is hoped that for those who are near the edges but outside arrangements can be made with the transportation companies to run special trains to take them within the region so that they may see the sun totally eclipsed. For those who have automobiles the problem should not be difficult provided the roads are passable.

Always, however, we get back to the eternal question, will the weather be clear?

Broadway Sunday Night

Has prohibition changed things any? Is New York in 1924, with its palaces of jazz, its bobbed-haired girls an improvement on the New York in pre-Volstead days when the Bowery flourished and there was a cafe on every corner?

"The City That Never Sleeps," the new James Cruze-Paramount picture, which will be shown Sunday night only at the Broadway Theatre, reproduces New York as it was in 1910 with amazing fidelity and in sharp contrast shows you New York as it is today. You pays your money and you takes your choice!

A word of praise is in order for each one of the capable cast. Louise Dresser, Virginia Lee Corbin, Kathlyn Williams and Ricardo Cortez, to mention only the featured players, have caught the spirit of their respective parts, and the result is acting of a high order.

Picture Star in Person at Broadway

Norwich theatregoers will have an opportunity of seeing a real juvenile picture star both on the stage and on the screen at the Broadway Theatre Monday.

Palace Theater

Whirling kaleidoscope vividly describes scenes in Ernst Lubitsch's great production Three Women which will be shown at the Palace theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Words fail to describe the colorful scenes that were enacted on the carnival ball scenes made in connection with this as it is called by the trade "wonder play."

A maze of coloring scores of beautiful girls, gorgeous gowns and costumes, grotesque clowns, roulette wheels and games of chance—and a merry go round! all playing part in one of the gayest scenes ever photographed.

Over five hundred extras were used and a stage that would ordinarily accommodate four companies was used for this one scene.

With a cast that even a poor story with poor direction would look good it is no wonder that Lubitsch's latest picture is causing a sensation in the trade and will make new box office records it is predicted.

Pauline Frederick well known to Norwich folks plays the role of the woman who is trying to hold her youth against time. May McAvoy as the daughter fresh from school and unsophisticated. Marie Prevost as the adventuress and Lew Cody as the man who loves three women. Willard Louis who finances Cody and Mary Carr are in the cast.

The story possesses unusual dramatic quality and the management says its the best picture they have offered this season.

Breed Theater

In Secrets which will be shown at the Breed theater four days starting tomorrow Norma Talmadge has again for her leading man Eugene O'Brien, the most popular male support with whom she has ever played. The Talmadge-O'Brien combination was broken up a year ago when O'Brien decided to return to the stage, but public demand was so persistent that Producer Schenck was compelled to lure O'Brien back to the screen.

Secrets is Norma Talmadge's greatest picture. In this Joseph M. Schenck production Norma plays four roles, that of a girl, a young mother, a middle aged matron and an aged woman. The picture is cast in four periods, 1923, 1885, 1870, and 1865, and the action takes place both in the far west and in modern society settings. In all four periods Norma displays a remarkable range of characterization.

Frank Borzage, of Humoresque fame directed Secrets, with the veteran Gaetano Gaudio as his cameraman. Heading Norma's supporting cast is Eugene O'Brien, the "perfect lover," and a famous star of both stage and screen.

Others in the cast are Gertrude Astor, Charles Ogle, Emily Fitzroy, Clare McDowell, Patterson Dial, George Nichols, Francis Feeney, Winston Miller, Frank Elliot, Clarissa Selwynne, George Cowell, Harvey Clark, Alice Day, May Giraci, Percy Williams, Florence Wicks and Winter Hall.

The beautiful gowns were designed by Clare West, while Stephen Goosson, noted art director, created the massive sets. The photoplay was adapted by Francis Marion from the famous stage play of the same title.

Today's bill consists of Tom Mix in The Last of the Duanes the fourth chapter of Days of 49 the Pathe news and an Educational comedy.

At Capitol Theatre, Hartford

A specially arranged concert by Jascha Heifetz is provided by Robert Kellogg to be given at the Capitol theater, Sunday afternoon, December 14. It will be one of the great music events of Mr. Kellogg's excellent music offerings.

Tickets are now selling rapidly and all indications point to the Heifetz concert as one of the most brilliant of the season. With such a distinguished artist the rarest of violin music is to be heard.

From the Detroit News, signed by Robert Kelly:

"Jascha Heifetz last night stood on the stage where Kreisler had preceded him by a few weeks, duplicated and exceeded the ovation which had been given to the acknowledged master of the violin.

The ticket sale is in progress at McCoy's Music Store, No. 89 Asylum street. Reservations may be made by telephoning 2-4000. Mail orders will be promptly served.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Past Masters night was observed by Norwich grange, No. 172, at its meeting Wednesday evening in Steiner hall with a large attendance that included visitors from Groton, North Stonington, Preston City and Pachaug granges. Worthy Master Arthur W. Avery presided.

In the lecturer's hour under direction of Mrs. Ida Richardson, the programme opened with music by the Grange orchestra directed by John M. Swahn. The introduction and welcome was by Past Master Ivy Peckham.

A beautiful American flag was presented to the grange by the Woman Relief Corps by Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, patriotic instructor of the corps, who said in part as she made the presentation. "The Woman's Relief Corps is the largest patriotic organization in the world and it is to them the honor goes of presenting the first flag to churches, schools, public buildings and lodges, so tonight it affords me great pleasure to present this flag to Norwich Grange, in behalf of the Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps No. 16 auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic.

Worthy Master Avery accepted the gift on the part of the grange, and the song, Old Glory, was followed by the salute to the flag.

Past Master John E. Fanning spoke of the objects of the grange and the song Connecticut Forever, was sung by the grange.

The feast committee, Mrs. John O. Peckham, Mrs. Maud Bunce and Mrs. George Brenn, served refreshments consisting of salads, cold meats, rolls, cake and coffee. After the refreshments, the programme was resumed, the history of Norwich grange was given by Mrs. John E. Fanning, Scotch songs by Dudley Stewart, assistant steward of North Stonington grange and a reading by Sidney Hall of Preston City. Past Masters who spoke were C. A. Haghers, Mrs. Peckham, Mr. Fanning and Mr. Lyman. The meeting closed with Auld Lang Syne.

History of Grange

The history of Norwich grange which was given by Mrs. John E. Fanning was of particular interest to its members and was as follows:

When asked some time ago to write a short history of our grange I readily consented. It seemed that it would be an easy thing to look over past records, select those items which would be of value and make a fairly interesting paper out of them.

But when the time came to do this I found I was up against a hard proposition for the records of the first eight years, or nearly half the period of the granges existence, had mysteriously disappeared and I, who never can remember whether it rained last week Thursday or was it Tuesday or whether my husband's second cousin visited us a year ago last spring, perhaps it was in the fall, found that I had to rack my brain in order that to the best of my ability I might give you some idea of the way our grange started and some of the things which were done during those early years as well as in those years with which most of us are more familiar.

Naturally during its babyhood and early years of its existence the Norwich grange stayed pretty close at home and didn't go skylarking around the country nights as it has done in recent years since it at the age of 17 considers itself grown up. And how it has grown. If each member represented one pound in weight the new grange baby weighed 32 pounds when christened in this very hall, 17 years ago. Now it has grown big and husky and weighs 242 and as might be expected, when some coy sister grange be it Miss Salem, Miss Groton or some others invites this stalwart city youth to visit her the invitation is always promptly accepted.

Right here I might remark that the auto and good roads are to a great extent responsible for the neighborliness which has developed in recent years. Seventeen years ago an invitation to visit some of our sister granges meant in many cases going with considerable discomfort in horse-drawn vehicles over bumpy roads. Without doubt autos have been great factors in building up the membership of our grange. Easy and quick transportation has enabled many to join who would not have been able to have attended even 17 years ago, when if a meeting was prolonged beyond 10:30 those living far away as thin old horse slowly nodded along the highway might truthfully sing, "We won't get home until morning."

My first impression that a grange was to be started here in Norwich came when my other half walked into the house one day, informed me that we were to be charter members. It seemed that one did not have to be a farmer in order to belong. Mr. W. O. Rogers and Mr. H. F. Palmer, had been the gentle persuaders in this case and had set forth the attractions of the grange in such glowing terms that my husband had not only put his own name down as a charter member but had also added mine.

I think it was Mr. and Mrs. Haley who installed the officers, W. O. Rogers as the first master and Mrs. Bert Gager as lecturer. The other officers I do not recall. Most of the ladies went to the first meetings in a rather skeptical frame of mind and sat with their hats on ready to flee at the first appearance of the cow, but on being informed that character members did not have to ride him they felt relieved and at subsequent meetings they left their hats in the cloakroom.

The first few meetings were very like a comedy with the officers as the actors and the rest as audience. If you can imagine how 13 officers new members unfamiliar with grange work could conduct a meeting. You will realize the obstacles they were up against and the amusement caused by some of their mistakes. I can remember very little about the programs of that first year, except that Mrs. Gager and the one who followed her did very well as lecturers. The first year was naturally a formative period. By the time Andrew B. Davies our next master took the chair the grange was working smoothly. Because Mr. Davies was a lawyer with a thorough knowledge of parliamentary rules, business had to be conducted according to Hoyle—or I should say Cushing and if the records during his administration could be found I have no doubt that they would abound in whereas and be it resolved. Mrs. Maud E. Bliss was lecturer and while I cannot give any of her programs, I remember that they were varied and interesting and by the time the year was over we knew that E. the middle letter in her name stood for efficiency.

Jacob Gallup was the third worthy master. He was staid and deliberate in all his proceedings. I was lecturer during Mr. Gallup's term of office and for the first time we had a pointed program. It was in two parts each covering six months. I came across one of these programs the other day and will give you an idea of a few of the subjects. There were three lectures by outsiders during the year, one on birds, another on long distance communication in which Mr. Kerking gave us a practical idea of the way wireless worked. By means of his apparatus on the stage he was able to ring at the rear end of the room a thing which seemed marvelous at that time when wireless and radio as we now know it was unheard of.

The third lecture was by a professor of Storrs college.

There were forestry and garden meetings, an evening with new inventions, a quilting party with members in old colonial costumes. A comfort on frames was tied while the rest of the program was going on and auctioned off at the close the meeting the $5 paid for it going into the treasury.

The years program also included a visit in which two other granges participated and a visit to Ledyard grange.

Amos Wheeler was our next worthy master and Miss Ella Lester, lecturer two of the best programs ever put on by our grange were given that year, the first by the men and the other by the ladies and the losing side gave a banquet to the others on the third grange night. The men's program consisted of recitations, a short play and songs. I remember only one of these. Three men dressed as Hebrews sang, We're Three Jews from Jerusalem, Moses, Isaac and Metusalem. The program was followed by a clam chowder supper prepared by Mr. Berry who having stepped in from the kitchen to see how the program was going became so interested that he forgot to keep the chowder hot and it was served to us nearly cold.

An original poem read at the ladies program reminded him of it by ironically stating that, The chowder was so piping hot, it burned a hole in the bottom of the pot. This program was so elaborately staged that the men declared themselves beaten, even before the program began. The entire hall was decorated and the stage represented a summer garden with a tea table under a vine clad pergola. An original play called the Garden Party was given. It was well staged and made especially interesting by its numerous local hits, directed toward the men of the grange. There was also a ladies quartette, a broom drill in costume and a minuet in costume.

In 1914 Gideon Dickenson was Master and Mr. Frank Maples, lecturer, but owing to loss of records I can give few details. I can only say that when others failed to be there to take the parts assigned them on the program that Mr. Maples was always ready to give one of his inimitable readings.

And now as we come to the records which have not been lost; we find E. C. Jewett in the chair for two years. A list of the committees named the first year will perhaps give an idea of the work laid out to be done. This was at the beginning of the war. Ways and Means, Country Improvement, Corn club, Potato club, Poultry, Canning, Social, Press, Feast, Finance, Insurance, Visiting, Musical.

During this year Brother Hagberg was appointed director of a degree team and there was considerable talk of owning a grange home, and a committee appointed to look into the matter. At a subsequent meeting it was decided to issue stock for a new Grange hall fund shares to be $25 each and to bear interest at 4 per cent and so much enthusiasm was aroused that the worthy master announced that a prize would be given for the best name for the new grange hall. During this year our grange also sponsored a Better Babies contest at the county fair which our worthy master called a "Howling Success,"—a corn show was also held on Oct. 27, which created considerable interest among outsiders as well as in our own grange.

Brother Charles A. Hagberg was our next master and Miss Helen B. Moore made a good lecturer, putting on entertaining programs. A brief review of this year shows that Norwich grange won first prize at the County Fair also, the latter part of the year the grange moved in to the new chamber of commerce building. The state meeting of the grange was held in Norwich in January, the local grange assisting to entertain them.

Charles H. Bushnell succeeded Brother Hagberg as master and Miss Moore continued in office as lecturer. The new degree team began its work, suppers and entertainments were given and the proceeds turned over to the treasurer. Norwich also won another premium at the county fair.

When Ambrose Sullivan was installed as master, Mrs. John O. Peckham took the lecturers chair. As this was during the world war we were very patriotic and generally opened the program by singing Old Glory or America and giving a salute to the flag. Many good programs were carried out under her direction.

John Lyman then became master (he served two terms.) and Miss Banfield was lecturer during the first year and Mrs. Peckham the second year. Several invitations to visit sister granges were accepted and we entertained other granges. On May, 1920 the grange moved to the Buckingham, but after sometime spent there it made one more move back to Steiners hall where it has since held its meetings.

When John E. Fanning was elected master, Sister Frances Spaulding became lecturer, but upon her resignation Brother John Swahn took the chair. This always assured good music as well as other entertainment.

The first woman master of the lodge was Mrs. J. O. Peckham with Mrs. I. E. Richardson as lecturer a position which she now holds under Mr. Arthur Avery our present master.

During these last few years the grange has successfully conducted a grange fair—each succeeding year being better than the previous one. We have visited other granges and entertained others, our membership has grown, and interest in attendance at the meetings shows steady increase. Fine programs are the rule. The first degree team fell by the wayside but the officers have this year taken up the work and have conscientiously tried to do it well. Also those who have put on the tableaux have given much pleasure by so doing. And the members of the drill team have done excellent work. If I have dwelt at greater length upon the doings of the earlier days it is not because they were more important but rather because nearly everyone present can review in his own mind the events of recent years.

I have told you what the grange was and is. What it shall be is up to you—each individual member.

AMERICAN LEGION

William A. Anderson, of this city, New London County commander of the American Legion, issued a statement Thursday evening calling the attention of the American Legion men in this county to the Connecticut-Florida membership contest which is to close the last of this month. Commander Anderson urges all members of the Legion to get their post dues paid up before the moth closes and also to secure as many new members as possible.

Mr. Anderson has made public the following information which he has received from State Commander E. P. Armstrong in regard to the contest:

To date Florida is trimming us in grand style on the campaign. I have no doubt as to the final result. We are going to defeat Florida in a decisive manner. We have at this writing in state headquarters only 316 membership cards for 1925. The department of Florida is up in the thousands. We must have our 1925 cards and the cards for new members in the state treasurer's office by Saturday, December 24th, 1924. It is absolutely necessary if we are going to win this campaign. The treasurer will then have but three days to forward these cards and checks to national headquarters. Every card must be recorded at national headquarters not later than December 31st.

At a meeting of the New London County district at Mystic, Sunday Dec, 21st., several department officers are to be present and posts are to report concerning paid up memberships. Rivalry is keen and Norwich is planning to go to Mystic with the best average.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

By celebrating the passing of the old year at the Olympic hall, with an event that will long linger in the memories of all those who will be present, Wauregan lodge, No. 6 Knight of Pythias, will launch its building fund campaign on New Year's eve.

A real cabaret satire, comparing with the best of New Year's eve frolic that is seen in New York will form the back bone of the entertainment.

Vaudeville from New York, Girls Reviews from Hartford, in conjunction with many specialties by local amateur talent and Piatri's full orchestra will keep the fun going. Lunches and refreshments will be served by the Wauregan hotel grill and many favors in the form of noise makers, such as horns, rattles, streamers, confettties, paper hats will be distributed.

WHO IS HAMILTON HOLT?

Hamilton Holt, of Woodstock, Democratic nominee for United States senator, is an essayist, lecturer, editor and traveler of international note, who, to quote that esteemed Republican organ, the New Haven Journal-Courier, "has devoted his entire life to the service of others." As a leader of public movements he has been awarded degrees by several colleges and has been decorated by England, France, Italy and other great nations.

The forbears of Mr. Holt comprised one of two families that founded Woodstock in 1789—one hundred and three years before the founding of the government of the United States. His father was a United States court judge. His preparatory education was obtained at the Woodstock academy while his brilliant college career was begun at Yale.

Although his vast activities in later life carried him to all parts of the world, he has made it a practice to spend a portion of each year at his home, the home of his family, the home of his ancestors, Woodstock. Eleven members of his family at present own real estate in the town.

"The more the sober thinking citizen ponders upon the senatorial situation the more he is inclined to agree with former Governor Lake and with Horace D. Taft, who openly declare that they will support Mr. Bingham or give their aid to any plan which involves such a contemptuous gesture toward the high office of governor of this state. They feel that Colonel Bingham has been led into taking a position that is not a credit to the office to which he has just been selected and they also believe that the open manipulation of the convention was as un-American as would be the dictation of a kaiser. The delegates who voted for Mr. Bingham, only because they were advised to do so by the boss, have cast a slur on the name of the commonwealth.

"The boss and the system can only be eliminated by the people. If the boss wants something then he should not get it and as soon as he fails to deliver his country supporters will fall away from him as if by magic. We look to see quite a number of people follow Mr. Lake and Mr. Taft and that many of those who are saying nothing now will cast an effective ballot this month."

(New London Day)
Republican

"It appears that Hamilton Holt has been a citizen of Connecticut for just about four months. That, in the opinion of many energetic Republicans, disqualifies him for the senatorial election he seeks—not legally, but morally. Efforts are being made to make a scandal of Mr. Holt's very recent adoption of Connecticut. There is no scandal. If Mr. Holt were the best available candidate, he should be elected if his residence here were only of three days."

(New York Evening World)

The Democracy of Connecticut has a golden opportunity to send a superbly equipped leader of intelligent public opinion to the United States Senate in the person of Hamilton Holt. His candidacy on its own merits appeals to independents and to all who prefer thinkers to machine-made politicians in public life. His prospects are brightened by the revolt of Republicans who are properly outraged at the commercial politics of Boss Roraback and the coterie of selfish seekers of privilege and place he controls.

Former Gov. C. A. Templeton was entitled to a second term and was denied it by the Boss because of his manly refusal to be a mere pawn in the sordid game of machine politics. It was Roraback and his coterie that forced the nomination of Hiram Bingham for governor. Because of the Coolidge landslide they elected him.

Now he scorns the office to which he was elected in accordance with the plan to punish Templeton for his civic dencency, throws it aside as a dirty rag, and like the dog of the fable with a steak in its mouth that saw the meat's reflection in the water he snaps for the senatorship instead.

"The injustice to Templeton, the domineering methods of Roraback, the amazing selfishness of Bingham, have aroused the righteous wrath of Connecticut Republicans and only the insufferable stupidity of Democratic apathy can save Bingham from defeat. The eyes of the Nation are on the Democrats of Connecticut.

(New Haven Journal Courier)
Republican

"The fact is, Hamilton Holt will make a better Coolidge lieutenant than Mr. Bingham. The judgment of the latter is impeached by many who do not know him, who may never have seen him. They are asking themselves 'Can a man who would so double-cross a great state in this fashion by self-effort, or—to take a happier alternative—who would supinely allow a political boss to make him putty and eclair for his own uses—can such a man be a self-possessed and independent representative of Connecticut on the floor of the United States senate? Will not the menacing forces make use of him there for their destructive ends? Frankly, if there is another anti-Coolidge movement in the next congress, as there was in the last, there are powerful elements in Connecticut which would instinctively identify themselves with it. With Col. Bingham fairly dripping with obligations, and with his prestige impaired, how could he withstand the pressure and make such a tower of strength for the Coolidge administration as the people of this state indicated on November 4 they desire?

Mr. Holt will go to Washington owing nothing to any man. He is the citizen able, free and unafraid in high office that men have about despaired of getting in these days of "organization" and "machine." His life has been largely given to promotion to what the average woman, wife, mother calls "good causes." He is not a "little American," for one thing. He is a pioneer internationalist. He is against war and it will be much to have such a leader in this great office."

MR. BINGHAM'S MODESTY

(Providence Journal)

"Bingham to Lead 1925 Yale Eleven."—Headline.

(Springfield Republican)

"Would Calvin Coolidge, within a few days after being elected governor of Massachusetts, have accepted a nomination from a party convention to a United States senatorship? It is impossible to imagine Mr. Coolidge throwing the governorship of this state back into the lap of the electorate, within a week after he had taken the inaugural oath, in order to fill an office he liked better in Washington.

Hiram Bingham in being sworn in as governor of Connecticut will answer to the following oath: "Do you solemly swear that you will faithfully discharge, according to law, the duties of the office of Governor, so help you God?" He will say yes and make tracks for Washington. Does Senator Moses, or anyone else, deny to Connecticut voters the right to resent a political frameup of that character?"

(Ansonia Sentinel)
Republican

Somebody has unkindly called Hamilton Holt an outlander as respects Connecticut. At least there are few towns in the state where he needs an introduction. They say he has had even less training in those things which prepare a man for being a United States senator than has Hiram Bingham. To which a proper retort is that he isn't abandoning the governorship of this state to run for senator, and that there are as many persons af Washington who will know him at sight as there are who will know Hiram Bingham.

Anyway, we have in his candidacy insincere as were the influences back of his nomination, the placing before the people of Connecticut of an ideal opportunity to vote for an unbossed, unmanipulated, high minded candidate for senator. It wouldn't be surprising if there should be several republicans who feel, like former Governor Lake, that the good of their party will be best served by voting for Mr. Holt for senator, but it is distinctly improbable that there will be 70,000 of them.

(New Haven Times Leader)
Republican

In accepting the nomination for the United States senatorship Gov.-Elect Bingham has, in the opinion of many friends, made a grave error.

The people elected him governor and desire that he serve in that capacity.

It was bad judgment to nominate him for another office and it is to be greatly regretted that he did not at once, firmly and decisively, refuse to accept the action of the convention which yielded to political advice that, in the opinion of citizens generally, all over Connecticut today, was not wise.

(New York Times)

Has the Connecticut republican machine heard something drop? Mr. J. Henry Roraback, the republican boss, has come out of his cave of silence. Statements that he "dominated" the convention that named Lieutenant-Governor and Governor-Elect Bingham for senator are "absurd and unfounded." His blameless activity in that body was confined largely to reasoning with misguided friends who wanted to nominate him. This is an amusing theory. The fact, recognized by so many republicans, that Mr. Roraback for once stoops to defend himself is, as the independent Waterbury Republican puts it, "that the majority of the convention was of one mind, because there was only one mind in it—that of J. Henry Roraback." That isn't all. With its usual benevolent intention of sparing the people trouble, the machine first proposed to avoid a special election and have the Governor appoint a senator to succeed Mr. Brandegee.

As that bouldn't be done, the machine calmly named Mr. Bingham, whom the republicans, in the innocence of their hearts, had chosen as Governor under the impression that he was to be Governor, Mr. Roraback was to make him senator in 1926. The lottery of death gave Mr. Roraback an opportunity to make him senator in 1924."

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Barefoot Boy.

Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheek of tan;
With thy turned up pantaloons,
And thy merry whistled tunes;
With thy red lips redder still
Kissed by strawberries on the hill;
With the sunshine on thy face,
Through thy torn brim's jaunty grace,
From my heart I give thee joy;
I was once a barefoot boy!
Prince thou art,—the grown up man
Only is republican.
Let the million-dollared ride!
Barefoot trudging at his side,
Thou has more than he can buy
In the reach of ear and eye,—
Outward sunshine, inward joy,
Blessings on thee, barefoot boy!

O for boyhood's painless play,
Sleep that wakes in laughing day,
Health that mocks the doctors rules,
Knowledge, never learned of schools,
Of the wild bee's morning chase,
Of the wild flower's time and place,
Flight of fowl and habitude
Of the tenants of the wood;
How the tortoise bears his shell,
How the woodchuck digs his cell,
And the ground-mole sinks his well;
How the robin feeds her young,
How the oriole's nest is hung;
Where the whitest lilies blow,
Where the freshest berries grow,
Where the ground nut trails its vine,
Where the wood-grapes clusters shine,
O the black wasp's cunning way,
Mason of his walls of clay,
And the architectural plans
Of gray hornet artisans!
For eschewing books and tasks,
Nature answers all he asks;
Hand in hand with her he walks,
Face to face with her he talks,
Part and parcel of her joy,—
Blessings on the barefoot boy!
O for boyhood's time of June,
Crowding years in one brief moon,
When all things I heard or saw,
Me, their master, waited for!
I was rich in flowers and trees,
Humming birds and honey bees;
For my sport the squirrel plied
Piled the speckled mole his spade;
For my taste the blackberry cone
Purpled over hedge and stone;
Laughed the brook for my delight
Through the day and through the night,
Whispering at the garden wall,
Talked with me from fall to fall;
Mine the sand-rimmed pickerel pond;
Mine the walnut slopes beyond,
Mine on bending orchard trees,
Apples of Hesperides!
Still as my horizon grew,
Larger grew my riches too.
All the world I saw and knew
Seemed a complex Chinese toy,
Fashioned for a barefoot boy!

O for festal dainties spread,
Like my bowl of milk and bread,
Pewter spoon and bowl of wood,
On the door stone gray and rude!
O'er me, like a regal tent,
Cloudy-ribbed, the sunset bent,
Purple curtained, fringed with gold
Looped in many a wind-swung fold,
While for music came the play
Of the pied frog's orchestra;
And, to light the noisy choir,
Lit the fly his lamp of fire.
I was monarch: pomp and joy
Waited on the barefoot boy!
Cheerily, then, my little man,
Live and laugh, as boyhood can;
Though the flinty slopes be hard,
Stubble-spread the new mown sward,
Every morn shall lead thee through
Fresh baptisms of the dew;
Every evening from thy feet
Shall the cool wind kiss the heat;
All too soon these feet must hide
In the prison cells of pride,
Lose the freedom of the sod,
Like a colt's for work be shod,
Made to tread the mills of toil,
Up and down in ceaseless moil:
Happy if their track be found
Never on forbidden ground;
Happy if they sink not in
Quick and treacherous sands of sin.
Ah, that thou could know thy joy,
Ere it passes, barefoot boy.

My Favorite Food

(What it is?)

It's smooth and slick like a peach or plum
This favorite fruit of mine
But it has no stones to get in the way
And annoy me when I dine.
It has a hard shell like the hickory nut
But the shell I seldom see
And if you call it a "nut" ah me,
How mad—how mad it would be!

It ripens when the weather's cold
And what is stranger still,
It never sees the gay sunshine
Unless against its will.
I never find a seed in it
And never the tiniest shoot.
Yet it is planted in beds they say,
And grows without a root.

My favorite food can be eaten raw,
Or stewed or left to fry,
Like rare wild game or noisy fowl,
It's good in a scalloped pie.
This food is never rude, but as quiet
As any nun in a cloister.
Now I must tell you to make my rhyme
My favorite food is the oyster!

CALL FOR SOME OF SILENT MEMBERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: As I have been silent for quite awhile I will try and write a little now.

My present occupation takes lots of time but I enjoy it, so don't mind. As you know a school teacher's life is a very busy one so that explains my silence. Oh! no, my ink is not dried up but my pen hasn't been very good, but at last I have a new one.

Well, I am getting ready for my school exercises and other gifts. Some of the gifts I am making. I am crocheting yokes, edgings on handkerchiefs, and the others things I am buying.

Haven't we had beautiful weather? Last Saturday seemed like a spring day although Friday evening was rainy.

Thanksgiving we had exercises at school. I hurried home from those to rush to the ferry in Groton for New London and from there I went to spend the holiday with my sister on Fishers Island. I had a splendid vacation and returned to my home on Saturday in a rain and snow storm, but it was pleasant while on the island so didn't mind the storm while returning.

I would like to have attended the meeting Wednesday but wasn't able to as duty calls first, but hope to be able to attend one sometime.

Will stop now as I think this quite enough from one silent so long.

Would like to see a word from Dew Kist and Midget. Hope their pens are good and ink bottle full.

Where is Double Fuchia these days? See Neighbor Eveready manages to get time to write quite often.

How is Black-eyed Susie and her crocheting? My crocheting has come very nearly to a standstill as with all of my other work I get but little fancy work done in between times.

Hoping all the sisters are well as I am

AGATHA.

GREATING AND APPRECIATIONS FROM E. L. M.

Dear Social Corner Members: As I have not written since I said present will send a line or two. What a family we are and how it grows and we hope it will keep on.

Silly Sally: Long ago in March you sent a sponge cake recipe and I have always meant to tell you how good it was.

Uncle Sam's Daughter: Your white rose sugar cookies are fine. I make them quite often.

So many good recipes are sent in. After Christmas I hope to try many of them. I hope A. Corn is cured of corns but if not do try Corn Fix. I don't find it a cure but it is great to relieve the pain and take out soreness.

Christmas will soon be with us. Suppose many are ready for it, but I am not. A short time ago I was driving through Lebanon so hunted up Dorinda and had a five minute call with her. I see it has she has since lost her father and I know she has the sympathy of us all.

Dorinda: I am writing direct to you and hope it don't go astray as a card I once sent did. (It was not sent through the S. C.)

I don't think Interested Reader has answered the roll call yet although she told me she was going to on a certain week. Come Interested Reader stop making bags and other pretty things long enough to give present.

I have enjoyed the poetry very much.

Kitty Lou: Was so glad you explained the candy thermometer as I hope to have one some day. Could it be used for making boiled frosting and to what degree would the syrup want to be cooked?

Lular Wylie: I did enjoy your letter to the Corner on Saturday although it had been a hard time for you once. If there are others in the Corner who had a similar experience do write about it. I can't help laughing over the gloves.

Stranger in the City: Where are you? and how is Mah Jong and the baby? Heres wishing all a pleasant Christmas, and to all who can have a Merry, Merry Christmas.

OLD FRIENDS IN UNIQUE FORM

Dear Cornerites: Everybody needs a book mark. Buy one-fourth of dark blue satin ribbon one inch wide. Also buy two ten cent animals such as ivory dogs or elephants. Onto each end of the ribbon, after mitering the corners neatly and sewing them, sew an animal. This is a practical gift.

Buy 3-4 yard of handkerchief linen, and enough lace to go around it and three times the width of insertion. Hemstitch the cloth after cutting the material into three pieces. Join the pieces by means of insertion and sew lace around the edges. This makes a pretty bureau scarf. It can also be made out of three plain handkerchiefs which have been bought.

Cut a piece of silk in the shape of a circle about nine inches in diameter and face with flannel. In the center cut a tiny hole and button hole stitch around it. Bind the edge of the circle with ribbon. Sew a beading on the edge. Run ribbon through this. Through the hole put a white crochet hook. Put pins through the flannel draw a ribbon around the hook tie. Behold a dainty and serviceable umbrella.

Buy 1-4 yard of any ribbon about 3 inches wide, also buy a ten cent doll whose arms and legs do not move. Gather with tiny stitches around both sides of the ribbon. Place this with cotton batting underneath then over the doll and join the ribbon in back. Tie a tiny baby ribbon around the doll's neck, with about two inches to hang it up by. This is a nice pincushion.

Take any tin box and cover it by pasting strips of cretonne or ribbon over it. This is a fine jewel or novelty box.

Buy 1-4 yard satin ribbon about three inches wide. Take a little mirror about 1 1-2 or 3 inches in diameter and around this gather a ribbon, so that the quicksilver will be on the outside. At the top of the ribbon sew on beading. Run a contrasting ribbon through this, draw up the ribbon and tie. Inside place the powder puff. This is a dainty vanity bag.

Sport Handkerchiefs: Smart handkerchiefs are very popular now, with the young girls especially. They are very pretty and easy to make. All you need is some white handkerchiefs, a ruler and a box of common wax crayons. First take the white handkerchief, and draw with the wax crayon a simple border of any color desired. If you have skill in drawing you may add a more fancy border, making squares and checkers also diamond shaped figures. When all the drawing is pencilled as much as you desire, take a hot flat iron and iron the handkerchief on the wrong side making the colors appear on both sides. These are very pretty and attractive when done and I am sure the girls and ladies would appreciate them very much. P. M. told me she made four dozen for Christmas gifts last year.

Use a Turkish towel. Fold the towel lengthwise. Cut on fold to center. Cut from middle a circle large enough for the head. Crochet around all edges with silkateen. A shell edge of delf blue make a very attractive border. Fasten under arm and neck with ribbon to match crocheted edge.

CHRISTMAS HELPS

Dear Social Corner Members: If you wish to remember your friends at Christmas and have no money for presents, why not give them some of your time?

Possibly you embroider and have some friends who do not. You can do a bit of embroidery for her. You may have a friend with a large family who is overburdened with mending. You might give her a little of your time in this manner. There may be another of your friends who does not sew or one who with the demands of a large family does not have the time. You might help her with her sewing.

Possibly there is an invalid friend who would be made glad if you gave an afternoon for her entertainment. These gifts of serving are appreciated as much as most costly presents.

A surprise treasure box is just the thing that will delight a young child who has been ill and is still confined to the bed. Cover a box with gaily colored cretonne and have in it a number of different layers, each one separated by a thin sheet of cardboard. In this place, a stencil outfit, pad, pencils, crayons, cards, scissors, pictures to cut out, a bubble outfit, a miniature toy village, etc. These, none of which are very expensive, will keep the young invalid entertained for a long time.

Here is another inexpensive toy. You can buy a magnet for one penny. One party said that she went down street and bought a magnet for one penny. She went home and took two needles. These she rubbed with the magnet and these also became magnetized. She gave them to a sister and brother, who both enjoy picking up bits of iron and if one of the children loses a needle it can easily be magnetized with the magnet.

If you know an old lady who is an invalid or bed-ridden and who loves to sew, go to your scrap bag and from your pieces cut sufficient scraps for a quilt cover. String the scraps on red Christmas twine and send them to her for a Christmas gift. They will be a delight to her.

Bookmark: Wind a brass ring with baby ribbon, tie a length of wide ribbon through the ring and slash the ends.

Another book mark is made by cutting two slits in each end of a Christmas card weave bright ribbon through it, and fringe the ends.

String Holder: Point a wooden skewer at both ends; put it through a large spool. Tie a bow of ribbon about one-half inch beyond spool ends. Hang with ribbon and bow. Fill with twine.

Tie Holder: Buy two large green glass bracelets and hang by pink and green ribbon; pass the loop of ribbon through a small brass ring and tie bow large enough to cover.

A Cross Paper Wreath: Cut strips of crepe paper an inch wide in the middle and then twist the feathers round and round. Fasten with red bell or large red bow of crepe paper. Cranberries stuck on tooth picks and stuck into the wreath at intervals make it look more like holly.

ONE OF L. H. K.'S DINNERS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am inviting you to come in and have dinner with me today. It is a nice day, warm, no dust—so fine for traveling. What a lovely summer and fall you all who could go, have had for your auto tripe. Thanks for telling about them. Now I am going to serve corn chowder made with milk. Do you like it with crisp crackers right from the oven? This is the recipe:

Corn Chowder: Six small sized potatoes cut into cubes. Fry a large slice of pork with an onion or two. When done pour into kettle one quart can of corn with a quart of milk. Boil the potatoes with onion first till done then add milk corn and a tablespoon of butter and salt and pepper to taste. Boil all five minutes. Serve with hot toasted crackers.

Cherry Pudding: Do you not like cherry pudding? It is fine with the following sauce for filling. First I cook together one cup of sugar with one pint of pitted cherries (have to take can cherries or a pint of soaked dried peaches this time of year, one teaspoon of butter and a heaping spoon of cornstarch. For cherry pudding take one cup of sugar, two cups of flour mixed, one tablespoon of melted butter and one tablespoon of baking powder all mixed well. Soften with a beaten egg and cup of water, teaspoon of lemon, salt. Line a baking dish with dough an inch thick, pour in cooked filling and cover with dough and bake slowly one hour. Serve with sauce. Please let me help you to mother's gingerbread, its fine with whipped cream. O, and you must have a piece of my mince pie. Yes, made of green tomato. How did I make it? O, I took four quarts of green tomatoes, chopped them and drained off the juice covered with water and cooked one half hour. Then drain and add two pounds of brown sugar one box of raisins one cup of suet, one tablespoon salt one half cup of vinegar, cook until thick. Cool and add one teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and a tablespoon of vinegar, and can it for winter use. We will finish with bread and butter, cranberry sauce and tea. Please report next week of the time spent and what success you had with the recipes.

And now may we give thanks.

For all that God, in mercy sends
For health and children, home and friends,
For comfort in the time of need
For every kindly word and deed
For happy thoughts and holy talk
For guidance in our daily walk,
We thank thee Lord!
For sweet repose which comes with night,
For each returning morning light
For sun so bright that shines so high
For stars which glitter in the sky.
For these and everything we need,
O Lord, our hearts we lift to Thee
And thank thee!

STAR OF BETHLEHEM

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: I read an interesting article in one of the Boston papers and I thought I would pass it on.

Associated with the story of the first Christmas day is the tradition of a wonderful star which appeared in the heavens where no star had been seen before and which is remembered to this day as the Star of Bethlehem. Now something is about to occur which coming at this time of year—is a highly interesting coincidence.

A star will soon shine out brightly in our evening sky which is not new visible (except perhaps very faintly indeed) to the naked eye. This evening looking over to the south, a little more than a third of the distance up from the horizon to the point overhead, and you may see a few faint stars if the sky is clear and the moon not to bright.

Three form a triangle, and four others form a sort of square. Between them, you will probably see nothing.

But continue watching that space, night after night and in time you will see a star becoming faintly visible there.

By Christmas it should be brightly visible to the naked eye.

This modern Christmas star, so suggestive of the appearance of the Star of Bethlehem, will continue getting brighter until about the end of January, then it will fade away again and be seen no more by the naked eye for many months to come.

The name of this star is Mira, which is most appropriate, as the name means wonderful.

If any in the Social Corner should see this star will you write about it in our Corner.

HOLIDAY DINNER WITHOUT TURKEY

Corner Friends: Although the turkey retains its historic place on the menu for Christmas day, a dinner without it can be so attractively prepared and served that it will indeed give rise to thanks for the abundance of food with which our country is blessed. There is suggested here a menu which can be easily prepared and served, and which will prove relatively inexpensive.

Fruit Cocktail
Roast Shoulder of Pork
Baked Potatoes String Beans
Onion Pickle
Spiced Apple Sauce
Walnut Delusion
Pumpkin Pie Cheese
Coffee

Fruit Cocktail: To juice of one lemon and 1 orange add a cup of grape juice and 1 of cold water, sweeten and serve in cocktail glasses.

Roast Shoulder: Shoulder of pork weighing from 4 to 5 pounds. If desired this cut may be boned and filled with bread, chestnut or raisin dressing. Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper, rub a little mustard paste on it and place on the rack in a roasting pan. Roast until done. Remove the pan shim off most of the fat from the bottom of the pan and make gravy of the liquid and fat left using 2 tablespoons of flour. Season with salt and pepper. Serve the roast on a large platter and garnish with slices of fried apples.

Spiced Apple Sauce: Peel and quarter about eight apples, place in casserole and sprinkle with sugar, bake about two hours then add 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon and a pinch of salt.

Walnut Delusion: Work a ten cent cream cheese until smooth, add 1-4 cup finely chopped pecan nut meats and 2 tablespoons finely chopped olives. Season with 1-2 teaspoon salt and paprika, shape in small balls, roll in finely chopped pecan nut meats; flatten slightly and press halves of English walnut meats opposite each other on each flattened cheese ball. Serve with salad course.

Pumpkin Pie: Crust, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup of butter or lard. With hands work shortening in flour until like meal then wet up with top milk.

Filling, 1 cup of stewed and sifted pumpkin, 3-4 cup sugar, little salt, 1 egg well beaten, 1-2 teaspoon of cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon of ginger. Use milk enough to fill the crust. Heat until thickened a little before filling the crust.

These first three recipes are 60 years old. I gleaned them from Godey's book of 1864 and they are fine.

Pudding: One pound of suet (cut in pieces not too fine) one pound of currants, one pound of stoned raisins, four eggs, half grated nutmeg, an ounce of citron and lemon peel, shred fine, a teaspoon of beaten ginger, half a pound of bread crumbs, (1 cup,) half a pound of flour, (1 cup), and a pint of milk. Beat the eggs first add half the milk, beat them together, and by degrees stir in the flour, then the suet, spices, and fruit, and as much milk as will mix it together very thick. Then take a clear cloth, dip in boiling water, squeeze dry, while the water is boiling fast, put in your pudding, which should boil five hours.

Cream Pie: (fine) Half a pound of butter, four eggs, sugar, salt, nutmeg to your taste and two tablespoons of arrowroot wet; pour on it a quart of boiling milk, and stir the whole together. To be baked in deep dishes.

Mince Meat to Keep. 1 1-2 pound of currants, one pound best raisins, stoned, 3-4 pound of almonds, the peel of one lemon; and the juice, 3 apples; a pound of citron, 1 1-2 pounds of suet. Put these all through the chopper, with the exception of the lemon juice. Add 1-8 an ounce of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Put the whole into a jar and keep dry. When wanted mix it with cider, wine, or brandy. (I mix mine with stock and add whiskey or cider if I am out of brandy.)

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER.

NEARING CHRISTMAS

Dear Social Corner Friends: It will soon be Christmas the anniversary of the birth of the Saviour which for centuries we have celebrated with feasting and gifts. The Christmas season lasts from the 25th of Dec. to the 6th of January, the twelfth day after Christ's nativity.

The holly, which in our minds is synonymous with Christmas, was a sacred plant and mistletoe, a mysterious plant supposed to have great powers of healing. It was dedicated to the goddess of love and from it undoubtedly came the idea of kissing under the mistletoe bough. The Christmas tree furnishes the thought of Christ as the light of the world and the tree of life.

Yes, Peggy Alder, I well remember the time we were at my Grandma B's and your Aunt Etta was staying there, while my uncle and aunt were in California. I went soon after and stayed a week there while your aunt E went to Providence. She made three dozen of hermits before she went and there wasn't but one or two left when she got back. I wonder if Cactus Blossom has the recipe for them.

Caro: I am coming up there sometime, and we will take that walk. It probably won't be before spring. I went to Norwich last week to see my sister and was surprised to find the ground all bare, and here it surely seemed like winter with snow everywhere.

I wish Mary 'Gusta happiness.

Merry Christmas.

ROSALEND.

A MANUFACTURED CHRISTMAS TREE

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: As it is against the law and punishable by heavy fine to trespass or cut evergreens or private property without consent of the owner, we will have to resort to some other methods so as not to deprive the children of their Christmas tree. Get a small tree, well shaped but not having too many branches and mount it as you would any tree. Cut green crepe or tissue paper in strips two inches wide and with scissors fringe it up one inch, then wrap each branch, having the plain part of the paper come under the fringe. Then trim as you would an evergreen tree. (No candles.)

We can cut a little tree by the highway and the highway will look better by so doing. On this the holiest and happiest holiday of the year may all your dearest wishes be fulfilled.

TRUE BLUE.

CORNER SHOULD NOT LACK FOR LETTERS

Dear Social Corner Friends: The Corner page was well filled Saturday. Why not, with its 1000 writers who could fill an extra sheet with all kinds of information from trimming a winter hat to making cake without eggs and oyster stew without oysters?

Crimson Rambler: If you install the radio you will be much pleased and will not part with it any more than you would with the automobile. Once in his life a man was glad when he was down and out. It was his first trip in the airplane. It has been remarked it is not well for man to live alone. It seems that Mary 'Gusta thought the same of women and has taken a life companion. They have our congratulations. May they have a long and prosperous life.

Papa's Boy: I have lost your name and address which is the reason why your letter has not been answered. A postal will help me out at this time. Wishing the Social Corner editor and the whole Corner family a Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year I remain as ever, the same

WIFE NO. 1 AND WIFE NO. 2

Dear Social Corner Sisters. I want to ask you a question. Are you John's wife? You will say, of course I am.

But why ask such a question? Well wait, which wife are you No. 1 or No. 2? If you are No. 1 see that you stay so. If No. 2 be glad you got John.

Right here I am going to tell you a little story and a true on. It is about wife No. 1. Here is my story. Mary and John got married. Mary was only 18 and John 21. He was a good working fellow, but the wages were small, and he did not have enough money to furnish the home. So he bought some furniture on the credit plan. But by saving some money every week to pay for the furniture at the end of two years they were out of debt. They got along nicely and were putting a little money aside, but a little girl was born to them and of course that meant expense. Mary had been a shop girl and she did not know anything about sewing. She was willing to learn and I taught her how, but she never could make anything look right, so she said I will buy it for it is just as cheap. But she found out that the clothes she bought did not wear like these made at home. So she said I will try again and stick to it she did. But it was very hard work for her and she had her baby to care for and 15 months later another little girl was born to them. And than the hard luck came, for John lost his job and the last baby died when three months old. Thus some more expenses. So Mary took in a few washings to help keep the wolf from the door. Debts were piling up fast, John got discouraged but good Mary took in more washings and John would help her with them. That was done for about eight months and then John got work. Mary said, "Thank the Lord," and gave the washing up. John had worked quite awhile and they were out of debts once more. So they made up their minds to save all they could. And they did for a while. But baby number three came along, a nice little fat boy. John smiled and said it doesn't cost much to dress a boy now. Mary had to learn to make pants. She made some but they looked more like bloomers than pants. Everything went nicely for a while and Mary said, "We are having good luck now, hope it will last. John got a raise and they had money saved and along came another boy. So Mary said now I know I shall have to sew even if I can't do it right.

Mary did not feel so very pleased for she had three now to care for beside herself and John. But some more bad luck came for the last boy died. Mary's health got poor so she went to the country for a little while through the summer and came back feeling much better. John was working steady and she felt quite happy. They had a good home plenty to eat and wear now and Mary would keep busy sewing. The following March Mary had another baby girl. She was rushed to the hospital where she died. her baby followed three days later. Poor John was left with two little children. He put them out to board. They did not always get good care so John decided to marry again and took wife No. 2. Did she have five children? Oh, no, not one! Did she take in washings? I guess not. She has her's done. She takes a beauty nap every day, has her own car, a beautiful home and all comforts, eats the best, wears the best, goes and comes as she pleases. So wife number 1 look out or your hubby will have wife number two.

Best Christmas wishes to all.

BLUE BABY.

HOW TO KEEP OUT OF DEBT

Dear Sisters: Of course there are debts and debts. Just as there are women and women, but I found while in business the greatest national menace in the form of debt is the charge account. And the instalment plan (a dollar down and a dollar when you catch me) can rightly claim to be a close second, if you do not watch it very carefully. The first step in a debt like this is like the first step in falsehood, always involving the necessity of proceeding in the same course. debt following debt as lie follows lie, until at last it is like the Old Man of the Sea in Sinbad's travels. Once let it clutch you round the neck and you will find it next to impossible to shake it off.

What a life long misery these debts entail (if we have a conscience) and we did but realize it at the start we would shrink from them as from deadliest poison, for many a family has been utterly demoralized by influence of this monster.

It drives us to such petty shifts such meanness and lies! By and by we start at every knock, we dread the postman's whistle, we are actually ashamed to be seen, for we feel degraded in other's eyes as well as our own.

If we but live the life we should live there would be no need in nine families out of ten, for ever being obliged to endure this course. But there is such an intermixture of intoxicating pleasure in this gay world of ours —expensive luxuries all of them, that it is almost impossible to save money.

The automobile habit in its extreme form represents the prodigality of American youth and some not so young. This mania alone is so depleting to the purse (so they tell me) that it threatens to become a serious handicap in any matrimonial intentions.

Then there are the totally unnecessary and discouraging expenses that some thoughtless people incur because they take it for granted that what they want will cost no more than they can afford. So the article is bought without asking the price and the bill is sent and the buyer is panic stricken to find the cost three times what it was expected to be. A little forethought would have saved many anxious hours and many hard earned dollars.

How then with the competition before us, can we be expected to keep out of debt? Any one can if he only will. But unfortunately we are creatures of habit and the great American habit is to spend, spend, spend. But as Mrs. Carlysle in her shrewd scotch way, has said, "There's a deal of spending money in a dollar. If you only know how to make the most." To make the crown a pound or to make it go as far as a pound, is the lesson most have to learn nowadays, when the world is so full of wants that even the rich, rarely have as much ready money as they would like at their command. After all it is the making the most of every coin and every scrap of food that gives zest and flavor to our possession, and to life. If we are willing to do so we can live within our means.

Debt ruined these great men. You remember Wilkins Micawber, Esquire, in Dickens' David Copperfield, and the many ingenious dodges, green spectacles and other disguises to which he was driven to baffle his creditors. And yet poor Micawber was a philosopher in his way. A sound political economist and knew exactly how to keep out of debt. His parting advice to little David shows sound reasoning. It was debt that ruined Daniel Wedster, Theodore Hook, Sheridan, Fox and Pitt. Hayden the artist dated his own decline from the day he first became a debtor. The significant entry in his diary was, "Here began debt on obligation out of which I have never been and never shall be extricated as long as I live." This shows but too well how painfully the constantly recurring humiliations afflicted his mind. His advice to boys entering the navy was: Never indulge in any enjoyment if it cannot be procured without running in debt.

It was debt that drove Hood and Scott to a premature death. The great and wise Dr. Johnson author of the first really good dictionary held that early debt was ruin. He said, "Let it be your first care then to be in no man's debt," to which I might add and no woman's.

He also advised his friends to marry well-to-do women, because they, and they only, knew the true value of an income. "A woman with money," being used to the handling of money, spends it judiciously. But a woman who gets command of money for the first time upon her marriage has such a gust in spending it that she throws it away in confusion.

Let us hope that the girls of 1925 are not of this type at least they need not be, for most of the girls of today have a generous amount of spending money before they are married, and have only to learn the art of using it to the best advantage. For it is an art and the first rule to learn is very simple. "Whatever you have, spend less, for no matter how large your income may be, let it run into the millions, you are still but a beggar if you exceed it."

Any one who runs in debt, man or woman just for dress or amusements, is surely fixing a whip for somebody's back.

"K." THE UNKNOWN.

UNIQUE IDEA FOR GIFT

Dear Social Corned: For children, here are some Christmas suggestions for a box:

A little box of home made peppermint candy.
A home made cutout puzzle.
A jar of home made jelly.
A simple box filled with small home made cookies.
A box of beads to string. (everybody has some on hand.)
A package of pansy seed.
Several sheets of paper dolls and costumes to cut out. (saved from magazines.)
A home made calendar with a picture of our cats or other animals.
A simple home made decorated cake.
For an adult's box:
A nice, cheerful Christmas letter filled with news and good wishes.
A glass bowl of patridge berries and vines from our woods.
A pretty hand made wash cloth.
A little home made pie.
A pretty home made boudoir cap.
A home made calendar with a picture of our home, children or animals.
A box of home made candy.
A home made bed slipper bag.
A nice jar of home made jelly.
A package of gladioli bulbs from your garden to be planted in the spring and furnish flowers for the fall.

The above gifts are for shut ins, or convalescent child. There is nothing that pleases them like the above.

I procure an attractive large sized box and put in a package to open on Christmas day from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. I try to do the packages up in such a manner that the contents cannot be guessed.

A tape measure is a good gift. I think it is always a welcome gift. Here is a rhyme for the gift of a tape measure:

You measure the furrows, the corn in the field: you measure the seed that you sow; you count by the acres to measure the yield, and measure the apples you grow. You measure the baby, and oh what a joy, if he gains a few inches a year! You kiss him and squeeze him, and say, Attaboy, you'll be president someday, that's clear! "Tis measure for measure," as Shakespeare has said, and we'll give him credit for that, but you can't measure brans that you hold in your head, though you measure your band in your hat.

You measure a seam or a waistline or dress, you measure your flour for cake, but who in the wide world could possibly guess, My measure of love that you take.

CLUB NO. 3 MEETS AT LEBANON DECEMBER 17

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think it is about time for me to answer to the roll call. I meant to long ago but kept putting it off. What nice letters the sisters do write! I enjoy reading them very much.

I am chairman for the next meeting of club No. 3, in Lebanon, at the Baptist church chapel, Dec. 17th. Hope many from the other clubs may be able to come and help give a pleasant time. Please all bring your plates, cups, some thing good to eat, etc. I have asked Malvina, Harrie Etta, Eugenia and Guylena to help me.

As it is so near Christmas time, I think it would be nice for each one to bring a present for a grab bag, each member bringing a 10 cent present and having the fun of "grabbing" one. As most of the sisters know some of the Christmas carols I think it will be nice to all sing them together.

What a good time the sisters do have talking and doing fancy work! One can get so many nice ideas from one another that way.

Will close for this time and hope we may have a good crowd at our meeting and a good day too.

Best wishes to all for a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

YANKEE GIRL.

PLYMOUTH ROCK GRUEL

Dear Social Corner Family; Try this. Take one quart of salted, boiling water, one small half cup yellow meal, one long handled spoon in the right hand and the sifter containing meal in the left, stir with spoon and shake sifter. It will cook in five minutes. This Plymouth Rock gruel I eat with crackers.

Make it twice as thick for hasty pudding and eat in milk or with molasses on it.

C. R.: Owls can sing better than any defunct canary ever did.

CRANBERRY JELLY

Dear Sisters: Well how are you all after Thanksgiving? I was going to write before but have just got to it. Have been very busy with butchering, etc. We spent Thanksgiving in Mystic with mother and had a right good time with a delicious dinner good enough for the king. I took down some of my apple jelly and they thought it was fine. I wish some of the sisters would try it and see how nice it is.

Some one spoke about more of the sisters writing. I think, as one said, we do not need to be short of letters when there are so many members, so let's keep the page full. In regard to a Social Corner button I think it is a good idea so why don't we buy any one we choose and wear it.

Primrose: I got your letter. Glad to hear from you. Always hope to see you sometime.

Rosy Posy: You know you gave me your address but in some way I can't find it. Write me a line.

Well the old year is fast on its way. Soon it will be a new year so let us make a good Golden Rule.

Will send a never failing recipe for Cranberry Jelly: Pick over the berries and wash them and put them in a kettle with water enough to cover them. Boil until they are all soft and then put through a fine sieve and put back on the stove and let it come to a boil and boil for 15 or 20 minutes. Then take 2-3 as much sugar as there is of the cranberry, put it in oven and get it hot and then add it to the cranberry. Boil for 1-2 hour or until it thickens. It makes fine jelly. Hope some one will try it.

I think it is about time Historian and others wrote a line. Am still in the bedquilt business and crocheting a little besides.

RURAL AUNTY.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

Dear Editor and the Social Corner Sisters: There are so many of you that I would like to send cards to and can't. I take this way of sending Christmas greetings.

Daisy Dean: Can't say I just remember you. But I do the pie. Hope you will always have as good results in mixing things. If you are ever at any of Club No. 2's meetings please make yourself known.

I. J. B.: Suppose you are anxiously waiting for that Christmas package. Hope they will run out of them before they reach my house.

Student: Where art thou? I miss you.

Necia: My thoughts are with you in your trouble.

Catnip: Thank you very much for your kind services. Think you missed your vocation. You should have been a nurse.

Judie C: I can sympathize with you. I have had four days of it. Lots of fun, isn't it?

Would like to write a long letter but don't feel like it, but this will help for this time. Christmas greetings to you all.

RED ROSE.

BUSY CANDY MAKING

Dear Social Corner: I am busy this week making candy from the very best and most tempting recipes I can find on the Social page and there surely are a lot of them. I want to thank Kitty Lou for helping me about using the candy thermometer. It helps a lot. And the white of eggs for marshmallows, I had not thought of that. I have a lovely display of cream and nut candy on hand now, some of it tinted a light beautiful purple from grape juice. I do not know what I will do with it all. I guess I will give it to friends in Christmas boxes or to the Sunday school to help their Christmass tree.

It would be merry to have a Christmas candy party for the Social Corner and everybody help, some with candy some with cake and ice cream and all go in costume with their pen names printed on yellow ribbon pinned to them.

That would have to be an evening party and I guess a good many could not come.

I think it is lots of fun to have our pen names only and not tell.

ALOISE JANET.

GREETINGS FROM WHIRLWIND

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Am sorry I was not able to attend the meeting this month in Willimantic.

Betsy Bobbet: Foxglove made the crab meat salad you had on your table at the November meeting in Willimantic. We make them alike, as she taught me to make it, so will let her tell you how it is made.

Neighbor Eveready: Would like a bunch of berries and greens but as I was not able to attend the meeting don't see how I am going to get it. Think it time of you to make them for others to enjoy.

Dianna: Am sorry to learn of your troubles. Hope you are better now.

Dom Pedro: Also sorry to learn you have been sick again. Trust when you read this you will be all better once more.

I think I have written enough for this time. Will say in closing I wish each and every one of the Corner also our kind editor the nicest Christmas ever.

WHIRLWIND.

HEAT WATER ON REGISTER

Dear Editor and Sisters: Thanks for the check, it was a surprise. Think I will buy myself a Christmas present with it.

Hope tomorrow (club meeting day) will be as pleasant as it is today.

Are there any of the sisters who have the pipeless heaters in their homes? If they have I wonder if they know that a kettle of water set on the register in the evening will heat enough so that it will take only a short time to boil in the morning.

BETSY BOBBIT.

LETTERS LIKE PHOTOGRAPHS

Dear Corner Friends: It has been said our letters show what we are like quite as much as our photographs do. I think there is much truth in this.

We are attracted by certain letters on the Corner page and believe we would enjoy knowing the writers.

Some time ago Pedestrian wrote several very nice letters but I think she did not answer the roll call. I wonder if anyone can tell if she is ill. Would like very much to hear.

HEPATICA.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner: I have been to one of the meetings of the Social Corner club and I enjoyed myself very much, and I would like to join and have as my pen name

SMUDGE.

WOULD LEARN ABOUT GIRL FRIENDS

Dear Cornerites: Just a message to a Corner sister: If Daisy Dean will write to 2 Soule street, Jewett City, I will be glad to tell her where I visited and who, in the days I spoke of in my last letter to the Corner page. Also would like to inquire about the girl friends I had in W. as I have lost track of most of them the Fellows sisters, Montgomery, Parks, Davis, Aldrich. Would be glad to pick up the threads and tie them together again. I would write first to Daisy Dean, but do not know how or where to address her.

Twice Twenty: Have you received any communication lately from me through Saturday Eve? If not, you probably will before long.

With the best holiday and the season's wishes for the editor and all Corner members, I am one of you.

DELIAH DEAL.

HOMEMADE CANDIES

Dear Corner Sisters: You may like these candy recipes:

Fruit Cream: Seeded raisins, figs, citron or currants chopped fine may be mixed with French cream. Before all the sugar is added press into a cake about an inch thick and cut in cubes. Chopped nuts may be substituted for fruit.

Cream Chocolates: Make small balls of French creams. Stand them on greased paper and put in a cool place to dry. Put half a pound of chocolate into a small pan and stand over boiling water to melt. Keep warm and dip in the balls one at a time until all are covered with the chocolate, then put back on the greased paper to set.

Cocoanut Drops: One pound of grated cocoanut, half a pound of sugar, the white of one egg, mix well, roll in balls set in a cool oven on buttered paper to dry.

Vanilla Caramels: Two cups of granulated sugar, two-thirds of a cup of milk filled up with unmelted butter, one teaspoon of vanilla. Stir until it begins to boil but no longer. Cook about 25 minutes or until it turns light brown, pour on buttered tins and when partly cold mark in squares.

Sugar Candy: Take six cups sugar, one each of vinegar and water, one tablespoon of butter and put on to boil. Add when n

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Norwich was favored with many entertainments in 1874, among them being the Black Crook and The Boston Philharmonic orchestra. The big annual time of the Provident association was in full swing a half century ago and Breed hall was crowded to capacity every night.

Plans were also being made for the dedication exercises and concert for Steiners hall.

Others items of interest in those days of years ago, taken from the files of The Bulletin, are in part as follows:

Monday, December 7, 1874—The military enrollment of the town has just been completed under the direction of the selectmen. The work has been done in a very thorough manner by gentlemen well acquainted with the inhabitants of the town, who are employed especially for the purpose. The enrollment includes all those between the ages of 18 and 45 years. Total number enrolled 1879; exempt by disability, 94; exempt by service during late rebellion, 344; exempt by membership in volunteer fire company, 215; exempt by five years service in fire company and five years in militia, 70; minors enrolled, 194; active militia enrolled, 44; total number of exempts, 861; number liable to pay commutation tax 918.

The mills known as Hopeville mills, two miles east of Jewett City, which have been still for some time, have been leased (in part) by two young men under the firm name of McWilliams & Co., who have commenced the manufacture of horse blankets. Their goods compare favorably with the best in the country and the company should prosper.

In the official list of patents granted is one for a permutation lock, by C. C. Bliss of Norwich.

The boards which prevent the wind from blowing so severely across the West Side bridges have received a coat of paint, which adds much beauty to their appearance.

Tuesday, December 8, 1874—H. T. Sperry of Hartford, special agent of the government, has got the manufacture of stamped envelopes at Hartford and is employing about 200 hands, turning out an average of 500,000 envelopes every day.

Colchester has appropriated the sum of $3000 for a soldier's monument for the town and has sent out designs for the monument. There is a feeling however, that unless more money is forthcoming, Colchester will not have a very elaborate monument in memory of her soldiers.

Business at Allyns Point has been picking up of late and yesterday there were six schooners unloading there, one of them having aboard 600 tons of coal for a Worcester concern.

Wednesday, December 9, 1874—The next few days in Norwich will give the public a chance for plenty of enjoyment for there are entertainments now nearly every night. The grand dedication concert and ball of Steiner's hall is to be given Thursday evening. Tubbs Brass band and Tubb's full orchestra will furnish music.

Saturday evening at Breed hall is the Imperial Spectacle, Howard & Carle's presentation of the Great Original Black Crook, including the wonderful Carles, celebrating Snow Brothers and Miss Ione Lang. At the Lyceum Breed hall tonight, will appear, Louise Woodworth Foss, only rival of Charlotte Cushman and on Friday evening at Breed hall is scheduled the Boston Philharmonic club.

At the meeting of the common council held Mon. eve. lights were asked for Spring street, Peck and Connell streets and for Chestnut street; new lights being asked for Franklin street and the matter of lighting Slater avenue was referred to the police commissioners.

C. B. Rogers & Co. have already written for space at the centennial, this making the fourth big exhibit they have planned, three having been in foreign countries.

After considerable controversy the court of common council of New London, voted last evening to retain, maintain and sustain the present system of volunteer fire department under rules already adopted.

Thursday, December 10, 1874—One of the best meetings of the County Agricultural society for years, was held in Grand Army hall in this city yesterday. There was much business transacted and plans made for the fair next year. It was voted that the treasurer be paid $50 for his services last year. Officers elected were, President, J. P. Manning, Lebanon; vice presidents, Lyman W. Randall, Norwich, Albert L. Avery, Groton, James A. Bill, Lyme, Joseph T. Button, Preston, John L. Bacon, New London, Jacob McCall, Lebanon, Secretary, Lucius Brown, Norwich; treasurer, H. H. Gallup, Norwich; auditors, Albert L. Avery, Groton, Jonathan Turner, Norwich, David Hillhouse, Montville.

It is not known, we believe, at certain points exactly where the city limits run and Gen. Stanton is employing this splendid weather in surveying them out. In order to do the work correctly the general has had to go back to the surveys of 1784 as a starting point. Probably good and sufficient monuments will be set wherever needed, to prevent any uncertainty in the future.

The registration of Capt. Joseph O. Lathrop of Company C has been accepted, thus causing this company to take a back seat by reason of their captains seniority.

Friday, December 12, 1874—Mr. Russell, one of the large owners of the bonds in the horse railroad company was in town Wednesday and looked over the condition of the road. It is likely that the road will be rendered this coming spring and it will take $10,000 to put both lines, the one to Norwich Town and the one to Greeneville, in the condition they ought to be. More cars and better cars are needed for the lines and new lines are needed, leading into thickly settled places in the city. A rumor persists that Norwich people are to be asked to put some money into the venture and enlarge the track mileage.

Sabin L. sayles recently sold to a New York gentleman his pair of stylish black, "Frank Allen" ponies which are said to possess qualities of speed and beauty that will attract attention in any city. They are worth something over $1,000.

The old probate court is being altered to fit it for a banking house for the Dime Savings bank. The institution will open in the new quarters in February.

A. H. Vaughn observed his silver wedding anniversary last evening, being present at the affair.

December 13, 1874—The Worcester railroad company for a few days past has been using with a new vacuum brake, an improvement on others invented by Eugene Lewis, an employe at the company's shop at Norwich. The experiment has been tried with a small air tank back of the locomotives smoke arch and its work has proved so successful that it is expected to work an entire revolution in the breaking and holding of trains. A leading feature is the noiselessness of the new invention. The vacuum arrangement has been found sufficient for a train of four cars and a vacuum was retained for some twenty minutes.

Up to yesterday not a single bid had been received at the railroad office, for the earth and rock excavations for the new railroad tunnel under Laurel Hill and the masonry for the new bridge. Various parties, have been looking over the ground and will probably make bids in the near future.

The party favoring the Thames river for the boat races is stronger this year than ever before and it is hoped that a change will be made from Saratoga.

a golden rod effect. Put on the top of each piece of tomato and each cheese ball a half teaspoon of salad dressing.

Salad Dressing: Yolks of 3 eggs, well beaten, 1 tablespoon of mustard, a bit of pepper, 1-2 cup of vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter, small teaspoon of flour. Stir all together but in double boiler, set on stove to thicken, cool, add whites of the eggs beaten stiff and 1 cup of milk. This is a very good salad.

Rosy Posy: Thanks very much for the card and wonderful letter. Let me know when you are going to make those pies again and I will surely call even if the roads are bad.

Daisy Dean: Sorry you did not sleep well after the fine time we had. You must go a little oftener then it won't affect you that way. Ha. Ha. Well I hope to see you again next Wednesday night I am sure they will have a good time so you had better come. Thanks to all who sent me birthday cards. Wishing all the Cornerites and the kind editor a very Merry Xmas and Happy New Year.

DOWN ON THE FARM

Dear Social Corner Friends: Thanksgiving day is in the past for this year and many who spent the day with their grandparents on the old farm are back home again. We had to drive nearly 60 miles to cover the distance between our farm and the old homestead farm.

The old people were all out in front of their home and expectant.

Henry our oldest boy, rag out to the barn loft for the climbing and leaping which to him is one of the best stunts of the day, and Bud followed closely at his heels, accompanied by Tip, the dog, who was stopped by an excited dispute with the house cat, but he gave up and kept on rather than lose the fun in the barn. Grandma hugged baby Isabel and little Tom caught Grandpa's hand in the general turnabout to go into the house where we could smel lthe turkey dinner, for by the time we arrived dinner was ready for the table. A more hungry family it would have been hard to find. And yet before the second course I saw there was something wrong with Henry for he was not eating and as a usual thing he is apt to eat too much.

Without a word he finally slipped out, and after being used I followed him to see if he was sick. He was in the wood shed whittling a pipe stick and looking very down hearted. I asked him why he did not eat dinner. He answered without looking up from his whittling — "dinner's no good without Barberry." It was the first time he had found himself at the old farm without his sister Barbara.

After a while he began to pick up and together with Bud (in the country Henry and Bud are known as tin Hen or tin Henery and red top or sparkplug Bud has red hair) they soon had the old Ford started and were driving around the old farm. They were too young to drive out on the concrete highway. Their father went home on the evening train to Portland and the next day we took grandma home with us in our car. Grandpa was soon to follow us after arranging to leave the old farm in the care of his brother and aunt Het and hired help for the winter.

This is my last letter to my Social Corner friends as we have sold our own small farm and expect to start Saturday morning for Florida to stay there through the winter and escape the sometimes very cold and hard winter of Maine.

Yours sincerely with best wishes.
MRS. LA FOLLETTE.

CLAIM THAT NEW LONDON DESERTER STOLE FUNDS FROM HIS MATES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 12.—Lester Walters, a sailor from the United States Coast Guard destroyer, 233, stationed at this port in connection with the pursuit of rum-runners, is being sought tonight by the naval and civil authorities as a deserter. This evening the commander of the destroyer communicated with the police, stating that Walters had "jumped ship" and requesting that assistance be given the naval authorities in apprehending Waller. It was stated that Waller was without funds so far as was known, but that he is supposed to have boarded the train that left New London at 6.07 o'clock for Boston. The police of the latter city have been requested to meet the train in Boston and if Waller alights to take him into custody. Waller, who carried a brown suit case and a black bag is described as being five feet, five inches in height, and weighs about 145 pounds. He is about 34, of dark complexion and was attired in a sailor's uniform when he left the reservation. Numerous thefts have occurred at the barracks lately and today one of the naval men was robbed of $40. It is believed that Waller may have committed the theft and in doing so provided himself with funds by which he was enabled to leave the city.

Wolf Selikowvitch, about 60, and residing at 27 West Colt street, was struck and seriously injured this evening on Main street by an automobile, owned and operated by Harry Ellon, 247 Thames street, Groton. Selikowvitch is now a patient at Lawrence hospital suffering from several fractured ribs. He was badly injured and maimed several years ago when the automobile truck in which he was riding was struck by a New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad train at Mystic.

Selikowvitch was at the corner of Main and Church streets, when he attempted to cross the highway, intending to go to the east side of Main St. As he stepped from the curbing to the highway, Selikowvitch failed to observe the automobile operated by Ellon and headed toward State street. When the aged man reached the pavement he was struck by the mudguard of the automobile and knocked down. Ellon assisted Selikowvitch into the automobile and took him to the hospital.

The police probe continued tonight at the municipal building and like last night's session the probe to determine the efficiency of the department was conducted behind closed doors, the committee conducting the probe being determined that the facts revealed by the testimony of witnesses shall not reach the ears of the taxpayers and general public. The witnesses tonight were Sergeant Nelson Smith, in charge of the first shift of day officers and Desk Sergeant Frank Howard, on duty at the police station daily from 4 p .m. until midnight. Three more sergeants remain to be interrogated, Street Sergeants Samuel Hick and Patrick Murphy and Sergeant John Cavanaugh, who is performing plain clothes duty. It is understood that following the examination of the sergeants, some of the patrolmen will be summoned before the committee to relate alleged facts that the patrolmen claim to have knowledge of which will reveal an infraction of rules and regulations of the department. It is known that three or four patrolmen and one sergeant have supplied the committee with information that has been instrumental in the probe being started by Councilors Edward L. Streeter Jr., and Lucius E. Whiton and it is expected that these officers will be called upon to relate their alleged information with the committee in regular session. It is also known that one police officer, who has held an imaginary grievance against his superior officer, has even gone so far as to visit Mayor Waldo E. Clarke at the latter's residence at the Pequot, where he made known his troubles to that official.

When all of the police officers have been examined, it is stated, that several citizens will be summoned before the committee to tell what they may know regarding the acts of various members of the department.

Last night when the probe was in progress reporters being barred from the committee room, resulted in the newspapermen entering the main lobby and noting the witnesses that appeared there, but tonight the building entrances were kept locked and as witnesses appeared they were admitted, but admission to the building was denied reporters.

Mary Bosiowski, arrested yesterday, while drunk on State street, was fined a dollar in the police court this morning. The woman said she would not offend again, and pointed to the fact that she had resided in Norwich seventeen years and that she never was arrested. She said she tried hooch, but never again.

The Learned Mission contemplates some important changes in the management of its business when it becomes settled in its new home, the former Sebastian Lawrence property on Main street at the corner of Federal. It is proposed to have a man and his wife constantly in attendance to keep the building clean and attend to the people who come under the mission's care or jurisdiction. The rescue work which has been carried on by the mission will be continued. C. M. Brocksieper, has been employed at the new home for a few days cleaning up the place and getting things in readiness for occupancy by the new owners.

The police tonight received a telephone message that a row was in progress in a dwelling on Bank street, near Division street, a woman requesting that the police quell the disturbance. A short time afterwards a man communicated by telephone with the police and also requested that an officer be sent to the place. Before an officer was dispatched there it was ascertained that a husband-and-wife row had taken place, but the only damage done was in verbal combat and the couple had finally settled their dispute, which brought another message that the services of the police were not needed.

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Cundy, wife of Christopher W. Cundy, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her former residence, 12 Cutler street. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Interment was in Jordan cemetery.

SPECTACULAR ACHIEVEMENT IN WATER WORKS

"Interference with the water supply of Los Angeles by a mob of ranchers who turned water out of the aqueduct in the Owens valley 200 miles north of the city brings back into the news one of the most spectacular engineer achievements in America" says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The construction of New York's mammoth new water works involved a greater amount of labor and expense," continues the bulletin "but the dramatic element of conquering a desert was lacking. Even the engineering adventures of the old Romans in bringing the water supplies for their cities in great arched canals was surpassed in the construction of the huge conduit that snakes its way for 250 miles to divert a river across the desert, through mountains and over and under canyons that the the residents of a great city in a land of little rainfall may have abundant water.

"In 1905 when Los Angeles found it necessary to go far afield for an increased water supply, most of the Owens river, hidden away behind mountains and deserts, was going to waste into Owens Lake, a salt water depression from which it was lost by evaporation Only a few ranchers lived in the valley and the water rights of most of these were bought up by the city. Later the watershed of the river in the high Sierras was set aside by the federal government as a forest reserve.

"More than $20,000,000 was spent by the city on its aqueduct and an army of 5,000 men were kept busy. Construction started in November 1908 and water was delivered to the city from the completed aqueduct within four years. In order to bring the new supply from its far-away source the city's engineers had bored 42 miles of tunnels, and had built 15 miles of steel siphons and concrete flumes, 22 miles of canal and 187 miles of concrete-covered conduit.

"The Owens Valley from which Los Angeles' water starts on its long-desert journey, is a narrow cleft in the Sierras. Seven miles will span it at almost any point. To the eastward are the brown Inyos, to the westward the white Sierra. This latter range of mountains forms the roofshed of the United States. Mount Whitney, snow-clad monarch of them all, rises to a height of 14,502 feet. Twenty-three other peaks exceed 13,500 feet in elevation.

"Along the Sierra the snow lies deep through the year. From the base 35 streams debouch and pour into Owens River from a drainage area of 2,800 square miles. To insure a water free from alkali, Los Angeles went 35 miles above the mouth of the river to build the intake of the aqueduct. The first 23 miles, from the intake to the toe of the Alabama foothills, is in the form of a canal 50 feet wide and 10 feet deep, uncemented and at a slightly higher elevation than the river. It is near the end of this open canal that ranchers diverted the canal water back into the river bed.

"Cutting off the flow of the aqueduct did not mean an immediate stoppage of water flowing into the Los Angeles mains. At Haiwee, a few miles south of Owens Lake, is a basin covering 15 square miles where a reserve supply of water is kept. On the northern side of the Coast Range near Los Angeles is another reservoir and south of the range are others. The loss of the water is a serious matter to the city however, because the past two years have been abnormally dry. The normal flow is 260,000,000 gallons per day, but it fell last year to less than 190,000,000 gallons.

"Starting at an elevation of more than 3000 feet above sea-level the aqueduct water is still 2500 feet higher than Los Angeles when it reaches the Coast Range. Hydro-electric plants have been established at points within twenty or thirty miles of the city and the water, already valuable in power that some day may entirely reimburse the city for its large outlay for the aqueduct project."

75% Of All Sickness caused by clogging

Take constipation seriously; remove it promptly with a stiff dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

AN old-fashioned notion persists that constipation is unavoidable, yet it is easily prevented and may be easily relieved. The fact is that certain foods do not agree with certain people, so avoid those which do not agree with you.

When you feel clogged up take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and relief will come by morning. Many who are habitually constipated take a dose regularly once a week as a precaution.

There are, of course, many other remedies that you can take besides Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Cathartics and physics in the form of pills and powders, however, are harsh and griping; Syrup Pepsin is a liquid, a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant aromatics, and it acts gently and mildly but emphatically. The formula is on the package.

Candy cathartics, which usually contain phenolphtalein, a coal-tar drug, may cause skin eruptions, and salt waters are simply a purge that dries up the saliva. You are therefore best off with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been the standard laxative of thousands of families for more than 30 years, and over 10 million bottles are bought annually.

Every druggist sells it, and at so low a price that an average dose costs less than a cent. Many attribute the unbroken good health of their entire family to the general use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as Mrs. Allie Graham, Handley, Tex., and Mr. A. F. Schmit, 1517 Detroit Ave., Toledo, Ohio. They use it for constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, torpid liver, heartburn, fevers and colds. It contains no narcotics or opiates and is as safe for an infant as for you.

People who know will tell you that Syrup Pepsin is a truly wonderful internal treatment, which dispels all forms of intestinal poisons resulting from constipation and indigestion, disorders which cause 75 per cent of all the more serious diseases. A teaspoonful when you are feverish or feel a cold coming on may ward off an illness and save you time, money and inconvenience.

POETRY

CAPITULATION.

I built me a wall around my heart.
And I built it tall and I built it strong
And I locked the door and hid the key
And thought I had shut out the whole world from me,
When over the wall there danced a sprite.

Just one little crevice I left in the wall
I thought: "It's safe, for nobody knows.
There's none to look and none to care.
So I'll hug my hurt while they laugh out there."
When through the crevice there peeped a rose.

The red rose coaxed and the song it called.
The both of them wheedled, and what could I say?
For, "Yes, let us go," begged the heart of me.
So I dried my tears and found the key.
But I didn't need it to set us free.
For somehow the wall had fallen away.
—Adele Middleton Russell, in New York Sun.

THE FLIGHT OF LOVE.

When the lamp is shattered
The light in the dust lies dead—
When the cloud is scattered
The rainbow's glory is shed.
When the lute is broken
Sweet tones are remembered not;
When the lips have spoken
Loved accents are soon forgot.

As music and splendor
Survive not the lamp and the lute,
The heart's echoes render
No song when the spirit is mute—
No song but sad dirges,
Like the wind through a ruined cell,
Or the mournful surges
That ring the dead seaman's knell.

When hearts have once mingled,
Love first leaves the well-built nest;
The weak one is singled
To endure what it once possessed.
O Love! who bewailest
The frailty of all things here,
Why choose you the frailest
For your cradle, your nine, and your bier?

Its passions will rock thee
As the storms rock the ravens on high,
Bright reason will mock thee,
Like the sun from a wintry sky.
From thy nest every rafter
Will rot, and thine eagle home
Leave thee naked to laughter,
When leaves fall and cold winds come.
—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

STOCKS ADVANCE IN PRICE.

New York, Dec. 13.—A sharp reversal in speculative sentiment took place in today's stock market, which shook off the reactionary tendency of the last few days and bounded upward in response to a series of favorable news developments. Extreme gains ran from 1 to 8 points with 47 issues attaining new peak prices for the year.

Prices bounded upward from the start on the announcement that no change in the New York federal reserve re-discount rate was contemplated, the demand being stimulated later by the decision of a special master in favor of the Consolidated Gas company, holding the local gas law unconstitutional.

Van Sweringen stocks were again buoyant in anticipation of the approval by the Erie directors of the proposed lease of that road to the new "Nickel Plate" system which was announced after the market closed. "Nickel Plate" common advanced nearly 7 points to 125 1-4; Pere Marquette common moved up nearly five points to 71; Chesapeake & Ohio advanced nearly 3 1-2 points to 98 1-4 and Erie first and second preferred each sold 3 1-2 points above yesterday's final quotations, all at new top prices for the year.

Motors gave an excellent demonstration of group strength. Nash Motors jumped more than seven points to 193 1-4, while Maxwell Motor A., White, Mack Trucks and Jordan all broke through their previous 1924 highest levels, buying of the last named following publication of reports that the year's earnings will be about $9 a share with the current month's earnings at nearly double that rate.

Public utilities again developed several spectacular features. West Penn Power and Federal Light and Traction each soared eight points above last night's closing figures, to new maximum quotations, and then lost about half their gain on profit taking. American Water Works Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Edison and Utah securities also sold at prices not heretofore reached this year.

Standard industrials displayed a strong undertone, although buying was relatively moderate in volume. United States Steel common closed 1 1-8 higher at 117 1-2 after having touched 118. The equipments were accumulated on reports of large railroad orders. American Locomotive and American Car and Foundry mounting to a new high ground.

Other outstanding strong spots included Lehigh Valley, Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul preferred, Commercial Solvents A, Postum Cereal, May Department Stores, Iron Products, United Drug, American Sugar Refining, Caramel Fruit, Coca Cola, Fisher Body, General Baking, Loose Wiles Biscuit, National Enameling, Railway Steel Springs and Woolworth the net gains running as high as 7 points.

Oils and coppers were about the only groups that failed to participate in the advance.

Call Money held steady at 3 1-2 per cent, time funds and commercial paper were in better demand but the rates remained unchanged.

Foreign exchanges continued reactionary. The local rate movement followed those of London. Demand sterling yielded fractionally around $4.68 1-2 and Dutch guilders broke about 16 points to 40.30 cents, the other European rates showing only nominal changes.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Dec. 13.—Bond prices resumed their upward movement today under the leadership of semi-speculative railroad issues, trading was featured by heavy buying of the bonds of railroads involved in the "Nickel Plate" merger on indications that the way had been cleared for carrying out the consolidation of the lines originally contemplated.

Acceptance of the merger lease by the Erie railroad, the first of the participating roads to approve the plan, which was announced after the close of the market, was discounted by both Erie and Chesapeake & Ohio bonds. The latter road's convertible 5s soared and 4 points to a record high price at 108 7-8. While five of the Erie issues mounted 1 1-4 to 2 5-8 points.

Other rail liens which scored substantial gains included St. Paul 4 1-2s and 4s of 1925, Frisco income and adjustment 6s, Chicago & Alton 3 1-2s, "Katy" adjustment 5s, Southern Railway 6 1-2s and New Haven francs.

Trading in gas and electric company issues was stimulated by the court decision finding the local $1 gas law unconstitutional. Other public utilities issues also strengthened.

Offering of the American portion of the Greek loan is expected early next week. Although $11,000,000 of dollar bonds are available for this market, it is probable that some of these will be taken in London where the initial issue was heavily oversubscribed. Preliminary consideration, Street heard, has been given to Belgian, Dutch East Indies and Sao Paulo loans.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Wheat, corn and oats all jumped today above previous top-most prices for this season. Trading was on a big scale, with foreign buying of future deliveries of wheat a notable feature. Prices for all grain closed strong. Wheat 3 1-8 to 3 1-2 cents net higher May 1.67 7-8 to 1.68 1-8 and July 1.48 to 1.48 1-8. Corn 3 1-2 to 4 1-4 cents up, oats showing 1 7-8 to 2 3-8c gain, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to 40 cents advance.

Wheat finished at virtually the day's figures. Business had hardly been under way when the market began to climb, the fact that current deliveries of wheat on December contracts here were being moved out of Chicago with unusual dispatch, and that a further reduction of the United States visible supply total appeared imminent gave new zest to buyers. Increased demand for flour was an additional reason given for the upward swing of wheat values.

Corn and oats derived most of their strength from wheat, and from bullish estimates of domestic corn production as compared with estimates a month ago. Further reports of rain in Argentina were almost entirely ignored.

Provisions were lifted by the bulge in grain values.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Dec. 13.—The upward movement of prices was resumed in today's curb market, which was featured by the heavy demand for the new "Nickel Plate" shares which established new peak prices for the year. The common closed 2.1-4 points higher at 88 1-4 and the preferred recorded a net gain of 3 1-2 points at 93 1-4.

Oils, which were reactionary in the early trading, developed a firm tone toward the close of the market, several of the active issues scoring fractional advances on the day.

One of the features of the industrial list was the revival of activity in Stutz Motors, which opened at 5 and was quickly run up to 8 1-2. The Continental Baking issues responded to the declaration of initial dividends. Radio issues displayed a firm tone.

The feature of the public utility list was a jump of more than 6 points to 124 7-8 in Commonwealth Power, which sold as low as 103 last week. Several other public utilities improved fractionally.

Trading was started in the afternoon in the common stock of Chapin-Sacks, Inc., nearly 5,000 shares changing hands between 18 1-4 and 18 3-4. The company, which is one of the largest distributors of milk products and ice cream in the south, estimated its year's earnings at $4.50 a share on the 100,900 shares of capital stock outstanding.

JEWETT CITY

The Yankee doughnut man who drives a delivery auto to Jewett City from Norwich every day struck into a flock of late fall chickens at Paul Geist's curve Thursday. One of the birds, found later to weigh but a pound and a half, struck the windshield of the automobile. The heavy glass was shattered and the chick landed in the driver's lap.

It looks as though the town of Griswold was pretty well prepared to vote unanimously in favor of biennial town elections. Griswold is one of the six towns out of the 136 in Connecticut to elect its town officers every year. The board of selectmen point out that the change will mean a saving of considerable money, as several of the important town officials are elected for two-year terms, anyway. It is proposed now, on the day that Griswold votes for U. S. senator, to also conduct a referendum ballot on the biennial election question.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Abraham Zegeer. Miss S. K. Adams read a chapter from the Mission Study Book, the subject being Adventures in Brotherhood. The mite boxes were brought in at this meeting. The officers elected were: President, Mrs. D. E. Robinson; vice president, Miss S. K. Adams; treasurer, Miss Helen Hull; secretary, Mrs. Alex McNicol; assistant secretary, Mrs. John Whalley.

The funeral of George E. Willcox, Jr., in Edgewood, R. I., was attended by a large number of relatives and friends, many from out of town. The pastor of the church where the family attend conducted the service. Miss Johnson, superintendent of the primary department, sang most tenderly the song the little boy loved and often sang, Jesus Loves Me, This I Know. The flowers were very lovely. Burial was in Lakewood cemetery. The bearers were the mother's three brothers and a cousin, Ernest, Carl and Walter Benjamin of Jewett City and Henry Hensler, Jr., of Plain Hill. The relatives and friends from out of town included Mrs. Ida Benjamin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benjamin and daughters, Lillian and Ida, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benjamin and daughter, Ruth May, Walter Benjamin, Mrs. J. T. Stewart and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City, Henry Hensler and son Henry of Plain Hill, Mrs. Annette Wilcox, Harry and Byron Willcox of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., Mrs. Ellen Stoddard of New London and Mrs. Jennie Stoddard of Gales Ferry.

An inquiry has been made in Jewett City, to learn if anybody remembers "The Old Leather Man," who, about half a century ago was accustomed during the course of erratic travels to visit this end of the state. The Old Leather Man was a peculiar and eccentric character, his name was Jules Bourlay, and he was born at Lyons, France. From an unfortunate business failure, resulting from a ruinous speculation in leather, by which his marriage with a beautiful and wealth woman was frustrated (her father being the partner in his failure) he emigrated to this country and became a wandered through Connecticut and Eastern New York, clad in a full suit of leather, and living upon charity, though never asking for money. This man was finally found dead in his cave on the George Dell farm, in Mount Pleasant (near Sing Sing, N. Y.), Sunday, March 24, 1869.

Two Jewett City men remember this peculiar character and can tell of his visits to the village and of the sensation his calls used to make. One man gave some information this week that recalls a later character who used to go about this town, many years after the Leatmer Man's time. He was known as "Jerry Blue Bags." He used to go about dressed from cap to toe in a suit of blue denim. Some times it was clean and new, then frighfully soiled and old. One doesn't have to be on the shady side of 50 to recall Jerry Blue Bags.

Another partly demented man, a town charge, was named John Gates, Forty years or so ago, although being entirely harmless, he used to fill the smaller fry of the village with terror, as armed with his spiked cane, and carrying a two quart jug, he used to make his weekly visits to Slater's store. John Gates always stalked through the town walking right in the middle of the road. He muttered to himself and would repeat, times without number "Frank Hawkins and Cold Irons." At Slater's, the late Francis S. Young would fill John's jug with Porto Rico molasses, whereupon with profuse thanks he would return to the town farm where he lived. On the town's big acreage he was valuable help as he understood all sorts of agricultural work. Doing often in haying time the work of two men, he earned hundreds of dollars in payment for his keep.

Charles Robinson and Miss Alice Pepin, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Pepin were united in marriage Tuesday morning at St. Mary's church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. J. McCabe, who also sang the nuptial mass. The bridesmaid was Miss Alexina Pepin, cousin of the bride, and the best man was Leo Robinson, brother of the groom. The bride wore white canton crepe, wore veil and wreath and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, carnations and lilies. The bridesmaid wore blue taffeta, a blue hat and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. A breakfast was served to 70 relatives and friends at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson went to New York on a wedding trip, and will live at the bride's home for the present. The bride's traveling gown was brown, with coat and hat to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, and to the best man he gave a watch chain. The bride gave the bridesmaid a ring set with a sapphire. She received gifts of silver, cut glass, linen, money and household furnishings.

The school children and the public are to be given an afternoon and evening of entertainment next Monday by courtesy of the Ford company. A special operator will show motion pictures on ten subjects: Yellowstone Park, Northwest Lumber Field, Power of Thought, Pueblo Indians, Flexibility, The Ford Age, Trip Across the Continent and the Tenth Million Ford. It is expected that a radio will add to the entertainment. This takes place in Assembly hall at Riverside grammar school. The school children who see the pictures in the afternoon cannot go in the evening, thus making room for the public at night. Any children who do not go in the afternoon must be accompanied by a grown up person in the evening.

The children of the parochial school have sold 2200 Christmas seals for the tuberculosis fund, a fine showing in the war in which there are no armistices.

JEWETT CITY VISITED BY NORTHERN SHRIKE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, Dec. 12.—The report of a lad returning from a trip after red winterberries, that he had come upon a sparrow impaled on thorn bush indicates that this section is having a visit from Mr. Northern Shrike. He may be known at once by his colors—gray, black and white—by the consternation his appearance causes among the sparrows, and by his rapid flight near the ground till he nears his intended perch, which is reached at the last moment by a sudden upward turn. He is called the butcher bird and frequently impales his prey on a convenient thorn or sharp branch.

Congressman John Jacob Rogers, who has been ill for several weeks will enter a Boston hospital within a few days for observation.

NIANTIC

The Women's society of the Congregational church held a sale of fancy articles and served a cafeteria supper Wednesday afternoon and evening in the vestry.

Niantic lodge, No. 17, I. O. O. F., met Wednesday evening at the lodge room and conferred the second degree for the benefit of one candidate.

Mrs. Sarah Swaney was in New London last week and attended the past grands' meeting of Rebekah lodges held at I. O. O. F. hall.

Gates Rebekah lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F., met Monday evening and held second nomination of officers.

Nehantic chapter, Order of Eastern Star met Thursday evening.

Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of Hartford, and Monsignor William H. Flynn, chancellor were guests of Father Edward Flynn Tuesday at the rectory. The bishop expressed himself as pleased with the new church just completed.

The meeting of East Lyme League of Women Voters, held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sarah Swaney, was very fully attended. After a lively business session an interesting address was given by Miss Helen H. Hazard, superintendent of the Connecticut State Farm for Women. The address was followed by discussion of the problem of delinquent women and possible means of meeting a condition that threatens the foundation of society. Every woman present was urged by the president to go to the polls for the coming senatorial election Dec. 16th.

An army airplane landed at Niantic camp ground about noon Wednesday and at the same time the day before. The machine was a large one and attractive in appearance, giving an indication that it was a new type. The aviators flew over from Mineola field, L. I. They came to pick up a disabled plane that had to make a forced landing last Saturday afternoon, coming down on James Bond's farm into some ploughed ground. It is understood the disabled plane was having some difficulty in navigating through the fog last Monday afternoon.

Last Saturday forenoon, Santa Claus, accompanied by his guide landed at the Niantic camp ground en route from Pawtucket, R. I., to New Haven. Santa stated that the trip from Pawtucket to Niantic was consuming more gas than it should owing to the fact they were bucking headwind at an altitude of 3,000 feet. After landing on the camp ground the aviator went over to Niantic village and secured 5 gallons of gas to replenish his tank before proceeding for New Haven, as he was due in the latter place that afternoon. Santa stayed here about an hour telling the big folks as well as the little folks about his trip by airplane. Santa was all dolled up and his make-up pleased the children. Santa did not have any toys on board but he said he was employed by a store in New Haven to do wing walking on his machine, which he did in the air. On the under side of the lower wing of the machine the words Santa Claus were written in large black letters. Santa and his companion left Niantic about two o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Fannie Tracy and grandson Joseph Tracy of East Haddam motored to Pine Grove Monday and were guests of Mrs. Tracy's sister, Mrs. S. J. Griswold.

CLARK'S FALLS

Mrs. Richard Maine has gone to Taunton, Mass., to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Catherine Thomas for a few days. Her son, Wilson Maine, and family were at her home Sunday evening and she accompanied them to their home in Westerly and left by train in the morning.

This community was saddened by the death of Mrs. Maud Mitchell, 29. Her death occurred Dec. 6. The funeral was held Dec. 8, at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Jerry Duro, in this village. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, many coming from Hartford, Norwich, Westerly and Ashaway. Rev. A. L. Davis of Ashaway conducted the services.

There were beautiful flowers. The bearers were cousins, Frank Whaley, John McNally, Archie Lamb and Walter Perrin. Burial was in Union cemetery. Mrs. Mitchell leaves a son by a former marriage, Lawrence Evans, whose father, Otis Evans, died in Westerly Sept. 28. The sympathy of many friends has been expressed to the aged grandmother who had the care of her granddaughter since early childhood.

The Ladies' Aid Society held a meat pie supper and sale of aprons and children's dresses, Tuesday evening, under the direction of the president, Mrs. John B. Perry and a good sum was taken in. A splendid crowd in attendance declared they had a good supper. Ledyard Armstrong auctioned off the fancy articles.

Mrs. Delia Perrin, of Norwich and daughter, Miss Agnes Perrin, of New York city, who have been the guests of Mrs. Jerry Duro, left for their homes Sunday evening.

Harry O. Williams of Westerly was in this place on business Saturday.

All were grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. Ina Barber Stone of West Kingston. About twelve years ago Mrs. Stone resided here. She was a beautiful woman and a writer of poetry, also news for a Westerly paper.

Miss Sarah Palmer and Mrs. Sadie Ahearn of 112 Franklin street and 24 Spring street, Westerly, respectively, were guests of Mrs. Nellie Palmer recently. Miss Palmer was driving a new sedan.

Notes for Women

A new antiseptic has been discovered that is four times as powerful as Carbolic Acid.

It is much more powerful than bichloride of mercury.

Yet it is so harmless that one can drink it and so mild in its action that it is a healthful wash for the most delicate membrane.

Chemists say it will take the place of harsh poisonous germ killers. By getting a 60 cent bottle of Kojene at Lee & Osgood Co., or any good druggist women can learn much of personal hygiene that will be of benefit to them.

Don't try to hide skin trouble

No amount of cosmetics can conceal an ugly skin. They only fill in the pores and make the condition worse. Resinol Soap cleanses the pores, giving them a chance to breathe and throw off clogging impurities—the first step in overcoming skin defects.

A touch of Resinol Ointment for blotches and inflamed spots, relieves the soreness and reduces the angry look. The soothing, healing medication in the Resinol products makes it so easy to get rid of excessive oiliness, blackheads, blotches, redness, etc., why waste time trying to hide them.

SHIPPERS WILL HOLD CONFERENCE ON BETTER FREIGHT MOVEMENTS

The directors of the chamber of commerce held a meeting Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the new quarters located upstairs over the old offices on Shetucket street. Treasurer H. B. Cary made his monthly financial report which was accepted by the board. Reports of progress were made regarding the Thames river development; proposed state park; installation of six new road signs and the question of the elimination of an obstructing sign placed in front of a large illuminated sign maintained in Groton at the entrance to the Thames river bridge. President A. E. Story was delegated to act as the representative of the Norwich chamber at the state and national organizations meetings.

Arrangements are being made for a conference of local shippers with representatives of the three transportation companies serving Norwich regarding the possible improvement of local freight movements to points west of New York. This important conference will be held as soon as possible after the holiday season and rush. The matter of freight movements is vital to the welfare of local shippers. It may be possible that a traffic committee or club will be formed of local shippers to consider the needs and to safeguard the privileges of local shipments.

Arrangements are being made to decorate the new white way poles with large evergreen wreaths during the holiday season. This decoration will replace the Christmas tree located in Union Square last year. The chamber, merchants and city officials are cooperating for the success of the decorations.

The question of Norwich securing permission from the legislature for the creation of a zoning or city planning commission will be submitted to the city counsel for consideration and action. The proposed city planning commission will be unpaid and its purpose will be to study and recommend improvements for the general welfare of the city. Such city planning boards are already in existence in a number of Connecticut cities.

The local chamber will be represented at a conference meeting to be called under the auspices of the state chamber to consider the question of holding a statewide exhibition of Connecticut products, manufactured and agricultural to be held in Grand Central Palace, New York city, next fall. This exhibition of Connecticut products in the greatest market in the world will work to the advantage of all business interests of the state.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHIEF CAUSE FOR SUSPENSIONS

The licenses of 7,196 operators were suspended by the Connecticut motor vehicle department for various infractions of the motor vehicle laws during the first eleven months of this year, according to a statement made public at the department. This figure represents an increase of 2,698 over the total number of suspensions for the corresponding period of last year, 5,506 over the same months of 1922 and 6,024 over the same period of 1921.

The offense of driving while intoxicated was responsible for the third largest number of these 1924 suspensions, reckless driving standing foremost with 2,823 and failure to report accidents to the motor vehicle department second on the list of causes, with 1,273 cases. While the November, 1924 suspensions for intoxication, 86, showed a decrease from the number for November, 1923, 105, yet the total of licenses suspended for this offense during the first eleven months of this year, standing at 947, is 252 greater than the number it was found necessary to take up for the same offense in the corresponding period of 1923.

Three hundred drivers were called upon to surrender their licenses last month because of reckless driving, as against 264 suspended for the same offense in November, 1923. The offense of failing to report accidents involving personal injury or property damage of at least $10 is showing a falling off. 111 suspensions being announced for this reason, whereas 146 were suspended because of it in November, 1923.

Operating without a license stands fourth in order on the November list, which is the same position it occupied last year. For this offense, sixty-nine persons forfeited their right to hold operator's licenses last month. Thirty-one licenses were called in because the holders evaded responsibility after accidents, thirty were taken up as a result of fatal accidents, nine for overloading trucks and eighteen for operating unregistered cars. Miscellaneous offenses accounted for the other suspensions.

UNDERWRITER'S CREW ALLOWED TO GO FREE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 12—When the case of the crew of the tug Underwriter, seized off Block Island several days ago, charged with being a rum-runner, was called, this afternoon, at the customs house, before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson, all the crew were on hand excepting the captain and engineer, whose presence was assured by their attorney when the boat was seized by the U. S. S. Red Wing. The crew who had been at liberty on bail of $500, each, were released. The captain and engineer were not before the commissioner, it was stated by their attorney, because their whereabouts were unknown to him. However, the captain was in New London until Tuesday and the engineer has been in the city every day since the capture of the tug and is in New London at the present time.

The Underwriter is being held under guard at the state pier, but her cargo of approximately 12,000 cases of whiskey and alcohol, has been removed to storage, excepting the 150 cases reported to have been stolen from the tug the first night she was in port.

CREW OF POCOMOKE BEING HELD IN BONDS

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 12—The dry fleet stationed at this port in an attempt to put an end to the rum-running in the sound, made another capture this morning when the U. S. S. Cassin, seized the steamer Pocomoke, hailing from Philadelphia, carrying a cargo of 1200 cases of champagne, the liquor, it is believed, having been a part of a huge supply that was intended for distribution in the larger cities, probably New York and that vicinity. This afternoon the crew of the seized craft were arraigned before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson at the customs house and held in bonds of $500 each. The Pocomoke and her cargo are being held at the state pier under guard.

The Pocomoke was sighted early this morning by the crew of the Cassin, proceeding from the point where the big fleet of rum-supply ships are at anchor. Putting chase to the Pocomoke, which was headed easterly the Cassin finally overtook the rum-runner When members of the crew of the destroyer boarded the Pocomoke the nature of the cargo was quickly revealed. The boat was ordered headed for this port and reached here early this forenoon, being docked and guards placed aboard the runner.

REMINISCENCES OF CHINA AT MISSIONS MEETING

The regular meeting of the Missions Department of the Women's Federation of Park Congregational church was held at the Osgood Memorial on Friday afternoon at three o'clock, with the president, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn presiding. After the devotional exercises, which were lead by Mrs. W. T. Brown, the report of the previous meeting was given by the secretary, Mrs. J. S. Blackmar. Miss Adelaid Butts read a letter from Mrs. Davies, of Westminster, in appreciation of the gifts of money and clothing so promptly sent after the fire just before Thanksgiving which destroyed the parsonage. The pastor and his wife lost everything.

Mrs. Brownell Gage followed with reminiscences of China where she and her husband were engaged in the educational work carried on by Yale at Changsha for many years. She spoke of the turmoil nearly always going on in China both politically and socially. The country is in a transition state and out of the struggle, though it will take many years, a better way of living, a more stable government for that great country may be found. It is at present a country of strange contrasts, the old not wholly laid aside and the new adopted only in part and as they understand it. One may see on the streets of Peking the modern auto and the jinrisha, the camels from the country laden with coal, overhead, an airplane. After the revolution of 1911 everything was changed, cues were cut off, the dress was made modern. The older persons keep their old ways and dress, but the younger are anxious to be as modern as possible. The "flapper" is much in evidence with bobbed hair but cut much as a man's hair would be. The young women do not bind their feet, they walk in the street, a thing unheard of a few years ago. In the social revolution which is going on there is a great problem. The new manufactories which have been introduced and in which young women work are not adapted to them.

The hope for China lies in the young men who have been educated, a group of whom are in the government positions. They are unusually high minded, unselfish and are working for what will be best for their country.

Mrs. Gage spoke in a wholly informal and entertaining manner from her own knowledge of the country so strange to most of us.

After the singing of a hymn and a short prayer the meeting closed with the serving of tea.

CONNECTICUT FOURTH IN CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES

Complete reports of the national Christmas seal sale which was held last December, received at the office of the state tuberculosis commission, which conducts the campaign in Connecticut, disclosed that this state stood fourth in per capita sales with a record of 6.4. Only New York with a per capita of [illegible] New Hampshire with a record of 6.9, and New Jersey, which was [illegible] with Connecticut with an average of 6.5, stood higher. No other state attained an average of more than 5 seals per capita. The total amount raised by last year's sale was $4,257,316.72. Connecticut raised $95,841.81, the largest amount of its history.

At the state capitol members of the state tuberculosis commission expressed the hope that this year's seal sale would witness a slight increase over even that of last year, because of plans for expanding the anti-tuberculosis work in a number of cities and towns. The commission hopes to secure fully $100,000 during the campaign which will end Christmas Eve. Preliminary reports on the 1924 seal sale, which began November 26, indicate that last year's total is likely to be equalled, if not slightly increased.

Aged Labor Leader Died Early Saturday Morning in San Antonio—Crowds Pay Tribute as the Funeral Train Proceeds Eastward—Body Will Lie in State in Washington and New York—Funeral Services Are to Be Held Thursday at 9 A. M. at Rooms of the Elks Lodge in New York—Burial Will Be in Tarrytown, N. Y.

Gompers Funeral Train, en route to Washington, D. C., Muskogee, Okla., Dec. 14—(By the A. P.)—The funeral train bearing the remains of Samuel Gompers eastward today to his last resting place was met at every stop by crowds, music and floral offerings, the tribute of laboring people every where whose leader he had been.

"Auld Lang Syne" was the favorite number of the bands with crowds who met the train. The people of San Antonio, where the chieftain died Saturday, bade farewell to him with "Nearer My God to Thee."

As the funeral train progressed, the car in which the labor president lay in his bronze casket became massed with flowers.

Workmen in overalls, women in Sunday attire and children fresh from Sunday school, rubbed elbows as they paused to gaze at the still face when the casket was opened at the few stops made by the train.

As the Missouri, Kansas and Texas train sped northward early today, after a brief halt at Austin, the Texas cap-

SAMUEL GOMPERS

A small electric light at the side of the casket gave a soft glow to the car, showing the flag-draped coffin and the great floral designs. Otherwise the coach—the private car of vice president William Whitenton of the railroad, was in darkness.

During the day members of the official party were able to relax and gain some rest from the fatigue they experienced during Mr. Gompers' last hours. Miss Mathilda Muys of New York, Mr. Gompers' nurse, told for the first time the story of her patient's passing as she saw it.

"I had been resting for a short time when the extra nurse called and said Mr. Gompers was having trouble with his breathing." She said "I went to him, he held up his hands and said 'Oh, help me.' The doctor and his secretary were summoned and they called members of executive council and others.

It was then close to 3 a. m. Mr. Duncan came in and took Mr. Gompers' hand and gave him the Masonic grip. He said Mr. Gompers returned it. Other friends came, but there was not much said. In a short time his breathing grew gradually weaker and soon he went off to sleep, calmly and peacefully. His was a peaceful and dignified ending."

Labor Union members passed through the funeral car at Ft. Worth where it was switched to another train. The men passed the casket in silence and there was no band. At Denton, Texas, where a stop was made that had not been scheduled, several dozen persons filed through the car.

The lid of the casket was raised for the first time at Denison, Texas nearly two thousand persons paid their final tribute to the dead labor chief and brought many floral designs to add to the mountain pile of flowers in the car.

At the outskirts of Denison, an old man, leaning on a crutch, doffed his hat and stood at attention as the car passed.

LAST WORDS "GOD BLESS OUR AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS"

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 14—The body of Samuel Gompers, veteran president of the American Federation of Labor, was on its way east tonight, for Washington and New York, where it will be buried on Thursday in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, Tarrytown, N. Y.

Mr. Gompers died yesterday morning after arriving here yesterday from Mexico City at 4:10 o'clock, eleven hours after he was stricken in his last illness. He would have been seventy-five years old next month.

His last words were "God bless our American institutions! May they grow better day by day."

The coffin lies in state in an observation car, and the members fo his party—labor officials who had accompanied him to the El Paso convention of the Federation and then to Mexico City—are in a Pullman car, both cars being attached to the regular Missouri, Kansas & &Texas train due to leave at 11 o'clock.

The two funeral cars will make sixteen stops between here and Washington, traveling by way fo Fort Worth and St. Louis, and labor along the route will pay its homage to the dead rival of the body in Washington on Tuesday afternoon, where it will lie in state.

It will then be taken to New York, where it will lie in state Wednesday and probably Wednesday night.

The plans for the departure here provided for the carrying of the casket on a gun caisson to the station, escorted by soldiers, police and firemen.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD AT ELKS' ROOMS, N. Y.

New York, Dec. 14.—Funeral services for Samuel Gompers, aged president of the American Federation of Labor, who died in San Antonio, Tex., on Saturday, will be held at the rooms of the Elks lodge on West 43rd street here, Thursday at 9 a. m., it was announced today by Hugh Frayne who has charge of funeral arrangements. BODY STARTS ON ITS LONG JOURNEY HOME

San Antonio, Tex., De. 14 (By The A. P.)—San Antonio has seen her great processions for the living and she has buried her illustrious dead, but tonight, in a manner entirely different, she prepared to give back to the nation a son of toil whom death had loaned her for a fleeting moment.

Strange to the rugged Sam Gompers, could he have looked upon them, would have been the scenes of his funeral cortege as his mortal body was started on its long journey home.

With the pomp of a general, but also with the sentiments of the humble, labor's late chieftain was to be borne toward the east. His last ride in this city of his death was to be on an artillery caisson, and the last escort for the man who had fought all his life, but always in civilian clothes, was to be composed of men in military uniform.

The government, whose hands he had upheld in peace and in war, stepped in to claim the body for the whole American people, and through the United States army the American people officially took back their dead. Soldiers from Fort Sam Houston were assigned to the escort. Not only labor possessed him, they said, but the country also. Themusic of a military band and the rumble of a military carriage were to be his requiem.

Sleeping in his great bronze coffin in a flag-draped house of death, the late president of the American Federation of Labor drew to himself throughout the day the men of labor and the men of capital, those who work in field and factory, those who knew him as only a name and those

DEDICATION OF MONUMENT TO THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Santiago, Cuba, Dec. 14.—(By the A. P.)—President Zayas, speaking at the dedication today of the memorial erected in honor of Theodore Roosevelt, said:

"The love and devotion of the Cuban people for Theodore Roosevelt will live in their hearts longer than the bronze bust and the granite base unveiled in his honor here today can possibly last."

Major General James C. Harbord, U. S. A., retired, who represented President Coolidge, pictured Roosevelt as "for years beloved in a free Cuba, and one who held that the United States was responsible for permitting Spanish oppression to continue so long at the doors of free America."

The monument is erected to Roosevelt as colonel of the First United States Volunteer Cavalry, otherwise known as the Rough Riders, in the Spanish American war. It stands on a site provided by Santiago, leading to San Juan hill, where the most noted exploits of the Rough Riders were enacted.

The Rotary club of Santiago, the Rough Riders' association and the Roosevelt Memorial association are its sponsors.

The American ambassador, Enoch H. Crowder, and Major W. H. Shutan, military attache, many officials of the Cuban government, army officers and officers from the cruiser Galveston, which had been ordered to Santiago for the occasion, attended the ceremonies, as well as representatives of various associations, including the American Legion. A detachment of Cuban cavalry acted as guard of honor.

After the unveiling of the memorial a visit was paid to Sun Juan hill, here stands the tree under which peace was signed. An elaborate reception was given tonight by Governor Barcelo, on Orients Providence.

CONDITION OF PREMIER HERRIOT OF FRANCE

Paris, Dec. 14.—(By The A. P.)—The shadow of a owing ministerial crisis has been thrown across the political patrway by Premier Herriot's illness. Although the carefully worded bulletin regarding the premier's condition today says the physicians expect the premier to be up in ten days, it refrains from suggesting that he probably will be able to resume work then. His absence for a period of convalescence, it is generally admitted, is impossible owing to the many difficult problems now before the government.

How severe the pain has been during Herriot's illness is indicated in today's statement, which says that "for the first time in five days the premier has been able to sleep some hours."

The severe pain and the stiffness of the muscles of the calf of one of his legs caused the physicians to call in a surgeon, Professor Lecene. The surgeon decided that no operation was advisable.

The bulletin merely says the local inflammatory state of the leg remains unchanged and that it is of a medical character. The bulletin adds that the temperature today was slightly above 99.

The bulletin does not describe the nature of the malady from which the premier is suffering. The only medical term used is that the peri-venous affection is developing normally and within a limited space. It is thought, however, that overwork by the premier may have caused a phlebitis (inflamation of the veins) with a possible involvement of the bone.

The names of former Premiers Painleve and Briand are being mentioned as possible successors of M. Herriot in case the physicians of the premier insist that he take a long rest, and the question is being asked how long either Painleve or Briand would be able to keep the deverse elements forming the government majority together.

Lost Three Days in Lake Erie Storm

Dunkirk, N. Y., Dec. 14—Captain H. W. Hornke of Cleveland and his crew of six Dunkirk fishermen were safe here today after having been lost aboard the fish tug eHlene, with no fuel and few provisions, for nearly three days in a Lake Erie storm.

The Helene was beached at Angola, between here and Buffalo, early today, after William Urban, member of the crew leaped overboard to carry a line through the rough shoal water. When Captain Hornke and his men reached shore their clothes were stiff with ice. The Helene was ice laden from stem to stern, and it was necessary to chop a hole in the cabin for the men to get out.

A shore patrol beached the tug. Captain Hornke and the crew were brought to Dunkirk in a nearly exhausted condition. All were in need of food and warmth, but were uninjured. In addition to the captain, the members of the crew were Barward and John Clombone, William and Alexander Urban, Frank Helwig and Walter Belka.

The men told a stirring story of their adventures after the Helene's fuel tanks were found empty Tuesday night. The tug had left the harbor here Thursday morning to lift nets in the fishing grounds 25 miles off shore.

Thick weather had prevailed all day, and when Captain Hornke found his boat helpless, he anchored ten miles off shore and attempted to attract the attention of passing craft.

Flares were burned continuously and rockets were fired at intervals, the men said, but due to the low visibility the little craft escaped the notice of several freighters which loomed into view and passed.

Friday night the Freighter F. V. Hart, Buffalo to Lorain, Ohio, passed within a few feet of the Helene. A message in an empty tomato can was thrown to the deck of the Hart, telling of the Helene's plight. When the Hart reached Lorain her captain telegraphed C. J. Alexander, owner of the Alexander Fish Company of this city, for whom Captain Hornke was fishing, giving the approximate location of the tug. Tugs of the fishing fleet which set out immediately with reserve supplies of fuel were driven back by the storm.

About midnight Saturday the Helene started to drag her anchor and at 2 a. m. shore was sighted at Angola.

BUT SLIGHT CHANGE IN INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS

Boston, Dec. 14.—The northern tier of the New England states showed little change in industrial conditions last month, but Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut each showed some improvement, it was said in the monthly survey of the United States employment service of the department of labor made public today.

In each instance there were mixed variations in conditions, part time schedules in cotton mills and a slackening of work in shoe plants, with active woolen operations, building construction on a continued large scale, seasonal activity in the jewelry trades, and a shortage of farm labor in some cases.

Massachusetts: Industrial employment conditions showed some improvement during November over the previous month. The textile mills have increased operating time and added to their forces in certain sections of the state. A slights lackening in the shoe industry was noted this month. Jewelry and granite industry operating on normal basis. Metal plants have increased their working forces and this class of labor is well employed. Building activities and highway construction continue to give employment to a large number of craftsmen. Farm labor supply about equal to the demand.

Rhode Island: Industrial employment conditions have shown a slight improvement during the month of November. Practically all industries are operating full time, with some on an overtime basis which will continue through the holiday season. Building construction is active throughout the state, providing employment for many tradesmen. The supply of farm labor equals the demand.

Connecticut: Industrial employment conditions have shown a slight improvement during the month. All plants are operating and in many cases the textile and silk industries are working full time schedules. The silverware industry, in certain sections, is working overtime and will continue on this basis until after the holiday season. TWO DEATHS IN FIRE IN RESIDENCE IN OLEAN, N. Y.

Olean, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Two are dead and three are believed dying as the result of a fire which destroyed the home of William Baker just outside the Olean city limits today.

The dead are:

Geraldine Baker, 2 1-2 years old, perished in the flames.

Nine Baker, the mother, burns and shock.

Verne Baker, 5 years old, internal bfiurns.

The fire was discovered by the family early this morning after it had spread to nearly all parts of the house. All were on the second floor. The house was burned to the ground.

Norman Willover, 14 years old, Mrs. Baker's brother, was the first to get out. He slid down a post of the porch.

Mrs. Baker, with the baby in her arms and leading Geraldine by the hand, went to a rear window. She threw the 11 months old child out the window into the arms of her brother, but it already had received burns from which it died.

When Mrs. Baker turned from the window Geraldine had disanpeared. A few minutes later her mother heard her screaming from another setion of the upper floor, but the flames drove rescuers back. Her body was found in the debris after the fire had burned itself out.

William Baker, the father, received a fractured skull when he leaped from the roof of the rear porch to the ground. He also was severely burned.

Verne, the five year old boy, inhaled flames and was also burned externally. Mrs. Baker escaped with minor burns, but was prostrated by shock.

Physicians tonight held out no hope for the father and Verne, and feared that the shock would prove fatal to Mrs. Baker.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

HUNTING FOR NEGRO WHO SHOT AN OFFICER

Princess Ann, Md., Dec. 14.—Thirty hours of constant searching with the aid of bloodhounds, and vigilant watching by hundreds of armed county farmers and residents of this town had failed late today to locate Harry Merrill, the young negro who yesterday fatally shot and officer and critically wounded another while resisting arrest near his home at the edge of a swamp four miles east of here.

The trail of the fugitive, picked up at a shack two miles fro mhis home, was followed by the bloodhounds through the swamp fr. about four miles to a road, and there lost early today. Fresh motor car tracks led to the belief that he boarded an automobile at that point.

SYRACUSE POLICEMEN HAD A NARROW ESCAPE DURING RAID

With Federal Prohibition Agent, Five Officers Were Trapped by Fire in a Garage—Fire Started When the Raiders Poured Out Liquor—A Stream of Liquor Burst Into Flames From Some Unknown Cause.

Syracuse, Dec. 14.—Marc Buckland, federal prohibition agent, and five Syracuse police officers narrowly escaped death early today when trapped by a fire during a raid on a garage in which contraband liquors valued at $25,000 were seized.

The fire started when the raiders poured out the liquor on the second floor. A stream of liquid gushing down the stairway, suddenly burst into flames from some unexplained cause.

In the garage the officials found two 200-gallon stills and 500 five-gallon tins, the latter piled up against the walls. Pressed for storage space, for such a large quantity of liquor, the officers started to destroy part of it before taking the rest to headquarters for evidence.

Two men arrested at the garage were held by the police for examination. The raid was the biggest ever conducted in Syracuse.

Residences adjoining the garage were menaced by the flames and the occupants were forced to leave, scantilyclothed. The damage to the building in which the garage was located was estimated at $10,000.

VIEWS ON CUTTING OF CHRISTMAS TREES

Washington, Dec. 14.—To cut, or not to cut the Christmas trees, may become another famous question. Ever since a bill was introduced proposing to prohibit cutting Christmas trees and the American Tree association declared in favor of cutting them, in a proper manner calculated to aid reforestation, the question has grown toward a controversy.

On the one hand are the forestry experts who maintain that cutting out of small Christmas trees only aids larger growth and on the other are the tree enthusiasts who maintain that children should be started on their way to a respect for forest life by being taught to do without the Christmas tree.

Women's clubs and others taking the latter view have appealed to Charles Lathrop Pack, of the American Tree association, to repudiate the recent expressions in favor of the tree cutting by Professor Ralph S. Hosmer of the Cornell Forestry school.

"Conservation means proper use," Mr. Pack has told the objectors. "What better use of a small tree than to give joy to children. Most Christmas trees are cut from waste and non-agricultural land and are but an infinitesal part of the annual cut from our forests. Instead of being exercised about the cutting of Christmas trees, people should be much more concerned about growing national, state and town forests and proper fire protection for them. If, under proper laws and practice, we were growing a tree crop sufficient for our needs, there would be no Christmas tree question."

DEATH OF FORMER GOV. GLYNN OF NEW YORK

Mr. Glynn returned yesterday from a hospital in the suburbs of Boston where he had been under treatment during the past two months from spinal trouble of long standing. Members of his family said he complained last night fo not feeling well, but attributed it to the trip.

Mr. Glynn retired late, and rose about noon today. He told members of the family again that he did not feel well, but he decided to walk about his room. It was said he had walked only a few steps when he collapsed and fell. Mr. Glynn died before his physician arrived.

Coroner James J. Skelly pronounced death due to heart trouble, probably an outcome of the spinal disease and nervous ailments.

News of his death came as a shock to the city. Employes of the Times Union, of which Mr. Glynn for years was editor, were expecting him to return to his desk tomorrow, improved by treatments in the Boston hospital.

Although a member of the bar he never practiced law to any extent entering newspaper work at an early age and becoming managing editor of the Albany Times-Union in 1895. In 1924 he sold the paper to William Randolph Hurst, but continued to direct it as editor.

Mr. Glynn married Mary C. E. Magrane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Magrane of Lynn, Mass., in 1901.

$500,000 FIRE LOSS IN PLANT OF NEW YORK CANNERS

Fulton, N. Y., Dec. 14—Fire early today destroyed the huge plants of the New York Canners, Inc., and caused a loss estimated at $500,000. Only the warehouse escaped the flames. Plant officials after an investigation, failed to discover the cause to the fire.

The flames broke out in the canning plant when a fifty mile gale was raging. Every piece of fire fighting apparatus in the city was summoned but the high wind was too much for the firemen who fought three hours to check the blaze and finally succeeded in saving the warehouse with its valuable contents.

Two huge buildings, with costly machinery, tonight were a smouldering mass of ruins.

36 MEN WERE ARRESTED IN GAMING RAIDS IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Dec. 14.—Sergeant Richard Kerwin and a squad, executing one of the largest gaming raids in years early this morning, arrested 30 men grouped about a table on the second floor of a garage at 522 Whalley avenue. The men made an attempt to escape when the police entered but officers were guarding every door and window and not a man escaped.

Earlier in the night, a squad of police raided a house in Lyon street and arrested six men playing cars. Chas. Marks, Oak street, was arrested on a warrant charging him with having lottery tickets in his possession.

JOHN E. JOYCE RESIGNS AS ASSISTANT U. S. ATTORNEY

MEMORIAL SERVICES TODAY FOR WOODROW WILSON

Washington, Dec. 14.—Prominent personages of at least four administrations will participate in the memorial exercises which will be held at noon tomorrow in the chamber of the house of representatives of Woodrow Wilson.

Members of the Wilson cabinet, his widow, one of his daughters and close friends, will join with President Coolidge and his official family, supreme court justices, ambassadors and ministers, senators, representatives, governors of states, army and naval officers and invited guests to do reverence to the memory of the war president.

Dr. Edwin Anderson Alderman president of the University of Virginia, which Mr. Wilson attended as a law student, will deliver the eulogy. The Reverend J. J. Muir, chaplain of the senate, will pronounce the benediction, with the house chaplain the Rev. James Shera Montgomery offering the opening prayer.

The memorial services will be broadcast radio through a chain of stations—WRC, Washington; WGY, Schenectady; WJZ and WEAF, New York, and others to be determined upon in last minute arrangements.

As an additional mark of respect congressional leaders are planning to adjourn the senate and house after the exercises. The great white capitol will close it doors in the morning, to all except members and attaches, at half mast ten the last door leading to the rotunda will be opened to those holding tickets of admission, for which there has been great demand.

The Marine band will furnish the music.

The speaker's gavel will call the house to order shortly before the customary gathering at midday and the members of the senate, after assembling for prayer, will proceed to the house. The president pro tempore of the senate will occupy the speaker's chair.

Prominent among the assemblage will be Chief Justice Taft, the only living former president of the United States, whom Mr. Wilson succeeded as chief executive. A unique procedure in house annals will be followed by seating special guests on the floor of the chamber.

Mrs. Wilson will occupy a selected space, as will the late president's daughter, Miss Margaret Wilson. His other two daughters Mrs. William G. McAdoo and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, who is abroad, will be unable to attend. His brother, John Wilson, of Baltimore, will be present with his wife.

Paris, Dec. 14 (By the A. P.)—The red flag of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, as Russia is now officially named, was ceremoniously hoisted from the Russian embassy this morning. Lenoid Krassin, the ambassador, issued a note this evening saying that the ceremony took place in the presence of the embassy staff and "every citizen of the union who is in Paris."

The event caused some whistling which is equivalent in France to hissing, by inhabitants of neighboring houses, and a small crowd was attracted by the sight of four communists on the roof of the embassy vigorously waving red flags. The police soon chased this crowd away.

In the police court Saturday morning Henry Barrows of South Coventry, charged with breach of the peace and wilful destruction of private property on Saturday, December 6, pleaded not guilty. The complainants were Julia and Ella Jacobs, sisters, who reside at No. 54 Winter street. They claimed that on the night in question they were returning from the Methodist Church Bazaar at the state armory, when they were accosted by Barrows near Watson street. He gave Ella aJcobs a calldown for not keeping a "date" with him earlier in the evening. The Jacobs sisters said that Barrows followed them to their home and Ella had a talk with him in front of the house, after which they went inside. Barrows then went around to the yard in the rear of the house and secured a ladder which he placed against one of the bedroom windows. Shortly after he made his way to where a barrel of cider was kept, knocked in the bung and tipped the barrel over, the contents running out on the ground. The cider in question belonged to a boarder at the Jacobs house, John Salias.

In the opinion of the court officials, Barrows was afflicted with what is known as a "hang-over". When allowed to tell his side of the story, he launched into a recital of his good qualities, saying that he always told the truth and nothing but the truth. He said that he had a date with Ella Jacobs and when he came to the house she had gone. Barrows did not deny that he met the Jacobs sisters late that night, but said that the story that he followed them or knocked in the head of the cider barrel was a lie. Barrows said that he had three barrels of cider in his own home and did not need anybody else's supply. He started in to tell of alleged happenings at the Jacobs home, but was shut off by the court.

Barrows was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $33.35. He took an appeal, but later in the day he decided to pay the assesement.

Mrs. Annie Clifford was charged with assault on Mrs. Louise Eitel on the morning of December 11 in the yard of the defendant's home. The women are neighbors residing on Babcock Hill, South Coventry. Mrs. Clifford pleaded not guilty. Mrs. Eitel told the court that on the day in question, Mrs. Clifford came into her yard and upon being ordered out, struck complainant on the side of the face with her fist and then walked away. Mrs. Clifford's father, she said, came into the yard from the roadway and brandished a stick close to her face.

Mrs. Clifford denied that she had made any assault and declared in fact, that the assault was made on her by Mrs. Eitel, who struck her several times with a birch stick. Mrs. Clifford said that she had come over to the Eitel yard to drive her turkeys home and had her child in her arms. She had to put away the child to avoid having it struck by Mrs. Eitel. Mrs. Clifford admitted that she might have pushed Mrs. Eitel away from her, but she was sure she did not strike her hard enough to injure her. She was almost stunned when she got it back. Mrs. Clifford said that the turkeys owned by her and Mrs. Eitel were of the same color, but she could tell them.

The court ruled that there was no evidence to show that there had been an assault on the part of the defendant but that she was technically at fault in not going out of the yard when ordered to do so by Mrs. Eitel. If she had done so there would have been no trouble. The case was then settled by Judge Frank H. Foss, who warned the women to cease hostilities.

The investigating committee for the community Christmas celebration held a meeting Friday afternoon at the Visiting Nurse association headquarters. Mrs. John Reilly, chairman presided. All but three members of the committee were in attendance. Plans were discussed for carrying on the work and cards were distributed among the committee members and when filled out they will be presented at a future meeting of the committee.

The committee is asking persons knowing of any family in need to telephone the facts to the Visiting Nurse headquarters, the Y. M. C. A. or the Welfare Bureau. It is hoped to reach the needy cases through the schools, churches and roganizations in the community. A card system is being used to avoid any duplications.

It has been learned that the death of Mrs. Margaret Masten Simonds, which occurred in New York Dec. 8, was caused by asphyxiation, her lifeless body having been found in her apartment in that city on the day in question. It was also stated in the communication that she wished to be buried by the side of her husband in the Burleyville cemetery in the town of Mansfield. He committed suicide in a similar manner a few years ago. Mrs. Simonds was well known in this city, where she resided up to a few years ago. While here she was for some time in the employ of John C. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

More court cases, developing out of the fact that several hundred residents of Killingly owe overdue personal taxes, were heard before Judge Woodward in the town court Saturday. Four of those who were brought in paid their taxes and the court costs, amounting to $9.94. Two of the cases were nolled and two other cases were adjourned until such times as those who figure in them can garner the money with which to settle, as they must do.

In one case a delinquent taxpayer submitted that he could not pay, as he was without funds. It so happens, however, that he is the owner of an automobile. The court had proceeded to the work of making a mittimus to commit him to jail, when he pleaded for an opportunity to go to Dayville and seek among his friends for a loan of the amount due the court. This privilege was accorded him.

At Saturday's session of the court Stanislaw Zalabowski, resident in a rural section of the town, was fined $5 and costs, a total of $17.34, for harboring an unlicensed female dog. He paid.

More tax cases are due to be heard this week. These cases will come in from time to time as the complaints are served and the court finds opportunity to hear them. The prosecutions will continue until the personal tax cases have been considered. It is anticipated that some summonses to court may arise out of errors in compiling tax lists or from other such causes, but the facts in these cases cannot be determined until the court has an opportunity to pass upon them.

There will be a session of the town court today (Monday) to hear the charges against Mike Bishop of Mechanic street, arrested Sunday, December 7, at a Mechanic street place and now facing allegations of seven violations of the liquor laws, including certain sales. Bishop during the past week has been held at the county jail in Brooklyn in default of bonds of $2,000

The seven hundred children that make up the membership of St. James' school attended a funeral mass for Patricia Cloutier, 6 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cloutier, Main street, at St. James' church at 10.30 Saturday morning. Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., the pastor, was celebrant of the mass. The bearers were Robert Nash, Clifford Withey, Edward Nash, Roger Nash. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. Martin T. Burns was the funeral director. The child died Thursday, after a few days' illness with pneumonia.

First and last, that line of shade trees along the south side of Davis park is getting considerable of a battering and standing up pretty well under it. Trucks and pleasure cars continue at quite regular intervals, to smash into them and tear off the bark and gouge chunks out of the trees, not with any advantage to the motor cars, however. Eventually a few of them may have been butted enough to come down. Anyway, the attrition movement is under way. The trees happen to be in the way. The constitutTe a menace to traffic movin over the most used highway into Danielson. This is generally conceded. For two or three years there has been a movement to have them removed. A special town meeting voted well over a year ago, in favor of heir removal. But they still stand. Sentiment appears to stand in the way. The trees have been the subject of much discussion between the selectmen of Killingly and he state highway commissioner. Publicity has been given the correspondence issuing on the subject between the town and state officials concerned. But the trees still stand.

Late Saturday night, the driver of a big motor truck decided, apparently, that he would call it a day and parked and ark-like vehicle in the narrow way, just below Broad street, evidently to remain for the night. This helped a lot, for a pleasure car could barely squeeze through between the truck and trees on the other side. Only such a fatal accident as is sure to come in this lane that is part of a state trunk line will result in the removal of the dangerous row of trees, it would now appear. Who is to pay that serious penalty? It is something for the community to think about.

A nearly new Cadillac was stolen during the early hours of Saturday morning from the garage of Walter E. Musgrave, occupying the former residence of Judge M. A. Shumway, on North Main street. The theft of the car was not discovered until well into the morning, when the loss was reported to the state police. The car thieves managed to get the doors of the garage open and to take the car away notwithstanding the fact that the ignition lock on the machine would seem to be protection against such a possibility.

The garage is located in the rear of the dwelling and well over a hundred feet from the street. To get the machine out the thieves had to either run it or push it along the north side of the house and out into Main street. No member of the household heard any disturbance during the night, indicative of the quitness with which the thieves worked.

Coming so soon after the theft of the Dr. S. B. Overlock car in Putnam a few days ago, the theft of the Musgrave machine made many automobile owners here uneasy. It appears that locked garages and cars are no barriers to automobile thieves who decide that they want a particular car. There are ways and means, however, of leaving a car at night so that a thief cannot get away with it unless it be towed, and that generally is too risky an operation for the quick operating, fast getaway auto thieves. The Musgrave car, it is understood, was insured against theft. No trace of the car had been reported up to Sunday afternoon.

The Service Battery basketball team won another victory Saturday evening at the state armory, defeating the Crescent A. C. team of Providence 30 to 22. During the first half the game was not particularly fast, but it developed more speed during the second half. Captain Stanley Keech, who has been recovering from a broken finger, was in the game for the Service Battery and strengthened the organization materially. Poirier and Eaton, the guards, also played very well. Jones, scoring five baskets, was the outstanding star of the visiting team. The coming week end the battery team will play the American Legion team, of Willimantic.

If Danielson people, in a great many instances, were allowed to vote on the subject the postal force would have an increase in pay for a Christmas gift—a hard-earned gift, it may be mentioned.

In a number of churches in Danielson and vicinity Sunday next will be observed as Christmas Sunday and there will be special musical programmes in connection with the impressive services.

Cold that was made particularly penetrating by the high wind, kept Danielson's streets practically deserted during Sunday.

An effort is being made to impress every voter in town with the fact that tomorrow (Tuesday) is election day and that going to the polls is an obligation of American citizenship.

Henry P. Dubuc, district deputy of the Knights of Columbus in this district, and his suite were at New Britain Sunday, to confer the third degree on a class of 50 candidates of Daly council. Mr. Dubuc was assisted in giving the degree by District Deputy McKeon of New Britain.

There is a great deal of skepticism among employes of the New Haven road over the gasoline-driven motor truck, now making one round trip a day between Putnam and Norwich, in place of the regular train, as to its ability to meet winter conditions. The car in use is the same one that was tested out four weeks ago and was withdrawn because it was said to be too small to handle the traffic. It has a carrying capacity of forty-five passengers and a compartment for baggage. An official announcement was made at the time that larger trucks carrying 65 passengers would be running within a few days. The delivery of these has evidently been delayed.

This truck is timed on the same schedule as the trains drawn by steam locomotives and so far there has been no difficulty in adhering to the schedule. It is planned to have a second truck, similar to this one, to operate between Putnam and Worcester. It is to leave Worcester at 12.30 a. m., and arrive in Putnam at 1.30. On its return trip it will leave Putnam at 1.50 a. m. and arrive at Worcester at 2.50.

The other truck is to leave New London at 8.30 a. m. and reach Putnam at 9.55, starting on its return trip at 1.44. In addition to the round trip between Putnam and New London, the same truck is to make two daily round trips between Norwich and New London.

Experienced railway men who know more or less about the operation of these trucks say that they have yet to prove themselves practical during the rigors of a New England winter, which stalls powerful steam locomotives and sends them to the repair shops at frequent intervals. Whether this criticism is well grounded or not remains to be seen. The larger trucks will, of course, have large motors, and on the Worcester-New London branch, which is free of heavy grades, they may operate successfully.

MYSTIC

In connection with the Community Christmas tree this year in Mystic as is the custom in many towns and cities carol singing and the "Learn a Carol a Day" campaign will be the special feature. The papers are to be asked to print each day beginning with December 18th's issue the two verses of the carol for the day and the history or literature telling of the origin, use, and the spirit of the special song. It has been sugested that the children clip these carols and keep a scrap book, that teachers and parents held the children keep these outline historys of the six Christmas songs for future use. The notes have been prepared for Community Service by Professor Peter W. Dykema, of the University of Wisconsin who has been one of the instigators of the Music Memory Contests and of Music Week, which so many of the cities and towns have made an annual educational feature this year. Prof. Dykma says "Christmas carols is a term used to describe a large variety of songs which are used during the Christmas season. They are of two main types—the religious and the carnival; one celebrating the birth of Jesus; the other exalting mirth and feasting. Only lately has much attention been given to this material by serious musicians. Such material as was available has been handed on by tradition. Many of the older ones of the eighteenth century and prior have undoubtedly been lost and many that we now hear have been modernized. Davis Gilbert seems to have been the first person who attempted to fix these vanishing memories of the past."

The Community Christmas tree for Mystic is to be given by one of the citizens and the work and decorations done by others. The spirit of good fellowship and of neighborliness has already started. The carol singers-to-be are to have two rehearsals, the first Dec. 18th and the second to be arranged by them. The carol singing, starting at the Community Christmas tree and then organized into definite groups to go over the town will be an added way of bringing song and cheer to many who are shut-in either from infirmity, or age, or circumstances. Church music and church hymns which these Christmas carols exemplify the best communicate the secredness of the Christmas holidays to many who will not otherwise be in touch with the best opportunity of the seasons.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

United States Senator.
HIRAM BINGHAM
of New Haven.

MAKE CERTAIN BINGHAM'S ELECTION.

Faced with the duty of selecting a successor to the late Frank B. Brandegee the voters should recognize the responsibility that rests upon them individually to get to the polls Tuesday and cast their ballots for the man whose stand in behalf of government is unquestioned, whose attitude to country when it was involved in war was patriotic to the last degree, whose support of President Coolidge will be positive and constant, whose backing of a protective tariff on which industries of this state depend so much will permit of no quibbling, whose residence in and knowledge of state conditions are long standing and thorough. Such a man is Hiram Bingham.

Six weeks ago Connecticut thoroughly recognized the need of keeping Calvin Coolidge in the white house for the next four years. The voters of this state gave him a rousing plurality, and at the same time they gave an equally handsome endorsement to Colonel Bingham for governor. It was a tribute to qualifications and ability.

Today by voice of the state republican convention Colonel Bingham is the candidate for the vacant seat in the United States senate. The importance of that post requires no elaboration, and there exists the same need on Tuesday of electing Colonel Bingham to that position as there did on November of electing Calvin Coolidge and giving him a solid republican delegation in the lower house of congress from this state. That need is vital. It means not only much to this state but it means much to the nation.

By the result of Tuesday's election there will be determined whether the president gets the Connecticut support he deserves or whether the democratic strength in congress is increased. This talk by Hamilton Holt about the support he is going to give President Coolidge must be discounted heavily as political campaign material for the purpose of getting votes, for it is well known that he utterly failed to give his support to the president when he had that chance six weeks ago. He is seeking election as a democrat and can be expected to act as a democrat, or else he is deliberately planning to double cross his backers.

Mr. Holt talks about being a non-partisan tariff man, when he knows there is no such thing. Connecticut knows the importance of a protective tariff and it knows from experience that the only protective tariff that has ever met requirements has been a republican tariff. We have gotten the benefits of a republican tariff before and we are getting them now. No false step should be made in sending a man to the United States senate who is a free trader.

Much depends upon the new senator from Connecticut as to whether the president is to be given the support in congress that he needs in order to carry out the republican platform. Under such conditions it cannot be surprising that the election on Tuesday is regarded at Washington as "national, and will be judged from a national viewpoint."

The duty of the Connecticut voters is plain. It is in fact two fold. In the first place the voters should insist upon getting to the polls and, secondly, they should so cast their votes as to insure the election of Hiram Bingham by a large plurality.

HIGHWAY COASTING.

Every city is facing the problem of surrounding street coasting with such restrictions as will insure safety, or at least a greater degree of safety than exists at the present time where there is little or no opposition to sliding on and across much traveled streets.

Memory doesn't have to go back many years to appreciate that conditions have greatly changed with the coming of automobiles. When there were only horse-drawn vehicles and electric cars to contend with the situation was somewhat different and yet even with such it is possible to recall too many distressing accidents and deaths from coasting in the highways.

No one likes to stand in the way of pleasure by the children. Most people know what enjoyment is obtained from sliding down hill. Having shared in it themselves they hesitate to deny it to the children, but in these days it is more than the matter of pleasure that must be taken into consideration. Much traveled streets present a danger which is real and for that real due consideration must be given to the safety of the coasters. An ounce of prevention may stop great distress.

Thus when cities get down to the consideration of the best way to end such hazards as come from coasting in the streets, it is inevitable that they must give attention to the stopping of coasting on the streets where recognized danger exists, the closing of such streets to traffic and permitting the coasters to use it at certain hours exclusively, or the establishment of coasting places elsewhere where the danger from highway traffic will be eliminated.

Where hills intersect main arteries of travel the diversion of traffic is out of the question. Where they do not and other streets can be used without great inconvenience by vehicles special privileges to coasters have been extended. The provision of coasting places in many places on the outskirts where traffic danger can be avoided always makes a strong appeal. The safety of the coasters is something which should not be disregarded.

BINGHAM'S RIGHT TO VOTE.

There are times when the eagerness to bring about the defeat of a political candidate will permit his opponents to go too far. Such instances prove to be boomerangs, and what is intended to embarrass and injure really result in strengthening the support given such a candidate. They arouse resentment because they are not only grossly unjust but because there is no ground for them.

In New Haven the effort of the democratic selectmen and registrars to claim that Hiram Bingham is not a voter there and will not be permitted to vote on Tuesday is bound to have its fireback. This indication of a determination to deprive a man of his franchise after he has been a voter in the state for 18 years and a voter in New Haven for more than a decade shows the desperation to which his political opponents have been driven in an effort to beat him at the polls.

Plenty of authority, including that of the attorney general of the state, unofficially given, has been furnished to show the weakness of any such declaration and plan as that put forth from New Haven. It is certainly getting to a fine state of affairs if a person can be deprived of his franchise in any such manner as that proposed in the Elm City.

Of course the fact is that he cannot be refused his right to vote, and probably none knows it better than those who have been responsible for the claim that Colonel Bingham is not a voter. If there was any basis for the claim that he was not a voter the situation would take on serious aspects. But when he has been voting for years and it is discovered less than a week before a special election when he is candidate for United States senator, after having been elected two years ago as lieutenant governor and six weeks ago as governor without any question being raised as to his eligibility as a voter, the effort must be put in that category of campaign tricks where overdoing directs increased attention to the election and helps rather than hurts the one at whom it is aimed.

Colonel Bingham is a Connecticut voter and a Connecticut republican of long standing. He's the man that Connecticut needs at Washington.

SAMUEL GOMPERS.

More than half of his three score and 14 years were devoted to the guidance of the great labor organization of which he was the head, and it was in the furtherance of such work that he was engaged when death stepped in and ended the career of Samuel Gompers.

Born in England and a cigar maker by trade, he began work as a young man and, even though it has been some years since he has made cigars for his living he has nevertheless been actively engaged in arduous tasks that involved harder and more exacting efforts than as if he has stuck to the cigar maker's bench. Way back in his teens he was interested in behalf of labor. There was a persistency in his efforts and an ability disclosed in his undertakings which gained wide attention. Likewise there was a fairness manifested in his work that impressed.

Labor never had a better advocate and this was no doubt true to a large degree because of the fact that he was disposed to avoid trouble when possible. He believed in strikes to gain what was believed to be right, but his was not inflammatory counsel. He was in fact opposed to disorder, fought it on many occasions and was stronger because of it.

During all the 43 years that he has been at the head of the American Federation of Labor his leadership was conspicuous. He had his troubles in handling the various elements that came under his guidance, but he never hesitated to do what he considered to be the right thing, even though there were exigencies which made compromises necessary.

It was through the influence of his personality, his recognized ability and his conservative judgment that so much stands to his credit as a labor leader. Not only was this true in this country but in others. In poor health for a considerable time it was in the furtherance of the cause of labor that he went to Mexico where overexertion and changed conditions hastened his end. His passing will be the cause of widespread regret throughout this and many other countries.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It's necessary to vote straight on Tuesday but make sure it is for Bingham.

What is your first reaction when you get a package marked "Don't Open Until Christmas"?

Go to the polls and cast your vote on election day so you will have no cause for regrets in the days to come.

Some seem to get more delight from their griddle cakes and syrup when there's snow on the ground and frost on the window pane.

The man on the corner says: Remember you have an appointment and duty Tuesday to go to the polls and vote for Bingham.

Now that government departments have been called on to help in solving the cross word puzzles an immediate increase in department employes will be needed.

When a man seeks election to office as a democrat to support a republican president, he cannot command much democratic support and certainly he makes no appeal to a republican.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Allow at least 20 inches from plate to plate when seating guests.

No household machinery will run without at least an occasional oiling.

When baking potatoes, select those of uniform size so they will all be done at the same time.

Never use silver spoons for scraping a kettle. Have cheap ware that will not be scratched and is used only in the kitchen.

Leave the oven door open after baking in the gas range and let it air until cool and dry, thus avoiding rust.

Keep the can opener and cork screw in a fixed place. Then you will not be tempted to use a knife in place of these articles and receive a nasty cut by doing so.

To remove powder stains from your suit or dress collar, sponge with turpentine.

Most children are fond of raisins, and frequently a few raisins added to a nourishing pudding will encourage the child to eat the dessert when he otherwise would balk.

Dishes in which flour and eggs have been mixed can be quite easily cleaned if allowed to stand in cold water for a few minutes before washing. Hot water hardens the mixture and makes it difficult to remove.

To remove the shell of an egg quickly after it has boiled place the egg in a basin of cold water for two seconds and the shell will come off without difficulty.

To use stale bread cut it in slices, one inch thick, spread lightly with butter, then cut the slices in one-inch squares and brown in a hot oven. These are delicious with soup or they will make a satisfying lunch served with malted milk.

Save the liquid from your mustard pickles and add it to salad dressing in place of fresh vinegar and mustard. Or when making sandwiches mix it with the meat.

The liquor from any canned fruit may be made into a fruit jelly. Served with whipped cream it makes a nice dessert. Chopped nuts stirred into the jelly as it begins to harden are a worth while addition.

Juice is often left over from fresh or canned berries. Add gelatin to it in the proportion of 1 level teaspoon of gelatine to 1 pint of liquid. First soak the gelatin in 1-4 cup of cold juice, then add 1 3-4 cups of hot juice, turn into a wet mold, chill and use as dessert or salad.

TO CLEAN FURNITURE

To clean carved furniture try this: Dip a good-sized round bristle paint brush in kerosene and hang in the open air until it seems perfectly dry.

KEEP MEAT SCRAPS

Never throw away any bones or meat scraps left from a roast. Put in cold water and cook for several hours and you have a good foundation for vegetable soup.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A home-made cough remedy that proves helpful. Two quarts water, break into it two five-cent sticks of pure licorice, one-half ounce Seneca snake root, one-quarter ounce saltpetre. Boil down to 4 quart. Take a wineglass three or four times a day.

Daily scalp massage is necessary to stop falling hair. If the hair is thin, a tonic may be applied twice a week. Here is a good recipe: Cologne water, one ounce; acetic acid, one dram; rose-water, eight ounces; oil of ergot, two ounces; tincture of cantharides, one ounce; bay rum, two ounces; violet or lavender water, ten drops; sulphate of quinine, one dram.

When the feet are very tired and the nerves are frayed massaging the soles with palm of the hand is most soothing, especially when vaseline is used as a lubricating agent. Rub gently towards the heel and toes, working the toes freely and massaging the vaseline between them. Vaseline is a wonderful healer when the skin is tender, and perhaps a little blistered, after much dancing on a hard floor.

A SICK ROOM HINT

Fomentations are rarely as hot as they should be, owing to the difficulty of wringing out the superfluous hot water, which takes time and permits the heat to escape. A good way to get over the problem is to place the cloths on top of a steamer, where they will get hot but not too wet. If too much moisture does accumulate it can easily be wrung out by one nurse, but a cloth plunged in boiling water needs two pairs of hands to manage the task.

THE TOOL CHEST

In every house there should be a small wooden box and a complete set of the simple tools so often required by the housewife. A chisel, hammer, tack lifter, screwdriver case opener, a small box of tacks, screws and nails, a sheet of sand paper, and a tiny plane. All these articles come in very handy during the spring-cleaning and renovating period when a housewife is often called upon to do a simple repair, to smooth a rough board which may injure the carpet, and to pull out a tack which interferes with the rubber when polishing the boards. The box, however, should be opened on the understanding that whatever is taken out must be replaced when the amateur carpenter has finished with it.

CURTAINS

If the curtains skrink it does not mean they are no longer usable. A frill of contrasting or harmonizing material can be put at the top and allowed to hang over a foot or 18 inches. This covers the place where the material is scarred and is often more effective than the plain curtain.

KEEP THEM TOGETHER

When traveling with a baby or small child it is well to put all his or her clothes and accessories in one place in the trunk. Then a wild search for some small article is avoided on reaching one's destination.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Pretty boxes for relishes or sweets are of Chinese lacquer with the little dishes of beautiful lusterware.

Cravats of handblocked silks in striking designs and colorings are shown by leading haberdashers.

The black velvet frock of this season usually has very long, slinky sleeves that reach the knuckles.

The flower on the shoulder is an important note in the new fashions, and it frequently matches the eyes of the wearer.

Printed velvets will be more popular for winter than printed silks. They are less bizarre as to coloring and more rich in effect.

While the round and bateau neckline are still good style, the V or U shaped neckline deeper in the back than in the front, is newer.

Cape-like arrangements of gold lace or very heavy white or cream lace make attractive decorations for the afternoon or evening gown.

Hats of very delicate pastel shades velvet are very lovely with the black satin and velvet costumes that are unrelieved by color.

Among the new materials is an ottoman silk crepe which comes in the most alluring shades of coral, green, turquoise, shell pink and other colors suitable for both day and evening frocks.

Snuff brown, long considered a mediocre shade, is now in the heydey of popularity and fashion. Topcoats of snuff brown trimmed with mink are more than merely fashionable. They are stunning.

Manufacturers of hosiery are making a determined effort to bring the black stocking into fashion again. In many ways the black stocking is the most sensible hosiery which, perhaps, is why women still seem to prefer light beige and skin tints.

Light colored hose still are popular, though darker shades seem more to be preferred. Where oyster gray stockings were worn before, the pearl tint has come in. Fawn has given place to a deeper tan shade, according to modes worn at the teas. Black shoes are being worn with gray hose, but for the most part tan hose were combined with dark brown suede slippers.

SWEATERS

Designed by one of the most famous French couturiers is a new sweater which is of the slip-on type. The body of it is of knitted wool but the full sleeves gathered into a cuff are of white crepe de chine banded with half inch wide grosgrain ribbon. These alternate in color and are arranged at regular spaces between the shoulder and wrist. On the sweater tan and green ribbon is used on another black and Chinese blue, and there are several color schemes equally effective.

WASHING CREPE DE CHINE

Make a lather of soap jelly, or any of the soap flakes on the market, and hot water. If garment is very dirty, add a little borax in the proportion of one tablespoonful of borax to one gallon of water. Dissolve the borax in a little boiling water, and add it to the rest. Add sufficient cold water to make the lather pleasantly warm to the hands, as crepe de chine should never be washed in too hot water. Immerse the garments in this, squeeze and knead well, or use a vacuum washer. Only rub any specially dirty spots, as the fabric is too delicate to stand hard rubbing.

Rinse in three lots of warm water, and add a tablespoonful of vinegar to the last rinsing water if the garments are white add a little blue also. Put them into a towel and squeeze dry or mangle. Roll up and wrap in a dry towel until ready for ironing, but do not leave them too long.

TO MAKE SOAP JELLY

Keep all odds and ends of soap shred them with a knife, just cover with water, and put them in a jar or a saucepan in the oven or on the stove until the soap has melted. Stir occasionally. Use 1-4 pound of soap jelly to each gallon of water.

CLEANING THE BATH

Wet a soft cloth with paraffin; dip it into finely powdered whiting and rub the bath briskly. When clean, take another cloth and clean warm water, and go over the bath again The process may have to be repeated. Finally let the hot water run freely, empty the bath and rinse with plenty of cold water.

GREASE ON LEATHER

Spots of grease on leather upholstery are best treated with spirits of sal ammoniac. Dab the spots carefully, allowing time for the liquid to act. Then wash with clean water. In the case of grease marks that are of long standing, the process may have to be repeated two or three times.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Miss Mabel Green of London, who has been blind from birth, recently took down a 40,000-word book in Braille shorthand and then transcribed it.

In Tripoli when a girl marries her husband brands her, as a sign of ownership, with a cut on the nose or a figure burned into her cheek or forehead.

About one-third of the 75 women who have been ordained as ministers in the Congregational church of the United States are in sole charge of the churches.

The National Association of German Housewives is demanding the enactment of a law making obligatory training in housekeeping for all girls finishing the common schools.

The title of "oldest telephone girl in New England" has been bestowed upon Mrs. Lois Dyer of Ashfield, Mass. Now past 80 years of age, she handles several hundred phone calls each day.

Though Spain has no law giving suffrage to women, a woman has been mayor of Guatre Tondeta. She is Maria Perez Y Mova, a former school teacher, who has the distinction of being the first of her sex to become mayor in that country.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ollefar, 85-year-old recluse of Irvington, N. J., has announced her intention of converting her 100-acre property into a model village for factory workers.

USE POTATOES

Use the little bits of potatoes that are too small for the table by boiling, mashing and adding to the dough for bread or doughnuts. The proportion is two-fifths as much potato as flour.

TO FROST GLASS

Glass may be frosted by the amateur by first cleaning the glass and then applying a thin coat of white lead mixed with turpentine. Then pat lightly all over the glass with a pad of cheese cloth stippling to suit.

RECIPES

French Toast: Cut stale bread into slices. Beat 1 egg, add 1 cup of milk, a pinch of salt and 1-2 tablespoon of sugar. Soak the sliced bread in the liquid, and when softened take up on a griddle-cake turner, drain slightly and fry till a delicate brown in butter, turning once. Serve hot with orange marmalade.

Peppers Stuffed with Rice: Cook 1 cup of rice until tender in 1 quart of well-seasoned white stock. Melt 1-4 cup of butter, add 2 tablespoons of chopped red pepper and 4 tablespoons chopped onions and cook two minutes, then add 4 tablespoons of chopped mushrooms and cook until tender. Add the prepared rice and mix thoroughly. Cut the tops from 8 sweet green peppers, remove the seeds and partitions, cover with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain, fill with the rice, cover with buttered crumbs, arrange in a baking dish and bake 1-2 hour.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Importance of the Election and the Choice of Bingham

Mr. Editor—I can not refrain from saying a few words to the people of Norwich. I have lived in this town for over 56 years and have for a long time taken a great interest in helping to build up and maintain its industries. I wish to call the attention of all our voters to the vital importance of the senatorial election on Tuesday Dec. 16. Both of our important industries are directly affected by the tariffs on the goods they produce. The J. B. Martin Company would never have come to us except as the result of the Dingley tariff of 1897. The Crescent Firearms Company, the pioneer in this country in the manufacture of low price double barrel shot guns in competition with Belgium and Germany, could never have grown to its important position except for the protection of the tariff. Our great cotton mills could not compete with England and other countries, where cheap labor is employed, except for the tariff. Our important woolen and silk mills have been made successful for the same reason. Our great United States Finishing company is also dependent on the success of our cotton mills and its success is also due to the protection of the tariff. I might go further and mention other industries which are made possible and prosperous for the same reason. All these industries employ a large number of people and their good wages are the result of the prosperity of the manufacturers and depend equally on the protection which the tariff affords. We elected President Coolidge by an overwhelming majority and he needs Hiram Bingham to insure a safe working majority in the senate and I appeal to every voter in Norwich, and in every town where your paper circulates, to consider carefully what this election means and to let nothing interfere with voting. I make this appeal not only to republicans but democrats as well as I know it is for your interest to vote for Bingham who will stand for protection and your prosperity.

Very truly yours
HENRY H. GALLUP

Dollar, Lumber-Camp Cook Boy

Having toiled and saved and studied for 15 years, Rober Dollar went into business for himself—within a year his savings and business were gone and he was heavily in debt.

Born in a home over the office of a lumber company, of which his father was manager, in Falkirk, Scotland, he attended school until he was 12, then went to work as lathe tender in a machine shop at 60 cents a week.

Soon afterward his mother died and his father tried to drown his sorrow in drink, which caused the family's emigration to Canada. At 18, Robert obtained a job in a stave factory in New Edinburgh, working 12 hours a day, at $6 a month.

Sent into the rough lumber camps at 17, he became cook's helper 100 miles from civilization. Surprised by the manager while studying, he was made clerk in another camp and had to learn French before he could converse with anyone there.

Placed in charge of men when he was 23, at $26 a month, he made his way battling with the hardships of the woods, to the position of foreman. Having saved from the time he had started to work, he embarked at 28 in a business into which he had put his entire savings of $3000. Prices for logs were soaring and he and his partner saw big profits ahead. The panic that followed Black Friday in New York wiped out their business and each was nearly $3,000 in debt.

Refusing a partnership offer from H. H. Cook, his employer, Dollar worked on a salary three years until his debts were paid, then joined Cook, who furnished the capital, in the lumber business. Remembering the lessons taught by his failure, Dollar quickly achieved success. Within a year he started eight camps, later he operated extensively in Michigan and afterward in California.

To overcome a water transportation shortage he bought a small boat. Later he added many. At 57 he established a business in China and finally over the world, with 100 ships in his services.

Captain Dollar became an adviser of rulers and last spring, at 79, circled the globe to inaugurate the first around-the-world passenger steamship service.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Adam Beck, who has announced his intention to retire from public life, is chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and a world figure in hydro matters. He has been closely indentified with the problem of supplying the people of Ontario with cheap electrical power ever since 1903, when he was appointed a commissioner to investigate the development and distribution of power from Niagara Falls. He was chiefly instrumental in the creation of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and has been its chairman for nearly twenty years. Sir Adam is a native of Ontario and made his fortune largely in the lumber industry. His home is in the city of London, where he has filled the mavoralty and other public offices. Aside from business and politics he is widely known for his interest in thoroughbred horses, having been a prominent exhibitor at the horse shows in Canada and in New York and London.

Stories That Recall Others

Now, What Was the Word?

Have you ever taken part in such a conversation as this:

"Is this X's store?"

"Yes, Mr. X speaking."

"Mr. X, do you sell dictionaries?"

"Yes, madam."

"Well, will you look up a word meaning 'drudge' in five letters?"

The result was that Mr. X did look up the word for his customer and from the small beginning worked the cross word puzzle himself.

Shooting Stars

When Mr. and Mrs. Jones went to spend Thanksgiving they took two air guns as gifts for their son and nephew, both age eight. The boys were delighted with their guns and while at target practice were proudly watching a group of younger cousins.

The only alloy in their happiness was that the men explained to the mothers that the guns were really harmless, and produced a folded newspaper through which the shot had penetrated only half way.

The shooting continued until dusk, when the children came running into the house in great excitement, all talking at once. When the chorus was reduced to a monologue by parental order, Helen age four, exclaimed, "Who says these guns are no good! Frank and Harold both shot at once and a star fell."

NEW EASY WAY TO END
NASAL CATARRH

Quick and sure; safe and no trouble—the new way to get rid of loathesome Catarrh in nose and throat.

It may be acute or it may be chronic—of years standing—you may have tried salves and ointments and other treatments.

You're probably disgusted and think you haven't a chance in the world of overcoming it.

Try once more—try this. Get a six ounce bottle of Kojene for 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co., or any progressive druggist. Spray the nostrils with it twice a day for three or four days or until every Catarrh germ is destroyed and the nose is clean and clear.

Try once more and get rid of this obnoxious disease. Kojene will do it. If by any mishap it fails your money will be gladly returned.

Kojene is the world's most powerful, non-poisonous antiseptic—seventy-five times as strong as highly flavored antiseptics—yet you can drink it with no ill effects.

POETRY

A CHRISTIAN'S CREED.

I believe in dreams of duty,
Warning where they can't control,
Fragments of the glorious beauty
That once filled the unfallen soul;
In the godlike wreck of nature
Sin did in the sinner leave,
That may still regain the stature
It hath fallen from—I believe.

I believe in human kindness,
Large amid the sons of men,
Nobler far in willing blindness
Than in censure's keenest ken;
In the gentleness that slowly
Sanctions what would others grieve
In the trust that, deep and holy,
Hopeth all things—I believe.

I believe in self-denial,
And its secret throb of joy;
In the love that lives through trial,
Dying not, though death destroy;
In those fond and full believings
That, though all the world deceive,
Will not let its dark deceivings
Wake suspicion—I believe.

I believe in man's affection,
Tender, true, unselfish, high;
Infancy's almost perfection,
And in woman's purity;
In his lofty soul-sustaining
That can to one purpose cleave,
In her gentle, uncomplaining
Peace and patience—I believe.

I believe in self-devotion,
The long sacrifice of years,
Noblest fruits of deep emotion,
Man's blood-shedding, woman's tears
In the pure, prevailing passion
Human hearts by God conceive,
And, despite the world's cold fashion,
Live and die for—I believe.

I believe in human weakness
Trying to be strong and true,
Owning in impassioned meekness
What it would but could not do;
In its consciousness of failing,
Which the less it doth perceive,
Doth the more leave unavailing
All its efforts—I believe.

I believe in Love renewing
All that sin hath swept away,
Leaven-like its work pursuing
Night by night and day by day;
In the power of its remolding,
In the grace of its reprieve,
In the glory of beholding
Its perfection—I believe.

I believe in Love Eternal,
Fixed in God's unchanging will,
That beneath the deep infernal
Hath a depth that's deeper still;
In its patience, its endurance
To forbear and to retrieve,
In the large and full assurance
Of its triumphs—I believe.

—John S. B. Monsell.

THERE WILL BE STARS.

There will be stars over the place forever;
After the house and the street we loved are lost,
Every time the earth circles her orbit
On the night the autumn equinox is crossed
Two stars we knew, poised on the peak of midnight
Will reach their zenith; stillness will be deep—
There will be stars over the place forever,
There will be stars forever, while we sleep.

—Sara Teasdale, in Yale Review.

Extremely difficult living conditions in arctic regions result in the peculiar nervous disease known as arctic hysteria, according to studies made by Stanislaus Novakoovsky, of Clark University. No northeastern Asia the malady is especially prevalent among women. It often shows epidemic features, one native after another indulging in howls, grimaces, gestures and curious bodily positions. Settlers in northeastern, Siberia, from southern Russia, where the disease is unknown, frequently develop it. It becomes less and less prevalent the farther south one goes. Winter in the arctic, with its cold and its unhygienic living conditions, exhausts and leads to nervous disarrangements Mr Novakovsky believes. The summer with its monotony of perpetual day, its shortness, and the worry over obtaining a food supply for winter, affords scarcely any relief.

ILLUSTRATED SERMON AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

God and Man in the Creation of Wealth was the subject of the illustrated sermon at the Central Baptist church, Sunday night, the service being led by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church in absence of Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor who was in Hightstown, N. J., where he addressed the Reddie school.

Special music by the church choir, responsive readings, readings by Rev Dr. Abbott and the recitation of the poem, What Do We Plant? by Miss Tuttily Hill, all served to make the service most interesting.

The illustrated story was by Sumner Vinton and in a most picturesque manner told the story of the creation of all things by God and how man had used the creations of God for his own use in these days of marvelous achievement.

Forest scenes, , pictures of ocean liners, the Woolworth building, Brooklyn bridge, Union Pacific railroad, gold mining and agricultural, and scenes were used in the more than 100 slides in the picture story of God's wonder creations that have led to the success and inventions of men that have led to the success of the ventures and inventions of man.

One picture of considerable interest was that of the Union Pacific railroad, and during the showing of this picture Dr. Abbott explained that a distant relative of his furnished the gold spike which was used to connect the eastern and western lines of the road. This spike, however, was pulled out immiately afterwards and another of iron substituted, the gold spike, which had been made of $20 gold pieces, was cut into sections and distributed among the railroad heads.

The service closed with an illustrated song and the benediction of Rev. Dr. Abbott.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The case of William Ryder of Staffordville, charged with reckless driving, also operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was tried before Judge Heald in the borough Saturday morning. Several witnesses were heard and the testimony disclosed that Ryder had attended a dance in Stafford Hollow on the night of Nov. 21st, and that after the dance Ryder and three other young men went in Ryder's automobile to Holland, Mass., and from there to Fiskdale. There was considerable moonshine in the party and Ryder drank some of it and he had a drink of moonshine at Phelps & Cunningham's store, after arriving home from the Massachusetts trip. The moonshine drank at Staffordville was mixed with lemon soda. The defense did not put in any evidence. The accused was represented by Attorneys William A. King of Willimantic and R. H. Disk of Stafford. M. D. O'Connell appeared for the state. Judge Heald reserved decision.

Capt. James Lennen.

The death of Capt. James Lennen, whose home for over thirty years has been at 40 Boswell avenue, occurred Sunday in the Hartford hospital in his 82nd year. Capt. At his age he was not strong enough to rally after the operation which was a heavy strain upon his failing strength.

The captain has been retired from active business for a number of years but is credited with having amassed a considerable fortune in the fishing and fertilizer business which he conducted from points about Mystic and Stonington. He was twice married. His first wife, who was Hannah Stead, died about 1919, and several years later he married Mrs. Helen Summers of Putnam. She survives him but he leaves no children.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE AGAINST TWO NORWICH YOUNG MEN

Presented before Justice of the Peace Milton Sweet at Glastonbury Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, William Reardon, 24, of 16 Laurel Hill avenue, and James Crawford, 19, son of Mrs. James L. Crawford, of 118 Main street, this city, were bound over to the January term of the Hartford county superior court on manslaughter charges. The young men are held for trial in the criminal court as the result of fatal injuries received early Thanksgiving day morning by Miss Alice Lyons, 18, of New London. Bonds were fixed at $2,000 in each case. Mrs. Crawford, mother of James Crawford, furnished bonds for him and Herbert Ring furnished bonds for Reardon, who is his brother-in-law.

There seems to be some question as which of the men was driving the Packard coupe when it went off the road and struck a huge boulder. It is understood that Mr. Crawford claims that Mr. Reardon was driving the machine. As the question of the driver was not decided upon at the hearing Saturday night both men were held for the criminal court. It is understood that a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor has been preferred against the accused. Miss Laura Bottonelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Battista Bottenelli of No. 23 Reed street, New London, a passenger in the coupe was present at the hearing as a witness.

The fatal accident happened on the Hartford-New London highway of what is known as the Ten Curves, a dangerous section of the road. The two men and the two girls had driven to Hartford, to attend a dance and were on the way back when the crash occurred on the second of the ten curves. The coupe struck the rock and Miss Lyons received a fractured skull from which she died later in a Hartford hospital. The other three occupants of the machine were injured to some extent but have recovered. Miss Lyons was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah J. Lyons of No. 138 Montauk avenue, New London.

The boulder struck by the Crawford machine was cracked by the force of the blow and the rock and the ground around it were covered with the oil that came from the car, which was a complete wreck. The rock is off to the left of the highway, indicating that the driver lost control of the car in attempting to round the curve after he had successfully negotiated the first of the ten bad curves of which a warning is given by a sign along the road.

It was reported after the accident that Miss Bottenelli was first to recover consciousness, finding herself on the ground. Feeling around in the dark, she found Crawford lying close to her. When she had aroused him, they found Riordan not far off, but for some time they did not know what had become of Miss Lyons. After looking around on the ground and in the bushes for a time they looked in the car and discovered her crumpled up in the front seat. An automobile that came along took the injured persons to the Hartford hospital.

$12,000 LOSS IN FIRE IN WATERFORD

New London, Dec. 14.—Fire late this afternoon destroyed the residence of A. H. Glorig, Station 15, Waterford, together with the Glorig rug cleaning establishment and a residence owned and occupied by Charles Walker. The blaze was fanned by a high southwest wind and after an hour's work by the Waterford fire department all three buildings were destroyed, together with the greater part of their furnishings.

The fire started in the Glorig house and is believed to have originated from an overheated furnace or defective chimney for it was but a short time following the starting of a furnace fire that the structure was discovered ablaze. An alarm was sounded, calling out the Waterford department and a call was sent to fire headquarters here for assistance. The Waterford firemen responded in short time, but the Nameaug Engine company that was sent from New London became disabled while en route and the Allen Hook and Ladder company was then sent to the fire.

When the firemen reached the place all three buildings were ablaze, for sparks from the Glorig house had ignited the rug cleaning shop and the Walker residence. The terrific wind prevented the firemen from performing effective work and because of the absence of water supply, the buildings were quickly reduced to ashes.

The loss is estimated at close to $12,000 and besides the demolition of the three buildings, two telephone poles were burned.

CHRISTMAS CLUB MONEY APPROXIMATELY $40,000

During the past week the Chelsea Savings bank has put into the hands of about 1,000 members of its Christmas club the approximate sum of $40,000, the accumulated savings of the club members for a year. This is the largest sum that the bank has distributed in the history of the Christmas clubs.

The money represents the weekly savings of the club members at the rate of 25c, 50c, $1 or $2, on which interest at the rate of 2 per cent. is paid to those who complete their payments. Before the maturity date of the club, the bank sent all members a notice in which the member was requested to indicate how he wanted his payment made, whether to place it on his regular savings bank account, to use a part to start membership in a new Christmas club series, or to take it all in a check. Payment was made in accordance with the instructions from each club member.

Merchants of the city have told the bank officials that it is evident the Christmas club puts many of their customers in possession of ready cash which they would not otherwise have at this time and is a real stimulus to holiday trade and a substantial work in community service. Besides the Christmas club, the bank conducts industrial and vacation clubs, all with the community service idea in mind.

The Christmas club has been under the personal superintendence of Miss May L. Bushnell ever since the plan was first introduced by the bank. The 1925 Christmas club is starting now.

Sergeant Thomas Murphy made the arrest and Mr. McGuinness furnished bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court.

This is his second arrest this year on a liquor violation charge and he has a 15-day suspended jail sentence hanging over him from the previous case when he was arrested in January.

LAUNCH SUNSHINE FUND FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

The Crippled Children's Sunshine Fund, a trust to be administered for the benefit of patients of The New England Unit of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, located at Springfield, Mass., has been launched by the Rotary Club of Springfield.

Members of other Rotary clubs throughout New England and other people of New England having sympathy with the purposes of the enterprise will be given early opportunity to contribute to the fund and thus become members of the Crippled Children's Sunshine Club. It is expected that Shriners and Rotary clubs of the New England district will respond in large numbers.

Subscriptions to this trust fund are made on the penny-a-day plan, or at the rate of $3.65 per year, payable annually or more frequently as the subscribers may prefer.

Trustees who will administer the fund, all members of the Rotary club of Springfield, are: Howard W. Selby, chairman; Chester J. Pike, secretary; Carlos H. Ellis, treasurer; James E. Hayes and George M. Hendee.

The New England unit of the Shriners hospitals for Crippled Children receives and treats without charge crippled children whose parents cannot afford to provide such treatment themselves. These children come from the New England states and from eastern New York.

While the treatment is provided by the hospital, there are many incidental expenses which must be met, such as traveling expenses to and from the hospital, supplying clothing, braces and surgical appliances, and providing delicacies and entertainment for the children. To such purposes the Crippled Children's Sunshine Fund is to be devoted.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS BY A. O. H. DIVISION

The annual meeting of Division No. 2, Ancient Order of Hibernians, was held Sunday afternoon at the town hall on Main street with a good attendance of members.

The reports of the officers were most gratifying, showing as they did, a substantial gain in membership and a goodly balance in the treasury. All indications were that the year 1925 would be the banner year since the organization of the division.

Routine business was transacted and the division appointed a committee to arrange for a series of social entertainments during the winter months. A committee was also appointed with similar committees from Division No. 1 and the two ladies auxiliaries, to stage the annual St. Patrick's day concert and ball of the United Divisions of the Ancient Order of Hiberians. This event is being looked forward to by every member.

The election of officers took place after the business session resulting as follows: President, George Dresher; vice president, Joseph Cox; financial secretary, John F. McVeigh; recording secretary, Mortimer Murphy; treasurer, James J. Dutton; chairman standing committee, James J. Finnegan; sergeant at arms, Thomas Houlihan; sentinel, Patrick Carbray, physician Dr. F. J. Harper.

EVERY MEMBER CANVASS MEETS WITH SUCCESS

At the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church a report on the Every Members canvass was made by Frank L. Arnold. Pledges turned in to him by Sunday night totalled $75, he reported, the amount subscribed being a little over $12,000.

The 1925 budget unanimously approved December 4th amounted to $17,075, and Mr. Arnold reported that with over 100 pledges still to be heard from there was a likelihood that this amount would be reached. The amount estimated from pledges was fixed at $14,220, and, with $12,000 already pledged, the 100 remaining pledges would surely bring in more than the required amount.

The members, numbering about 60 who visited the church members Sunday, met at the church Sunday afternoon and evening for luncheon when final reports were made.

TOURING CAR UPSET ON MONTVILLE HIGHWAY

An Oldsmobile touring car containing two men overturned early Saturday morning on the New London road about a mile north of Uncasville near the Witch Hazel mill when, according to witnesses the car skidded on the wet pavement. The car turned over completely so that the occupants were pinned beneath the wreckage. Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Craven of Uncasville, who were riding along behind the Oldsmobile, saw the car overturn and Mrs. Craven, stopping at the scene of the accident, assisted the two men to free themselves from the wreckage. They sustained minor injuries about the body and head and were taken to Uncasville where medical treatment was given. The two men refused to reveal their identity or their destination.

SPIRIT-LEVEL LINES SHOW STATE ELEVATIONS

Everyone likes to know the elevation of the place where he lives or of the mountains or hills that he climbs. The government maps of the United States made by the department of the interior, through the geological survey show in great detail the heights of the ground above mean sea level in all parts of the country. Nearly a million copies of these maps are printed and distributed by the geological survey every year.

More than 30 years ago a topographic survey of the state of Connecticut was completed by the geological survey in cooperation with the state, which paid half the cost of the field work. At that time the need for exact elevations was not appreciated, but about five years later congress directed the geological survey to determine accurately the elevations of numerous points in every area thereafter surveyed and to give their heights on permanent bench marks. Since 1897 about 100,000 such marks have been set up along more than 300,000 miles of spirit-level lines run in the United States, but not until recently has any such work been done in Connecticut.

In 1923 and 1923 the geological survey, department of the interior, in cooperation with the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, department of commerce, and the state highway commission of Connecticut, ran more than a thousand miles of accurate spirit-level lines in that state and set up metal marks showing the elevations of more than 400 points. In every large city or town there are one or more such marks, which are of great use to local engineers in their public or private surveys.

All these elevations are reckoned from mean sea level, so that surveyors can start level lines from any of the marks and check surveys made by others starting from different bases.

In 1890, when the topographic survey of Connecticut was made, the standard of accuracy required by engineers in map work was not so high as it is now, and many changes have occurred in the features shown, so that a complete revision of old maps is necessary to make them useful for present-day requirements. The 400 or more fixed points now available as a basis for determining elevations will make a resurvey of the state feasible, provided the state can share with the geological survey the cost of the field work. Such cooperation is now in effect with twenty-one states, which thus obtain accurate maps at comparatively little expense.

Mimeographic copies of the results of leveling in any particular area in Connecticut will be sent free to highway or city engineers who may apply for them to the director of the Geological Survey at Washington, D. C.

RANK NOT INCREASED BY STAFF APPOINTMENTS

There can be no increase in rank for officers of the National Guard appointed to the governor's staff by reason of a law passed by the last session of the general assembly. Attorney General Healy advises Adjutant General George M. Cole in an opinion given relative to a request for information on appointments made by Governor-elect Bingham. Until the present statute was enacted the governor was empowered to appoint his staff without limitation as to their previous record in either the civil or military service of the state.

The governor is now authorized to appoint four aides, each with the rank of colonel, and four aides each with the rank of major, except as specially provided. Of the eight aides "not less than four shall be detailed from the National Guard." The question asked by the adjutant general was whether officers detailed from the guard be given increased rank, or should serve on the staff with the rank held by them in the National Guard.

"The existing law," the attorney-general says, "in part changes the method of making appointments by making it obligatory on the governor that four aides to be appointed by him shall be from the National Guard.

"The rule of construction which the courts have adopted in construing the statutes, that each of the provisions must be given effect if they can consistently be read together precludes me from reading out of this statute the provision which says, officers so detailed shall retain their existing rank.

"Reading this statute as a whole its language is capable of only one construction and that is that National Guard officers appointed on the governor's staff shall not have their rank increased by virtue of such appointments."

WESLEYAN STUDENT GETS RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Middletown, Dec. 14.—At a meeting of the Rhodes scholarship committee of Connecticut, held at Yale university yesterday, John C. R. Whiteley of Philadelphia was appointed a Rhodes scholar for the coming term of years. He is a member of the class of 1925 at Wesleyan university and will leave next October for Oxford university, England.

In selecting Mr. Whiteley for the scholarship, the committee, which is made up, with the exception of President James R. Angell of Yale, entirely of former Rhode scholars, gave him preference over nine other candidates because of his recent research work in the matter of international affairs, which he has been carrying on under the supervision of Prof. Henry M. Wriston of Wesleyan.

Mr. Whiteley is a Wilbur Fiske scholar in history at Wesleyan, chairman of the forum committee, and manager of the soccer team for the [illegible] season, and for two years has been a member of the [illegible] governing body of students. He prepared at the West Philadelphia High school.

...L WINS 250-MILE AUTO CLASSIC AT CULVER CITY'S NEW SPEEDWAY

Culver City, Calif., Dec. 14.—(By The A. P.)—Bennett Hill, driving his car ...verage speed of 126 miles an ...on the 250-mile race under the ...s of the American Automobile ...tion here this afternoon, nego... the distance in one hour, 58 minutes, 18 3-5 seconds.

Ralph De Palma, the Italian driver forged to the lead from the flag, with Tommy Milton and Bennett Hill following closely. The leaders averaged 128.5 miles an hour for the first 40 miles.

The race brings to a close the 1924 racing season of the American Automobile Association and dedicates the new Culver City board speedway. Sixteen cars roared past the starter's flag.

Though Hill took first honors in today's race, the result of the speed classic was to put the 1924 American Automobile Association championship in the dead hands of Jimmy Murphy, killed a few months ago at Syracuse, N. Y.

Earl Cooper, the only driver in the race with a chance to win the championship, lost that chance when he dropped out of the race at the end of the 17th lap on account of engine trouble.

Harry Hartz's feat in nosing out Milton for second place after having been forced to drop precious seconds in the pits for a tire change, was the sensation of the race. Averaging around 133 miles an hour, the handicapped driver thrust back the miles, with only 20 still to go, until in the last quarter lap he overtook and squeezed past Milton.

Another surprise of the 250 mile race was the driving of Shattuck. It was the Louisville, Ky., sportsman's first race on a board speedway, his previous experience having been confined to dirt track and road racing events where the speed is less than half that shown on the Culver City bowl today.

Until Hartz began his burst of speed on the final twenty miles the race seemed to lie entirely between Milton and Hill this pair see-sawing back and fourth at head of the field from the start.

BILL ROPER GETS OFFER TO COACH WASHINGTON

St. Louis, Dec. 14.—Possibility that William Roper, coach of Princeton University, might become head mentor of Washington University's football team, was indicated today when it became known he was here in conference with university officials.

A handsome monetary offer was said to have been made to the former Princeton coach, but a Missouri Valley conference rule providing coaches must have no other business or profession, must devote their entire time to developing a team, was understood to be hindering the negotiations.

...left today for Philadelphia conference with Chancellor ...Hadley and the athletic ... The chancellor injected a ...ple when he suggested that ...oper was qualified to teach in the ...w college of Washington university. This proposal was said to have impressed Roper deeply. The chancellor said he was "very optimistic" over the prospects of obtaining Roper's service.

The salary offer for coaching and teaching was not made public although one unofficial report placed the amount as high as $20,000 a year. It was known previously the attendance board was prepared to pay $10,000 or $12,000 a year for a good football coach.

Despite an enrollment of 4,000 Washington university has long been weak in football.

GOLF AS MEANS TO PREVENT FUTURE WARS

Chicago, Dec. 14—Golf was pointed out as more potent than any formal alliance of nations to prevent wars by Former Judge Charles S. Cutting in speaking at the installation of his son, Robert M. Cutting as secretary of the Western Golf Association last night.

"Golf, as the only truly widespread international sport," said Mr. Cutting, "by bringing about international good understanding may eventually be the power that will stop armed conflicts between countries. No other sport, except tennis, is played generally all over the world under the same rules and conditions, and tennis is not played to any extent by national leaders, as is golf."

The meeting ended the war between the Western Golf Association and the United States Golf Association. Most officers of the Western are now connected in some way with the U. S. G. A. and the old threat of the W. G. A. to start a new national golf body was pronounced dead.

CLYMER MAY BE SIGNED AS HENDRICKS' ASSISTANT

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 14—Manager Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati National League team hs come to terms with William Clymer, who managed various American Association teams and will endeavor to have the Red directors agree Tuesday on signing him up as an assistant. Hendricks is said to have arrived at definite terms with Clymer at the New York meeting.

President August Herrmann, on his return here today, said the Reds still were in the market for Johnny Neun, the property of the Detroit Americans, Mr. Herrmann said that just before he and Lou Widrid, treasurer left New York, President Ebbetts of the Brooklyn club, offered $50,000 in cash for Charles Dressen, the young infielder, purchased by the Reds from St. Paul. The offer was turned down.

The possibility that Jimmy Caveney, shortstop, may be sold to the Philadelphia Athletics loomed when it was said that Connie Mack had offered $15,000 for Caveney.

Playing a "Sure Thing"

Basketball's best coaches don't take chances with their players' feet. The coach succeeds as his team succeeds, and the team's success depends more on its footwear than any other item of equipment.

That's why it means so much when successful coaches the country over are practically unanimous in their choice of Converse footwear. Why not be guided in your choice of basketball shoes by what the leaders select for their players?

Because you're playing the surest kind of a "sure thing" when you standardize on Converse.

BULKELEY TO PLAY HOME SCHEDULE NEXT YEAR

New London, Dec. 14.—Some intimation as to the pursuits of the Bulkeley High school football campaign for 1925 were given out by Coach William R. Canty here in an interview granted to The Bulletin correspondent this afternoon. First of all the Bulkeley mentor, whose effective football system inaugurated here this season for the first time and which resulted in the most successful football year ever enjoyed by a Bulkeley football team announced that James P. Morgan of the present junior class was chosen as manager of the football team for 1925.

The selection of Moran came about after careful consideration was given the candidates, who made it known that they were aspirants for the football managership. Almost a dozen assistant managers took care of the many affairs of the Orange and Black eleven during the past season, but Moran's work throughout the entire year was worthy of the reward that usually attends a diligent pursuit of duties.

All football matters have now been cleared up for the past season and it will give the appointed manager, James P. Moran and opportunity to draw up the schedule covering the activities of the Orange and Black on the gridiron for the coming season. In the interview with Coach Canty, it was found that he had already drawn up a tentative schedule which will be closely adhered to when the selection of teams to oppose the Orange and Black next season will be made.

Coach Canty is a strong believer in playing a considerable portion of the games during the year at home, and a number of the teams which have been on the Bulkeley schedule for football in the past, and which were met on foreign fields will be required to come to New London to play their games if they expect to meet the Orange and Black gridders next season. Among these teams are Ansonia High, Stamford High, Bridgeport High and Hartford High. Bound by a two year contract to play at New London and the next game at the home ground of the following teams, Bulkeley will travel but two or three times during the entire season. Among the schools where a two year agreement holds is with Crosby High of Watercury and Springfield Technical High school of Massachusetts.

New Britain High and Naugatuck High will be dropped from the schedule. Relations may be resumed after the season of 1925 with these two schools, and these teams may be included on the baseball or basketball programs of the local institution. It has been an annual custom of the Bulkeley grid team to travel to Stamford each year, but the plan that Coach Canty is making for all home games, with the exception of where a contract binds the locals to go out of town, Stamford will be offered the same guarantee which Bulkeley received at Stamford this year.

Among the teams which are expected to be included in the home season are Ansonia high, Hartford High, Weaver High, Bridgeport High, Stamford High and Norwich Free Academy. Springfield Technical High and Crosby High will be played out of town, with a possibility that Torrington High will come to New London for a game in view of the fact that Bulkeley played at Torrington this year. If a satisfactory arrangement can be made with the above named schools, it will mean practically an all-home schedule with the exception of two games. And then Crosby may be induced to come here to play the annual game between the two teams.

The fever of high guarantees is beginning to grip the High schools as well as college teams, and the day of small guarantees seems to be of the past. The team which is in a position to pay the highest guarantee has a good chance of arranging an attractive schedule. Previous to a few years ago, the travelling by the various teams in the state was done in automobiles or trucks, now the teams travel in the best of style and even part for another city in this state the day before the game. If the project that is in the mind of Coach Canty is met with favor, Eastern Connecticut fans will see teams of exceptionally high calibre perform against the Orange and Black.

It will mean an expenditure of over a $1,000 to bring the teams outlined above to this city for a game. To Stamford alone the guarantee will reach $200, if not more. Ansonia, Bridgeport and some of the other teams which are annually in the fight for the state championship will be given a flat guarantee of $200 or more. Besides officials and other incidentals, if the pretentious undertaking which is now in progress meets with the approval that Coach Canty expects it will, about $1,800 will be required to carry the season through financially. This will mean that unlimited support will have to be accorded the Bulkeley management in its endeavor to put the football sport here at home on a large scale.

Besides being able to view the best football in the state and New England, the championship of the state will be decided in this city. Bulkeley has taken its place with the remainder of the High school teams of note in this state and expect to hold that position with the financial help of the people of New London. Offers from several high schools have already been received by the Bulkeley management, but in most cases it is an invitation extended to have the Orange and Black play out of town with luring guarantees. As pointed out before it seems that the team which can offer the highest guarantees will be able to draw up the most attractive home schedule.

The Bulkeley schedule will be announced shortly with the appointment of a manager and will be published in The Bulletin as soon as it is completed.

FOUR UNDEFEATED TEAMS WILL CLASH NEW YEAR'S DAY IN CALIFORNIA

New York, Dec. 14—(By the A. P.)—For the first time in many years four undefeated teams, which have played representative schedules in their sections of the country, will meet in postseason games New Year's day in California and the University of Pennsylvania, will be unlike many of the Pacific coast postseason games in the past inasmuch as teams meeting in former years, while undefeated, have not always played through a difficult schedule.

The game will settle somewhat the sectional championship as each team has been ranked among the leaders in the east and west. California, undefeated since 1919 when Washington State defeated it, 14-0, will make a great effort to continue its record. Pennsylvania, with the best team since 1908, will strive to uphold the honor of eastern football, several times trampled in the dust by western elevens.

Pennsylvania is rated by many critics as the greatest defense team in the east. It has come through an unusually hard schedule without a defeat and has been tied but once, that a scoreless draw with Bezdek's Penn State eleven. Several of Pennsylvania's wins however, have not been impressive. The Penn eleven beat Georgetown by the margin of a field goal; another field goal defeated Columbia and the verdict over Lafayette was gained by only three points. The bright spot in the Penn season was the decisive 20-0 victory scored against Cornell.

California started this season with only four men as a nucleus from last year's championship team.

Building from the bottom, Andy Smith remade his team and brought it through the conference season undefeated in one of the toughest schedules any California eleven has ever played. Smith's team was tied in two games, that with Bagshaw's University eleven and "Pop" Warner's Stanford Cardinals.

In "Tut" Imlay, California has one of the best broken-field runners in the country. He is the captain-elect for 1925 and with "Babe" Horrell, this year's captain and center, stands out among the mainstays of the Golden Bears.

ARMY-NAVY CLUB LOSES TO WEST ENDS AT BRISTOL

The Army-Navy club of Taftville was defeated Saturday evening at Bristol by the fast West Ends of that city 30 to 20. The local team was handicapped by being forced to play under amateur rules when they have been in the habit of playing professional rules.

In the first half the local team held its own against the Bristol team and the score at half time was 15 to 13. In the final period the team from the western part of the state set a fast game that completely baffled them, with dazzling pass-work and spectacular floor shots. The floor work of Carrington and the shooting of Moore were features of Bristol's play. Mills was the leading scorer for the locals. The summary.

On Tuesday evening at Parish hall the Army-Navy club will clash with the fast Cycle club of Westerly. The Westerly team is reputed to be a fast aggregation that has been sweeping the courts in the western part of Rhode Island and this will be their first appearance on a local court in several years.

New London, Dec. 14.—Following the recent victory over Pratt High, Chapman Tech will play its second home game of the season, opposing Madison High at the school auditorium on Tuesday evening. Although in its early stages as yet, the Red and Black gives promise of assuming that same winning form that followed the Tech machine throuh its schedule last year.

No definite schedule has been arranged as yet by Tech management but with the schedule of Madison for Tuesday, new teams are rapidly filling the open dates, which appear in the program of the Red and Black. Because of the uncertainty of future engagements on the marked court this month before the Christmas holidays begin, the game scheduled for Tuesday may be the last until next month.

Out of the several combinations tried out at the opening game against Pratt High neither of the several combinations showed much superiority over the other, so that the combination which will enter the game against Madison High on Tuesday will have to build around Hewitt at center and Red Andrews at forward. Hicks seems to be a fixture at the other forward, but the guard position still remains to be filled by competent players. But there is an abundance of guard material at Chapman Tech and a capable pair of guards are expected to be found to round out a fast machine.

Madison High lost twice to Tech last year, even though the valley players will come here on Tuesday with a stronger combination than last year But it will take the visitors with a strong combination to come out the victor, for Tech has a good team.

WANDERERS PLAY TEAM FROM SO. MANCHESTER WED.

The Baltic Wanderers basketball team on Wednesday will play the strong St. Mary's Young Men's club from South Manchester in what is expected to be a fast game. Manager Stevenson will bring down the following line up: W. Stevenson, rf; Bissell or R. Finnegan, lf; J. Thornton, c; F. Finnegan, rg; Rogers or McKay, lg. Most of the Baltic fans have heard of Bissell, one of the fastest men in the forward position playing basketball. As this is the first appearance of this club in Baltic and as they come here with a good reputation the manager hopes the fans will take notice.

The Wanderers line-up will be picked from the following: Ridgeway, Simoneau, Charron, R. Robertaille, W. Robertaille, Coady and Sullivan. For the preliminary game the Bantams will play the Battery B seconds. Manager Goodrow is bringing up a fast line up.

Both games have been changed to Wednesday night to allow the Baltic Wanderers to play in Stonington Friday night.

Hardigs Accept Challenge.

The Hardigs accept the challenge of the Army-Navy Seconds to play them in the preliminary game to the Army-Navy Cycle club game at Parish Hall on Tuesday evening. The Hardigs lineup will be: Donegan and Seigal, forwards; Tombari, center; Kelly and Hildebrand guards; Carlin and Bowman utility.

Rochester Leaves Grand Circuit.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Rochester will not enter the Grand Circuit next year because of the lack of a mile track, it was announced by a group of local horsemen today when asked regarding a story from Cleveland yesterday that this city would be given the dates of August 10-15th.

Gray to Lead Penn State Griders

TREASURY TO CLOSE SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS

Washington, Dec. 14.—The treasury will close subscription books finally on the new long term bond issue Saturday, Dec. 20. Announcement was made by the treasury tonight that, with more than $500,000,000 in maturing securities offered in exchange for the new issue of twenty to thirty year 4 per cent. bonds, it will be able to close the books ten days earlier than had been planned.

Cash subscriptions to the offering, from which the treasury hoped to realize about $200,000,000 in addition to the refunding feature, exceeded $1,400,000,000 when the books on that part of the issue were closed Dec. 4. Because of the tremendous offering in cash, the treasury was able to decline all subscriptions in excess of $10,000, thus obtaining a wide distribution of the new securities.

PREDICTS BINGHAM WILL HAVE 40,000 PLURALITY

Hartford, Dec. 14.—Hiram Bingham, republican candidate for United States senator, will have 40,000 plurality Tuesday over his democratic rival, Hamilton Holt, in the opinion of Chairman J. Henry Roraback of the republican state central committee, who today made the following statement after receiving reports from various parts of the state:

"The uncertainty of the percentage of the vote which will be cast on Tuesday makes prediction of the proonble majority for Bingham difficult. Reports received from different parts of the state indicate that from 40 to 50 per cent. of the registered vote will be cast. This being done, I expect that Colonel Bingham will receive a plurality of approximately 40,000. This plurality will vary according to the percentage of the vote cast."

INCREASED EMPLOYMENT REPORTED IN MANY STATES

Washington, Dec. 14.—Increasing employment in nearly all the middle western and many of the eastern states and generally satisfactory conditions throughout the country were reported today by the labor department.

Increasing activities in many industries throughout the country were reported for November, while in nearly every case of a decrease in employment from the preceding month the slackening was described as seasonal.

BLIZZARD RAGING IN CENTRAL NEW YORK

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

New York, Dec. 14.—Responding to a series of favorable trade developments, stock prices mounted to higher ground this week despite the sharp mid-week reaction, which was aimed primarily at the correction of a weakened technical condition. The rail averages closed within a small fraction of the highest level in the last seven years, while the industrial average was within striking distance of the top figure on the current bull movement, which had been under way, with few interruptions, since election day.

Four of the most significent developments of the week, havinw a bearing on price movements, were the maintenance of the 3 per cent. re-discount rate by the New York federal reserve bank, the approval of the "Nickel Plate" lease by the directors of the Erie Railroad, the unexpectedly large increase of more than 500,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation and rising commodity prices.

A temporary stiffening of call money rates undoubtedly was due to the heavy shifting of funds incidental to the United States treasury operations and the French government loan financing. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm with more 4 per cent. paper making its appearance.

The foreign exchange movement was mixed. Demand sterling touched $4.71, the highest price in nearly two years on Tuesday, fell back below $4.68 and then rallied above $4.69 as the week closed. French exchange lost ground on selling inspired by Winston Churchill's speech warning France that Great Britain would expect payment of France's debt to her to be made simultaneously with, and in proportion to, her payments to the United States. Spanish, Danish and Norwegian currencies all attained new top prices during the week.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Dying in Harness

Only a fallen horse, stretched out there on the road,
Stretched in the broken shafts, and crushed by the heavy load;
Only a fallen horse, and a circle of wondering eyes
Watching the frightened teamster goading the beast to rise.

Hold! for his toil is over—no more labor for him;
See the poor neck outstretched, and the patient eyes grow dim;
See on the friendly stones how peacefully rests the head—
Thinking, if dumb beasts think, how good it is to be dead!
After the weary journey, how restful it is to lie
With the broken shafts and the cruel load—waiting only to die.

Watchers, he died in harness—died in the shafts and straps—
Fell, and the burden killed him; one of the day's mishaps—
Stretched in the broken shafts, and crushed by the heavy load;
A toiler dying in harness, heedless of call or goad.

Passers, crowding the pathway, staying your steps awhile,
What is the symbol? Only death—why should we cease to smile
At death for a beast of burden? On, through the busy street
That is ever and ever echoing the tread of hurrying feet

What was the sign? A symbol to touch the tireless will?
Does He who taught in parables speak in parables still?
The seed on the rock is wasted—on heedless hearts of men.
That gather and sow and grasp and lose—labor and sleep—and then
Then for the prize!—A crowd in the street of ever-echoing tread—
The toiler, crushed by the heavy load, lies there in his harness—dead!

—John Boyle O'Reilly.

Buttercups and Daisies

Buttercups and daisies—
O, the pretty flowers!
Coming ere the Springtime,
To tell of sunny hours.
When the trees are leafless;
When the fields are bare;
Buttercups and daisies
Spring up here and there.

Welcome, yellow buttercups!
Welcome, daisies white!
Ye are in my spirit,
Visioned, a delight!
Coming ere the Springtime,
Of sunny hours to tell—
Speaking to our hearts of Him
Who doeth all things well.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The study of birds and animals reveals many interesting things regarding their habits and modes of living. For instance it has been found that most birds are restless when there is a change in the weather likely. This restlessness takes different forms. Guina-fowls and peacocks shriek, parrots whistle more shrilly than usual while pigeons fly to their homes when rain is expected. Gulls disturbed by changing weather conditions utter mournful sounds when a storm is at hand. When one sees skylarks soaring high in the air, higher than usual, the weather is likely to remain fine. If swallows are seen chasing insects in the air, rather than close to the ground continued fine weather may be expected.

There is an interesting story told by a traveller who made an expedition into the Amazon forests in South America. The story goes that he was much more frightened of the huge spiders he encountered in the jungles than of the jaguars. He tells of Amazon spiders with long legs, fat black bodies about the size of a rat and with very wicked and evil looking eyes. These queer creatures making what might be called trap doors on the ground, cleverly concealed and so perfectly balanced that they close up by their own weight. Underneath these trap doors are tunnels in which the spiders watch for their prey.

Another species of spider spins a web several feet across and arranges the web so that it is suspended between two trees. The strands of this web are so strong that if a small bird flies too close and gets caught it can't get away. The spider quickly arrived and makes a meal off his feathered captive.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Our Conduct on Streets and Highways

Dear Uncle Jed: All accidents are caused by careless pedestrians or reckless drivers. Children are sometimes the cause. Some dash across the streets without looking and some even play in the streets.

There are many things which we must observe on the streets and highways. We must;

Observe all traffic rules; learn auto signals; use crosswalks; watch the traffic signals; before crossing look in all directions; help the needy, especially blind, children and elders; keep close to the curb when riding a bicycle; give signal when turning; force children to play in safety zones; when on the highways keep to the left.

There are many things which we must not do.

Never hurry while on the street; never play in the street; never dash before vehicles; never jump from moving vehicles; never lay walk; never steal rides; never make a blind dash; never stand in the street while waiting for a car, you are safer on the curb.

Many accidents are avoidable and others are not. During nineteen twenty three more than twenty six thousand persons were killed six hundred seventy eight thousand were injured by automobiles. My opinion of it is best to be very careful on the streets and highways.

The Pilgrims

Dear Uncle Jed: In our school we had to write a Thanksgiving story. This is the one I wrote. Some good people lived across the sea but they were not happy. Their king would not let them pray to God in their own way. They went to Holland. They stayed there for twelve long years. The Pilgrims did not want their children to become Hollanders. So they went to America. They came to America in the Mayflower. The Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. Father's, mothers and children were on the Mayflower. They lived in log cabins. The Pilgrims worked very hard. They were often hungry. They had trouble with the Indians. They were happy because they could worship God in their own way. These people called themselves Pilgrims. They had a long winter. Many of them died. The next winter they had plenty of food. So they gave a party and invited the Indians. The Pilgrims were friendly with them now. They had the first Thanksgiving in America.

My Dream Lesson

Dear Uncle Jed: One night last week our teacher had given us an extra amount of home work to do and I was discouraged. My problems simply wouldn't come out with the right answers, my spelling was poor and my head ached. In a few minutes I was all out of patience and I closed my books with a "bang". Instead of finishing my work I went to bed. That night I had the most horrible dream! I dreamt that I was alone in a big forest and that all the trees had faces on their trunks and that their branches were arms. The biggest tree of all started to walk and handed me a piece of paper full of cancellations and multiplications. He told me to give a quick answer to all the examples or else the whole forest would fall on me. I looked around and saw that all the trees were slowly advancing. I couldn't move a step but I had to stay there helpless. The trees came closer and closer till they touched me. I screamed and awoke. The next morning I got up before all the others and did my home work before going to school. That dream had done its work.

A Visit to Florida

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a trip I took to Florida last winter. Florida is in the most southern part of the United States. It's about twelve and one-half times as large as Connecticut. It belonged to Spain until 1821 and then was sold to the United States. The whites then went to live there but a terrible war broke out between the Seminole Indians and the whites. This lasted seven years. The Indians were removed to the Indian territory. We landed at Jacksonville harbor and were taken to Pounce de Leon Hotel. We could see automobile races and also aeroplane races.

I also saw the champion racers and divers. It is very hot in Florida. When two months were up I went home.

My Own Thanksgiving

Dear Uncle Jed: Wednesday afternoon was one of the busiest afternoons of the year. The preparations for Thanksgiving were great. Pies, cakes, cookies and biscuits had to be baked, the turkey cleaned, the ice cream frozen, the cranberries cooked, the living room decorated, the table lengthened and ever so many more holiday preparations to look after.

Thursday morning passed quickly as there were ever so many things to do which had not been crowded into the day before. There was still left the turkey to be roasted, the cakes and pies to be iced or frosted, the rugs to be dusted, the table to be set and millions of other household duties to be performed. Shortly after one o'clock the guests began to arrive.

After all were seated at the table we had a word of thanks. Then we commenced to eat. How good everything tasted. Even the grownups ate more than usual.

After the dishes were washed and put away we took a tour through Connecticut. It took three autos to get us all in. After a light supper we had various games such as Old Maid cards, consequences, authors and many other games. Every one, big and small, agreed that it was the best Thanksgiving we ever had.

An Overnight Hike

Dear Uncle Jed: This summer when I was at camp in Vermont I went on many overnight trips. The morning I started for Cube mountain twelve girls and three councillors met at the tent field with our blankets and supplies rolled in our ponchos.

Soon the truck came and we sang till we reached the foot of the mountain. After climbing a third of the distance we saw a shack the Dartmouth men had built. We rested, made our beds on the grass and fetched drinking water.

We then hiked to the summit where we enjoyed the view and blueberries. We saw beautiful ferns and flowers and cows. Then we returned to the shack, and prepared supper. We expected to have a fine all night, taking turns watching but at midnight a thunder shower came up so we picked up our beds and tumbled indoors but didn't sleep much.

For breakfast we cooked pancakes many of which were flipped into the fire. After straightening the shack we went down to meet the truck for the return to camp.

The Doll's Story

Dear Uncle Jed: About three weeks before Christmas a large case of dolls was sent out of New York to a large business store in Norwich. Among these was I.

Our journey was a long and wearisome one, for we had to shout to make each other heard, the train made such a noise. Fortunately all such journeys come to an end at last and it was a very thankful case of dolls that was finally carried into the Norwich station.

A man came to meet us there and put us on a truck, and carried us to our destination. We expected to be taken into a hotel to spend a week or so, but instead we were taken to the store where we were unpacked and put on shelves.

Think of our disappointment to find ourselves there! Before long, many girls and ladies came into the store to buy Christmas toys. I (if I must say so) was the most attractive. Their eyes alighted on me, with admiration.

"What a perfect beauty!" exclaimed one. "And so lifelike," still another replied, until I was tired of being praised. At last one elegant lady came up and asked the saleslady to take me down from the shelf I was put up so high that she couldn't reach me. I was getting ready to walk to the edge of the shelf so that she could take me down, when a tall man came and lifted me down.

I was now passed into the hands of the proud lady, who looked me over from head to foot, and at last said, "Why what a beauty!"

The saleswoman named the price and I was covered up, put into a box and tied up. I suppose they tied me up so I shouldn't be able to get out.

I then went to sleep and don't remember anything that happened until I found myself on a Christmas tree. Oh! Oh! if you could only have seen little Alice, when I was given to her. I don't believed I deserve to be praised as much as I am. Do you? Oh! please say "yes, certainly."

"Dear, Oh dearest me, I must soon take off the Luckymobile wheels and put on the little red sleds," sighed dear Uncle Lucky, the nice old gentleman bunny, looking up into the cold gray sky. "Snowflakes will soon be falling. Yes sireebus. I hope they won't be as large as snowballs," and with a skip and jump for Uncle Lucky felt frisky this particular morning, he hopped into the barn to see the Old Red Rooster.

"Guess they do," laughed happy Uncle Lucky. "But you might give them a coat of varnish. We won't put them on the Luckymobile till the snow comes. It may storm tonight and then again, it may not," and, handing the Old Red Rooster a cabbage leaf cigar, the generous old bunny gentleman hopped out on Lettuce avenue and down Carrot street, his coattails flying out behind him and his gold watch chain dangling from his pink waistcoat.

By and by, after a while and a bump and a smile, but less than a mile, he came to the Three-in-One-Cent store in Rabbitville. Hopping in, dear Uncle Lucky stopped at a counter on which were spread pretty little handkerchiefs, pink and yellow, blue and brown, the prettiest ones in Rabbit town. Yes indeedy, they were lovely little handkerchiefs; some with neat little letters stitched in a corner, others with pretty flowers. But still, the the particular old gentleman bunny couldn't find one to suit him.

Dearest me, he certainly was particular, or maybe overanxious, the same thing sometimes but not always.

"Maybe and perhaps, but not certainly," replied persevering Uncle Lucky, looking here and looking there, underneath and everywhere.

"Is it for yourself?" asked the little lady duck.

Dear me, I hope nice, patient Uncle Lucky finds one to his liking in the next story.

Breathing

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story and hope all the Wide Awakes will read it. Breathe slowly and deeply. Get the air down to the bottom of your lungs. Swimming, rowing baseball, football, basket ball, tennis, skating, and coasting are some of the sports that will make your chest expand. Learn to stand straight and sit upright, for this has a good deal to do with the growth of your chest and the way you breathe. If you have a chance to take singing lessons you will learn a lot about proper breathing. Breathe through the nose and not through the mouth. About the only exception to this rule is while you are swimming.

Warding Off Disease

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story and hope it will succeed. Flies and mosquitoes carry disease. So do rats. Perhaps you would kill a rat if one came around your home. Flies and skeeters are just as dangerous. See that your house is screened at doors and windows. Be thoughtful when you open and shut the screen door. If you are in a neighborhood where there are many flies, use sticky fly paper or other forms of fly traps in the house. Some localities have very few flies others have swarms of them. If you look around where there are many flies you can find their breeding places in piles of dirt, manure, uncovered garbage and unclean spots. Point these out to the owners of the premises and if they do not clean up report to the board of health.

Young People Need Plenty of Sleep

Dear Uncle Jed: For the first half of your school days you should have at least ten hours' of sleep and even when in high school you will need eight hours or more every night in the week. Dances and parties should be timed to allow this. A short walk before bedtime, with some deep breathing, will be much better than reading books that may excite the brain just before you get into bed. Reading in bed is a habit that may hurt your eyes and disturb your night's rest. Take happy thoughts to bed with you. Bring to your mind the pleasant things of the day or the good times you have planned for the morrow. If anything is bothering you, forget it until morning. You can settled it then with a clear brain. I think so, don't you?

Mohair

Dear Uncle Jed: It is quite a while since I have written to the Wide Awake circle, so I thought I would write and tell you about Mohair. The wool of the Angora goat is called mohair from an Arabian word which means goats hair cloth. The goats which first supplied this wool were raised in Asia Minor, but now much of our mohair comes from South Africa and some is produced in this country. Mohair is very long, straight, fine, and glossy, but does not have the felting qualities of sheep's wool. It is mostly used in making dress goods, sweaters, linings and braids as well as fabrics for upholstering furniture. Brushed wool has a close resemblance to mohair, and the word mohair and angora are often used as the same thing.

A Trip to Maine

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my trip to Maine. Last summer my uncle said, "Let's take a trip." We all agreed and we started about three o'clock in the morning. It was very cold going but we were wrapped up good. When we got to Lewiston we stopped and went to the hotel. Next morning we had a flat tire and we had to wait about 30 minutes. We got to Portland and we stopped at the hotel to eat. I thought we would never get there but we reached Farmington. Then we had to go about ten miles. When we got to New Vineyard we were very cold but we went in the house and got warmed up. I stayed there over night but my parents went to Kingfield. Next morning they came after me and I saw my cousins. We stayed there three days. I had a very good time.

Likes Summer Best

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you that I think the letters children write to you are very interesting. I read the letters every Monday. It is very cold up here and we go sliding. We have snow here. One day I went sliding. My feet were very cold. When I got home I was glad because I got my feet warmed up. Next day I caught cold. In not going sliding until my cold is over. I like to slide, but when it gets cold it isn't so much fun. It is very nice when winter comes: everything is white. But summer is nicer than winter. Don't you think so?

Made Birthday Cake

Dear Uncle Jed: I helped mama make the cake. This is how we made it. I took two eggs, one cup of sugar one mixing spoonful of butter, one cup of milk, two cups of flour, two teaspoonful of baking powder, one half teaspoonful soda, one cup each of figs, dates and raisins ground, one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of vanilla. We baked it in the oven. I frosted it and put candies and candles on the cake. Papa said the cake was good.

My Misfortune

Dear Uncle Jed: Mother Nature must have been gossiping with her neighbors when she made my hair, for she made them very straight. When I look at other peoples curly hair and when I look at mine there is a great difference. Some people have curley hair and they cut them off. If I had curley hair I wouldn't cut them off. My misfortune is not having curly hair.

The Ray Family's Thanksgiving

Dear Uncle Jed: A large, poor, family living across the street from us of course their name was different but I will call it the Ray family. The mother and her three children sat by the cheerful fire and talked about the different things that God should be thanked for. The wind and rain without sounded cold and dreary, and some where out in the storm the poverty stricken father was trying to earn what he could to support his dear ones.

"How I do wish, we could have a turkey," said Alice, after a brief silence.

"Yes so do I, but how can we get one without the money," asked Gerald, the oldest boy.

All this time the mother was silent, but as soon as they stopped speaking she said, Dears, we will try to have a nice dinner and be thankful to God without a turkey."

With this promise the children were satisfied.

Just then a knock was heard at the door and Mrs. Ray went to open it. What do you suppose she saw there as she opened the door? Her husband with a great many bundles and among them all was the crown of Thanksgiving day,—a turkey.

"Why, John, where did you get all of these things?"

"Come, into the kitchen," said her husband, "and I will tel you all about it."

As soon as they reached the place named, they sat down, and he narrated his story. He said that the man he had been working for had paid him a present of ten dollars, and he had bought all these goodies, and had two dollars left, for these were days when it was very hard to get money, and a littie would buy a great deal. Mrs. Ray at once set to work to prepare the feast as the children called it.

After dinner, all thanked God for their bountiful dinner. The rest of the afternoon was spent in playing games. Never before had the Ray family enjoyed such a Thanksgiving dinner.

How an Acorn Grew

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about an acorn and how it grew. I am an acorn growing on a tree. For a little while I will fall. I will then stay on the ground a while and a sprout will grow out. Now I am a little green plant but I am growing bigger, and will soon be quite a big tree.

Now I see a man coming with an ax. He looks at me and says that I am a good tree to cut down for a floor, so he cuts me down.

The next day he came with a horse and pulled me down into an open spot. He came another day and took me to a mill. Now they have sawed me into boards.

One day a man came and bought me with some others and took us to his home and made us into a floor. The man said that we made a good floor.

A Real Snowstorm

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about our first storm of the year. The 29th day of November at six o'clock it began to snow. The next day there was a foot of snow on the ground. The city had to turn out the snowplows.

Everybody came around in sleighs. We had a lot of fun sliding.

My Exciting Dream

Dear Uncle Jed: Last night I dreamed that, one day as I was going along a country road I heard a noise not far from me. I turned around to see what it was and I saw an aeroplane. The engineer asked me if I knew where he could get gas. I told him that he had to go a half a mile to get some gas. He left his aeroplane there and walked to the garage. After he fixed his aeroplane and put in the gas, he asked me if I wanted a ride. I will not refuse. I went into the aeroplane and up I went. When we were high up in the air something happened to the engine and down we came. When I awoke I found myself on the floor. My mother asked me what was the matter. I told her about my dream. I was glad that the dream was not true.

The First Thanksgiving Day

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first composition. I have written [illegible] before. I go to Sunny Acres [illegible] I am in the seventh grade. I am [illegible] years old on the 20th of November.

The First Thanksgiving Day—When the Mayflower reached the New England coast the weather was cold. Of course we thought we were in Virginia. But when we looked around we found land, not a house was in sight. We were tired of traveling on the sea, so we finally decided to make a settlement in New England. The next thing we did was to make a contract. We called the contract we called the "Mayflower compact."

Then we got off the ship and said that a God for bringing us safely to land. The next thing we did was to start a fire and some of us went hunting turkeys. The fires were soon blazing. The hunters came back with turkeys. Our wives soon had the meals ready and we sat down to eat. The women went back to the ship with the children and the men began to build houses from logs. After the houses were made we moved our utensils from the ship.

When we had all things ready we brought the women and the children from the ship. Then the ship sailed away. We watched it till it disappeared. Then going to our log houses fixed things up. The winter was very severe and we had hardly enough to eat. Many of our company died of starvation. Some were shot by the unfriendly Indians while they went out for food or going to church. The winter ended. Very few of our company were left.

But when planting season came the friendly Indians taught us to plant corn with fish. They also taught us to plant potatoes and other vegetables. The months passed and harvest soon came. Gov. Bradford and I looked over the golden fields of corn. "Brother Brewster," said Bradford to me, "Don't you think it would be nice to set a week aside to thank God for giving us such a harvest."

I liked this idea very well so we went about telling our good hunters and fishermen to prepare for a Thanksgiving dinner. We told the housewives and sweet maidens to get pumpkin pies ready and also the turkeys that the men brought from hunting. When the feast was ready we invited the friendly Indians and in the morning we held the sermon.

At twelve o'clock we ate the great dinner and after having a fine time we all went home happily and waited for the next Thanksgiving day to come.

NEW LONDON CHINESE IN TERROR, FEARING TONG VISITATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 14.—The Chinese population here tonight are living in terror for their lives at the hands of the Nip Tong society of New York, and as a result of their intimidation every Chinese place in the city was in darkness, excepting the Far East and Canton restaurants and the Chinese tea and coffee house, Golden street. At the last named place, where a large assemblage of Chinese residents takes place every Sunday night, a police officer in uniform and a plain clothes officer will be stationed throughout the night, for it is at this place that the Chinese believe an attack on the lives of Chinese will occur, if any attempt to committing murder by the band is attempted in this city. Not a single Chinese laundry, and there are many of them in the city, was open tonight, when under ordinary conditions the laundries are open until 11 o'clock.

The alarm, whether caused by reliable information or not, resulted when the proprietor of the Chinese tea and coffee house became possessed of information that two or more Chinese tong members were en route from New York to this city. As soon as the information was received the Chinese visited the police station and requested protection.

That the local Chinese are fearful of a visit from the New York tongmen there is not the slightest doubt, for some of the race make no endeavor to conceal their alarm, especially when it is known that two or more are members of the New York society.

Matteo Sutara paid a big price in the police court Saturday for the hunting privilege which he enjoyed without having the legal permit to do so. He and his son Michael, went from their home at 535 Huntington street to the woods north of Connecticut College grounds, which grounds they crossed to get into the woods to hunt rabbits. The son had a hunting license but his father was without the necessary document. They carried a ferret in a tin box suspended by a strap, the outfit being exactly the shape of the letter boxes seen in the rural sections. They hunted all day and later in the afternoon were on their way home when Deputy Game Warden George L. Bliven came upon them. He saw that Matthew dropped something to the ground. A puppy, that accompanied the hunters grabbed whatever Matteo dropped and ran with it to the bushes. Matteo called to the dog and he returned to the father, when the latter took the object and threw it into the bushes. Then it was discovered by Bliven that the dog had a grey squirrel. Bliven secured the squirrel and saw that it had been shot but a very short time, for the blood was still fresh upon it. He accused Matteo but the latter declared that he had never seen the squirrel till then, and represented that when the dog brought it to him there was a smell from the squirrel so he threw it away. The court did not take that view of the case and so fined Matteo $6 and attached the costs of trial to the penalty, which made the sum paid to the court about $25. Ambrose Cassara was called upon to interpret the facts which the accused testified, but the translation of the facts were not such as would raise a doubt as to the guilt of Matteo as claimed by the state through Warden Robert B. Chappell and his deputy.

The police are apparently making an effort to clear the sidewalks of boxes and barrels that are left near the curbings, contrary to ordinance, for they have within a few days notified merchants to comply with the law or take the consequences by prosecution. The merchants seem disposed to defy the ordinance, placing crates, etc., on the walks daily, under the pretense that the cases have just been deposited and that they are in process of removal as soon as the goods can be transferred to the stores. This action is being checked up and on the result prosecution will depend.

An automobile, a Hudson coupe, owned by A. G. Gunahl, 470 Belmont avenue, Springfield, Mass., was stolen early Saturday morning from Meridian street. Gunahl parked his car between State and Church streets, about eleven o'clock Friday night locking both doors, and when he went to take charge of his machine at 7.30 o'clock Saturday morning, he discovered that it was missing. Gunahl reported his loss to the police.

Tonight the stolen automobile was found on Huntington street and placed in a garage.

William H. Rowe, 83, died late Friday night at his home, 90 Broad St., and by his death the eldest of the banking men in this city has passed away. Mr. Rowe had been in failing health several years, but it was not until a few weeks ago that he was confined to his home. Mr. Rowe is survived by no near relatives. He was born in Utica, N. Y. but received his education in the public schools in this city. Following his graduation Mr. Rowe was employed as an accountant and was later employed by the First National bank, when that institution was located on State street. Later he entered the employ of the New London City National bank, remaining with the institution until he was retired a number of years ago, at which time he was cashier. Mr. Rowe was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of the late James Jeffery. His second wife was Miss Ida Smith, sister of Miss Stella Smith, who has long made her home with Mr. Rowe.

Mrs. Coolidge, wife of President Calvin Coolidge, was a passenger on the Federal express, which passed through New London Saturday en route from Boston to Washington, Mrs. Coolidge having received honors from her Alma Mater at Boston Friday. While the train was at the union station, Thomas F. Dorsey boarded it and presented Mrs. Coolidge a beautiful bunch of roses.

The probe by a special committee of the city council to determine the efficiency of the police department, will not be continued until Tuesday or Wednesday night. The witnesses who will appear before the committee at the next session of the committee will be Street Sergeants Samuel Hick and Patrick Murphy.

Mrs. John Anderson and infant daughter, of Colman street; Mrs. Herbert Green, Westerly; Mrs. Theodore Palmer and infant daughter, Niantic; Dana Delaporte, Shaw street; William Arkand, U. S. S. Downes; Mrs. Peter Syracuse, Jefferson avenue; Calvin Hardy, U. S. S. Camden and Hugh Crowell, U. S. S. Henley, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Mrs. Louise Seyfreid Smith, 42, wife of F. Lester Smith, died late Friday night at her residence, 263 Montauk avenue. She was the daughter of Mrs. Anna M. and the late William H. Seyfreid.

Three drunks, one a resident of Groton, were coralled in the police dragnet Saturday night and will be presented in the police court Monday morning.

Complaint has been made several times of a gang of young men engaging in crap shooting Sundays on the vacant lot in the rear of the Bottinelli Granite works, Bliuman street. This afternoon another complaint was lodged with Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh, who was on duty at the corner of Bank and Howard streets. The officer went to the lot and arrested three of the gang. All three are minors and were turned over to Probation Officers Thomas Cavanaugh and will be given a hearing in the juvenile court Monday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock.

Patrolman Ernest Opperman in making his rounds at Ocean Beach late Saturday afternoon, discovered the entrance of the cottage at 73 Neptune avenue, owned by Louis Lubchansky, 45 Howard street unlocked. The owner was notified and made the place secure. So far as was determined nothing of value was taken from the place.

Thomas Ragonese, proprietor of a store at 2 Truman street complained to Patrolman Patrick Sheehan late Saturday night that two men entered his place of business shortly before midnight and attempted to remove a slot machine and it was only by force that Ragonese prevented the men from taking the machine away.

Thieves operated among lodgers at the Hotel Winthrop, State street, Saturday night, for two rooms there this morning reported to the police the theft of clothing and jewelry.

L. B. Bridges, a sailor, stationed at the submarine base, reported that his room was entered and a suit of clothes, $40 and a gold watch and chain was stolen. Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the case and visiting the hotel, he found the clothes beneath a mattress in an unoccupied room but no trace of the money or watch and chain was found. Michael Sullivan, Pawcatuck, R. I., reported that his overcoat had been stolen. Sergeant Cavanaugh located the garment in another unoccupied room, together with an overcoat, the owner of which was not known.

There are three stretches of walk on the east side of Montauk avenue that are greatly in need of repair or relaying. They are dangerous now and in cold weather when there is ice on the ground they will prove a menace to pedestrians. Why they have been tolerated in the condition in which they have been for a long time is a mystery to all who use them, and that number is the thousands. One of the worst is in front of the car barns, where pedestrians wade in wet weather, and where they run the risk of falling in icy weather. That is the only spot on the avenue where there is no walk. In other spots the walk is broken to a degree that passage over them is risky to limbs. The attention of the city management has been called to these spots through the newspapers, but no heed has been taken of the complaints. It is said that favoritism saved the owners of the property from being obliged to lay the walks, and that political pull kept them immune. The same was true on lower Bank street till recently, when new walks were laid and the people who walked over them rejoiced.

Carl Mundy, 140 Main street, who a few days ago reported to the police that his mackinaw had been stolen from the tug Underwriter, which was seized a few days ago charged with being a rum-runner and which is now moored at the state pier, informed the police today that he had recovered the coat from a fellow worker on board the tug.

David Fienette of Norwich, late last night, requested the New London police to notify his father, Emile Fienette, 185 Howard street, that the former's wife was in a dying condition. The elder Fienette was located and the sad news imparted to him.

Two young men were taken into custody in Waterford late last night on suspicion of having robbed a man named Williams of $500. An investigation was conducted which lasted until about 1 o'clock this morning, without any tangible clues being obtained.

Joseph Bixby, employed by the New York and Eastern News company, at New Haven, and formerly in charge of the company's news stand in this city, is under treatment at a New Haven hospital.

The fire department was called out shortly before Saturday midnight, when a lively blaze was discovered in the grocery store conducted on Howard street, corner of Woodbridge street, by Samuel Miller. The fire was burning briskly, and but a short time after Miller closed the store. An alarm was rung in from Box 42, corner of Bank and Howard streets, calling out a majority of the city's fire fighting equipment. Streams of chemicals were directed upon the flames, which were located in the rear of the store, and were extinguished within a few minutes, but not until much of the stock had been damaged. How the fire originated is not known.

Benjamin M. Lee, former state senator, reached his 71st birthday today. The event was quietly celebrated at his home in Waterford.

HOWARD WORTHEN, BRAKEMAN, SLIPS; HAS ARM CRUSHED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 14.—Howard Worthen, 49, of 49 Berkley avenue, and employed as brakeman in the freight service of the New York New Haven and Hartford railroad, is in a serious condition tonight in Lawrence hospital, suffering from severe injuries sustained late Friday night when he was run over by cars of the train on which he was employed, at East Lyme. Worthen suffered a laceration of the right arm, which necessitated its amputation at the shoulder, also received a bad scalp wound. He is suffering considerably from shock, it was said at the institution tonight.

Worthen, who is married, was employed on the Guilford-New London local. The train made its trip from Guilford to Midway Friday and started on the return trip early Friday night. When East Lyme was reached, switching duty was started and while riding one of the several cars that were being switched Worthen fell from the side step of the car. When his body landed upon the roadbed his arm was extended across the rail, resulting in the wheels crushing it below and above the elbow. He was found by members of the train crew and placed in the caboose, brought to this city and rushed to the hospital.

JEWETT CITY

"Gib" Miner literally got smoked out of his "residence" in the rear of the Maynard block, a few minutes after 6 Sunday morning. In answer to the turned in by Mrs. B. W. Albertine for station 14, Chief Wakely and his men found the shed in a lively blaze. A tank of chemical and a one-pipe stream did the business. Brother Miner was asleep inside and escaped clad in a horse blanket. A garage standing near got fairly warm, but was in no danger. The loss is not far from 75 cents.

Twelve years ago this month, the late James B. Palmer, proprietor of the famous Round Hill farm and the master Guernsey cattle breeder of this end of the state, got out his famous calendar. The calendar, reprinted from a photograph, could hardly be duplicated today, as being produced from actual service cattle, and not made up for the occasion, it stood in a class by itself. The title of the calendar was "Palmer and his Team."

The original photograph was taken of a section of the Norwich pike, which extends for several rods through the Round Hill farm. Mr. Palmer in his shirt sleeves, long whip in hand, stands beside his team of five yoke of oxen. The rear pair or wheel yoke, is hitched to the one-time 12 ft. 4 in wheel farm wagon, made to carry a cord and a half of firewood. Mr. Palmer's team was valued at $1500 averaging $300 for each yoke. Mr. Palmer's calendar became so popular among cattle breeders that it was later enlarged and reprinted. Mr. Palmer's stock won over $12,000 in prizes in 20 years, also 75 medals and 3 silver cups. At the time of the issuance of his calendar, he was the owner of the two famous Guernsey bulls, "Bond Boy" and "Snap Shot." Mr. Palmer also raised a thoroughbred strain of Dorset horn, Shropshire, and Welsh mountain sheep, and people came hundreds of miles to see and buy his O. I. C. and Berkshire swine.

Things seem to be pretty well set to duplicate for Gov. Bingham the rousing republican vote of November, when this town went over 100 majority fod Dr. Jennings and President Coolidge. The democrats or Griswold did not even bother to hold a caucus to appoint emergency senatorial delegates. A sure method of losing Holt at the polls, is also get rid of the R. P. A., republican poll apathy. Griswold democrats are certain to show a fair line-up for Bingham, when comparisons are made by those who know.

Two fine audiences at Finn Opera house Saturday, saw the new screen play, Wild Oranges. Mr. Barnett is able to announce booking for two topliners. Abraham Lincoln and America.

Supt. A. A. Young of the Jewett City Water Co., has just completed with the aid of an engineer a 24-hour survey to determine the amount of water supplied the town. The survey was continuous, and the figures secured were the result of measurements taken every fifteen minutes.

An old-time local railroad man went down to the depot the other day to take a look at the new gas wagons that have in a measure supplanted the steam trains. After looking the machine over critically, and after having ejactulated "Well I swan," very vehemently, he was overheard to wonder what the shades of Dan Preston, Al Walker, Sid Williams and John Cobleigh, must think of such doings, and he thought that even the old Pequot, Mohegan, Ware and Nathan Hale must stir in their scrap heaps.

Richard Howard enjoyed a visit from his family on his 81st birthday Thursday. There were two birthday cakes with candles made by Mrs. Kate Hurst and Mrs. Merton Bugbee. Mrs. Hurst and daughters from Moosup and Miss Frances Bugbee of Lisbon were guests at Mr. Howard's home for the anniversary.

The Christmas tree and entertainment at the Congregational church will be held on the Tuesday evening preceding Christmas. Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. E. H. Silcox and Miss Sadie Thompson have charge of the programme, Mrs. Silcox's class of decorating the tree, Dr. G. H. Jennings class and William McNicol of the candy and Supt. E. L. French and Doris Johnson's class of boys will get the tree.

Mrs. Andrew McNicol returned Saturday from New York where she has been a patient in the Polyclinic hospital.

A very agreeable change was noted at the local railroad station Sunday night. The platform was well lighted, and trolley passengers were most appreciative. The railroad officials, investigation of the darkness at their station on Sunday nights evidently convinced them of need of lights and they lost no time in doing their utmost.

The Methodist church was well filled Sunday evening with a congregation which was much impressed by the portrayal of the story of Ruth, the Foreigner, as set forth by twenty people from Trinity Methodist church, Norwich. The costumes added greatly to the Biblical effect and the parts were splendidly carried out, both in manner and speech. It was given under the direction of Mrs. William H. Bath, wife of the district superintendent. The programme included four acts of sacred drama; the characters portrayed being:

Ruth, Bertha Hahn; Boaz, Louis Geer; Naomi, Isabel Shearer; Elimelech, Lloyd Cochran; Orpah, Elizabeth Pekham; Mahlon, Gilbert Denison; Chilion, Robert Zuccardy; Mecah, Albert Boardman; Overseer of Boaz's Field, Christopher G. Allen, elders of the city, Mr. Greenlaw, Mr. Kinney, Mr. McNeely; reapers and gleaners, Mr. Brown, Mr.Guile, Mr. Frink, Mrs. Cochran, Miss Gray; Women of Bethlehem, Mrs. O'Mara, Mrs. Greenlaw, Miss Mellor.

Act 1, Bethlehem. Act 2, two years later. Act 3, Harvest field of Boaz, Act 4 The City Gate, in ancient times the place of the court of law.

WILLIMANTIC-PUTNAM MEN STOLE FROM FREIGHT CARS

Willimantic, Dec. 14.—Walter Nowak of Chapman street was placed under arrest Sunday morning by Lieut. Frank McLean of the local police department and officers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, charged with breaking and entering freight cars east of the Milk street crossing a week ago Saturday, and last Saturday. Later in the day Chief Allan McArthur went to Putnam and arrested Stanley Nowak of that place, and a brother of Walter, charged with receiving stolen goods.

The third party implicated in the robbery, Charles Berzuple, of Putnam, later gave himself up to the local police, upon hearing that a warrant was out for his arrest, also on a charge of receiving stolen goods. Berzuple is said to be proprietor of a business in Putnam. The stolen articles consisting of automobile accessories including wrenches, dash lights, etc., have been recovered and are at the police station here. They will be introduced as evidence when the trio will be presented in the local police court Monday morning.

CATH. FRANCO-AMERICAN FEDERATION CONVENES

Willimantic, Dec. 14.—The seventh annual convention of the Catholic Franco-American Federation of New England opened in this city Sunday evening and will come to a close on Monday evening. The opening session was held in the town hall at 7.30 o'clock and was public. There were about 100 delegates in attendance from Providence, New Haven, Hartford, Waterbury, New Britain and other nearby towns and cities, including a delegation from Assumption college, Woonsocket, R. I. There were about 20 priests among those in attendance.

The programme Sunday evening began with a selection by the Euterpean orchestra, of this city and The Star Spangled Banner was sung by the Federation quartet, of Woonsocket. The preliminary address was by Eugene J. Jalbert, of Woonsocket, and the address of welcome was made by Acting Mayor George W. Hickey, who also presented a key of the city to President Jaberit. The key was donated by Aldeke Beaulieu of this city and is three and one-half feet in length, made of hard wood, coated with grit. The response to the welcome was by Aime Forcier, vice president of the federation. The songs, Les Pecheurs De Paris and La Boheme, were rendered in excellent voice by Georges Levesque and Albert Roy, of the Woonsocket quartet. An address was given by Rev. Louis Lalande, head of St. Mary's college, of Montreal, after which Les Storees de Quebec and O Carillon were rendered by the Woonsocket quartet.

Air du Toreador by Albert Roy, and Pales of Arcady, were given by Eli Vezina, secretary to L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique. The concluding numbers were Derniers volonthes-Vouillot by Ovide Thibeault, Ah, Futes Douce Image, by Georges Levesque and O Canada, by the Woonsocket quartet.

The reception committee was assisted by wecoming the visitors by ten members of Garde Sacred Heart of this city under the direction of Capt. Arthur Verteseulile. The invitation committee comprised President Joseph F. Gaudreau and Secretary Alphonse Chagnon, of the local organization. Each delegate was given a badge to which was attached a miniature spool of thread donated by the American Thread company.

Monday's session is to be held at the Al Pierre Tabarin, on Valley street and will follow a high mass at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's church, which will be celebrated by Rev. J. C. Lafossiere, chaplain of the federation.

At noon a luncheon will be served in St. Mary's hall by the members of St. Anne's society. Mrs. George Baillargeon is chairman, assisted by the members of St. Anne's counsell.

SANDBAGGED FARMER HAS FRACTURED SKULL

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Dec. 14. — Robert Browning of Scotland, who was victimized in a sandbagging assault believed by some authorities to have been perpetrated by three bobbed hair young women as he was milking cows in his barn, last Monday night, is suffering from a fractured skull, it developed Saturday. It was thought that the young man was recovering from the effects of the blow which he received on the back of his head when he was attacked and robbed of $5, but with the sudden development of sharp pain an X-ray was taken revealing that the skull had been fractured. Browning was advised to take a long rest of several weeks and Saturday noon he was removed to the Day-Kimball hospital in Putnam where a specialist will determine his injuries. The identity of the assailant or assailants remains a mystery.

NUMBER FOUR

who knew him as a loved and loving companion—all filed past the massive coffin, which was flanked by banks of flowers and draped with the American flag.

As the hour approached for the start of the cortege to the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad station streets along the line of march were roped off.

Two special coaches on a regular M., K. & T. train waited at the depot for their passenger and the labor officials who had been Mr. Gompers' official council in life and were now his chief mourners in death.

The rear observation coach was made ready to receive the casket, while members of the labor group were to occupy a sleeping car just ahead. Two beds were placed in the funeral car near the casket for the labor officials.

Told He Might Not Survive

While at the Mexican capital Mr. Gompers was stricken with a recurrence of the ailment that had kept him more or less an invalid for some years. Complicated by a slight cold and aggravated by the high altitude, he was unable to attend the closing ceremonies of the inauguration.

Wednesday night he left Mexico City on a special train and arrived here yesterday afternoon. At that time he said he believed death was near and he wanted to reach the United States before the end. He remained cheerful and as he approached San Antonio yesterday insisted upon dressing and sitting up, but his doctors told him firmly that he should remain abed. He was able, however, to make his own plans for his stay in San Antonio, and saying he preferred a hotel room, cancelled plans for having him taken to a hospital.

At 3:30 in the morning physicians told Mr. Gompers the end was near and summoned members of his family. Surrounding him in his last moments were the men with whom he had fought many of labor's battles through a generation of American union labor developments. At his bedside and holding his hand was James Duncan, of Quincy, Mass., vice-president of the Federation, who has stood shoulder to shoulder with his leader for forty-four years. Their parting was pathetic.

Holding his other hand was William D. Mahlon, of Detroit, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, whom the dying federation president affectionately called "Bill" and whom he had told several days ago that he wished to shake by the handjust before he went.

When the doctor announced that the end had come labor officials gathered about the bed and each laid an affectionate hand on the brow or the hand of their leader and each in turn said "Good by, Sam." Each desired to touch the fallen leader while he still was in a manner theirs.

Died of Heart Disease

The primary cause of death was acute heart disease with pulmonary oedema, complicated by advanced nephritis and arterial hypertension. Dr. Lee Rice sketched the patient's medical history after his arrival in San Antonio briefly as follows:

"The heart rate on arrival was 160, but under the influence of digitalis it had slowed down to 140 at 11 p. m. From this time he was improving until a sudden collapse occurred at 2.30 a. m., when his heart refused to respond to stimulation.

"Epinephrin was used and he was bled a pint and a half of blood to relieve congestion of his lungs. After each procedure he rallied for a few minutes, but almost at once collapsed.

"I was told he had been suffering from diabetes. Two specimens taken durmg the evening were free from sugar and this disease did not participate in the final attack.

"The heart was fibrillating (absolute irregularity) when he arrived, but it is not known how long this condition had existed.

"I told Mr. Gompers at 2.30 that he was in a critical condition and might not pass through the night. He understood but did not respond, his heavy breathing preventing any spoken words."

Mayor Tobin issued the following proclamation:

"In the sad death of Samuel Gompers mankind has lost a great exponent of human rights and one whose name will live through the ages.

"San Antonio mourns him with a sorrow made more acute by his sad passing away in our midst.

"Let our people meet at the railroad station this evening at 11 o'clock when the train will start on the journey home, to testify to their respect for this great and good man, who commanded the admiration of the world and whose life is an inspiration to all."

Duncan Sees No Change of Policy.

Samuel Gompers gained his wish, death on American soil, after an heroic effort to remain alive over the 1,000-mile route from Mexico City to San Antonio, where it was hoped he would find conditions more favorable for retaining the spark of life that first began to flutter dangerously in the rarified atmosphere of the Mexican capital last Saturday.

Along with some 300 other American labor leaders, Mr. Gompers left Juarez for Mexico City Nov. 27, after attending the annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor at El Paso, Tex. At this convention he was elected president for the 43d time, when he was 74 years old.

That session was followed by a joint meeting of the American Federation of Labor and the Mexican Federation of Labor, of sessions of the Pan-American Federation of Labor and the inauguration of President Calles of Mexico, which officials of all three organizations attended at Mexico City.

TAFTVILLE

The confectionery and sporting goods store of George W. Weller in the Ponemah building was broken into Friday night, the cash drawer rifled and a fair sized sum of money stolen. Those who did the work were familiar with the property and the layout of the store, it was plain to see. Waiting [illegible] Officer Disco, who patrols this [illegible] night, was at the other end [illegible]n, they smashed a pane of [illegible] the window lock, snapped [illegible]ock and attempted to raise [illegible] but as the store had just been painted, the damp paint caused the window to stick. Failing in this, a whole pane of glass in the sash was broken, and as the panes are of good size, the burglar crawled through. There are lights on all night in the store, and it is believed that as soon as the cash drawer was emptied, the thief made a quick getaway as there was no merchandise disturbed. State police were called in to view the work, and as the paint was still moist on the sash, some excellent finger prints were made by the thief when he crawled through the window.

Mrs. Hattie Munroe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Towne, Mrs. Elizabeth Nevins, all of Norwich, Miss Mary Martin of South Fourth avenue, and John D. Nolan and family of the Canterbury turnpike have returned from Providence, R. I., where they attended the funeral of Frederick West, a native of Lisbon.

HAMILTON HOLT PLEDGES HIMSELF TO SUPPORT COOLIDGE ON COURT

Hamilton Holt, of Woodstock, democratic candidate for United States senator in the special election on Tuesday, declared to an audience of between 150 and 200 at a rally at the town hall Saturday night that the thing he would like to devote most of his attention to, if elected senator, was the consummation of an organization for world peace. Mr. Holt stated that he would support President Coolidge to the limit on the world court and he would be with the president whether in the majority or the minority because the president is right.

The rally was a little late in opening as the candidate's arrival in the city was delayed by slippery traveling on the way from Hartford. He was introduced by the chairman, Mayor Milo R. Ward, as one of the best Americans in the United States, one who had given his life to service for his fellow man and was courageous enough to be a real independent, standing for the right because it is right and for no other reason.

Mr. Holt was received with applause and he began his talk that he did not propose to spend any time discussing the issues that had been so thoroughly discussed in the recent national campaign, bue he wanted to tell candidly and frankly how he stood. The issue is simply what Col. Bingham will do and what he (Holt) will do if elected to the United States senate. The speaker said he had taken for a pattern what Benjamin Franklin once said to a delegation that called upon him to request his resignation from office. Franklin heard the spokesman's speech and then replied: Gentlemen, I never sought office, I never refused office, and I never resign office. I have made no pledges and I am beholden to no man, said Mr. Holt, and I promise not to resign before or after election.

Mr. Holt spoke of his interest in several of the important problems of the day, including the economic problem, the woman problem in regard to her new relations in modern development, the race problem which is akin to religious toleration, and the problem of how to abolish war. Every one is a problem of justice, for justice is at the bottom of each. The peace movement is the attempt to substitute reason for force. Peace is the outcome of justice, justice of the outcome of law, and law comes through an international organization. We have tried justice everywhere but in the international realm, but if we are to get world peace the first step is through world organization. I'm not wedded to either of these, the world court or the league of nations, said Mr. Holt, if any one will show a better way, but the republicans are dead wrong on the league and the democrats are afraid of it. President Coolidge is right on the world court, and I will support him to the limit. The world court is the most American thing in the world outside of America. We can go into either the court or the league without going into the other but if we go into the court we admit we have been wrong for the past five years and some don't like to do that.

Mr. Holt read a statement made by Col. Bingham as to his support of President Coolidge on the world court and said he would like to have Col. Bingham tell whether he proposed to stand by President Coolidge on the world court as proposed by President Harding and endorsed by President Coolidge, or is Col. Bingham with Borah, Pepper and Moses on the world court.

President Coolidge's message to congress, Mr. Holt said, contained 28 concrete suggestions, with 26 of which he could agree. The two with which he could not agree were the statement that the people did not want membership in the league of nations and the president's statement as to cancellation of war debts. I will support the president, continued Mr. Holt, in any liberal measure, domestic or foreign, I will oppose both parties when they are reactionary, but I will never be an obstructionist.

Returning again to the subject of war, he quoted a statement from William C. Redfield that if the world war had continued three months longer the allies would have had an immense fleet of airplanes, steered by the wireless, that would have been able to lay waste the city of Berlin, and he went on to speak of what another war might mean, with deadlier gasses than ever, the scattering of deadly germs, and the conscription of not only men but women and wealth. Our generals are the agents of force. Our statesmen are supposed to be the agents of reason. I honor the generals who are on the job. I dishonor the statesmen who are not on the job. Send me to the senate and I will be on the job.

Following the applause a number accepted the invitation of Chairman Waters to come forward and shake hands with the candidate as the rally came to a close.

CAUGHT USING GAS WITHOUT USING METER

Charles Turaszek of 127 West Main street tapped the gas main of the city and used gas from the local plant without bothering to have a meter installed by the city of Norwich Gas & Electrical department. He got away with it for about two months but was finally caught and in the city court Saturday morning paid for his work.

The arrest of Turaszek followed a complaint by the gas and electrical department that he was violating a law of the state in using gas belonging to the city without having it pass through a meter.

Turaszek paid $15 for using the gas, the department through General Manager Taggart, reporting to the court that the amount of gas used and the cost of repair work necessary to repair the line would amount to that sum.

Joseph Duhame and Hormisdas Varieur of Occum and Baltic, respectively, were charged with cruelty to animals. Duhame pleaded not guilty, he being the owner of the horse in question.

Irving Manning, Boy Scout, who discovered the horse dying on the side of the road, District Humane Officer F. H. Wyant and others testified in the case, bringing out the facts that Varieur left a horse belonging to Duhame on the Canterbury turnpike Friday night or last week after the horse had fallen in its tracks during the heavy rainstorm.

Judge Libby found that there was some negligence on the part of Duhame, but none on the part of Varieur, as the driver had done everything possible at that time. Duhame was fined $25 and costs, paying $36.56, the case against Varieur, his hired man, being nolled.

Duhame's difficulties started when he and some neighbors tried to draw two light loads of sawdust from a lumber yard in Norwich to Duhame's farm. After spending seven hours on the road because of the stubborn streak assumed by the two horses used for the work, Duhame managed to get his loads as far up Washington street and Canterbury turnpike where the animals absolutely refused to budge another step.

Because of the efforts put forth by the men to inveigle the horses to complete the journey folks in the immediate neighborhood thought that the animals were overloaded and so reported to District Agent Wyant who discovered only a case of balky horses and advised taking them out of the wagons and leading them home behind a light buggy which had come from the farm to find out what had become of the travelers as it had gotten to be 8 at night by this time and the caravan had left the farm shortly after lunch time.

The Connecticut Humane society was called at 7.45 Saturday morning by Irving Manning, a Boy Scout living about a mile and a half out on the Canterbury turnpike, who reported that there was a horse lying among some rocks on the side of the road nearly dead and asked that it be given immediate attention. Agent F. H. Wyant started for the scene, but upon his arrival was advised that the horse had died a few minutes before. Agent Wyant recognized the horse as one of those he had started on its homeward journey the night before and taking the matter up with Mr. Duhame at his farm Sunday morning was told that the horse drawing the buggy traveled so much faster than those led behind it, that it became necessary to place the two old horses in charge of two men to bring them home on foot. Mr. Duhame said one of the men arrived in good time but the other, Hormidas Varieur living at 35 Railroad street, Occum, came in without his charge and from the story he told Duhame said he believed that Varieur had killed the horse and he was getting ready to take the animal off the highway.

Mr. Varieur acknowledged he did not kill the horse. He said the horse had fallen down and when he found he could not get it back on its feet he had left it there.

The story was reported to City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins, who had the man brought before Judge Arthur F. Libby.

JEWETT CITY CAR STRUCK MRS. CHAS. DOW, WATERFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 14.—The New London police believe that they have located the owner and the driver of the automobile which run down and seriously injured Mrs. Florine W[illegible] wife of Charles Dow, of Phillips [illegible]et, Waterford, Nov. 8th. Mrs. Dow was crossing Green street, at the corner of Golden street and was struck by an automobile, which speeded away, leaving the woman unconscious in the street. Pedestrians went to the assistance of Mrs. Dow and had her taken home, where she was confined several days suffering from her injuries, which comprised numerous bruises, concussion of the brain and general shock. One of the witnesses of the accident located recently had obtained the registration of the car, N-210. The matter of locating the owner of the automobile was given to the state police at Groton, and Saturday an officer found that the car which is registered in the name of Bronack Kulas, 1 Phillips street, Jewett City, was in charge of Anthony Koslawsky, Brown street, Jewett City, and employed by Edward Neiderman, 341 Thames street, Norwich, and the machine was in New London the day that Mrs. Dow was run down and injured. Kulas, who made known the fact that Koslawsky had charge of the automobile the day of the accident at the police station Saturday night, declared that Koslawsky had figured in several accidents while operating the former's car. The information will be turned over to Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin Monday.

HELD CHRISTMAS SALE IN BROADWAY STORE

Women of the United Congregational church held a most successful food, candy and Christmas green sale Saturday in the vacant store in the Central building, Broadway. The sale was well patronized and by noon nearly everything had been sold.

A novel scheme was followed in selecting the committee for the sale, women of the church whose birthdays come in December and June being selected, numbering 60 in all, with Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup as chairman. The proceeds of the sale are to be placed to the credit of the missions department of the church.

DUPONT GUN CLUB HAD COON SUPPER FEAST

The Dupont Gun club of this city enjoyed its annual coon dinner Sunday. The following members reported for duty and lined up for the feed bag. President Clyde Whitman; Secretary Gus Hague, Treasurer Charles Gauthier, and the famous cook of the club, Herman Falvy. The following menu was served by Charles Gauthier —Cocktail, mashed potatoes, squash, coon and rabbit, rolls and bread, coffee and celery, cigars and cigarettes. Music was furnished by different stations on the radio. Roy Messer was toastmaster, calling upon the champion bass catcher of eastern Connecticut, Fred Lockwood, who gave a short talk on methods of his own. Next Gus Hague followed with an interesting talk on long distance casting. Whitman, Gauthier and Prof. Hague rendered a few popular solos. The club gave a rising vote of appreciation to the club's famous chef, Falvy. Another supper will be served in the near future.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS ADD SEVEN MEMBERS

Seven new members were initiated at a meeting of Norwich council, No. 308, U. C. T., Saturday evening in Roseland hall, Market street. There was a large attendance and the senior councillor, Leroy Searle, of New London, presided. The usual reports were heard and accepted after which the following candidates were initiated:

Milton Adnopoz of the Yantic Grain Co., Henry E. Hudson of Galt Bros., New London; William E. Mitchell, American Confectionery Co., Norwich; Nathan Santer, of P. Adel Co., New London; William J. Cotter of J. S. Sills & Co., of New York; Leroy P. Johnson of L. W. Carroll & Son Co., Norwich; Fred L. Service, Gardner Hall, Jr., of South Willington.

The council is making plans to hold a minstrel show in Norwich and one in New London this winter. It was decided to hold alternate meetings in Norwich and New London hereafter. The next meeting will be held in Odd Fellows' hall, New London, January 10th.

To date the membership of Norwich council is 191 and there are three applications on hand for the next meeting. The goal set for this winter is the 200 membership mark. Out of 131 councils in New England, some of which have memberships of 1,000 to 1,300, Norwich council has secured more new members this year than any two councils put together. The present membership is now ahead of that in Bridgeport.

ANTI-LEAGUE, DEMOCRATS TO WORK FOR BINGHAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Moosup, Dec. 14. — Dr. Frank P. Downing of this town, presidential elector on the LaFollette ticket and many more progressive and anti-League of Nations democrats will appear at the polls working for Col. Bingham for senator Tuesday. Over in Sterling Charles B. Montgomery and a score or more other democrats and progressives will also assist in getting out the anti-League of Nations vote to be registered against Holt for senator. Montgomery said in an interview with a New York paper, "Yes, I filed a protest against the secretary of state placing his name on the ballot contrary to law and should he be elected, he'll find that protest will be considered before he is seated in Washington." In speaking of the name of Holt going on the official ballot Dr. Frank P. Downing said: "It looks to me as if it was a high-handed proceeding. I was a candidate for presidential elector on a progressive ticket in November, and it cost our party much valuable time and money to secure the legal number of signers in the time required by law. I don't believe that law was made for progressives alone, if so its very near time Connecticut had one law to apply to all. I believe Montgomery's protest was not only the correct thing to do but timely also, as time may yet tell."

MOOSE MAKING PLANS FOR PITCH TOURNAMENT

At the meeting of Norwich lodge, No. 950, Loyal Order of Moose, held Friday night at Moose home, considerable business of routine nature was transacted, a large number of members being present when Dictator George Heibel, Jr., opened the meeting.

A committee consisting of Ivan S. Maynard, S. A. DeRusha and Bernard Wunderlick, was named to arrange with New London lodge of Moose for a pitch tournament to be played soon. Charles O. Wright, R. A. Krohn and Bernard Wunderlick, the committee in charge of arranging for the annual Ladies' night, reported that plans had been completed and that the evening should prove to be most enjoyable for every one.

Other matters of interest to the lodge were discussed following which adjournment took place and refreshments served.

BIG IMPROVEMENT IN COURT HOUSE CHANDELIERS

Under the direction of Supt. Joseph J. Fields, alterations in the electrical chandeliers in the upper corridor at the court house has just been completed by the O'Neil Electrical Co., in accordance with recommendations made by the insurance underwriters. The two old chandeliers each carrying 75 watt lights, have been replaced by two pendant globes of special design because of the size of the hallway and the height of the ceiling. Each globe carries a 300 watt lamp, making 600 watts in use instead of 1,200 besides giving a better light.

It is hoped to extend the improvement to other halls in the court house and to the town hall.

THE HUMAN TONGUE THEME OF FR. GALVIN'S SERMON

"Let us as Catholics utter only that which is good, charitable, pure and holy," said Rev. Myles P. Galvin, summing up his instruction at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday. "Then we will be helping others to attain their salvation, while building up merit for ourselves for eternity." Father Galvin was continuing his sermons on the Ten Commandments, dealing specifically with the Fifth, "Thou shalt not kill." He had considered on previous Sundays God's command against any destruction of human life, also those passions—anger, envy, revenge—which often lead to murder. These militate against the life of the body.

But even above physical life God values the life of the soul—which can be destroyed only by sin. Such calamity may be brought about by the individual who not only threatens the life of his own soul, but causes others to lose their souls, either through word, deed or omission. Father Galvin took up the wondrous power of the human tongue either for good or evil, touching on the possibilities of speech in influencing others. He cited the example of the man who ridicules everything religious or holy, the person whose stories or jokes are impure, causing impure thoughts, desires, often acts in others, who are young and innocent. The person who causes scandal, by seeking out the faults, misfortunes or lapses of others, then peddling the gossip industriously, was rebuked; also those parents or others who use profane speech before children, who are imitative, alert, prone to think their parents or elders proper exemplars. Too often, the preacher said, Catholics in these ways give scandal to neighbors who take them as samples of their church and religion. He reminded such of the warning of the Saviour, that it were better for a man to have a millstone about his neck and be cast into the sea than to scandalize "one of these little ones." Most emphatic was the preacher in insisting upon prompt and thorough correction of these sins of the tongue.

Father Galvin later assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the low mass, in administering holy communion to the usual large number of penitents who had gone to confession the previous day. The hymns during the mass were by the junior choir, ending with congregational singing of Holy God, We Praise Thy Name, Mr. Farrell being at the organ. The epistle for the third Sunday in Advent was Philippians, ix. 4-7, and the gospel John I 19-28. The day was "Gaudette (joyful) Sunday," from the first word of the Introit read by the priests, "Rejoice in the Lord always; again I say, rejoice."

TO CLOSE LOOPHOLE FOR DRINKING DRIVERS

To close up a loophole by which automobile operators under the influence of drink have been able to escape punishment in some police courts, the state motor vehicle department takes the stand in its December bulletin, just issued, that "for the protection of all, any person who drinks and then operates must be considered drunken" and within the state law which requires suspension of the operator's license for a year and a penalty of a maximum fine of $100 and a jail sentence, or both.

"Time to deal harshly with the drunken operator and the willfully reckless," is the subject of the bulletin, which says that there is no place on the highways for those who drink, evade responsibility and show sheer disregard for the safety of others.

"There is no worse offense in the category of crimes than that of operating while under the influence of liquor," it says. While the punishment meted out by courts to offenders of this class is severe the bulletin intimates that it needs to be even more severe. Court statistics are quoted to show that nearly twice as many jail sentences have been imposed this year for driving while intoxicated and evading responsibility as last year. Trouble in securing adequate evidence that a driver suspected of drunkenness actually was drunk is responsible for the fact that the number of jail sentences is not larger.

"The test of who is or is not guilty, as applied by police and courts," continues the bulletin, "seems to be whether the person accused was intoxicated enough so that the liquor interferred with his physical faculties." For proof of this, the courts usually depend upon a doctor's certificate based entirely on the driver's physical condition.

"Common sense and a study of those accidents which can be traced to intoxication demonstrate that proof that a man is or is not intoxicated does not necessarily depend upon the physical condition," it says, "Liquor sometimes clouds the mind and warps the judgment long before it has any physical effect," so that a physical test is not satisfactory. "What is needed is to enter into an inquiry as to mental condition induced by drinking in cases where it has not been long continued or liquor taken in sufficient quantity to cause physical intoxication. In other words, the test must be applied to the mental and not the physical state. For this purpose, there does not seem to be available any possible criterion for exact determination, so for the purpose of police enforcement a broad principle is laid down that no person who has been drinking at all ought to be allowed to operate a car. Drinking and operating should be entirely out of the question for anyone, however well he may think he can control himself. A man even mildly under the influence of liquor is incompetent to judge his own faculties under such circumstances."

The department does not subscribe to the theory, tried out in some other states, that the best results are obtained by making a jail sentence obligatory in all cases of driving while under the influence of liquor, because the knowledge that a jail term was certain to follow might have the effect of putting the discretion as to whether a man should or should not be sent to jail into the hands of the prosecutor, who, in some cases might discriminate in prosecuting. It is thought wiser, to leave the discretion to the court.

It is suggested that the legislature "be asked to authorize, at state expense, a conference of judges and prosecutors of courts, either by counties, so save expense, or in a single group, for consideration of the subjects of uniformity of discipline and exact determination of punishment, so that all courts may uniformly handle similar cases, retaining common sense discretion for cases in which there are extenuating circumstances."

The bulletin makes it plain that fast driving is not always to be considered reckless driving. "There are many instances," it points out, "where speeding is too fast to go unpunished, because of the fact that the car is out of control for an emergency which might arise, but a higher degree of speed than ordinary is perhaps not unreasonable on a road where there is no traffic and no danger to others. However, if considered unreasonable by an officer there ought to be provision under the law whereby a different charge than reckless driving can be made." As the law now stands, many people are punished for reckless driving who are not intentionally reckless, and such people ought not to be classed in the same category with those who are determinedly and willfully regardless of the rights, safety and property of others.

PASTOR HUNZINGER PREACHES AT ENGLISH SERVICE

The second evening service in English was held Sunday at the First Evangelical Lutheran church on Franklin street with the sermon by the pastor, Rev. H. Hunzinger.

In part he spoke as follows:

There is an old, old saying that life is a dread. This thought has brought to a certain extent consolation and peace to many a weary soul. The great Spanish author, Calderon de la Barca, has made this thought the theme of one of his immortal plays. Poets and artists of all lands have visualized it with pen, paint and marble. Our life—a dream! No matter how and where we are spending it—no matter if the bluebird of happiness touches our soul with its tender wing and leads us on to the glorious heights of life or if we must dwell in the dark hole of misery, utterly helpless and overruled by the evil spirits of hopelessness and despair. The moment of death will be for us the moment of awakening and suddenly we will plunge into the reality of the great unknown. My friends, do not be misled by this false and dangerous philosophy. Thank God for it that it contains more poetry than truth. Thank God that life is a reality. For if all is a dream, what's all the excitement for? The great ups and downs of life, its gladness and sorrows, tears and kisses—it honors and shakes like the waves of the ocean splashing against the rocks of the shore—all in vain; all in vain. If life is a dream that is mocking you and scaring you, isn't it wonderful to know that you can shake it off at any time like a poisonous snake and get rid of it.

If life is a dream—then love and hope and faith in God are over. God himself is a dream—then nothing is certain than the uncertain and nothing constant than inconstancy. Do you see now where this false and dangerous doctrine will land you?

Life is a reality and we have to endure it, overcome it, conquer it. It is [illegible] have roses enough for you in store, but too many thorns may pre[illegible] you from picking them. The thorns in life are your sins and sorrows. My dear friend, stop! look! listen! You can enjoy the roses of life and overcome the thorns by another reality that is even greater than life, the love of God. God is Love and he that abideth in love abideth in God—and God abideth in him."

There! That's good news for you, my soul. Are you heartbroken in utter despair. Cannot you see the light of the sun through the heavy veil of your tears? There's a light most powerful and sweet—a light that will bring everlasting gladness into your gloomy days, a light that will overcome the shadows of death.

[illegible]s love is the light of the world. God's love is the light in your soul, God's love has become man. It has assumed our flesh and blood. At Bethlehem in the manger it was burning, the first Christmas candle lit by God, the Father Himself. Jesus—the Babe in the manger. The eyes of our children become big and shiny, when they pronounce that sacred name. And those of us who have remained children in the spirit even if on their brows appear silver threads among the gold, bow their hearts and heads in that wondrous light: Jesus! Jesus is the realization of God's love. Abide in Jesus and you will abide in God!

Jesus—only a name—but what's in that name! It embraces the whole universe and it is poured into this world like a stream, whose waters rise from age to age. What did the coming of Jesus mean to this world?

There is an old legend, that at the birth of Jesus Christ everything stopped still—that nightbirds flying in the air became motionless, that the shepherd reaching his crook toward the sheep held it still, that the people eating a meal held their hands midway between the dish and the mouth and that everyone awake had the sudden inclination to be still. Historically this legend is far from being true, for there was almost nothing, that the world thought less about and paid less attention to, than the Babe that was born in the manger. And, yet, in a deeper sense the fiction was a fact. The world did stop still at the birth of the Child and began its thoughts and acts anew from the impulse of His life and love. And whatever it has of goodness and greatness today it has derived from Him.

And, friends, the same is true of you and me. Whatever we have in our lives of love and joy and peace we have derived from Him.

FORMER NORWICH BOY IN REAL ESTATE ORGANIZATION

The New York Herald and Tribune said Sunday:

Edward J. Crawford, who was recently called upon by the directors of the West Side Y. M. C. NEW YORK IS ARRANGING REVERENTIAL POSTMORTEM HONORS TO SAMUEL GOMPERS

Funeral Train is the Be Met By an Honor Committee Made Up of Leaders of 46 Labor Bodies, and Platoons Representing the Army, Navy and State Guard—Body Will Lie in State For 24 Hours in the Lodge Rooms of the Elks—Funeral Services at the Clubhouse Will Begin Thursday Morning at 9 O'Clock—All Traffic Arrangments Will Have Special Police Control—Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan Are to Head a Distinguished List of Honorary Pallbearers.

New York, Dec. 15.—Hugh Frayne, in charge of arrangements here for the funeral of Samuel Gompers, said his previous announcement that the ceremony would be held Thursday at Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Tarrytown, N. Y., was "official and final." Mr. Frayne said the plan had been approved over the long distance telephone by Frank Morrison, secretary, American Federation of Labor, and that reports that the funeral would be held Wednesday were incorrect.

Governor Alfred E. Smith and Mayor John F. Hylan will head a distinguished list of honorary pallbearers who will attend the funeral.

Mr. Frayne in official charge of the funeral arrangements, said tonight the body would arrive here Wednesday morning, coming over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad from Washington. It will be met by a double escort—an honor committee made up of leaders and members of 46 local labor bodies, and platoons representing the army, navy and state guard.

With the casket mounted on a gun caisson, and flanked by the A. F. of L. department heads who left the capital to meet it in a body at Cincinnati, the funeral party will proceed to the Elks' club on West Forty-third street with a screen of mounted and motorcycle police to clear the way. The route will be from the Pennsylvania station through Thirty-fourth street, Seventh avenue, Forty-second street and Sixth avenue.

The body of Mr. Gompers will lie in state in the great lodge room of the fraternal order for twenty-four hours beginning at 8 a. m. that morning.

The funeral services at the club house will start Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, according to Mr. Frayne. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free synagogue, will direct the Jewish religious service. After James Duncan, first vice president, A. F. of L., bids labor's farewell to its veteran leader, and the ceremony is concluded with the Masonic ritual, the funeral party will proceed to Tarrytown by automobiles.

All traffic arrangements will have special police control. Forty-third street will be closed to traffic between Broadway and Sixth avenue from 8 a. m. until the cortege is under way.

Mr. Frayne has asked that all automobiles which accompany the funeral party to Tarrytown be marked with a bow of black crepe attached to the right of the windshield.

With motorcycle police in advance, the cortege will move north to the city line, holding to Broadway the entire distance. The Westchester county police will relieve the New York officials there, and at Yonkers there will be a junction with a large representation from the Westchester Federation of Labor and the Westchester Building Trades Council. A band will play a dirge as the long line passes through Getty Square.

Mr. Frayne said it was the wish of the American Federation of Labor that the observances throughout should be marked with the spirit, not of "a labor funeral," but of the "funeral of Samuel Gompers, citizen."

The list of honorary pallbearers had accordingly been designated, Mr. Frayne said, with respect to the wide range of public and private associations Mr. Gompers had formed in his long and illustrious citizenship. With others still to be added, the list was in part:

WASHINGTON TO HAVE A FUNERAL PROCESSION

Washington, Dec. 15.—Arrangements were announced tonight for receiving the body of Samuel Gompers here tomorrow afternoon and for a funeral procession from the union station to the American Federation of Labor building where the casket bearing the late labor chief will lie in state for six hours before starting the journey to its last resting place in Sleepy Hollow, New York.

Arriving here at 2.45 o'clock, tomorrow afternoon, the body will be taken through the president's room at the station to the plaza where a funeral procession will form and escort the body to the Federation building in northwest Washington. The public will be admitted to the building after Mrs. Gompers and members of the immediate family have viewed the body. At 10.30 p. m. it will be taken back to the station and placed on a train for New York.

John B. Colpoys, Washington publisher, has been appointed marshal of the funeral procession, and the following have been designated active pallbearers: A. K. Lawson, president, Central Labor Union; E. J. Gainor, president, National Association of Letter Carriers; William H. Johnston, president, International Association of Machinists; James P. Noonan, president, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America; Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary-treasurer, National Federation of Post Office Clerks, and William H. FUNERAL TRAIN STOPPED 30 MINUTES IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Dec. 15 (By the A. P.)—Thousands of laboring men from Cincinnati and its environs paid tribute to Samuel Gompers, late president of the American Federation of Labor as the funeral train bearing his body pulled into Cincinnati tonight for a 30-minute stop before proceeding to Washington.

Large floral offerings purchased by contributions of those he had led were placed aboard the car that carried the body of their leader to his final resting place in Sleepy Hollow, Tarrytown, N. Y.

From the hoboes of America, whom Gompers helped to organize into a body, came a floral tribute in the ormt of a basket of chrysanthemums.

Mayor George P. Carrel filed past the casket as the representative of the city of Cincinnati. Immediately afterward came those affiliated with various labor unions who paid their respects while a band played "Nearer My God to Thee" and other appropriate hymns. Heads were bared as the funeral train departed at 9.30 p. m., for Parkersburg.

REVERENTIAL TRIBUTES AS FUNERAL TRAIN COMES EAST

Aboard Gompers' Train en route to Washington, D. C., Vincennes, Ind., Dec. 15 (By the A. P.)—Footfalls of America's army of labor continued today almost endlessly to beat a rythmic march of devotion past the bier of Samuel Gompers as the train carrying his body pushed across Illinois, Indiana and Ohio on the way to Washington. The new carpet placed beside the coffin showed a badly worn path by nightfall.

At Flora, railroad men stood beside the track for more than a block, their heads bared as the train came in. They had left their engines and trains standing on the side tracks and in the shops while they came to the funeral car. Frequently section men at work along the way stopped their work, doffed their hats and stood silent as the train passed.

"The tribute to our chief has been more than any man could ask," said Matthew Woll, one of the vice presidents of the American Federation of Labor. "The people have shown that Mr. Gompers was a real leader. With flowers, with their presence and in many ways they have said it unmistakably."

Officials on the train were advised that the remaining members of the federation's executive committee were to join the party at Cincinnati and that the funeral coach and the sleeper which the official party occupies would be incorporated into a special train of four or five coaches to complete the journey to Washington. The executive council members expected at Cincinnati were Daniel J. Tobin, Indianapolis; Jacob Fisher, Indianapolis; James Wilson, Cincinnati; Thomas Rickert, Chicago; Frank Duffey and William Green, Indianapolis.

Word was received on the train that the governor of Ohio and city officials were to be at Cincinnati to meet the funeral train. The train arrived at Vincennes almost 40 minutes late, but during the six-minute stop more than 350 persons filed past the bier.

TESTIMONY RESUMED IN FORBES CONSPIRACY CASE

Chicago, Dec. 15 (By the A. P.).—John B. Milliken, a subordinate official in the Veterans' Bureau under former Director Charles R. Forbes, testified today to "intolerable conditions" in the bureau at the time of his transfer to the shipping board, in September, 1922.

Milliken was the government's witness for virtually all of today's session in the trial of Forbes and J. W. Thompson, building contractor, jointly indicted for conspiracy to defraud the government through hospital contracts during Forbes' administration. He tol, in cross-examination, of personal difficulties in the bureau prior to his transfer to the shipping board which were "more serious than differences in opinion."

When Forbes called him to his office to talk over his resignation from the bureau, Milliken said, he told him he did not specify any particular transaction which did not meet his approval, although he suggested one case in which a contract went to the second lowest bidder that new bids should be called for prior to the award.

On cross-examination he said that the award in question, covering the foundation at Northampton, Mass., had been approved by the planning committee of the bureau, in which the various divisions were represented. The Northampton foundation went to the Pontiac Construction company, one of Thompson's firms, although its bid was $27,000 higher than that of the Northeastern Construction company of New York. On the other hand, it was pointed out by the defense counsel, the Pontiac bid offered to complete the job in 60 days against 120 days set in the Northeastern's bid.

96 FIRES IN NEW YORK DURING COLD SPELL

New York, Dec. 15.—Ninety-six fires broke out in New York during the cold spell which has enveloped the city since yesterday.

Hundreds of persons have become homeless, most of them in a series of blazes that burst forth during last night's bitter weather. The property loss is estimated at well over $1,000,000.

There were three five-alarm fires, two three-alarm, four two and a long list of singl ealarms in the five boroughs, according to records at police headquarters.

The most costly blaze of the 24-hour period caused $100,000 loss to the Borden milk depot in Brooklyn and sent 600 persons into the streets at 5 a. m. today.

Bungalow colonists at Rockaway Beach were victims in two night fires which drove 500 persons out into the cold and swept away $100,000 worth of cottages.

A third fire made 500 more people homeless in Brooklyn and destroyed property valued at $50,000.

Severe winds, clouds of sparks threatening to make each blaze a conflagration, and temperatures which froze water where it fell greatly hampered fire fighters.

No casualties were reported.

MRS. ABRAHAM LEVY RESUMES TESTIMONY IN SEARLES CASE

Boston, Dec. 15—Mrs. Abraham Levy, formerly known as Eleanor Barnes, who suffered a breakdown during her testimony in the trial of William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex County and others charged with conspiring to extort $50,000 from Victor A. Searles, was able to resume the stand and underwent cross examination by the defense this afternoon.

Mrs. Levy testified that when she first became acquainted with Searles she frequently visited his apartment although she knew that he was also paying attentions to Blanche Paul, another self-confessed lure employed by the alleged blackmailers.

Previous to her breakdown, Mrs. Levy testified that she had while in Detroit signed without reading a statement which said that she had not taken part in a plot to blackmail Searles. She also said that, being without funds and starving, she had attempted to commit suicide in Detroit.

Anthony Zanetti, of Stoughton, a federal vocational board law student, followed her on the stand, testifying that he had been placed in the office of William J. Kelly, named as co-defendant with Corcoran. He described Mrs. Levy's attempt to commit suicide in Detroit. He said he had not been sent to that city by Mr. Kelly.

New York Embargo On Live Poultry

Drastic Action Taken by Live Poultry Commission Merchants' Association.

New York, Dec. 15.—Because of the chaos in the market resulting from an embargo imposed last week upon all shipments of chickens from eight mid-western states, where a disease has affected poultry, the New York Live Poultry Commission Merchants' association today issued orders making the embargo complete.

"No car-lot poultry from any state will be handled by receivers in New York, excepting cars already here or en route and excepting turkeys, ducks and geese," was the order, which the members of the association telegraphed to all customers.

The refusal of Jewish and Italian housewives to purchase any chickens, wherever grown, was said to have demoralized the local market since the partial embargo was declared last week by the local board of health and the state bureau of animal husbandry division of the department of agriculture.

As a contributing cause to the resultant confusion, inspectors of various organizations were said to have descended in such numbers upon the receiving yards in Jersey City and Hoboken that only five cars were passed during the first eight hours today. Each car stood inspection by representatives of the New Jersey State Board of Health, the local boards of health of Jersey City and Hoboken, the New York State Bureau of Animal Husbandry, the New York State Bureau of Health and various private organizations representing shippers and receiving merchants.

New York at this time of year consumes about 250 carloads of chickens a week. There is here and en route about 125 carloads, according to commission men. They say that the total embargo will continue indefinitely and estimate that chickens will be "not for sale" in this city within a week.

The board of estimate today at the request of Health Commissioner Monaghan appropriated $50,000 for combatting the chicken pest and the typhoid fever outbreak. Dr. Monaghan described the situation occasioned by the illness as "serious but not critical." The typhoid, he said, was rapidly declining.

NEW HAVEN TO TAKE ACTION TO HALT SPREAD

New Haven, Dec. 15.—Drastic action will be taken here, it was announced tonight, in an effort to halt the spread of a mysterious disease which is killing poultry in New Haven and vicinity.

City Health Officer John L. Rice today received a telegram from Thomas Holt, state dairy and food commissioner, informing that New York state had placed an embargo upon live poultry coming in from certain states where the disease is now rampant, and asking the inspectors in Connecticut to "loke out for shipments from any of the mentioned state or re-shipments from New York."

City Health Officer Rice said that he would take steps at once to see that the warning is followed out in this county and said that drastic action would be taken also to make certain that no effort is made in New Haven to sell disease chickens to the public for food purposes.

EXPERTS TO INVESTIGATE THE CHICKEN DISEASE

Washington, Dec. 15—The department of agriculture has sent two experts to New York to investigate the reported presence there of a chicken disease which has caused the state to declare an embargo against poultry shipments from certain middle western states. They will search particularly for signs of the European fowl plague.

A report to the bureau of animal industry said the plague was suspected as the cause of the wholesale deaths in New York but bureau officials said today that if the plague was present, this was its first appearance in this country.

The disease is almost invariably fatal, they said, and pointed out that specimen chickens sent here from New York had recovered.

Another disease, called infectious bronchitis, has been found by the bureau in certain middlewestern states, and it was believed this was the cause of the New York deaths.

Retreat of Spanish Forces in Morocco

Tutuan, Morrocco, Dec. 15—(By the A. P.)—Announcements of the completion of the retirement of the Spanish forces in Morocco from the Sacred City of Xauen to a permanent base at Tetuan probably will have been published when this dispatch is received. (This announcement was made in Madrid, Dec. 12, by Admiral Marquis De Magaz, acting head of the military directorate).

The arduous task of leading a force of 15,000 men of all arms, with baggage, guns and ammunition, along muddy trails while the fanatic tribesmen sniped from the hills, has been accomplished with heavy losses. Although the general, Primo Rivera has thus far hesitated to give complete details of his plans for a new fortified line, it is gathered from hints dropped in official quarters that this line will run almost straight across from Tetuan, passing through Xeyear, Buhadifa and Zocoelha, with a strong position at Zocotelata, on the Larache road and stretching almost directly southward through Megaretaulef to Taatof and the frontier of the French Moroccan Zone.

This would leave the strip of coastline, along which the Tangier-Fez railroad runs, in the hands of the Spaniards. The whole interior of the western region of the Spanish zone thus will remain in the hands of tribesmen, who are expected to turn their attention to the French. The latter must hold their frontier line with a strong force ni order to prevent raids and disturbances among the inhabitants of their zone.

Altogether the Spaniards abandoned approximately 250 small positions in the interior. Sharp fighting took place a few days since in the neighborhood of Yzanda, halfway between Tetuan and Cenita, but it appears that engagements in this vicinity will not be renewed, as the natives received severe punishment at the hands of the Spaniards.

FRANCE MUST TAKE PRECAUTIONS IN MOROCCO

Paris, Dec. 15.—(By the A. P.)—France will be compelled to take precautions in Morocco to strengthen her frontier protections, and may have to exercise the right of pursuit in chasing rebels out of French occupied territory should the unrest increase, it was said in official circles tonight. Such measures, however, it was explained would be taken solely for the protection of Algeria and French Morocco.

France has neither the intention, nor the slightest inclination, of taking over any territory evacuated by the Spaniards, it was said. Under the Franco-Spanish Moroccan convention of 1912, Spain is responsible for the mintenance of order in her zone. Jurdically, if Spain does not fulfill her obligations, she forfeits her rights, and, if the sultan of Morocco requested France to intervene to suppress a rebellion against the suitanate in the Spanish zone, Spain would have no grounds to object.

The present matter concerns Great Britain and Italy as well as France, it was said, and Spain and France have no idea of playing a lone hand in the Moroccan difficulty. It was said that Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, is well aware of the French view.

Billard, former New Haven road director and former president of the Lyon and Billard company, and a director of several banks, who has been critically ill for several days was reported this evening as slightly improved. Mr. Billard suffered a shock, and because of his advanced age, and weakened condition, fears are entertained that he has not the vitality to recover.

PREDICTIONS BY POLITICAL LEADERS ON RESULT OF SENATORIAL ELECTION TODAY

New Haven, Dec. 15.—With the wave of oratory, that has swept Connecticut fro mborder to border for the past month, over, the voters of Connecticut will go to the polls tomorrow to elect a United States senator to succeed the late Senator Brandegee of New London. The electorate has three candidates to choose from—Hiram Bingham, of New Haven, elected governor of Connecticut at the November election, and nominated for republican senator by the republican party; Hamilton Holt, of Woodstock, the democratic nominee, and Martin F. Plunkett, of Wallingford, the socialist nominee.

Towns and cities in all parts of the state have reported the election machinery in order for the opening of the polls early tomorrow morning, but despite the interest that has been taken in the campaign, leaders of all parties predict that the total vote will not be nearly as heavy as in the presidential election last month.

Election predictions by leaders of the two major parties were issued today J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the republican state central committee, said:

"The uncertainty of the percentage of the vote which will be cast on Tuesday makes prediction of the probable majority for Bingham difficult. Reports received from different parts of the state indicate that from 40 to 50 per cent of the registered vote will be cast. This being done, I expect that Colonel Bingham will receive a plurality of approximately 40,000. This plurality will vary according to the percentage of the vote cast."

"In my opinion the total vote will be in the neighborhood of 200,000 and Mr. Holt's majority will be from eight to ten thousand."

Both Mr. Holt and Mr. Bingham issued pre-election statements to the Yale News tonight, both having been graduated from Yale university, the republican nominee in 1898 and the democratic nominee in 1894.

SHAPING A NEW COALITION GOVERNMENT IN GERMANY

President Ebert Yesterday Accepted the Resignation of Chancellor Marx's Cabinet—Pending the Formation of a New Government the Present Ministry Will Continue Its Duties—An Endeavor is to Be Made to Form a Four-Party Coalition.

Berling, Dec. 15.—(By The A. P.)—President Ebert today accepted the resignation of Chancellor Marx's cabinet and it was announced at the same time that the reichstag would hold its first session Jan. 5.

Today's formal retirement of the Marx cabinet was merely in the nature of ratifying the ministry's resolution of last week to resign as soon after the election as possible. President Ebert will discuss the parliamentary situation with reichstag leaders tomorrow and then will decide which party is best qualified to undertake the task of a new coalition government. In the meantime, at the request of the executive, the present cabinet will continue its duties.

Contrary to former usage, President Ebert will not intrust the strongest party in the reichstag with the assignment to form a new ministry, as the socialists, who now take precedence by the virtue of the number of their deputies, are declared to be without the prospect of being able to construct a new government.

It is therefore assumed that the president will commission either the clericals or the German Peoples' party with the burden of surveying the situation. Unless a four-party coalition, extending from the socialists to Stresemann's People' party, can be evolved, it is believed by many that the Marx-Stresemann ministry will continue in office and trust its fortunes to the varyng majorities until the presidential election next May.

CHAMBERLAIN'S GREETING IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, Dec. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, was greeted with opposition shouts of "What have you said?" "What has happened?" during the opening passages of his passages of his speech in the house of commons today when he related all that he "thought necessary to say" about his recent conversations in Paris and Rome.

Mr. Chamberlain admitted that he had not discussed the question of inter-allied debts. He explained that the desire of the statesmen he met in Paris and Rome had been to remove, not create, difficulties, and asserted that the conversations had established relations of trust and confidence.

The debate originated with the opposition amendment to the address, moved by Charles P. Trevelyan, labor, "regretting the government's policy with respect to Egypt and Russia," and after these opening passages Mr. Chamberlain proceeded to reply to Mr. Trevelyan's criticisms. Thus his speech dealt largely with Egypt and Russia.

The foreign secretary repudiated any desire to withhold deserved credit from Ramsay Macdonald, although he thought the former labor premier went profoundly wrong on the Russian treaties. But he was sure that Mr. Macdonald and M. Herriot, the French premier, did great work for Europe and the world at the London conference, and for that he wished to pay tribute to his predecessor.

MAN DROWNED WHEN AUTO WENT INTO RIVER

Wayland, Mass., Dec. 15.—One man is known to have been drowned in the Sudbury river near here late today when a closed automobile plunged through the railing on a narrow bridge on the Old Sudbury road, overturned and submerged in the river. A body identified as that of Harry Jacobs of Boston was found tonight nearly three hours after the accident occurred. Whether or not there were other persons in the machine when it fell into the river has not been determined.

The accident was the second of the kind that has befallen a Boston motorist on the bridge within a week. On Dec. 10 a car driven by A. B. Sawyer of Boston went through the bridge rail at precisely the spot where the Jacobs car broke through today. Sawyer extricated himself and, standing on top of his machine, attracted the attention of a passing motorist.

There were no witnesses of today's accident. A motorist passing over the bridge late today noticed the broken rail and saw part of one wheel of an automobile protruding from the water. Local and state police removed the car and found the body, hours later, fifty years from the scene of the accident. Papers and the car registration established partial identification.

SEVENTH WEEK OF UPWARD MOVEMENT OF STOCK PRICES

New York, Dec. 15.—(By the A. P.)—The upward movement of stock prices today entered upon its seventh consecutive week with the industrial average lifted to the highest level since 1919 and the railroad average at the highest figure in seven years. Fifty stocks smashed their previous 1924 high records with several issues scoring extreme gains of 6 to nearly 20 points. The day's sales fell slightly short of 1,800,000 shares.

The demand for stocks was based on a number of favorable trade and financial developments, including the publication of statistics showing a substantial increase in the favorable trade balance last month, as compared with Nov., 1923 reports of expanding steel operations, particularly in the Birmingham, Alamn and Youngstown districts, and rising metal prices with copper and lead and zinc selling at their best prices of the year.

Another favorable factor was the relaxation in call money rates in the face of a billion dollar turnover of funds in this city, incidental to the huge U. S. treasury operations. The payment of $80,000,000 interest on the British debt and the transfer of funds in connection with the recent loan financing.

The most spectacular gains took place in Jersey Central, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Worthington Pump and General Electric, all of which broke through their previous high prices. Jersey Central was run up more than 10 points to 274, the highest price since 1915, the rise being attributed in some quarters to speculative expectation of a distribution of the road's enormous surplus, and in others to a merger with the Baltimore & Ohio through an exchange of stocks on the basis of four shares of Baltimore & Ohio for one of Jersey Central. These reports, however, lacked official confirmation.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe's sensational 13 1-2 point advance to 150 followed reports that W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, who already is reputed to have made a small fortune in this stock, had resumed the buying of that issue. This stock, which does not pay a dividend, sold as low as 64 at the end of February.

TROLLEY INJUNCTION ON THE CITY OF NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Dec. 15.—The Connecticut company, through its counsel, George D. Watrous, today was granted an injunction, by the terms of which the city of New Haven, its officers, servants and agents are enjoined upon penalty of $1,000 from interfering with the double truck one-man cars now being used in this city. The defendants in the action are the city of New Haven, Chief of Police Philip T. Smith, City Attorney Sheeden T. Whitaker, and Assistant City Attorneys Clarence E. Barton and Kenneth Wynne.

Judge Isaac Wolfe granted the injunction by which the city is prevented from enforcing its new ordinance passed by the aldermen and approved by Acting Mayor John W. Murphy, which would have removed the double truck type of one-man cars from the city's streets.

In laying its complaint before Judge Wolfe, the Connecticut company held that the city of New Haven was without authority to enact the so-called ordinance abolishing the use of the double truck one-man cars. The company contended that the regulation of all street car matters is exclusively within the powers of the public utilities commission. The company contended that the enforcement of the ordinance would not only impose a very heavy financial burden upon the plaintiff in that the number of employes on each of these cars would have to be doubled, but would interfere with the operation of the lines and cause irreparable loss. In addition to the temporary and permanent injunction, the company asked the court for a declaratory judgment, declaring the so-called ordinance to be null and void.

MOTHER DEFENDS SON WHO KILLED FATHER

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Mrs. Bruce A. Shaw, widow of the wealthy Oak Park manufacturer, who yesterday was stabbed fatally by their son George, a shell-shocker war veteran, came to the son's defense today after he had been formally charged with murder.

"He didn't stab his father," she said. "George was drinking and they were trying to take the sabre from him. It just happened that my husband fell on the point."

The stabbing occurred in the Shaw home after George, his sister, Mrs. Marie Ayers, and a young woman who gave her name as Hazel Brady of Bloomington, Ill., had returned from a cabaret party. They continued their merrymaking at home and the elder Shaw attempted to quiet them.

George, unaware that his father had died, attempted to kill himself in his cell today. He is a war veteran and, according to Mrs. Shaw, is still suffering from shell shock.

NOWAK BROTHERS AND BERZUPLE BOUND OVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Dec. 15—At the Monday morning session of police court, Walter Nowak, 25 of 59 Chapman St., Willimantic, was charged with breaking and entering and theft from cars in the local yard of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, on December 7 and 14. Stanley Nowak, his brother and Charles Berzuple, of Putnam, were charged with receiving stolen goods in connection with the robbery. Walter Nowak pleaded guilty to both counts while the two confederates pleaded not guilty. Lieut. Thomas Moran and Officer Albert J. Schuerer of the railroad police department, nabbed Walter Nowak red-handed, about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when the young man was seen to break the seal on the freight car door and enter. The officers were concealed under the car and as Nowak was about to leave they arrested him. He had placed a carton of canned peas near the car door and one of the cans was in his pocket. Nowak admitted breaking into a car near the Milk street crossing on the night of December 7 and stealing automobile accessories, including rim wrenches and dash lights. He gave part of this loot to his brother Stanley and to Charles Berzuple, both of whom reside in Putnam. Some of the missing articles were found at their respective homes in that town by the police, while the remainder were found at Walter Nowak's home here. Walter Nowak insisted that his brother and Berzuple did not know anything about the stolen goods. Stanley Nowak said that during a visit here in an automobile with Berzuple, his brother Walter had given him a bundle which he said was a Christmas present. Upon arrival in Putnam he opened it and found the wrenches and deciding that he did not need that many he gave several of them to Berzuple. Walter had told him that the stuff in the bundle had been given to him. Officers who testified were Chief of Police Allan MacArthur, Lieutenant Moran, Officer Schuerer and Captain James Carroll, of the railroad police. Judge Foss found probable cause in the cases of Stanley Nowak and Berzuple for concealing stolen goods and also in the case of Walter Nowak for breaking and entering and theft. The three men were bound over to superior court, Walter being placed under bonds of $1,000 and the other two under bonds of $500 each, which were furnished.

Jerome Higginbotham, a Providence patrolman, was locked up in New Bedford after the automobile he was driving crashed into the machine of Mrs. James J. Buffu of New Bedford.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

In the town court Monday morning Mike Bishop of Mechanic street appeared to answer to a complaint charging several violations of the liquor law against him. Bishop was represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam. Bishop was taken into custody a week ago last Sunday and has been in Brooklyn jail during the past week in default of bonds of $2,000.

On one of the several counts, charging illegal sales of liquor, Bishop was fined $100 and costs. On two other counts he was given a sentence of 30 days in jail on each, execution of the sentence being suspended. To other counts in the complaints Bishop pleaded nolo contendere. Bishop, who appeared very repentent, paid the fine and costs imposed upon him. It was his first appearance in court for violation of the liquor laws.

Other business of the court Monday had to do with the disposition of personal tax cases, as is now about the daily routine of the tribunal. Other such cases are expected to be presented today (Tuesday).

Monday afternoon, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George H. Wetherby in Foster Center, funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Lucy A. Smith, 85, by Rev. G. B. Cutler, pastor of the North Scituate Baptist church. Burial was in the Barden cemetery at Ponnagansett. The bearers were George H. Wetherby, Elmer Hopkins, Arthur Hopkins and Fred M. Smith. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Smith, who died Friday night, was a native of the town of Foster and it is said of her that in all her long life she had never been 50 miles distant from the place in which she was born. Mrs. Smith died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George H. Weatherby. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. George Hill of Pocasset, R. I.

Communications received in this territory by court officials and trial justices forecast a drive to be made during the coming session of the legislature to tighten up the enforcement laws of the state of Connecticut as to illegal dealing in liquor and to write into the Connecticut law such provisions of the Volstead act as permit of the seizure of vehicles, padlocking of doors, etc., etc. A bill that will contain such provisions is being prepared and will be introduced into the general assembly early in the session. Sponsors of the bill are seeking the aid of court officials in inducing the legislators to enact it into law.

It may interest the individual voter in the town of Killingly to know that keen observers of things political and some of the most experienced politicians in the state are predicting that the vote in today's special election for United States senator likely will not be over 50 per cent. of the vote cast in the presidential election in November. It is assumed, that this prediction presupposes that the falling off in the vote, as to parties, will be about fifty-fifty between the democrats and the republicans.

Much was said during the fall campaigns about the obligation resting on a citizen to vote. There can be no individual regret on that score for the person who goes to the polls today. Killingly can gain prestige today by getting out a record vote.

Some owners of woodland property in the territory hereabouts have under advisement a plan to offer a reward for information relative to persons cutting Christmas trees on their properties. This attitude is due to the wanton manner in which young growths of pine and hemlock have been raided hereabouts during the past few years at this season. Christmas trees may be had, it is pointed out, by going to owners of woodland bearing suitable trees and making the necessary arrangements for a tree. The campaign is against raiding of the forests, not against the Christmas tree custom.

Next Saturday will be Tag Day in a campaign arragned by the Killingly High School Alumni association in the interest of the Gymnasium fund of the school. This will be the first event of a campaign that is intended to do various kinds of good for the high school.

PUTNAM

At a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce at the Putnam Inn, Monday, Ray C. Farnum, manager of the Farnum Stage line, Arthur E. Farnum, treasurer, and Samuel Kempff, manager of the Franconian Motor Car Co., all of Worcester, appeared and stated the reasons why they were asking for a charter to permit them to carry passengers in their busses that run between Rhode Island and Massachusetts. All three of the gentlemen said that they had been importuned by letters and personally to carry passengers who are in Connecticut part of the way or all of the way along their routes. Their busses run from the Biltmore hotel at Providence to the Kimball House at Springfield. From this city there is no direct connection by train and no trolley. All expressed a belief that such permission would prove a great benefit to Connecticut residents along the route and that it would work out to the advantage of Putnam business men.

There is to be a hearing at the municipal building at 10.30 Wednesday morning of this week by the state board of utilities, on the application to grant a permission to carry passengers from the Rhode Island state line to the Massachusetts line passing through Putnam, Woodstock and Quinebaug.

E. C. Rogers, proprietor of the Putnam Inn and a director of the chamber of commerce, strongly endorsed the project and said that he thought it would be of great benefit ao the city, that it would bring more people to trade here from districts which are now accessible only by private cars.

This brought up the old question of whether the steam railroads can continue to operate and give service in competition with bus lines. It is from this source and from the Connecticut company that own the trolley lines that the opposition will come at the hearing on Wednesday to the granting of the charter.

At the same time the owners of the Blue Ribbon line of busses will ask for a certificate to operate their jitnies from West Gloucester, R. I., to Putnam.

The directors of the chamber of commerce decided to maintain a neutral attitude until they had heard the arguments on both sides of the question before the board of utilities.

Pomfret school will close for the Christmas holidays December 18th and open Jan. 8th.

William H. Mansfield Jr., and Frank J. Appleby write from St. Petersburg, Fla., that they are pleased with the climate, are having a good time, but they realise that to extend their trip to Cuba as they had planned will cost money and as yet they have not bought their return ticket to Putnam. According to letters received from them there hasn't been a day since they reached St. Petersburg, in which the thermometer has not "hit 100 in the shade."

Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett, who have been touring one of the Chautauqua circuits, have come to the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bartett, to spend their Christmas vacation.

Charles Munroe, 80-year-old Civil war veteran, remains in a serious condition at the Day Kimball hospital as the result of having been struck by an automobile near his home in Harrisville, last Wednesday evening. He has a fracture of the right leg.

Putnam children will have an opportunity to see Santa Claus in person next week and give him advance information as to what they want for Christmas. At the meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce Monday it was voted that Santa be communicated with at once and arrangements made to have him spend part of next week in Putnam. He will call at all the stores and traverse the streets in every part of the city.

From outward indications there will not be a very large vote cast here in the senatorial election today (Tuesday). Because Mr. Holt lives in Woodstock and is well known and highly regarded in Putnam it is probable he will receive a certain percentage of republican votes. Just how large that proportion will be is of course problematical. There were between 400 and 500 at the Bradley theater to hear his address Sunday afternoon. He was listened to with respectful attention and frequently applauded. William Rhodes Palmer of Oxford, Conn., former United States marshal, also spoke. E. J. Keegan, state central committeeman from this district, presided at the meeting.

Miss Murphy, assistant and secretary to Receiver George M. Coffin of the First National bank, was formerly with the Atlantic National bank at Providence, and is thoroughly familiar with nearly every detail of the banking business. She spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Providence.

The 3-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Daigle, was operated on for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital, Sunday. The father is a patient at the Norwich sanatorium.

Mrs. Blanche Lane, 28, a widow, whose home is in Ballouville, was struck by an automobile, Saturday evening, while walking along the road in the direction of Putnam and was seriously injured. One leg was broken in such a way that the bone protruded and the flesh was badly lacerated. She was taken to the Day Kimball hospital and the fracture was reduced. The injury itself was similar in character to the one sustained a week ago by Miss Anna McCauley of Providence, R. I., who is also at this hospital. In the latter's case the leg had to be amputated, which it is hoped will not be necessary in the present instance.

Mrs. Lane said that she saw an automobile coming toward her and herd one coming from the other direction. An instant later she was struck by the car that came from the rear which was driven by A. Labreck, who operates a jitney in that section. He stopped and gave what assistance he could toward securing medical aid and getting her to the hospital.

Many members of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows of this city, and several who are being made members of the order, will be guests tonight (Tuesday) of Quinebaug lodge of Danielson. Central Village Odd Fellows will also send a big delegation and a class of candidates. Those from Central Village and Putnam will be given the second degree by the Qlunebaug team. Thursday evening this week Putnam and Danielson members will take the same candidates to Central Village where they will receive the third degree.

FAIR AND GIFTS FOR BENEFIT OF HOSPITAL

Putnam, Dec. 15.—At the Howe-Marot School for Girls at Thompson, a fair was held, the proceeds of which were for the benefit of the Day Kimball hospital, and which netted the gratifying large sum of over $500. At the many booths there was a wide variety of articles suitable for the Christmas season, there was a musical program, and there was dancing. Many of the parents and other relations of the girl students were present and because of the worthy object for which the proceeds were intended were very liberal in their patronage. The people of Putnam also bought generously of tickets for the fair. The net sum aimed at was $500 and Miss Marot was very much pleased to find that the sum exceeded that amount. Miss Bloxham and the other authorities at the hospital were even more gratified.

In addition to this Rev. Fr. Deshaux, pastor of St. James' church, of Danielson, called at the hospital on Monday morning and presented Miss Bloxham a check for $75, the Thanksgiving offering of his church.

PLAINFIELD

Harry Ainsworth has been honorably discharged from the United States Coast Guard service, having finished a one-year enlistment. He was stationed at the base at New London.

While the electric company is setting in new poles and repairing the lines along the main street it would be a big improvement to set the pole in front of Beverterman's store on a line with the sidewalk.

The motorists have been warned not to speed up on the new cement road close to Bishop's crossing as there is a bad turnout which many of the cars do not see and slide off the pavement. Serious accidents will be the result if more caution is not taken.

Mrs. John Nolan and son Elton, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Wakely spent a day in Providence recently.

Fred Eglin was in Jewett City Monday and passed the drivers' test for an operator's license.

The youths of the village are having the time of their lives, skating on the ponds in this vicinity. The ice is about five inches thick.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard, a birthday party was given in honor of their daughter Barbara's seventh birthday. Many of the little girls and boys of Central Village attended. Games were played, and sandwiches, cookies, candy, cake and ice cream were served by the hostess, Mrs. Irene Bresset entertained with dancing. Mrs. Agnes Hoppman entertained with solos on the piano and ukelele.

At the Community House Sunday a quiet afternoon was spent by the local boys. Many of the ukelele club members were hammering out sweet melody on their instruments. Miss Nelsie Hartwell and George Weston were the guests. Emile Arseneault and Ernest Struthers entertained on the ukelele and piano. Singing was enjoyed.

Joint-Ease

Says Druggist

"Joint-Ease is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles.

"But why not impress on tens of thousands of suffering people some of the things that dozens of my customers tell me almost daily.

"Some say that it knocks out lumbago over night — Others assert that for chest colds and sore throat it has no equal, while many insist that there is nothing they ever tried that is so efficient for neuralgia, neuritis and even head colds and nasal catarrh."

Answering the above letter, we, the makers of Joint-Ease, know that what this thriving New Jersey druggist says is true, but we still maintain that Joint-Ease is prepared for stiff, inflamed, painful, swollen joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, finger or spine.

You'll like to use penetrating Joint-Ease, for with just one minute's rubbing, it soaks in through the flesh direct to the ailing bones and ligaments —that's why it succeeds — for when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—And without any waste of time all swelling and congestion disappears. Ask Lee & Osgood Co., or any druggist anywhere.

To be well, avoid chronic constipation. The laxative for old people is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

IT would be of great benefit to elderly people if they realized that all their complaints are aggravated by constipation, as constipation is a form of congestion that affects the brain, nervous and muscular systems.

Headaches develop, aches and pains become worse, and rheumatism more painful. If you keep your intestines free from poisons you will find yourself happier and without those disorders usually associated with advancing age.

It is a mistake for old people to take strong cathartic pills, as they are seldom necessary and their repeated use requires larger and larger doses. Likewise the taking of "candy cathartica" is bad, as many of these contain a coal-tar drug that often causes skin eruptions; and if you have taken salt waters you know how dry and weak you felt afterwards.

The fact is elderly people need only a mild, simple laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is gentle in action and free from griping, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. Use it awhile and you will soon be able to dispense with medicines of all kinds.

More elderly people use Syrup Pepsin than any other laxative, and Mrs. Wesley Davis, 819 26th St., So. Bellingham, Wash., and Mr. A. R. MacLellan, 1209 Sixth St., N. E., Washington, D. C., believe it has added many healthy years to their lives. Get a bottle at a nearby drug store and try a spoonful the next time you feel constipated, have a headache, biliousness, flatulence, dyspepsia, night cramps, or in any other way feel out of sorts as a result of not having had proper elimination.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is not an experiment with old folks, as it has been on the market over 30 years and is today the largest selling laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles being sold annually. Buy it with the understanding that it will do as we state or your money will be promptly refunded.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Pepsin Syrup Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

HIRAM BINGHAM
of New Haven.

DON'T FAIL TO VOTE TODAY.

The duty that lies before the voters of Connecticut today, women as well as men, is to go to the polls and support the candidate who will stand with the president, who will not go to Washington to prod him, who will stand for the best interests of Connecticut and who will not go to the United States senate solely for the purpose of boosting the league of nations. That man is Hiram Bingham.

Connecticut needs men in the senate who will support republican policies. It cannot have any desire to take chances with anyone who is seeking election under one party standard and for the sake of getting votes indicates that he will flop about from one party standard to another after he is elected. Such a man can make no appeal to any party.

The country has elected a republican president. Connecticut did itself proud in the help that it gave. The country has elected a republican congress, getting it by a narrow margin. Connecticut helped in that by increasing the number of its representatives. Connecticut looks to congress for beneficial legislation and it must realize that what is obtained and what advantages we get from Washington must come from a republican administration.

It is the logical thing therefore for Connecticut to insist upon sending as its junior senator one who is a republican and will stay a republican. Connecticut has appreciated the prestige obtained by having republican senators and it should be unwilling to permit that to decrease one iota. There will be no decrease if Hiram Bingham is elected.

Sight should not be lost of the fact that Colonel Bingham is needed by the president to insure carrying out his policies.

Connecticut has manifested its desire to give such aid, as the November election shows. It cannot have any desire to reverse itself on that point. It is therefore faced with the necessity of going to the polls today and voting so that Colonel Bingham's election will be assured and the choice of an undeserving democrat may be avoided.

The importance of getting to the polls cannot be too strongly emphasized. The danger in leaving the choice of a United States senator to a few should be obvious.

Get out and vote, and vote for Bingham.

NEEDLESS LOSS OF LIFE.

"Four Boys Drown Under Ice" is the heading of a news item telling of the loss of a quartette of boys in New York state because they ventured on thin ice after being warned of the danger and told to keep off. It recounts much the same experience as is in store for many other youngsters in the next few months who are permitted to go where they can take similar chances and who refuse to listen to the advice of their elders and ignore the need of exercising caution.

It is not to be expected that they gave any thought to being drowned. Somehow they probably figured that they could escape such a result, even if the ice failed to hold them, and in case they got across the thin ice they would have had some fun and something to tell others about. It was probably a bit of adventure, the possible consequences of which they had failed to consider. Danger in their cases was entirely blanked by the dread of being stumped or the delight in following the leader.

Thin ice, like the canoe and the deep water at the shore in summer time, exacts too big a toll each year. In too many instances those involved know better. In too many cases, however, they have not been sufficiently impressed with the importance of minding the warnings given, and it is feared that there are many instances where the children have gotten or been allowed to go beyond the reach of any parental supervision and thus rely solely on their own judgments when danger and chance taking is involved.

The loss of such lives never fails to make its deep impression. It in fact carries a lesson for parents as well as for other youngsters who would venture on thin ice, and who are disposed to pay no attention to warnings to wait until the ice is thick enough before trying to indulge in ice sports. It is because hundreds of similar cases have been forgotten a few days after they happen that the number continues to be altogether too large.

CUTTING CHRISTMAS TREES.

In connection with the discussion of the merits of the bill which has been presented to congress having as its object the prohibition of Christmas tree cutting, it is only what might be expected when there is found to be considerable sentiment in its behalf. It indicates not an unreasonable reaction to the efforts which have been put forth with such zeal in behalf of forest conservation and reforestation. When attention is called to the waste that is involved in connection with the millions of Christmas trees cut down it is felt on first thought that that is actually an instance where a saving could be effected.

As a matter of fact the Christmas tree slaughter is but a drop in the bucket. It means in most instances the use of trees which have been grown for that purpose or the utilization of scrub or waste growth which would never be anything else.

Probably there is no more enthusiastic advocate of forest conservation than Charles Lathrop Pack of the American Tree association. When appealed to concerning the Christmas trees he endorsed their use and justified it by claiming that "Most Christmas trees are cut from waste and non agricultural land and are but an infinitisimal part of the annual cut from our forests." And then with a well directed statement he declares "people should be much more concerned about growing national, state and town forests, and proper fire protection for them."

Perhaps the interest being displayed in behalf of the Christmas trees indicates a growing sentiment in behalf of forest conservation. Such would seem to be indicated, but Mr. Pack points out that efforts should be concentrated upon the really serious conditions instead of making a fuss over the inconsequential. It is to be hoped that the time will come when conservation and reforestation will restore our woodlands to the point where the danger of exhaustion will not be steadily preached. It is a worthy goal but one that will not be attained right away or without much saving and extensive tree planting.

EXCEEDING THE BUDGET.

When President Coolidge spoke to congress and the country through his message to the former this month it was apparent that he was unalterably opposed to any extravagance. He called for economy and he proceeded to show that even as he was practicing it he expected others in the government service to do likewise.

Quite in keeping therewith is the position now attributed to him of opposing plans for going far beyond the budget figures in behalf of the army and navy. He doesn't undertake to cover up the needs of the army or the navy, but he is unwilling to sanction huge increases because he believes that they are not called for.

There is much in the argument which points out that when congress undertakes to discredit budget figures in one or two instances it is a difficult job restraining similar action concerning other departments. When there is an effort to keep expenditures down in some cases and to boost them in others it is certainly time for producing indisputable facts to warrant it.

The fact that the president continues to insist upon economy all along the line is going to require a Herculean effort on the part of those who are trying to make out a case for departing from budget figures. They must not only make claims and assertions but they must prove their cases beyond a doubt. Their task is not made easier by the statement that the budget provides for much in excess of prior standards.

TROTZKY'S ILLNESS.

Only such information as Moscow desires is coming out of that city today. Report has it that Leon Trotzky, who has long held the post of minister of war, has been ordered by his doctors to go to a "water cure" in the Crimea in the interest of his health.

From time to time Trotsky's health has been the subject of discussion. For him to be obliged to take a rest is not unreasonable, but when Trotzky goes to the Crimea, or elsewhere, there is another report which insists that he goes into exile, that his services as minister of war have been terminated and he is being banished. Time will tell which report discloses the true situation.

Trotsky has not had the confidence of those directing the soviet government since the death of Lenin. He has opposed them and they have indicated their lack of confidence in him. He stands for communism of such a strong type that they cannot agree with him, and it is indicated that there's no chance of a compromise. Zinovieff and those standing with him find conditions warrant a different attitude than Russia has been taking. Trotsky has denounced them publicly for their attitude, and now it appears he has brought about his dismissal in that manner which is so characteristic of Russia.

Trotsky may not be well, but the indications are that he has been forced to let go of the reins, or such of them as he held, in the Moscow government without any prospect that he will ever regain them unless he can break down the Moscow government. His fight for the communism for which he stood has apparently reached its end. The question now is as to what Russia will do under different influences.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15th.—The entire Connecticut congressional delegation is at home taking part in the senatorial election this week.

The week in congress has been given over entirely to the passage of unopposed appropriation bills or to discussion on Muscles Shoals in the senate and routine work of the house. But congress is getting down to work at a pace unusual for early December. It realizes that when President Coolidge says he does not favor an extra session that he does not intend to call one, and that the blame for undished business would fall on the shoulders of congress if it frittered away its time at the short session.

The democrats are suspiciously quiet. Whether it means that they will save their efforts for the incoming congress or whether they have something up their sleeves to spring later this winter is not known.

All the same work is getting along at a rapid pace, and without the customary party friction.

And now old time democrats are trying to steal the thunder of President Coolidge in taking that western trip without a special car or train. They assert that when Cleveland was president he went from Washington to Albany in a Pullman sleeper accompanied by some of his cabinet. But they admit Mr. Coolidge did Cleveland one better by dining in the regular diner while Cleveland had his dinner in the sleeper, as no special service had been provided for him.

There will be no public building bill passed this winter. That seems an assured fact. When such a bill is passed the New England cities and towns will be brought to the attention of the committee by their congressional delegations, those from Connecticut, New Hampshire already being on the alert to protect the interests of that state.

Senator Fernald of Maine is chairman of the senate committee on public buildings and he stated this week that no omnibus bill would come before congress this session adding "I think one will be brought out early in the first session of the next congress, when the needs of each state will be looked after. The republican party is sailing under an economy flag, and the session is short, two good reasons for such a measure to be postponed."

New England senators and congressmen have been besieged this week with questions regarding sending the surplus ten million bushels of Maine potatoes to Ireland, where a famine was said to exist. The interesting part of the rumor was that idle U. S. ships were to be used for that purpose. Inquiry at the department of commerce and from the Maine delegation showed no foundation for such a rumor. Senator Fernald in commenting on it said, "The situation is very bad for Maine and other New England potato raisers, but no such move has been started, so far as I can ascertain. Moreover I find from Secretary Hoover that no famine exists in Ireland, and their potato crop, as well as ours, is far above the normal figure. It looks to me as if New England farmers must face the situation himself."

Attention is being called to the age limit as set in the child labor amendment giving congress the right to fix employment and hour for all persons under that age, as likely to be embarrassing to some states. How about marriage laws? In several states boys of 16 may become husbands with the consent of their parents; those states are Utah, Iowa and Texas. They may marry at 14 in Louisiana, Virginia and Kentucky, and persons here are asserting that age is also true of New Hampshire. Seventeen is the age set for legal marriage without parental consent in Kansas, Arkansas, Georgia and Alabama. Your correspondent is taking the figures and statement from certain publications and not from personal investigation. Opponents of the measure are calling attention to the published statements and wondering how those young husbands would be rated in the matter of supporting their families, and what domestic upheavals would follow in the conflicting laws.

The post office department states that it is employing 50,000 additional persons to help out in the Christmas rush.

An unusual pageant was recently given by the American Express company showing its progress from the date of its organization in 1839 to the present time.

Harnden, the original expressman, was impersonated. The likeness being secured from an old daguerrotype. He is there shown as carrying the old carpet bag which was his inseparable companion. The American express shared its glory with the Adams, the Southern, and the Wells-Fargo, now merged into the American. Features showed the change in express traffic and methods ranging from Harnden and his old carpet bag to the great motor truck of today.

There will be a complimentary dinner here Dec. 17th given to officers and men of the 26th division by the members of that division in Washington. The affair is being handled by Congressman Connery of Massachusetts a member of the Yankee division and Generals Edwards, Logan and others of note are expected to be present.

Another patriotic order has developed here with headquarters already established. It proposes to take the priority wind out of the sails of the Daughters of the American Revolution by admitting to its membership any persons whose ancestors were signers of the secret pact or prior declaration of Independence in Nov. 1775.

That document was a pledge not to divulge the doing of congress at that date and is held to be prior to the signing of the declaration by a space of eight months, and of which it was the forerunner.

The polls for the special election today will be open in all districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Van Sweringens Called Dreamers

The Van Sweringen brothers had vision and their ideas were practical, but they had to prove their ability to discern correctly and to carry out their plans.

As boys in their native Geneva, O., and in Cleveland they sold newspapers and did odd jobs, and were judged to be just like other quiet, hard-working lads.

After leaving school Oris obtained work as clerk but gave it up to join with his brother Mantis in launching a real estate business. Seeing the possibility of developing the Shaker settlement, three miles from the end of Cleveland's longest street car line, they secured an option on an acre of pasture land after refusing an offer to handle it on the commission.

With little experience and small capital they approached financiers who would not consider their "visionary ideas." By reducing facts to statistical form they showed that their arguments were sound, obtained the capital and learned that to avoid being called a dreamer one must not [illegible] all of one's vision at once. By selling lots in a group plan and by adding improvements that were at first called "ahead of their times"—and later copied—they made Shaker Heights the fashionable residential part of Cleveland.

Seeking a right of way for an electric line from the property to the city's center, they were met with refusals from the Nickel Plate Railroad then learned that the road was for sale. After proving by figures that cost $100,000 to gather and compile, that their plan was feasible they bought the Nickel Plate for $8,500,000 paying $2,000,000 down.

The electric line was built and the Nickel Plate was made a profit producer. Five years later they added the bankrupt Clover Leaf Railroad and the Lake Erie & Western line, combining all into the New York, Chicago & St. Louis system. They induced the New York Central to unite in building a sixty-million-dollar union station in Cleveland and began development of a large hotel project.

And recently it became known that Oris P., at 48, and Mantis J. Sweringen, at 48, had secured control of the Erie lines which give them power over 9,167 miles of railroads.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

"What are you going to wear at Ursula Moore's party?" asked Polly Gray when I met her downtown one day last week. "It's going to be such a grand affair that I feel I must have something new."

"Oh, I'm not going," I remarked casually. I did not wish her to suspect that for some strange reason I was not invited. "I shall be out of town."

"Not enough so to forego a delightful house party," I replied indifferently, though I could not understand why Ursula had slighted me.

I decided to go right out to beautiful Folly Farm at Lake Geneva to stay with the McDermines. Frank, as I call Frances McDermine, greeted me pleasantly when I arrived unannounced. She told me that I should have to sleep in the attic chamber because the house was overful with a family reunion. I assured her that I was quite content to sleep anywhere in her adorable home.

"Frank," I said while we were walking in the garden before dinner the second day that I was there, "do you know what would give the greatest joy? That is, to take some of these sorrowful flowers home to dear granny when I go. You know she is perfectly daft about flowers. Will you give me a box of them for her?"

"Of course, Lucile. All you wish."

"That will be a lot," I returned, laughing. "For I should like to have her have a sample of all your lovely posies."

"Very well," she answered.

That evening after dinner I reminded her of her promise, for when I was dressed for dinner I felt a bit chilly and I slipped on my embroidered silk coat and in the pocket I found, to my astonishment several letters that had not been opened. Two were for mother, one for Cousin Fannie and one for me. Mine was an invitation to Ursula's dinner bridge. Of course, I decided that I must rush home on the earliest morning train in order to be on time for the party.

"If you'll just have the flowers cut tonight, Frank, and packed so that I can take them when I slip away before breakfast, I shall be eternally grateful, and dear granny will be absolutely ecstatic." I said. "Could I help any in this evening dress?"

"I'm afraid not. I'll tell Alec to do it," replied Frank, and I thought how pleasant it was to be staying at a place where a Scotch gardener is kept. "They'll have to be put in water tonight, but he can pack them early for you and leave them in the side porch. The motor will be waiting there to take you to the train."

"How good you are!" I cried, and I kissed her impulsively. I really hated to leave her luxurious home, and I decided mentally to go out again, when I was sure that all her kinfolks would not be there. "May I come and finish my little visit some time soon?" I asked.

"We are going to be very quiet, Lucile, before we close here for the winter, so I don't think we shall be entertaining any more company after this party is gone," she said.

If I had her home, I should love to have my friends share it with me, but I fear she is not really very hospitable. Indeed she is difficile in many ways. She wrote me quite a curt letter because I forgot the flowers she had had packed for me. She said it was certainly annoying to find some of her choicest blossoms withered in the box two days after my departure. I can't see why she didn't discover them earlier. Her servants must be very careless.

"I don't see, Lucile, why in the world you didn't give me these letters when you got them," said mother, after I handed her the belated mail. "They're both important, and now it's too late to fulfill the requests in them. It upsets me dreadfully."

"I didn't forget them on purpose, mother. Surely I've been as much inconvenienced as you, or more so. Don't fret about anything Aunt Ann wished you to do for her, or whatever the other request is. You always do too much for everybody anyway. No body but me appreciates you."

"Indeed?" said mother.—Chicago News.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

MOSUL

Mosul, from which a war cloud lifted when the Iraq boundary dispute was settled as described in the following communication from Julius Wood to the National Geographic Society:

"Mosul is one of the surface-markers on that underground stratum of oil which stretches from the Caspian Sea to the Persian Gulf. For many years it has been exploited in a fashion by the natives.

"The statesmen, busy with the academic mapmaking, penciled the northern boundaries of Mesopotamia to include the Mosul oil fields.

"Naturally, the Turks were not consulted about the new boundary of Mesopotamia, and said so at Lausanne. That was years later, but little had been done to make the move permanent. The Turks contend that the Mosul fields do not belong in either Syria or Mesopotamia.

"Least of all were the Kurds consulted. Ethnographic maps show that the region of the oil fields, except for a scattering of Chaldeans around Mosul City, is solidly settled by Kurds. It is their country, and though the Kurds do not appear at the conferences in European health resorts where the maps are made, they are always on the spot and ready to fight for their country when an invasion starts.

"In the past the Turks held only the loosest control over these fierce fighters. When the new rulers came to take possession of what was their on the map, the Kurds fought back.

"Desultory fighting has been going on since 1920. Nominally the fields are in Mesopotamia. The Mesopotamians are not much interested in oil and less interested in fighting with the Kurds. All of the fighting on their side, ostensibly for the integrity of this new Mesopotamia, has been by the British air force.

"The desert tribes between Deir ez Zor and Mosul are neither hostile nor friendly. They do not murder or rob travelers, but merely levy a head tax of $5. French authorities say they have no right to do it. However, three separate sheiks collect this local control, or liken, for passing across their stretch of desert. The traveler finds it more expeditious to pay and keep moving than to wait and argue his rights."

The British postoffice, which controls the telephone systems of Great Britain, has begun the substitution of automatic telephones for the present equipment.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

A Surprise for Miss Mousie

Now let me think a minute or two,
(We've plenty of time, for the skies are blue.)
Where is my nice old Memory Cap?
There, on my window. I hear a tap!
It's Bobby Redvest with a little leaf,
On which he has written: "A handkerchief
Uncle Lucky is buying for Little Miss Mouse

Dear me, boys and girls, what would do without the aid of this little bird?

I'm sure I don't know. Maybe I couldn't write my stories in time for the paper to print them. Then there'd be trouble. Yes, indeedy. A peck of trouble and a bushel of worry.

Come in," I said, opening the window, and into my room flew redvest-bird, and perching himself on my typewriter, he twittered: "Hurry, Uncle Dave. All the little girls and boys are anxious to hear if Uncle Lucky found a handkerchief for Little Miss Mousie."

Of course he did. You can trust the dear old gentleman rabbit to get what he wants when he wants it, and sometimes before hand. All of a sudden, he spied a neat little blue handkerchief in one corner of which was the picture of a little gray mouse.

"That's the one for me and for her," he shouted, and pulling out his leather wallet, he drew forth a ten dollar lettuce leaf bill.

As soon as the neat lady duck had placed the handkerchief in a pretty yellow envelope and handed the dear old gentleman bunny his change, he hopped out of the store and up Lettuce avenue until he came to Carrot street, on the corner of which, as you all know by this time, stood his comfortable red-shingled white house.

"It's her birthday," he whispered to himself, tip-toeing around to the kitchen door. "I'll surprise her," and tapping on the window pane, he hopped up on the back porch.

"Who's calling, I wonder," sighed Little Miss Mousie, busily at work spreading frosting on a lovely angel cake which she had just baked. "Wonder who it is," and she scampered over to the door to answer a second tippety tap.

"Why did you knock?" she asked, surprised but delighted to find Uncle Lucky instead of the gas man, with a bill.

"I'm always very polite on birthdays," answered the dear old gentleman bunny with a low bow. "Here's a present for you.—a handkerchief blue. Just wait till you open this nice little token."

Wasn't Little Miss Mousie surprised? Well, I guess she was, but even more delighted to think that dear Uncle Lucky had remembered her birthday. And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

Stories That Recall Others

Keeping It Quiet.

He was eight years old and his mother was opening a can of oysters. The little fellow attempted to help his mother and in so doing got his fingers in the can.

"Don't do that, Herbert," she remonstrated. "You'll get your fingers in the liquor."

Herbert's eyes got as big as dollars as he whispered to his mother:

"Liquor! We won't let daddy know about it, will we?"

"You Got Cheated."

It was not long after Jim had bought a piece of cutover timber land with a view to reforesting it that he took a friend on a jaunt over the 43 acres of what many considered almost worthless soil. They climbed many hills and spent more energy than a friend thought was necessary. When, after a few hours, they arrived at the starting point, weary and sore, a friend as soon as he could catch his breath, asked:

"How many acres did you say you bought in this piece of land?"

"Forty-three," replied Jim, smiling.

"Well, by gum," said the friend, "you got cheated. They put in more."

She Couldn't Help It.

She was in the habit of exchanging Christmas gifts with a friend and last Christmas she visited the store where her friend was employed to deliver the remembrance. When she arrived she found the place closed and locked. She thought some one might still be in the office and stepped to a side window. On the inside she saw a young woman of the "flapper type" and called to her through the glass, asking her to "please give this package to Miss So-and-so." The young woman refused to reply or to even glance her way. Thinking the woman had not heard she raised her voice, and called lustily to her, but still no answer. At that she became slightly ruffled and informed the woman that she "might be good enough at least to answer." She looked again and found the young woman to be made of wax.

She looked around into rather an amused gaze of several persons standing nearby, and hurried about her way, resolved in the future to look before she spoke.

TWO HANDSOME FLAGS PRESENTED TOWN OF ASHFORD

The dramatic and patriotic entertainment at Knowlton Memorial Hall, Warrenville, Saturday evening was thoroughly delightful, with an audience of over 200 in attendance, many coming from neighboring towns.

The State College Players, from Storrs under the direction of Prof. H. A. Seckerson, gave an interpretation of W. S. Gilbert's "Pygmalion and Galatea" which revealed a high order of natural talent, well trained and inspired by one skilled in teaching dramatic art. Professor Seckerson spoke of the several companies of players at the State College and said they were occasionally going to different communities of Connecticut, to develop in young persons one of the finest means of expression for the best thought and feeling in human life—the drama. The Warrenville audience was appreciative of such an opportunity. It is likely that a local dramatic club will be formed later.

Following the play, two beautiful flags (10x8), were presented the town, Rev. William J. Dunn of St. Philip's local parish making the presentation in behalf of former pupils in Ashford schools, many of them elder citizens now residing elsewhere, whose contributions from nearly 100 persons, were secured by the energetic efforts of Mrs. Florence Howlett Platt, herself a former pupil in Ashford and now living in Andover. Father Dunn mentioned that a generous contribution had also been made by persons in his own parish. The flags were accepted on behalf of the town by First Selectman Nathan Armitage. One of the flags is mounted on a substantial staff, display outside, over entrance to the building and the other one is for the interior.

Mrs. Platt in her canvass had included in the appeal the need of stage equipment for the hall, especially a drop curtain. The response had been generous and aside from paying for the two flags, more than $75 is available toward the stage equipment. A letter was read from C. A. Hammond Knowlton of Watertown, Conn., expressing deep interest in the project and offering cooperation to secure an adequate outfit for the stage.

The final joy of a very happy evening was the old fashioned country dance, with Alexander Bassett prompting and music by Prof. A. G. Lyman's orchestra. The Ladies' Aid society served cakes and coffee and displayed a table of Christmas gifts.

The polls for the special election today will be open in all districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

ARRESTED IN WESTERLY AFTER AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Salvatore Ferraro of Cranston, R. I., is being held under bonds of $1,000 for reckless driving and $200 for driving a car without proper registration, following his appearance before the Third District Court special session at Westerly, Monday. His bondsman failed to appear at court and Ferraro is held in jail.

Ferraro, driving a Ford sedan on the post road in Charlestown Sunday night ran into a Chevrolet sedan owned by Frank Salois of Kenyon and a Ford coupe owned by Raymond Rathbun of Noank.

The cars were badly damaged and it was reported to the police that Ferraro left the scene of the accident without waiting to make a settlement. Officer Michael Curtin of Westerly heard of the accident and informed Deputy Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, who went to the Rhode Island hotel, where it had been reported a woman had been brought. There he learned that a man had called for her and that the two had gone to the railroad station.

DECISION FOR POLI IN SUMMARY PROCESS SUIT AGAINST DAVIDSON

At the end of a trial that lasted all the afternoon Monday in the summary process suit of Sylvester Z. Poli of New Haven against Abe Davidson of this city, Poli's tenant at the Broadway theatre, the jury of six men in the justice's court presided over by John D. Hall, J. P., rendered a verdict for Mr. Poli. The suit was brought to oust Mr. Davidson from the Broadway theatre on the claim that he had broken his lease by failure to pay premiums for insurance on the theatre building.

The trial was held in the common pleas court room, with Attorney Benjamin Slade of New Haven appearing for Mr. Poli and Attorneys Arthur M. Brown and C. V. James for Mr. Davidson. As soon as the jury verdict had been announced, Attorney Brown stated that a writ of error would be taken to the common pleas court, and from there the case might go to the supreme court.

All of the morning was devoted to securing a jury and many men who were summoned were excused because they admitted they were prejudiced one way or another. The jury was finally selected and trial of the case was begun after the noon recess. The jury was Arthur G. Crowell, who was elected foreman; Charles J. Twist, Edward H. Jones, Frank A. Skinner, Henry C. Hensler and George H. Loring.

The suit hinges largely on the interpretation of certain clauses in the lease for the theatre and a bond given two years after the lease was executed. In the lease, made in April, 1922, the payment of insurance by Davidson is not specifically mentioned. These clauses in the lease are the following:

"Said lessee agrees * * * * to pay all necessary expenses incident to the use and management of said property for the purposes aforesaid, including heating, lighting, taxes, all expenses for interior repairs," and "to pay all other ordinary and necessary expenses and improvements incident to the business aforesaid."

In a bond for $7,500 given in April, 1924, with V. P. A. Quinn and Peter Sellas as sureties, the payment of insurance is mentioned in certain clauses. It was the contention of counsel for Poli that the lease and the bond went together and showed the obligation of Davidson to pay insurance on the property. On the other hand, the attorneys for Davidson argued that the bond was not to be regarded with the lease, that there was no specific mention of insurance in the lease, and that insurance could not be considered an ordinary and necessary expense of conducting a theatre business along with paying for light, heat, taxes and repairs. It was furthermore argued that the fact that two years of the lease passed without Poli calling on Davidson to pay insurance premiums indicated that it was not the intent under the lease to have Davidson pay these premiums, and this period acted as a waiver on the part of Poli. The amount of insurance premiums was $3,017.03 for three years.

In his charge to the jury, Justice Hall stated that the lease and the bond were of equal rank and should be taken together and he declined to charge in line with several requests made by counsel for Davidson.

Patrick J. Goode, secretary for Mr. Poli was the first witness to testify. On May 6, 1923, insurance policies were written up for insurance on the Broadway theatre. Seven insurance policies were exhibited, showing that the policies covered buildings, draperies, chairs, etc for a total of $60,000. A portion of the policies were in the possession of the Chelsea Savings Bank of Norwich, mortgagee of the premises. The premium for three years was three thousand and seventeen dollars and three cents paid by Poli for the Broadway theatre property.

Attorney V. P. A. Quinn took the stand to testify to certain written papers or documents which he had written to Mr. Poli and his agents. A letter from Mr. Sagle, dated May 24, 1924 to Mr. Quinn, stated that if Mr. Davidson did not settle certain matters pertaining to insurance, etc., in regard to the lease, that action would have to be taken. On July 25, 1924, another letter sent to Mr. Quinn, identified by him, stating that the bond would have to be called if the lessee did not comply with certain orders. Mr. Quinn replied to one of these letters in which he said that he and Mr. Sellas, did not have to forfeit their bond nor had Mr. Davidson violated the covenant of the lease, as they did in no way have to pay for insurance as the plaintiff alleges.

The bond was introduced as an exhibit over the strenuous objection and argument of counsel for Davidson.

William S. Spencer, a Norwich builder, was called to the stand to testify on the value of the theatre property, but the attorneys for the defendant objected strongly to this line of testimony. The justice ruled to admit it and Mr. Spencer testified that between $96,000 and $100,000 was the reasonable, fair and just market value of the building. It would cost about $150,000 to replace the building.

Paul H. Zahn, a superintendent of construction, testified the value was about $130,000 and replacement value about $170,000, all exclusive of the land.

Mr. Goode testified that since the letter of Nov. 1, 1924 giving notice of the cancellation of the lease he has received no part of the insurance money.

Mr. Davidson, lessee of the Broadway theatre and defendant in the suit, was the first witness for the defense. He said that the first time he heard anything about insurance premiums due was in March, 1924. The witness said he had had no conferences before then with Mr. Sagie, the Poli representative, and had seen Sagie only once between the signing of the lease and March 1924. Nothing was then said about insurance. There had been no complaint from Poli or any one representing him about Davidson not keeping up the terms of the lease. In March, 1924, the witness saw Poli and the latter made no claim for insurance. The witness said he has paid the taxes on the property and has made interior repairs. The tax bills were sent to Mr. Poli who sent them to the witness.

On cross examination he stated that he was sure he paid the taxes before Nov. 1, 1924. Mr. Davidson was shown a carbon copy of a letter, dated Oct. 4, 1923 and some tax bills, but said he had never seen such a letter or received the bills.

At this point the attorneys for the defendant rested and the attorneys for the plaintiff put Mr. Goode on the stand, who testified that he mailed this letter and tax bills to Mr. Davidson.

The arguments by the attorneys, in which there were some warm exchanges between Mr. Brown and Mr. Slade, were followed by the charge by Justice Hall and the case went to the jury about 7.15 o'clock.

The six men came back once for instructions about the bond and the lease. About 8.15 they brought in the verdict for Poli.

Justice Hall then discharged the jury and paid them off, remarking as he did so that he would give them the fee allowed by the state which was one dollar per day for each jury man.

ADVOCATES RELEASE OF WOMEN FROM COOKING

The work of domestic service should be reduced to a minimum, said Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, in her lecture at Slater Hall annex, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Norwich College club. Mrs. Gilman advocated the professionalization of cooking as a means of relieving the housewife from the demands made upon her time and energy in cooking for the household and allowing her more time to devote to other activities. The lecture was the final number in three given this fall by Mrs. Gilman at Slater Hall under the auspices of the college club and her topic was Service—Social and Domestic.

Service is what we are here for, Mrs. Gilman said. All our human work is work done for others and they in turn work for us. We don't take care of ourselves. We take care of others. A human being is not human who does not serve. This means doing your share of the world's work.

Mrs. Gilman said that in our system of domestic service there is an enormous waste. Speaking of the waste of time and energy on the part of household cooks, Mrs. Gilman said that one person with proper appliances can cook for 30 people. Three persons with proper appliances can cook for 100 people. Labor is expensive, she said. The woman who is not paid for the work she is doing at home could be working elsewhere and receiving pay. The loss is that she is not paid for her services. There used to be a time when all the work of the world was done at home. Every kind of trade and industry has been taken from the home. Now there is nothing left except the cooking and the cleaning cooking involves.

To have 100 kitchens where two or three would do is loss. Consider the materials used. Absolutely the most expensive way to buy food is to buy in small quantities at retail prices. The business of cooking and serving food is a trade, an art, Mrs. Gilman said she has nothing against cooking and that personally, she likes to cook. But she said that cooking is the greatest obstacle to the progress of woman. Some women like to cook. They should learn how to cook and make a business of it.

Mrs. Gilman said that another waste of our domestic service system is the unpaid labor of the woman of the household. She said that if the women now engaged in household cooking could devote their time to gainful occupations they would earn something like fifteen billions of dollars a year. The lecturer said that we do not know how to eat. We do not know what is an absolutely balanced ration.

We are here to improve the human race, said Mrs. Gilman. The work of human beings is social service. The work of domestic service should be reduced to a minimum. Society does not grow by competition but by mutual service.

What is coming is the professionalization of cooking. The time is coming when instead of calling up the butcher and the fish market we will call up and order a prepared dinner. We shall buy cooked food instead of raw food. The service of cooked food and professional cleaning by the hour is the kind of service that is coming. The new method of cooking will involve a change in food standards, a change for the better.

GAVE MUSICAL PROGRAMME AT NORWICH SANATORIUM

Patients at the state tuberculosis sanatorium were royally entertained Monday evening when the Men's club of Trinity Episcopal church visited the sanatorium and provided a musical programme.

This opened with a selection by the male quartet, Robert Gray, George A. Turner, Edwin B. Floyd and T. J. Hynd. This number was followed by a soprano solo by Miss Maida Wright, I Heard You Go By. For an encore Miss Wright favored with The Lilac Tree, rendered in fine voice. Miss Elizabeth Hartley, following her solo, Land of Long Ago, was also forced to respond to an encore and she sang with fine interpretation, Smile Through Your Tears.

Two numbers by the male quartet were followed by solos by Hugh Kinder, his selections, The Star, and Beloved It is Morn, pleasing his audience.

The entertainment closed with two numbers by George Hollingsworth, Behold There Shall Be a Day and Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses, the second selection being given as an encore after insistent applause.

After the entertainment Dr. Corrigan, in the absence of Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, spoke for the patients and staff of the sanatorium, thanking the Men's club and soloists for the delightful entertainment they had provided. Refreshments were served by members of the sanatorium staff at the close of the entertainment.

A pretty picture was presented to one of the members of the guild who is leaving town soon. The winter activities of the ice man have begun as was noticed Monday on the Lisbon pond where a force of men in the employ of Kramer, the ice man, were busy doubling ice in preparation for cutting as soon as the layers of ice are frozen together. This is the first ice that has reached a thickness to double and if the present cold weather continues to prevail a good supply will be harvested in that way until the ice becomes of a thickness of several inches when it can be cut and sold or stored without being doubled.

ARMY-NAVY CLUB CLASHES WITH FAST WESTERLY CYCLE CLUB THIS EVENING

At Paris hall this evening the Army-Navy club of Taftville will clash with the Cycle Club five of Westerly in what is expected to be one of the best games of the basketball season. The Cycle club comes to Taftville with a good reputation of having met and beaten some of the best teams in Rhode Island and Connecticut. Last season the Cycle club won 23 out of 26 games and their wins included teams like the Alpine of Bridgeport, Westport Compo Guards and the fast Newport Whirlwinds. The team is largely composed of high school players or former high players and are: Rolph and Plympton, forwards; Stenhouse or Torrey center, McCloy and G. Stenhouse guards.

The lineup for the local quintet will remain unchanged, Murphy and Belair will be in the forward positions, Mills or Harris at center, and the Coleman brothers in the guard positions.

The Army-Navy team met the Westerly team at Westerly earlier in the season and won by a small margin but since then the Westerly team has been greatly strengthened.

The preliminary game will see the Army-Navy seconds lined up against the fast Hardig A. C. team. The game is scheduled for 8.15.

RECOMMENDS CHANGES IN INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCCER

Philadelphia, Dec. 15.—Resolutions recommending changes in the rules governing play in the Intercollegiate Soccer association were adopted by the soccer committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association at a meeting here today.

The resolution will be placed before the officials of the National Collegiate association at the annual meeting December 28. If approved by this body, the suggested changes in the rules must then be sanctioned by the inter-collegiate league solons before being embodied in the rules.

The proposals follow:

To establish the penalty kick at a point fifteen yards in front of the center goal instead of twelve yards as is now provided in the rules.

To change the playing time into four periods of twenty minutes each instead of the present forty-five minute halves.

To change the scoring system. What change should be made was not suggested.

To make all fouls intentional by eliminating the present unintentional foul. This means that the matter will be taken out of the hands of the referee.

To permit the use of three substitutes in a game instead of two in order to permit more players to play and earn their varsity letters.

The colleges represented at the meeting were the University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, West Point, Navy, Oberlin, Yale, Amherst, Dartmouth, Girard College and Cornell.

CHAPMAN TECH HAS BUSY WEEK IN BASKETBALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 15.—Chapman Tech faces a busy week in basketball beginning with this evening, the Red and Black machine will play two hard games in three days. The first of these games will be played this (Tuesday) evening with Madison High furnishing the opposition at the school auditorium at 7.30 o'clock. Plainfield High will be the second team to appear on the schedule in three days, and will be played at Plainfield on Thursday.

Madison High runner up for the valley championship last year, has failed to turn in a good account of themselves in two games played so far this season. But if the number of veterans on the team measure the success of the respective team, then the visiting team from Madison will have to be concede the winner before hand. For Madison High will come with a veteran team while the Red and Black machine has but two main cogs in the functioning of this body. But the account Tech gave of itself in the opening game against Pratt High, seems to single this quintet out for a winner on Tuesday.

Practice sessions have been pursued diligently by the team members, and the team seems to be keyed up to the winning form which carried the locals through the most successful season ever experienced by the Tech indoor court team. It will take more than one game to definitely assure the individuals who are aspirants for the guard positions that they will be fixtures in the back court. And even at the present time, judging from the practice session held this afternoon left forward is another position which still remains to be filled with a competent player.

If Madison High fails to furnish the opposition which is expected will result in the game on Tuesday, the Red and Black expect no easy time with Plainfield High on Thursday. Plainfield High set back Chapman Tech with a defeat last season, one of the very few contests lost by the Red and Blacq. This game will surely be a bitter struggle, for two teams of about evening power will oppose each other. This game will also in all probability end the activities on the Red and Black on the court until after the Christmas holidays.

McGraw Reelected

New York, Dec. 15.—John J. McGraw, veteran manager of the New York Giants, today was re-elected vice president at the annual meeting of directors of the National Exhibition Company, which operates the National League club.

New York, Dec. 15.—The New York Yankees were advised today that they will get a reply to their bid for Urban Shocker, veteran St. Louis pitball pitcher, from the Browns Wednesday at Chicago during the joint major league meeting. This word was received from Bill Friel, business manager of the St. Louis club.

It is understood the Yankees have offered Joe Bush, veteran right-hander, to the Browns in the deal, which also is likely to involve two or three other players.

PLAYING MANAGERS GO WELL IN AM. LEAGUE

Playing managers have gained the majority in the American League, five acknowledged baseball stars having been selected to lead clubs in the 1925 season. They are as follows:

Washington—Stanley (Buckey) Harris.

Cleveland—Tyrus Raymond Cobb.

St. Louis—George Sisler.

Chicago—Eddie Collins.

Perhaps never in history has a quintet boasting such fame in the national sport as has been the reward of this galaxy over a long term of years been raised to leadership.

Harris, only 27 years old, led the Senators to the world championship in one of the greatest series ever fought this year, the first time that Washington ever had entered a world series. He is the youth of the quintet and has many years ahead of him in the majors as a player.

Speaker, a product of Texas, who became famous as the centerfielder of the remarkable Boston Red Sox trio of yore, which included Duffy Lewis and Harry Hooper, has piloted his Indians to one world pennant. After nearly a decade in the American League the great left-hander is still able to account for his position, although his hair is gray.

Cobb, considered by many the greatest player of all time, continues in centerfield for Detroit, hitting with the best and apparently retaining his remarkable sprinting star, which has accounted for hundreds of stolen bases.

Sisler, out of the game most of the 1923 season with the possibility that he would lose his sight, returned to play in the past summer and hit for better than .300. Pitcher, first baseman and outfielder, the star of the Browns has compiled an impressive record.

Collins, a member of the noted infield owned by Connie Mack in Philadelphia a decade ago, which included Baker, Barry and McInnis, is still superb and regarded as the best of his position in any league.

	G.	R.	R. S.
Harris	143	.268	88
Speaker	135	.344	94
Cobb	155	.338	115
Sisler	151	.305	94
Collins	152	.340	108

It is notable that Cobb, Bill Wambsgass of the Red Sox, and Roger Peckinpaugh of the Senators, veterans all, each played in 155 games this year, the only men to accomplish this feat.

The polls for the special election today will be open in all districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

BULKELEY HOOPSTERS TO BE IDLE THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 15.—Bulkeley is yet without a game for this week in basketball and present prospects point towards an idle week. A game with Torrington High is pending, but whether the two team managers can get together to arrange a game for this week is uncertain for it will take a weeks notice at least to arrange for a game and printing of posters and other incidentials which are necessary before a game can be arranged. If Bulkeley does not play this week, then the team will remain idle until January when basketball will be attacked with a renewed vigor.

The lull in activities will mean little or no practice at the local institution, for all the masters at the school including Coach Canty will return home for over the holidays. Practice is being held but two days a week now, until a place can be found where privileges will be allowed the squad for practice purposes.

Parisi who has been acting captain during the past week and during the game with South Kingston will be removed and some other member of the team will act as captain until every member of the quintet has acted as captain. An election for a permanent leader will be made after five games will be played. This was decided on during the early session of the squad.

NEW LONDON RANGERS NO MATCH FOR CLAN CAMPBELL

(Special to The Bulletin)

Bridgeport, Dec. 15.—Exhibiting the same form that carried the Bridgeport soccer eleven into the finals for the United States cup competition only recently, the locals had little difficulty of disposing the New London Rangers in a Connecticut league contest played here at Sea Side Park. A score of 4 goals to 0 was returned against the visitors, and the Park City players showed real class in winning from the Whalers who were a game and determined team throughout.

The offense of the locals was effective throughout, and they held the upper hand giving the Whalers little or no chance at all to come within kicking distance of the goal. Their defense was also good, and the ball was almost continually played near the Rangers goal. The first score was a result of several unsuccessful drives down the field, but a goal was soon scored after ten minutes of play. Another score followed in this half, and to balance things, the Bridgeporters added two more goals in the final half.

The Clan Campbells played fine soccer and with this form it will surely carry this team into the finals of the national cup competition league. A probable winner in the state league will be shortly decided, if present progress made by several teams in the league will terminate in a successful manner.

COZY DOLAN KICKED OUT OF GIANTS BUSINESS OFFICE

New York, Dec. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Cozy Dolan, former coach of the the New York Giants banished from baseball for his alleged connection with Jimmy O'Connell in the bribery deal disclosed just prior to the last world's series, was ejected Saturday from the Giants' offices by Francis X. McQuade, treasurer of the club, it became known today.

Dolan did not make clear his purpose in visiting the club headquarters, according to McQuade, who intimated that he employed strong tactics, when Dolan objected to departing and then told the former coach:

"Get out and stay out, as long as this bribery thing is pending, we have no room for you here."

MASS. AGGIE COACH WOULD DO AWAY FORWARD PASS ATTACK IN FOOTBALL

Amherst, Mass., Dec. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Declaring that the forward pass, in its modern variations, is an "evil" to the game and slowly relegating football into outdoor basketball, Harold M. (Kid) Gore, gridiron coach at the Massachusetts Agricultural college, suggests that a touchdown resulting from a forward pass score only three points, the same as field goal, instead of six, as now provided. He also suggests that as a further remedy the elimination of any run after a pass is received thus allowing only the ground actually gained by the pass.

Coach Gore believes, the forward pass at present constitutes a barrier to team play in that a team with a "pass" specialist can nullify the work of a whole opposing team not so equipped. The Aggie coach makes the point score suggestion after having coached the best team the Massachusetts Aggies has had in 20 years, and which did not use the forward pass to any extent.

Coach Gore outlines his suggestions as follows:

"It will perhaps be recalled that football had only a fighting chance to keep alive at the end of the season of 1905. At that time there was a big movement on foot to reform football and many changes were made. Among the innovations were the forward pass and the onside kick.

The onside kick, incidentally has gone on its way after a chance-taking life of eighteen years. And the forward pass is liable to shake a similar fate in the near future.

"The elimination of the run after the pass is caught and the reduction of the points credited for a score directly resulting from a forward pass to the same basis as that now given to a field goal, namely three points, might help relieve the present "open" situation.

"It is realized that there are attendant difficulties in deciding whether or not a score is the direct result of an aerial attack; however, undoubtedly some means of arriving at a correct solution can be devised, until such time as the rules committee decides to remove the forward pass entirely from the rules."

NEW YORK BASEBALL MOGULS LEAVE FOR JOINT MEETING

New York, Dec. 15.—New York's delegation leaves tomorrow for the postponed joint major league meeting at Chicago Wednesday when a sequel is expected to the sessions here last week when both American and National League club owners voted confidence, handed rebukes to Ban Johnson, president of the American league.

Two of the Metropolitan magnates figure conspicuously in the rival factions making up the joint gathering. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, is chairman of the American league's "peace committee" —that will see Landis prior to the meeting in an attempt to smooth the way for a compromise between him and Johnson. John McGraw, veteran manager and vice-president of the New York Giants, is one of the most dominant figures in the National league's move for a final "show-down" which will vindicate Landis.

"We are going to make a fight to the finish," said McGraw, who resents the aspersion he declared Johnson cast upon the National league and the Giants at the time of the Dolan-O'Connell bribery scandal.

McGraw will be accompanied to Chicago by Francis K. McQuade, treasurer of the Giants, while Edward G. Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, will go with Colonel Ruppert. Charles H. Ebbets, veteran president of the club, will represent Brooklyn.

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE TRACK AND FIELD MEET IN 1925

New York, Dec. 15.—The National Collegiate Athletic association will hold track and field championships in 1925 and also make an annual fixture of its swimming title meet, if the recommendations of the executive committee, announced today, are adopted at the annual convention of the N. C. A. A. here December 29.

Track and field meets were held by the organization three times prior to 1924, when they were abandoned because of conflict with tryouts for the Olympic team.

The N. C. A. A. also will consider a proposed constitutional amendment providing for re-mapping the organization's territory into eight districts, instead of nine. Under this plan, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, would form a single Middle Atlantic district, with an enlarged southeastern group including Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, West Virginia and Virginia, as well as other states below the Mason and Dixon line as far west as the Mississippi river.

The annual meeting of the National Amateur Athletic Federation will be held on the same day as the N. C. A. A. session.

ANOTHER OLYMPIC HOCKEY STAR SOLD IN BOSTON

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 15.—Another member of the team that won the world's hockey championship for Toronto in 1921-22 has been disposed of by the local owners. Arrangements were completed Saturday whereby William "Red" Stuart was sold to Art Ross' Boston club for an unstated amount and he left here today.

Stuart's departure left Roach and Dye the sole survivors of the Irish championship team.

NATIONAL AMATEUR BOXING TOURNEY AWARDED BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 15.—The National A. A. U. Junior boxing championships will be held here March 11, and 12 next, Charles L. Ornstein, member of the National A. A. U. boxing committee announced here tonight.

Ornstein, under whose direction the contests will be held, stated that many cities would send teams including New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, New Haven, Conn., and Newark, N. J.

NURMI MAY BE UNABLE TO RUN ON INDOOR TRACK

New York, Dec. 15.—Paavo Nurmi, Finland's Olympic Track champion, will compete in the Finnish-American A. C. games at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 6. but his activities thereafter will be governed by the form shown in this meet. This was definitely determined tonight in a workout held in the 71st regiment armory which took the form of a final test to ascertain whether Nurmi could adapt himself to indoor running.

Previous to the workout he had announced that if the test tonight was not satisfactory he would cancel all future engagements and depart for his native shore without a single performance on this side of the Atlantic.

Nurmi's running in the past has been confined entirely to the cinders. In his three previous workouts, he found himself unable to maintain an even stride on the boards and unable to produce the necessary sprint at the end which has characterized his work on the cinders.

Hugo Quist, coach of the Finnish-American A. C. track team and Nurmi's American advisor, said after the workout tonight that intensive work on the boards will bring Nurmi into the form necessary for indoor running.

Asked whether he would compete in the Wilco or Millrose A. C. games, Nurmi, through Quist, said that everything would depend upon his performance in the Finnish-American games. His intention is to remain in this country for three months but if he finds indoor running hard for him he will return to Finland and confine his running to the cinders.

CUSTOMERS COULDN'T WIN EVEN ON RISING MARKET

New York, Dec. 15.—A customer of the brokerage firm of Kardos and Burke could not win even on a rising market, Patrick W. Henry, order clerk for the concern which failed for $5,000,000 in 1922, testified today at the trial of Louis M. Kardos, Jr., before Judge Nott and a general sessions jury. Kardos is charged with trading against the account of a customer.

"I would buy stock for customers and if they showed a profit I would immediately sell to one of the house accounts" Henry testified. "I received general instructions from Mr. Kardos."

Henry said he had power of attorney from Kardos to both buy and sell. Through order slips and the testimony of Henry and Mrs. Florence Noble, Assistant District Attorney Winter sought to disclose that Henry, for the firm, had bought 50 shares of Chandler motor stock for Mrs. Noble and 14 minutes had sold it to the company.

The defense attempted to show that the transactions were legal. During the questioning it was brought out by Judge Nott that there was no actual delivery of securities despite the cross transactions of buying and selling.

PROSECUTION TESTIMONY IN THE M'COY MURDER TRIAL

Los Angeles, Dec. 15.—With a recital of testimony surrounding the events in the Mors antique shop on the morning of August 13, last, the prosecution in the trial here today of Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist, charged with the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mors, sought to prove that the accused man killed Mrs. Mors in a jealous rage, plotted a death trip in the store of Albert A. Mors, the divorced husband, and intended to kill all those who had "interfered" in his love affair with the dead woman.

Testimony from Lewis S. Jones, the slain woman's attorney, was to the effect that McCoy became enraged at Mrs. Mors the evening before the day she was found with a bullet through her brain, when she transacted, in his presence, confidential business with the witness and Y. C. Emden, business manager of the antique shop.

Jones also said, while relating McCoy's actions about the shop, that the former pugilist, during the robbery of patrons or the store, brandished a pistol and made threats against Mors' life.

In each case in which Judge Brown overruled the decision of the moderator on election day, notice of appeal was filed.

FEAT BY TWO AIRPLANES WHILE IN FULL FLIGHT

Belleville, Ills., Dec. 15.—(By The A. P.)—The double feat of an airplane hooking itself on to an airship, while both were in full flight and then freeing itself to sail away again, was accomplished for the first time at Scott Field, near here late today.

The ship used was the army dirigible T. C.-3 and the plane was a Sperry Messenger, a small type. A metal hook attached to the frame over the motor of the plane was used to catch on to a small trapeze, swinging from gables slung under the bombing rails of the ship. The feat was accomplished at an elevation of 1,500 feet.

Lieutenant Frank McKee, lighter-than-air pilot, had charge of the T. C.-3 and Lieutenant Fenner of McCook Field, Dayton, piloted the Sperry.

WESTERLY

Haversham inn, on the Boston Post road, in Haversham, near the junction of the old Shore and Post roads, W. Ward Sherman of Westerly, owner and proprietor, was entered and thoroughly ransacked some time during the past week, but nothing of any great value was taken away. It is thought that the break was in the day time and taken part in by at least three men. Entrance was effected at the rear of the inn, where an apparently unsuccessful attempt was made to take the hinges off a door, when a small piece of glass was cut from a window pane and a stick thrust in to force the catch. The house has been closed since fall, but storm doors and windows had not been put on. Attention was given to almost every drawer and cupboard in the house, their contents having been thoroughly gone over. Doors which were locked between rooms were broken or forced and the keys of at least two doors have disappeared. From the apparent search for jewelry or valuables of small size, it is supposed that the intruders were not in any automobile, although an inner tube from a garage at the rear of the house was taken. The outbuildings of the inn were all entered and beds which were in one had the appearance of having been occupied. Examination of the place having been made by Mr. Sherman, he came away leaving a light burning, and this being seen Sunday by John Maxson, a neighbor, Mr. Sherman and Westerly Police Officer George H. Champlin made a hurried visit, thinking that the thieves had made a return visit. At this time a can of spoiled preserves was found which the uninvited visitors had taken and, finding the contents not to their liking, had thrown it on the ground.

There was a large attendance at St. Mark's church Sunday morning, it being the last Sunday at which Rev. J. P. Beauchamp officiated before going to his new parish at Gardiner, Mass. Mr. Beauchamp preached a forceful and inspiring farewell sermon and at the close of the service farewells were exchanged between rector and people. St. Mark's parish has prospered under Mr. Beauchamp's leadership and in the more than three years that he has been here he has been highly esteemed by his parishioners, and his earnest, sincere Christian manhood has been an inspiration to all who know him. Games included a candy kiss hunt, in which candy kisses were hidden in out-of-the-way places, and the child finding the largest number received a prize, this being awarded Beatrice Clarke. Later the guests were seated at a table decorated in pink and white, and on which was a big Jack Horner pie from which every child received a gift. There were two birthday cakes, and in one of these was found a dime and a penny, and these cakes with sandwiches and punch put the finishing touches on a most enjoyable party. NEW LONDON CITY COUNCIL VOTES FOR NEW SCHOOL, WITHIN $150,000

New London, Dec. 15.—The city council this evening voted to appropriate $50 for the decoration of a municipal Christmas tree. The director of music in the public schools is to prepare a programme of carols which the children will sing.

The council voted authority to the board of school visitors to secure plans and estimates for the proposed school at Williams and Mercer streets, at a cost not to exceed $150,000. The plans are to be accepted by the council (if they are excepted), so that the board of school visitors has nothing to do with that part of the programme. The council tabled a request of the city manager for the provision of a heating system for the public comfort station in Williams Memorial park. The heater and the installation of it, including the care and maintenance was estimated at $530. Councilor Woodruff opposed the scheme and said that if the city continued its expenditures as at present it would have a tax rate that could not be met. He expressed the opinion that the heater was a useless expense and one that the city should not assume. He did not believe there was a demand for it, and Councilor Murray doubted whether the heater would prevent the pipes leading to the comfort station from freezing in severe weather. The matter was tabled, on motion of Councilor Streeter.

Permission was given for the establishment of a lunch wagon on Church street. The projectors were present and said that the outlay would be in the neighborhood of $8,500. They declared that they would have the members of the council getting their lunches there in a short time. The wagon is to be connected with the city water, with the sewer system and arrangements have been made for toilet facilities. They said the wagon was to be the best that could be provided and said that it was not the sort of wagon that New London had been accustomed to. The motion to grant the application was made by Councilor Scott and concurred in by the other members of the council.

The Hebrew school of Blinman street was given permission to produce a play at the Lyceum theatre Sunday evening.

The Y. W. C. A. and the Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church petitioned the council to purchase the lot at the corner of Main and Douglass streets for a public playground. The petition was referred to the planning board, as have other petitions on the same matter.

Miss Lina Beckwith asked for compensation for land on Colman street that the city had taken. The matter has been before the council several years. Councilor Scott moved that the matter be referred to a committee consisting of the mayor, Councilors Streeter and Woomruff (who, by the way have not yet had experience with the claim), that they may interview Miss Beckwith and get all the facts and then report to the council at the next meeting. Councilor Scott declared that he believed Miss Beckwith had a just claim against the city and said the council should dispose of it.

Felice Bruno asked for the privilege of using two feet of the sidewalk on North Bank street for the display and sale of goods under the provisions of the charter under which the same privileges has been granted to others. The application was referred to the city manager, with power.

Over 300 attended the open house at the new community house of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, 42 Jay street, yesterday afternoon. All expressed delight with the splendid new quarters. Among the visitors were several non-Catholic persons who attended upon the invitation of the hostess, Mrs. Clarence A. Carr. Mrs. Carr was assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Savard, Mrs. Frank L. McGuire, Mrs. Benjamin N. Pennell and Miss Delia Moroney, diocesan secretary.

A musical programme was rendered between 4 and 5 o'clock under the direction of Edward Hand, organist of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. At 8 o'clock Wednesday evening there is to be a meeting of the following men and women designated by the diocesan secretary as library committee to build a circulating library at the community house, to organize a study club and to conduct bi-monthly public lectures at the community house: George E. Farrell, chairman, Rear Admiral Clarence A. Carr, Attorney Charles L. Smiddy, Attorney John McGarry, Attorney Frank Shea, James A. May, Price Smith, Miss Mary Crofton, Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, Mrs. Frank L. McGuire and Mrs. James N. Kelley. This committee will act as an executive board to direct the formation of a free community library and study club.

Mrs. Victoria Kosky, New London, charged with violation of the automobile laws in operating a motor vehicle without having a license to do so, was fined $5 and costs, the latter amounting to $12.82.

Mrs. Kosky was taken into custody a week ago by the state police when the automobile she was operating collided with another vehicle. When an investigation was made, it was determined that Mrs. Kosky had never obtained an operator's license, but had frequently operated a machine while accompanied by her husband, who did possess a license. On the day of the accident, Mrs. Kosky decided to use the car without her husband accompanying her with the result that the car crashed against another car on Thames street.

As a result of the Chinese residents of New London entertaining a fear for their lives at the hands of members of the Nip Sing Tong, a New York Chinese society, Supernumerary Patrolman Edward Riordan has been engaged to maintain a watch of the Chinese tea and coffee house, Golden St., every Sunday night. The officer together with Patrolman Augustus Ray maintained a watch of the tea and coffee house throughout last night, but no strange Chinese appeared in that vicinity. The local Chinese, many of whom are members of the On Long Tong society, received information on Sunday that during the night a visit would probably be made to New London by a gang of members of the Nip Sing Tong, who were headed this way in automobiles.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The best man was Kenneth H. Davis, Meriden. The matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Prentice of Danbury, sister of the bride. Miss Helen R. Horton, Providence, and Miss Mary F. Maynard, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. The flower girl was Helen Norman of this city and the ring bearer was Charles D. Prentice, Jr., of Danbury, a nephew of the bride. The ushers were Russell M. Coon, Groton; Charles D. Prentice, Danbury; Charles S. Bailey, New London, and John Wieseleader, Meriden. Late this afternoon Sergeant Nelson Smith arrested John J. Barry, 11 Huntington street and Thomas E. DeVoe, 31, Huntington street, charged with the theft of the Gunahi machine. Barry and De Voe finally admitted taking the car and to having destroyed a portfolio containing papers valuable to Gundahi and to having taken markers from a machine owned by Albert Frink 11 Huntington St., and substituting them for the markers on the Gunahi car and to throwing the original markers of the Gunahi car into a sewer. Both Barry and De Voe are being held prisoners at the police station, pending a hearing in the police court Tuesday morning.

Milton A. Newbury, 59, retired farmer, and for many years a resident of New London, died Sunday at the Norwich State Hospital, Preston. He is survived by a brother, Frederick Newbury, and a sister, Mrs. John Maus both of New York, and by his mother, Mrs. Emma Newbury, of Lincoln avenue, New London.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin this afternoon instructed Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney to put a ston to the further sale of a half dozen booklets that have been on sale at newsstands many months. The books are alleged to be of a suggestive nature such as would corrupt the morals of the readers, particularly youths, who have been detected reading the literature while attending school. The books, the sale of which has been barred, include "Hot Dog," "Experience," and "Spice and Pepper."

The state police under Sergeant Clifford Gorgas, Groton barracks, have unearthed a new clue in connection with the finding of the body of Peter A. Toolin, Jr., former assistant paymaster at the plant of the Robert Gair company, Montville, last Thanksgiving day morning with the skull terribly crushed. As a result, the officers have renewed their efforts to determine in just what manner Toolin sustained his fatal injuries. Although Toolin's body was found nearly three weeks ago, the state police believe that one or more arrests will be made within the next few days.

The traffic signals of the blinker type, located at the corner of Huntington and State streets and at the corner of Main and Williams streets, are out of order.

Fire this forenoon threatened to cause serious damage to the highway bridge over the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, for the structure was discovered ablaze about 9.15 o'clock. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and the Ockford Hose company was dispatched to the burning bridge. The apparatus never reached the structure, however, for on Montauk avenue, corner of Avery court, it became disabled. Fire Chief Charles Rose, who had preceded the departure of the hose company, had the fire subdued with chemicals. The fire is believed to have originated from a spark from a passing locomotive.

Max Sternlieb has sold a parcel of land on Park avenue, to Temple Israel Connecticut corporation.

The funeral of William H. Rowe was held this afternoon at 3.15 o'clock at Mr. Rowe's residence, 90 Broad street, and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including the working force of the New London City National bank and employes of the other banking institutions. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, and Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Ira S. Avery, Alfred Forbes, Frederick J. Smith and Frederick E. Fengar, employes of the New London City National bank. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

A. G. Gunahi, 470 Belmont avenue, Springfield, Mass., whose automobile, a Hudson coupe, was stolen from Meridian street, Saturday morning, and which was recovered Sunday afternoon when found abandoned on Huntington street, appeared in New London this afternoon and started back home with his property.

Charles Lindsay, a cook at headquarters at the submarine base, regrets today probably that he "tarried long with the wine when it was red" and that he came muisy when some of his associates in the service of the government in navy vessels sought to discover what some trouble was on Main street Sunday night. About a score of sailors from the ship Cassin were on their way to the state pier where the Cassin is moored and on Main street encountered a group of roysterers. The sailors asked what the trouble was about, when Lindsay, who had a supply of booze aboard that made him ugly, replied that anyone who interfered with him would be filled with hot lead. The sailors counselled peace for the good name of the service, but that only seemed to give Lindsay an idea that he must show his temper. The sailors just called the police department to lend a hand and Officer George McCaskey responded. He, and the sailors who asked his aid hurried to 105 Main street, the site of difficulties. Lindsay saw the blue coat approaching and made his way up the stairs. The officer called to him to stop or to take the consequences. Lindsay then threw away a revolver he carried and it was not found. However, Nick Scull, a sailor, saw the weapon as did Commissary Steward Newcomb and both made declaration to that effect in the police court today. Lindsay denied the statement as best he could, but not with the sincerity that might be expected from a man who was telling the whole truth and nothing but the truth. As a result Lindsay was fined $50. That took him to jail. The costs of his trial were about $10 additional.

Frank Greenman was sent to jail for 30 days for intoxication. Greenman has a long record for offenses before the court. He also has a family dependent upon the city for support. The court is not disposed to encourage that sort of conduct on the part of a man who seeks charity from the city, so Greenman will be kept at work for the county instead of for himself and his family for a month and a half.

Louis Brosky was charged with intoxication, but judgment was suspended because he has not been in the court in several years.

MAKING LAST TRIP AS COMMANDER OF MAJESTIC

New York, Dec. 15.—Sir Bertram Hayes today brought the White Star liner Majestic into New York for the last time. At the end of his 39th trip as commander of the great ship, of his 44th year at sea and his 60th year of life, he will retire from deepwater service when the Majestic reaches Liverpool again.

He expects to do shore duty for the White Star line in England, for a time; then he will come to America as a passenger for his first inland view of this continent. Meanwhile, he is writing his memories of the sea. Sir Bertram is commodore of the White Star fleet.

"I've been coming to New York for many years, but I never got more than one foot on your continent," he said. "Twenty-five years ago, when I was skipper of a freighter, I landed at San Francisco; but then again I only got a nibble of what inland America was like. When I come back again it will be for a whole bite. I expect to enjoy myself.

Sir Bertram recalled that he got his greatest thrill when he ran down a submarine in the World war, and the most unpleasant order he ever obeyed was when he piloted the Majestic —the the German-owned Bismark— from Hamburg to Southampton for confiscation by the British in accordance with the Versailles treaty.

"Romance?" he asked newspapermen. "Do you know, I never saw much romance in seafaring. Most of us Englishmen go to sea because England is overpopulated, and a man must do something."

Sir Bertram declined to deplore the passing of clipper-ship days, although he admitted a preference for steamships much smaller than the Majestic.

CAUSTIC NOTE FROM SOVIET FOREIGN AFFAIRS MINISTER

Moscow, Dec. 15.—(By the A. P.)—George Tchitcherin, the soviety minister of foreign affairs, on Dec. 11 sent a caustic note to Secretary of State Hughes at Washington, complaining that the United States coast guard vessel Bear in 1923 had committed an act which constituted a gross violation of international law and of the sovereignty of the soviet republic. The not added that a similar "lawless act" would be sternly repressed by the soviet government.

The company of the soviet government was that the Bear affixed a brass plate to a rock on the Chukotsk peninsular in Emma bay, Cape Pusino, in Siberia near Bering strait, bearing the inscription "United States Geodetic Magnetic Station."

Fifteen thousand gallons of Belgian grain alcohol, seized by government agents at Wilson's Point in South Norwalk last June, were turned over to United States Marshal J. D. Walter for sale in Hartford by an order of Judge Thomas, passed in the federal court.

TO CREATE SANCTUARIES FOR FISH AND GAME

Hartford, Dec. 15.—A proposal that the state purchase several tracts of land from 1,500 to 3,000 acres in extent to be used as absolute sanctuaries for fish and game, which was outlined by President Frederick C. Walcott, of the fish and game commission, was unanimously endorsed by about 50 sportsmen representing all fish and game clubs in the state at a meeting today in the capitol. The plan is to be fully worked out and presented to the general assembly at the 1925 session.

The sportsmen were in session with the members of the commission and Superintendent John W. Titcomb to discuss advisable changes in the present game laws which will be recommended at the coming session. Representative Charles E. Wheeler, of Stratford, presided, and nearly all laws on fish and game were presented for discussion.

By a vote of 39 to 19 the meeting favored a change which would empower the governor to extend the hunting season for one week, whenever it is necessary to prohibit hunting, for more than a week because of prolonged drought.

A motion was passed that the fee for hunting and for fishing licenses be recommended for increase from the present fee of $1.25 to $3, and that badges be issued to owners of the licenses for purposes of identification while in the woods. The badges to be furnished hunters free of cost.

Commissioner Walcott in outlining his plan for game conservation said that about 1500 acres would be needed for the actual game sanctuary and that from 2,000 to 3,000 acres, that would be open for hunting and fishing should surround the tract.

SENATE TO VOTE ON THE MUSCLE SHOALS BILL TODAY

Washington, Dec. 15.—The senate, under a unanimous consent agreement, must declare its position on government or private operations of Muscle Shoals by three p. m. tomorrow.

Senator Underwood, author of the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill now before the senate, has demanded such an expression of the senate in its vote on the Smith amendment, which would strike out of the bill the leasing clause and leave only the government operation provisions.

The Alabama senator holds that the amendment would strike out the heart of his bill, and he has said he would regard the vote on it as a forecast of the final vote on the bill. The opposition, meanwhile, is centering its effort to kill the bill through the support of the amendment.

The senate judiciary committee today authorized a sub-committee to investigate the Washington Herald editorial last week attacking Senator Underwood and his bill. The editorial was referred to the committee after Senator Underwood had denounced it on the floor of the senate. By an unanimous consent agreement, the committee was authorized to investigate the editorial and question its author, and if the disclosures warranted, to report a resolution to the senate for a general inquiry.

LAST QUARTERLY PAYMENT OF THE INCOME TAX

Washington, Dec. 15.—With the last quarterly payment of income and profits taxes theoretically in the coffers of the government and semi-annual payments on their debts to the United States accounted for from four foreign governments, the treasury approached the end of the December cycle of financing.

It received payments today estimated at $336,000,000 and practically $92,000,000 in installments on the funded debts of Great Britain, Finland, Lithuania and Hungary. At the same time, it received in excess of $400,000,000 in maturing certificates of indebtedness. Its financing operation will not be complete, however, until results of the present funding program through the issue of new long term bonds is concluded Dec. 20.

The tax receipts, although estimated, are regarded as nearly correct and represent a reduction of $10,000,000 from receipts in the same period last year. If the actual receipts bear out the treasury's estimate, it will make the total $1,524,000,000 in income profits revenue for the current calendar year as compared with $1,508,000,000 for the calendar year 1923. The apparent increase of $16,000,000 was more than offset, it was explained, by the repayment of about $18,000,000 in refunds under the 25 per cent. reduction made in taxes by congress, leaving the net cash receipts about $2,000,000 below last year.

TWO NEGROES WORKING THE POCKETBOOK GAME

Stamford, Dec. 15.—The police are searching for two negroes who, it is alleged, secured $300 by fraud today from Miss Mattie Brown. The familiar pocketbook game is said to have been worked by the men. One claimed to have found a pocketbook which he said contained $3,000. With the aid of the other man, the police charge, he persuaded Miss Brown to part with $300 upon the promise that she would receive half of the $3,000. The woman went to the bank drew out her $300, turned it over to the men and then they disappeared.

GIRLS REWARDED FOR KEEPING HAIR UNBOBBED

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Of twenty-two young women who last December pledged their word not to bob their hair, only five remained with unbobbed locks today to claim the reward offered by Dr. H. R. McCarty, a Saratoga Springs physician, who had promised to give $5 apiece to them if they remained unshorn for 2 months.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR WOODROW WILSON

Washington, Dec. 15.—Congress and those who had intimate connection with the private and public life of Woodrow Wilson, paid tribute to his memory today in the chamber of the house of representatives. Former cabinet officers who shared his burden of war and its aftermath, members of the supreme court and envoys of foreign government, with Mrs. Wilson and members of his family and special guests, sat with senators and representatives as Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia and a lifelong friend of the war president, delivered the formal oration.

President Coolidge and his entire cabinet participated in the exercises, occupying half of the first row of seats, the remainder being held by Chief Justice Taft and other members of the Supreme Court. Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied by the White House military aide, was in the executive gallery.

Speaking from the same rostrum where Wilson delivered his messages to congress, Dr. Alderman denied there could be anything of "failure" in his great attempt as president.

"If there was failure, it was humanity's failure," he said. "I envisage him rather as a victor and conqueror. To make him the one undaunted advocate of the world's hopes, the scapegoat of a world collapse, is to visit upon him an injustice so cruel that it must perish of its own reason."

With an apparent deliberate effort to refrain from forensic delivery, the speaker traced the career of Wilson from Boyhood, through student days to his entrance in domestic and, finally, international politics.

The sustained interest of the audience was manifest throughout the 80 minutes of his discourse.

STORRS LAYING CONTEST IS OPEN TO VISITORS

The Storrs laying contest has not been closed to visitors. New York city's embargo on live poultry from eight middle western states, followed closely by Governor Ritchie's proclamation stopping shipments into Maryland, has naturally created considerable excitement in poultry circles. The Storrs contest, however, is so favorably situated in respect to infected areas that the college has not deemed it nesessary to exclude contestants and their friends who wish from time to time to visit the plant. On the other hand, the management proposes to act promptly in case this fatal disease makes its appearance in Connecticut. The nature of the disease has not been accurately determined, but it's variously known as poultry "flu," pneumonia, diphtheria, bronchitis, etc.

In the sixth week of the contest the 1,400 pullets laid an even 1,400 eggs, or a yield of nearly 35 per cent. This is a gain of 117 eggs over the previous week's score. A pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Pinecrest Orchards at Groton, Mass., were the leaders for the week with a production of 51 eggs. A. B. Rice's pen of White Wyandottes from Tekamah, Neb., was a close second with a record of 52 eggs. Hanson's Leghorn Farm at Corvallis, Ore., was an equally close third with a lay of 51 eggs, and F. M. Johnson's pen of Leghorns from Waldoboro, Me., were in fourth place with a yield of 49 eggs.

Only one group of birds in the contest, namely, White Rocks, maintained their same relative positions as for the week before. In the White Wyandotte class A. B. Rice of Tekamah, Neb., has passed Thomas H. Matteson from Davisville, R. I., and now occupies first place. In the Barred Rock group E. C. Foreman from Lansing, Mich., has crowded Jasper E. Guptill of Berwick, Me., out of third place. In the Rhode Island Red class, Fernside Farm from Attleboro, Mass., that made such a wonderful showing last year, has moved up to fourth place instead of Hayes Hennery from Dover, N. H. In the list of Leghorns, F. M. Johnson from Waldoboro, Me., is now in fourth place instead of Hobart E. Rice from Barre, Mass. A maximum of only 20 eggs separates a pen of White Wyandottes, a pen of Rhode Island Reds and two pens of White Leghorns for first place, all classes included, all of which means that whenever any of the leading pens lie down for a week some other pen grabs their place.

White Rocks.

W. C. Matthews, Wilmington, Del. 193
Ellen Day Ranken, Huntington, L. I., N. Y. 184

White Wyandottes.

SEVERE ITCHING BURNING RASH

On Arms and Limbs. Sore and Red. Cuticura Heals.

"In the spring my arms and limbs broke out in a rash that was sore and red. The itching and burning were so severe that I irritated it by scratching. My clothing aggravated the breaking out, and I could not put my hands in water. The trouble lasted about three months.

"I tried home remedies without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Ruth N. Hartford, R. F. D. 1, Norridgewock, Me.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

STOCK PRICES ADVANCED

New York, Dec. 15.—With speculative imagination fired by sensational advances in a few specialties, stock prices today resumed their main upward movement, despite a rather large volume of profit taking toward the close. Net gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to 13 1-2 points.

Relaxation of call money rates, reflecting the easing of the strain with preparations for today's billion dollar turnover had exerted upon the money market; higher zinc, lead and copper prices, reports of further expansion in steel operations and the publication of statistics on November trade showing another strong balance in favor of the United States were all factors in the day's buying movement.

Chief speculative interest was divided among three issues—United States Cast Iron Pipe, which was run up 3 1-2 points to 159; Worthington Pump which jumped nearly 12 1-2 points to 71, and General Electric, which climbed 8 1-2 points to 284 1-2, all at new peak prices for the year. Pipe closed at the top and the others yielded only slightly on realizing sales. Central Railroad of New Jersey advanced 19 1-4 points to 274 on a relatively few sales on rumors that the road to be merged with the Baltimore and Ohio and the common stock exchanged for the latter on a 1 to 4 basis.

Atchison was the leader in the railroad group, crossing 120 to the highest price in 15 years, on reports that the road would dispose of the common stock now held in its treasury to its stockholders at par and increase the regular rate at the next dividend meeting in January. Good buying also took place in Baltimore and Ohio common and preferred, Southern Railway common and preferred, Great Northern preferred and St. Louis Southwestern all of which broke through their previous 1924 maximum quotations.

Inauguration of dividends on Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred at the rate of $5 annually, which was announced after the market closed, was preceded by the establishment of a new top for the year at 75 3-4, but the stock fell back later to 74 for a net loss of more than a point on the day.

CURB MARKET

New York, Dec. 5.—Stock prices gave an impressive demonstration of strength in today's curb market, practically all groups taking part in the advance.

Standard Oil of Nebraska, jumped 11 points to 257 and then eased to 255 while gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded by Standard Oil of Kansas and Kentucky, Swain and Finch, Prairie Oil and Gas, Imperial of Canada and Humble. One of the largest turnovers took place in Lago, which sold within a small fraction of the year's high.

Trading in the radio shares was unusually large, Hazeltine standing out with a gain of two points at 41, a new high record. Good buying also was noted in Dubilier, De Forest, and Thermodyne.

Other strong spots in the public utility group included Centrifugal Pipe, Borden's, Continental Tobacco, Gler Alden Coal and National Tea, the gains ranging from 1 to 5 points.

Public utilities were mixed. American Gas & Electric advanced three points to 117 3-4 and Lehigh Power and Securities 1 5-8 while commonwealth Power dropped 1 5/8 and American Light & Traction, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, East Penn Electric and a few others yielded small fractions to one point.

BOND MAFKET

New York, Dec. 15.—Trading in today's bond market was enlivened by wide fluctuations in a few individual issues. Brisk rallies took place in some of the public utility, packing and motor company liens, which combined with steady investment buying held the general trend of prices firm.

Technical default on the semi-annual interests payments on the Chinese Hikuang Railway 5 per cent. bonds ttoday caused a sharp break of more than six points in the issue. Bankers reported that delay in the receipt of funds to cover the service had frequently been experienced before and held out hope that the payments would be met at a later date.

Federal Light and Traction 7's were one of the conspicuous strong spots in the industrial list, 97, 58 and 7 points in line with a corresponding rise in the stock. Maxwell Motor 7's rallied to a record high price about 108 and Wilson and Company issues moved up 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 points.

Initial dealings in the new treasury 4 per cent. obligations took place today, with the bonds commanding a premium of between 17-32nds and 19-32nds. Liberty bonds held steady.

Public offering of $11,000,000 Greek government 40-year 7 per cent. bonds will be made Wednesday by Speyer and Company at a price of 88 to yield 8 per cent. Advance substitutions were said to have totalled nearly the full amount of the issue.

For the purpose of retiring its outstanding unconverted 7 per cent. debentures which will be called for payment March 1, 1925, and for extensions and improvements to its properties, the Federal Light and Traction Company has authorized the issuance of $2,500,000 30 year six per cent. bonds, to be offered at 91 and interest to yield 6.70 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Owing largely to falling off of 1,382,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat in the United States and 1,691,000 decrease in rye the wheat market today developed considerable strength. Closing prices for wheat were firm, 3-8 to 1c net higher May $1.68 1-4 to 1.68 3-8 and July 1.48 1-4 to 1.48 3-8. Rye 1 1-4 to 4 1-2c up, corn unchanged to 7-8c lower, oats unchanged to 3-8c off, and provisions at 2c to 25c decline.

In addition to the fact that domestic stocks of wheat and rye were shown to be disappearing, knowledge that wheat prices today for the first time in several years had gone above $2 a bushel, anywhere in the United States had an evident stimulating effect on the wheat market here. It was appreciated, however, that the plus $2 prices, which were obtained at Minneapolis, were for specially choice wheat of much better quality than that delivered on ordinary speculative contracts for future delivered here.

Upturns in wheat values came after early declines due more or less to talk which was current that a setback to to be looked for a a result of recent sharp gains, apparent dearth of important new export business counted also as a temporary depressing influence and so too, did assertions that the market on this side of the Atlantic had been advancing more rapidly of late than at Liverpool. On the declines, though, good buying support developed, and the close was at virtually the day's top figures.

Immense receipts of hogs in Chicago and other leading markets tended somewhat today to ease down corn and oats prices, and to offset sympathy with wheat. Besides, today's receipts of corn here, 738 cars, were of more liberal volume than has been the rule of late, and there was an increase today of 2,208,000 bushels in the corn visible supply.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The famous offer of P. T. Barnum to Jenny Lind made most interesting reading for Norwich readers of the Courier in 1849, even taking away, for a time, their interest in the stories from California.

Tuesday, December 11, 1849—Rev. Mr. Gulliver delivered an excellent lecture before the Young Men's Lyceum, Friday evening. Every seat in the town hall was taken and Rev. Mr. Gulliver held his audience throughout his remarkable discourse.

A recapitulation of the membership of the house shows the loco members to be in the majority, 116 loco to 111 whigs. Only five seats are being contested but these are sufficient to cause the balance of power to change should the whig men be declared elected. Connecticut has one whig and three loco members in the house.

We understand that George Bliss, Esq., sheriff of New London county, has been appointed deputy marshal of the district of Connecticut.

C. L. Davis, secretary of the New London County Teachers association, has published a notice of the meeting of the association, to be held on Dec. 19th at the Academy occupied by S. E. Comings and S. G. Taylor, Norwich Grammar school, at which time a lecture is to be delivered by President Hopkins of Williams college. Dr. Hopkins has few equals in New England.

The Great Western arrived from the West Indies yesterday, bringing $75,000 in specie. The Ohio, with the California mails, arrived in New York on Sunday. She brought 125 Californian passengers and $250,000 in dust, belonging to the passengers. Another $250,000 went to New Orleans.

Thursday, December 13, 1849—After 39 ballots in the house, Mr. Winthrop continues to lead with 101 ballots. Immediately after this ballot he withdrew and the locofoco members tried to push over William J. Brown of Indiana. The whigs sensed the danger of this and managed to carry an adjournment, getting rid of the Brown danger for at least one more day.

P. T. Barnum, proprietor of the American museum, has published a card in which he explains his offer to Jenny Lind. Mr. Barnum explained that Jenny Lind had not sent anyone to this country to confer with him, but that he had sent two agents to her. As to payment, it is understood that Mr. Knowles, manager of the Manchester Theatre of England, paid Jenny Lind 400 pounds sterling per night and it has been no uncommon thing for Mr. Lumley of the Queen's Opera to receive from 1800 to 2000 pounds sterling on Jenny's nights. The statement that I have offered her $50,000 for 200 nights, only $250 per night, is therefore absurd. The truth is, I have offered her more than four times that amount per night, besides paying her expenses from Stockholm and during the engagement, of herself and a companion, a financier and two servants, besides placing a carriage always at her disposal and paying every description of expense attending the concerts or operas in which she may sing.

The locomotive, "Gov. Trumbull," went over the Willimantic railroad last week for the first time. The company is soon to have four locomotives on the line.

David Fox of Bozrah, one of the earlier adventurers to go to California, has returned home from San Francisco, broken in health. How much of the dust he has brought back with him we are unable to say at present.

Saturday, December 15, 1849—We learn upon inquiry that the New London railroad is now complete to the Willimantic depot but that there is still something to be done at the New London end before trains can run into that city. It is also expected that the road will be opened as far as Stafford, 46 miles from New London, by the first of January, a most remarkable showing in so short a time. The morning trains into this city, from New London, have as many as 60 passengers daily and there are many more who board the train here for the trip to Willimantic. Freight business is also reported as extremely good.

The presentation of the sword to Col. Thomas H. Seymour, took place Wednesday evening at Hartford. The sword was given to Colonel Seymour for his gallant services in the Mexican war. The presentation was made by Governor Trumbull.

Petitions are now being presented to congress for the establishment of a semi-monthly mail to California. Nearly 40,000 pieces of mail, half of it papers, went out to California on the 13th and it is believed that the amount will soon be quadrupled.

ON TRIAL ON CHARGE OF HAVING POISONED WIFE

Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 15.—Miss Larie Mercier, sister of Louis P. Mercier, on trial in superior court here, charged with murder in connection with the death of his wife, Eugenie, by poisoning, testified today that her sister-in-law had told her two weeks before her death that she did not expect to live long.

According to evidence previously presented, Mrs. Mercier died from the effects of poison similar to that which had been placed in a paregoric bottle. Mrs. Mercier had been accustomed to use paregoric. Mercier, on the witness stand, said that he had stolen the acid for the purpose of cutting open a child's bank, and that he had placed the poison in the bottle, at the same time warning his wife.

Irene Mercier, brother of the defendant, told the court that Louis Mercier, in telling of his wife's death, choked and showed other signs of grief.

The defendant was on the stand for a short time today for the conclusion of cross examination and re-direct examination. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mercier, his parents, will take the stand tomorrow morning.

Counsel for the defense informed the cout today that the defense would rest its case about noon tomorrow. A few witnesses will be called by the commonwealth in rebuttal. It is expeted that the ase will go to the jury on Wednesday or Thursday.

CASES REJECTED BY THE SUPREME COURT

Washington, Dec. 15.—The supreme court today refused to consider cases which sought to present the following questions:

The right of the Grinnell company to collect from the receivers of the Willys corporation the profits it claims to have lost when not permitted to complete installation of its equipment in the Willys plant at Elizabeth, N. J.

Whether the United Mine Workers of America was liable for damages suffered by the Pennsylvania Mining company during the coal miners' strike in Arkansas some years ago.

The right of exporters to recover damages due to the fall in foreign exchange which occurred through a delay in shipment, as raised by W. D. Shedon & Company in a case against the Emergency Fleet corporation.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Victor Talking Machine Co.

Camden, N. J.—Construction of two new factories as additional units of the Victor Talking Machine Company's huge plant in this city has been completed and the further problem of meeting changed lines of manufacture has been solved in a way which will be of interest to other manufacturers.

Early in the year manufacturing schedules were adopted which would provide for market requirements to the fullest extent in anticipation of readjustments at this time.

One important item is the changing of the company's power plant on Cooper street, Camden, to the company's wharf on the Delaware river.

In spite of the interruption which this step involves the company's shipments to date exceed those of last year by 11 1-2 per cent and the change will be made with a minimum of effort.

Of the total number of employees only about 1500 will be laid off and these temporarily. It is characteristic of the company's method that these men will receive half pay for a period of thirty days with the understanding that they will report for duty on call. Benefits accruing to the workers under the terms of the company's beneficial association will continue uninterrupted including their insurance.

SUPERIOR COURT ALLOWS CITY TO USE TRADING COVE BROOK WATER

In the superior court here Monday afternoon Judge G. E. Hinman made a finding against G. Warren Davis and others as remonstrants against the Norwich water department pumping water from Trading Cove brook on the ground that it would be detrimental to public health because the proposed pumping station would be less than half a mile from a cemetery, in this case the cemetery in question is the West Plain cemetery on the Salem turnpike.

At 10 o'clock in the morning, Judge Hinman visited the proposed site for the pumping station, accompanied by the water department engineer, Shepard B. Palmer, Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., and Attorney Clayton B. Smith, counsel for the remonstrants. They also visited the Elizabeth street school, where there is no water in the daytime.

Continuation of the hearing was resumed in court after the party returned to the city and it was about three o'clock, when Judge Hinman pronounced his finding after the attorneys had made their arguments.

In pronouncing his judgment, Judge Hinman said that from the expert testimony he had heard and from what he had seen at the site of the pumping station, there was no question in his mind but that there was no danger of contamination of the city water supply at this distance from the cemetery, or even at a shorter distance. Because of the sandy filtration he was convinced that the practical danger of contamination from bodies in the cemetery was non-existent. At the same time the judge said he could not blame the people who had shown their objection by appearing in court, but their objection was academic and sentimental, without real foundation but perfectly natural. The feeling on the part of the public would operate against a constant use of this pumping station instead of some other source of supply, he thought, but he believed the citizens would bear with it for such a length of time as was necessary. He had no hesitancy, he said, in finding that the situation is not detrimental to public health.

Continuing, Judge Hinman said it was pretty clear to him that the margin of safety for the city's water supply had been encroached upon and will continue to be. He thought the citizens ought to have more fear over only a 35-day supply on hand than over a sentimental fear on the point of contamination. The situation has been precarious and steps ought to be taken to help out the supply. The pumping station is an anchor to windward, so to speak, and if it is used when not necessary the public sentiment will take care of that. The item to expend as another time and natural business sagacity will compel no further use of the pumping station than is necessary.

When the hearing opened in the morning, the first witness called by the city water department was Dr. Willard Noble of Hartford, director of the bureau of preventable diseases, for the state of Connecticut department of health. He testified as to looking over the West Plain cemetery, so-called, and in his opinion this would not in any way be detrimental to public health. On cross-examination Dr. Noble stated that he felt that the drainage from the cemetery would only partly go into the brook. The witness admitted that he was only giving his own opinion.

President Corkery Testifies

John J. Corkery, president of the Norwich Water Board, explained the gravity of the water question in Norwich, stating that Fairview is about 17 feet down and Stony Brook down about 18 1-2 feet. He continued by stating that there are now in the neighborhood of some 100 families who are not getting water in Norwich during the day. There has been a decrease in water pressure in the city fire hydrants of approximately 20 to 25 pounds.

Never in the experience of the witness has the two city reservoirs been as low as at present. At the time the pumping was done from Trading Cove in 1910 the witness knew of no epidemic or detriment to public health. At present there is about 150,000,000 gallons of water in both reservoirs, 140,000,000 gallons of which could be used giving at the present time about 35 days' supply on hand. The witness stated that should the winter be a dry one, next summer the condition would be worse than at present. Mr. Corkery stated that five or six fire company representatives had investigated the water situation in Norwich and complained of the danger in case of a conflagration here. The witness stated that the capacity of the proposed pump is 2,000,000 gallons of water per day.

On cross-examination President Corkery stated that at present the supply is being drawn entirely from Fairview reservoir. On Nov. 15 Fairview had about 160,000,000 gallons of water while Stony Brook was empty. At present Fairview has about 100,000,000 gallons and Stony Brook with the gates closed about 50,000,000 gallons. The reservoirs as a rule do not gain at this time of the year until March or April. In the opinion of the witness the place picked to pump is the better location than above Gold Mine brook. At the point above Gold Mine brook the water supply could be decreased about 25 per cent. Should the pipe be carried up Trading Cove brook 1,000 feet there would be no contamination from the cemetery. The consumption of water in Norwich for the past year has increased at the rate of about five per cent. per year. In answer to Judge Hinman, President Corkery stated that the percentage of increase of water has increased 5 per cent. a year and with the normal rainfall the two present reservoirs are not enough to take care of the present usage of water. Mr. Corkery said it would take from a month to six weeks to install a pipe that would take water from Trading Cove brook one thousand feet higher up the brook than the present proposed site. Plans are underway for a further water supply.

Shepard B. Palmer, the civil engineer, whose firm has been engineers for the board of water commissioners for 35 years, testified that the combined capacity of the two Norwich reservoirs is about 900 million gallons. The dependable supply is a little over 3,000,000 gallons a day, but there might be years when the supply would be 5,000,000 gallons. The present watershed is not enough for the city. Mr. Palmer testified he suggested the Trading Cove brook pumping station site because it is the best available emergency supply. The watershed has a good flow and is fairly clean, these being two requisites. The watershed of Trading Cove Brook at the proposed station is about 3 square miles, but this would be reduced one-third if the intake pipe were taken farther up the stream and above the Gold Mine brook junction point.

Mr. Palmer stated that the present proposed site would be a good deal better from a sanitary point of view than a quarter of a mile further up the brook. This is because there are no human habitations from this point up to the Leffingwell church, but around the Leffingwell church the population is the densest in that section. There are springs that feed the brook along the way, one right at the site of the pumping station which flows 2 gallons a minute. The flow of the brook that has been measured is 600,000 gallons per 24 hours.

Mr. Palmer said there had been consideration of taking water from the Yantic river, but the water would not be nearly so good from there. The witness said the city would always be in an emergency condition until it had a 5,000,000 gallon daily supply. At the present time the reservoirs have just about held their own for the past ten days, due to rainfalls. Mr. Palmer said he had been able to find no example of contamination from cemeteries in a search he had been making for the past forty eight hours. He declared positively that there was absolutely no danger of contamination of the water, because of the cemetery. He said he would have no hesitation about drinking water from a well in the middle of a cemetery.

Eugene Harold Naife of 23 Hedges avenue, Norwich, was put on the stand by attorneys for Mr. Davis and the other remonstrants. The witness said that the majority of manufacturing plants in the city have pumps that draw water from the river for fire protection.

On cross examination Mr. Naife admitted he didn't know where the industrial building is or whether the American Thermos Bottle Co., had connection with the river. Mr. Naife also said the J. B. Martin Co. did not have such connection with the river.

This closed the testimony and Attorney Shields began the arguments before Judge Hinman. He referred to the statute requiring the permission of the superior court if a reservoir were located within half a mile of a cemetery and he spoke of the expert testimony to the effect that there would be no contamination. The attorney claimed that an emergency had been clearly shown and that the city should not wait until the last drop of water was out of the reservoirs before it began to make provision to protect itself against having no water.

Attorney Smith, in opposition, claimed that there was danger of a whole lot of imaginary ills in the community on account of the use of this water. As to the present situation, Mr. Smith said there was indication that with conservative use the city would have an adequate supply of water. There is a 35 day supply now and by conservative measure and some help from God in the future there is no obsolute necessity for granting this permission for the use of Trading Cove brook. The attorney claimed that the 100 families and the school house which do not have water in the day time are inconvenienced but are not suffering for lack of water. If the court should reserve decision for a couple of days, it might be that the whole question might be settled by a fall of rain.

Attorney Morgan also spoke for the remonstrants and Attorney Shields was about to make a further reply but Judge Hinman said he did not wish to hear him and the Judge proceeded to give his ruling.

NORWICH TOWN

Miss Rose K. Durr is to be the hostess Wednesday evening to Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters.

A religious service was held at the almshouse Sunday afternoon, with Rev. James B. Aldrich, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, as the speaker. Matthew 20-16, was the text: So the last shall be first, and the first last; for many be called, but few chosen. Rev. Mr. Aldrich was accompanied by his son, Lewis Aldrich. Miss Florence M. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Irish, who provided the singing.

At the Methodist church, Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Aldrich preached from Luke 15-4, What man of you having a hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? The Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening had for its topic, Count and Spare Your Blessings. Ps. 107: 1-8. Because the appointed leader was unable to attend, Rev. Mr. Aldrich had charge of the meeting, combining the evening preaching service with the C. E. service.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached at the Congregational church in Stonington Sunday morning, in exchange with the pastor, Rev. Dwight C. Stone. At the Norwich Town Congregational church Rev. Mr. Stone preached a Golden Rule sermon, using for his text, Matthew, 7:13, Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets. Miss Rose K. Durr was in charge of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, when the topic assigned was Count and Share Your Blessings.

The Congregational mid-week prayer service is to have for its theme, The Suffering King.

The Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church is to meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dwight L. Underwood.

Mrs. Thomas Heffernan (Etta Lathrop Standish) of Arlington, Mass., whose death November 15th, was noted in Friday morning's Bulletin, was formerly a resident of Norwich, where she had many acquaintances and friends. Mrs. Heffernan was born in Lebanon about 49 years ago and spent her girlhood there. She was the daughter of William and Fannie Lathrop Standish of Lebanon.

About 23 years ago, in this city, she was united in marriage with Thomas Heffernan, also a former Norwich resident and for many years a druggist in Steiner's pharmacy in the former Shannon building. For a number of years later, Mr. and Mrs. Heffernan resided in Norwich, later moving to Worcester, and about four years ago located in Arlington. Mrs. Heffernan, whose death occurred suddenly from heart failure, was a graduate of Bacon Academy, Colchester.

Besides her husband she is survived by two children, Helen, 22, and Thomas Jr., 19, also several relatives in Norwich and Lebanon.

Funeral services were held at her home in Arlington, Rev. Warren Dixby, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial was in Arlington cemetery.

REPORT ON ACTIVITIES OF HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

In any report of the activities of the Backus Hospital auxiliary at this season, the work of the holiday committee naturally takes precedence. At Thanksgiving the ward dining room table and the patients' trays were made gay with appropriate covers and napkins, and the same attractive feature will be carried out on Christmas day. Turkey was, of course, furnished for the Thanksgiving dinner of patients and staff, and it will also be a part of the Christmas menu, as will ice cream which is to be given by the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women. Each Thanksgiving tray was graced with a turkey candy box. At Christmas Mrs. John D. Hall and Miss Jane Bill will serve as a special purchasing committee to provide a present for every person in the hospital, while the flower and holiday committees unite to decorate the hospital building—corridors, halls, office, reception room, etc.—and a glistening Christmas tree will brighten the children's ward.

Various gifts have been received since Nov. 10th from Mrs. Richard R. JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE ON LIQUOR CHARGE

William H. McGuinness, 42, of this city, was fined $200 and costs and was given a jail sentence of 45 days, in the city court, Monday morning by Judge Arthur F. Libby for violation of the liquor law by actual sale. McGuinness had pleaded guilty to the charge. He paid $221.75, his court bill, and was taken to jail to serve out his sentence. McGuinness also had a suspended sentence of 15 days hanging over him but this was nolled by the court. McGuinness was arrested Saturday night at his store on West Thames street, near the city line, where a glass of alleged whiskey was bought and held as evidence.

Ernest Sheldon, alleged constable of Ledyard, where he resides, was again presented on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. His case was continued until Dec. 29th so that arrangements could be made if he should be bound over to the next term of the superior court. Sheldon's father went security for the bond but was unable to be in court Monday morning to provide it. Sheldon, it is alleged, took a car from the Motor Mart of this city, saying that he was an engineer on the New Haven railroad, but failed to pay for the car.

Three men, hailing from New London, Willimantic and Norwich, respectively, were charged with intoxication. The two out of town men paid their bills, but the Norwich man went to jail. Another local man, charged with breach of the peace, had his case nolled on payment of $25.

SPOKE TO MEN AT RICHMOND RADIATOR CO.

At the noon meeting of the Richmond Radiator Co., Monday, the subject of the address given by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts was The Day of Small Things.

The speaker's remarks were drawn from Zechariah's account of the building of the second temple. The Jews had passed through the long night of seventy-one years. It had been a period of gloom; their hopes were buried in the graves. Jerusalem had been looking for the return of her children, but they had not come.

Suddenly there is a change; the dawn is breaking in the east. Cyrus has released the captives and a contingency returns to find the nation practicaly in ruins. Under Zerubbabel the work of rebuilding the temple was started. Instead of joy and gladness there is lamentation because the outlook is so dismal. It is the day of small things, but they are admonished not to "dispise the day of small things."

The following application was made of this historical incident: everything in life subject to the evolutionary process of development has its day of small things that ought not to be despised. "First the blade then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear" applies to many things outside of the vegetable world. Nations grow from obscure beginnings into maturity. Individuals who have attained eminence started in obscurity, and particularly is this true of Christianity. Let no one despise the day in which he is striving to get a foothold on the ladder of success.

SIXTY DELEGATES ATTEND SEVENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION

Willimantic, Dec. 15.—Sixty delegates from 21 organizations representing a total membership of 32,000 attended today the seventh annual convention of the Catholic French-American Federation of New England which was held at the Al-Pierre Tabarin. Several members of the Catholic clergy occupied seats as delegates. The visitors came from towns and cities throughout eastern Connecticut and in the western part of Rhode Island with a few from Massachusetts. President Eugene L. Jalbert opened the convention Monday forenoon and heard the reports of the committees and officers. Interesting discussions took place on federation matters and at noon adjournment was taken for luncheon. The Ladies of St. Anne Society served an excellent repast at St. Mary's hall. Routine business occupied the afternoon session. Rev. Father Lalande was the celebrant at a high mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock Monday morning which was attended by the delegates in a body and by many parishioners. Also present were 29 students from Assumption College, Worcester, Mass. A quartet composed from their number and assisted by Joseph F. Gaudreau of this city rendered selections. The mass was followed by adjournment to the Al-Pierre Tabarin where the convention was officially opened.

Officers and directors for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Eli Vinzan of Woonsocket, R. I.; first vice president, Alma Forcier of Goodyear; second vice president, Charles A. Boucher of Central Falls, R. I.; secretary, G. T. LaMarche of Putnam; treasurer, Phillip B. Erard of Springfield, Mass.; directors, Henry T. Ledoux of Nashua, N. H., Oscar F. Moreau, Manchester, N. H., Eugene L. Jalbert, Woonsocket, R. I., Ledion Belfol, Lewiston, Me., Dr. P. Robichaud, Gardner, Mass. The matter of selecting a place for the holding of the eighth annual convention next year was left to the decision of the new officers and board of directors.

PREDICT BINGHAM WILL CARRY NORWICH STRONGLY

If the views of several parties of mixed political complexion in Norwich, Monday evening, may be viewed as a barometer of the special election, Col. Hiram Bingham is sure to sweep Norwich with a good sized majority for U. S. senator.

Several parties, where discussions were held, were made up of republicans and democrats, but this seemed to make little difference, the concensus of opinion being that Hiram Bingham would be elected by this state in preference to Hamilton Holt.

POETRY

THE MISTLETOE BOUGH.

The mistletoe hung in the castle hall,
The holly branch shone on the old oak wall;
And the baron's retainers were blithe and gay,
And keeping their Christmas holiday.
The baron beheld with a father's pride
His beautiful child, young Lovell's bride;
While she with her bright eyes seemed to be
The star of the goodly company.

"I'm weary of dancing now," she cried;
"Here tarry a moment—I'll hide. I'll hide!
And, Lovell, be sure thou'rt first to trace
The clew to my secret darking place."
Away she ran,—and her friends began
Each tower to search, and each nook to scan;
And young Lovell cried, "O, where dost thou hide?
I'm lonesome without thee, my own dear bride."

They sought her that night, and they sought her next day,
And they sought her in vain while a week passed away;
In the highest, the lowest, the loneliest spot,
Young Lovell sought wildly,—but found her not.
And years flew by, and their grief at last
Was told as a sorrowful tale long past;
And when Lovell appeared, the children cried,
"See! the old man weeps for his fairy bride."

At length an oak chest, that had long lain hid,
Was found in the castle,—they raised the lid,
And a skeleton form lay moldering there
In the bridal wreath of that lady fair!
O, sad was her fate!—in sportive jest
She hid from her lord in the old oak chest.
It closed with a spring!—and, dreadful doom,

—Thomas Haynes Bayly.

CEYLON.

I hear a whisper in the heated air—
"Rest! Rest! Give over care!"
Long level breakers on the golden beach
Murmur in silver speech—
"Sleep in the palm-tree shadows on the shore—
Work, work no more,
Rest here and work no more."

Where half unburied cities of dead kings
Breed poisonous creeping things,
I learn the poor mortality of man—
Seek vainly for some plan—
Know that great empires pass as I must pass
Like withered blades of grass—
Dead blades of Patna grass.

"Breathe—breathe the odorous sweetness that is ours," Cry Frangipani flowers.
"Forget! Forget! and know no more distress,
But languorous idleness;
Dream where dead leaves fall ever from green tree
To float on sapphire seas—
Dream! and be one with these."

—A. Hugh Fisher.

VOL. LXVI—No. 302 | POPULATION 29,685 | NORWICH, CONN., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1924 | TWELVE PAGES—92 COLUMNS | PRICE TWO CENTS

BINGHAM WAS ELECTED UNITED STATES SENATOR BY A MAJORITY OF 40,542

With Light Vote Cast, the Republicans of the Towns Swamped the Few Cities Which Gave Holt a Majority—New Haven and Hartford Are in the Holt Column—Bridgeport Gave Colonel Bingham a Majority of 5,566—Waterbury Went 1,854 For Holt — Woodstock, the Home of the Democratic Nominee, Gave Bingham a Majority of 125.

New Haven, Dec. 16.—Colonel Hiram Bingham, lieutenant-governor of Connecticut and governor-elect, was elected to the United States senate today to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Frank B. Brandegee. The republican nominee ran 40,576 votes ahead of his democratic opponent, Hamilton Holt, editor and publicist, who in September made Woodstock, where his ancestral home is, his voting place.

The election today showed a great falling off of the vote of both parties as compared with the vote at the November election, but nevertheless the towns relatively held their republican strength and swamped the few cities which gave Mr. Holt a plurality. The vote for Martin Plunkett, socialist, dropped to insignificant figures.

Mr. Bingham will be inaugurated governor on January 7 when the next session of the general assembly is organized, and some time later he will resign and the lieutenant-governor, John H. Trumbull, of Plainville, will automatically become governor.

The campaign which followed the nomination of Mr. Bingham by the republican convention last month was one of exceptional interest to the electors of the state, and was marked by much feeling on all sides.

Mr. Holt received the nomination at the hands of the delegates to the party convention on the same day that the republican convention named Colonel Bingham, and he actively stumped the state appealing for support while Colonel Bingham for most of the time remained at home at work on the message he will read to the general assembly when it is convened.

Colonel Bingham had been opposed in the convention by Congressman John Q. Tilson, of the third district and Congressman Schuyler Merritt, of the fourth district, with State's Attorney H. M. Alcorn, of Hartford county as a third candidate in the field, his name having been offered by Attorney General Frank E. Healy.

Finances in Australia.

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 15.—Early in 1925, it is understood, the federal government intends to arrange the largest individual conversion and repayment loan ever undertaken in this country, namely, one of £68,000,000, in 4 1-2 per cent. bonds maturing the following December and representing the first four war loans and new issues.

The government is confident of the successful conversion, it is said, in view of the exceptional wool prices and the heavy production of wheat and other commodities.

Herriot's Condition Satisfactory.

Paris, Dec. 16.—Premier Herriot, who has been ill for several days, this evening was reported to have passed a satisfactory day, his condition continuing to improve.

GOVERNMENT SUSTAINED BY HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, Dec. 16 (By the A. P.)—The labor amendment to the king's address, expressing regret at the conservative government's attitude on the housing problem was defeated in the house of commons this evening, 356 to 136.

The situation in Albania was brought up by Noel Buxton. He inquired regarding raids by armed bands from Jugoslavia into Albania.

Ronald McNeill, under-secretary of the foreign office, informed the house that the British minister at Belgrade had been instructed to warn the government of Jugoslavia of the threatened dangers of the situation. Mr. Buxton then asked if the government would call the attention of the league of nations to the possible consequences of the Albanian trouble, but Mr. McNeill said he required notice of that question.

The bolshevik danger was prominent in the debate in the house of lords, where several questions were asked about the presence in England of Russians, whose activities might be a potential danger to the empire.

Lord Couzon, lord president of the council, replied that since the conclusion of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement only 340 Russians had been admitted, on more or less official business; in addition there were about five hundred private business men and students. In all, only four enjoyed diplomatic immunity. Thus far, he added, no deportations of these visa holders had been found necessary, and all precautions had been taken against bolshevik propaganda.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house considered the navy appropriation bill.

Joseph W. McIntosh, of Illinois, was nominated as comptroller of the currency.

The national conference of street and highway traffic made recommendations and adjourned.

President Coolidge, it was said at the White House does not believe an investigation of the navy is necessary.

Representative Crisp, of Georgia, a member of the debt commission, told the house no concrete proposal on the French debt had been submitted.

It was indicated at the department of justice that the Atlanta federal penitentiary removal cases might involve a wider development.

State department officials declared the protest of soviet Foreign Minister Tchitcherin on the operations of the cutter Bear would not be answered.

The American embassy in Mexico was instructed to investigate the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Joseph Fierros of Webb county, Texas, near Nuevo Laredo.

The senate campaign expenditures investigating committee dismissed the front of a "million dollar republican fund," purported to have been handled through four western reserve banks.

NULTON SUCCEEDS WILSON AS SUPT NAVAL ACADEMY

Washington, Dec. 16.—Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton has been selected by the navy department to succeed Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson as superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, when the latter retires from active service next February. Admiral Nulton now is in command of the Battleship Division No. 3, in the fleet in Pacific waters.

Admiral Nulton was appointed to the Naval Academy from Virginia. He was commandant of midshipmen at the Naval Academy in the war period, later being assigned to command the battleship Pennsylvania, then flagship of Admiral Wilson, who commanded the fleet during the war. He was in command at the navy yard, New York, and of various cruisers and successively of the battleships Maine, Texas, Ohio and Wisconsin before he commanded the Pennsylvania.

His last east coast command was the fourth naval district, Philadelphia, which included duty as commandant of the Philadelphia yard. He was commissioned a permanent rear admiral in 1921.

New York, Dec. 16—Thirty-one new typhoid fever cases reported to the health department today brought to 380 the number of typhoid patients under observation throughout the city, but Health Commissioner Monaghan said he was not unduly alarmed because many physicians did not report on Sunday and Monday's reports would not reach the department until today.

Sheldon, of Enfield, today filed a petition in bankruptcy in the federal court here, showing liabilities of $13,792 and assets of $8,802. It was not stated whether his financial difficulties were due to the poultry disease now spreading through the state.

Postal Salary Bill Tabled in Senate

Washington, Dec. 16.—Another unsuccessful attempt was made in the senate today to bring a vote upon on President Coolidge's veto of the postal salary increase bill. Those desiring to over-ride the veto, succeeded by a vote of 51 to 30 in getting the issue before the senate, but the parliamentary situation prevented a decision and the bill went back to its place on the table.

The move for immediate consideration of the veto was made by Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, during the opening hour after Chairman Sterling of the postoffice committee, had introduced a bill proposing increased postal rates in line with recommendations by Postmaster General New. The Arizona senator objected to the second reading of the Sterling bill, thus preventing the measure being referered to a committee.

As a result of today's skirmish, the postal pay situation is practically at a stalemate, Senator Ashurst said later.

The sterling bill cannot be referred to a committee for action until routine legislative business is again in order. Likewise, the vetoed measure cannot be called up in the face of unanimous consent agreements giving right of way to the Muscle Shoals bill and then to the Isle of Pines treaty, until the same opportunity isafforded.

Thirteen republican senators voted today with 24 democrats and two farmer-labor members to bring the veto before the senate, while three democrats opposed immediate action. Supporters of the president's position said later that several senators who recorded themselves as for disposition of the postal pay bill, would have opposed a move to override the veto, and that lacking these votes, the opposition had failed to show sufficient strength to reenact the vetoed pay bill.

A tangled parliamentary situation developed from Senator Ashurst's motion to take up the pay bill, which was met by Senator Sterling's move that both the bill and the veto be referred to his committee. Under the rules, this ordinarily would have thrown wide open the doors of debate. Several anti-veto senators, however, at once called attention to the unanimous consent agreement entered into Saturday by which debate today was to be limited to ten minutes by any one senator. The chair ruled that the agreement had applied only to the Muscle Shoals question. Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, appealed from this decision. The appeal itself was then taken by Senator Sterling as opening unrestricted debate, and he proceeded to hold the floor until the conclusion of the "morning hour," automatically displaced the postal bill.

Under the Sterling bill, rates would be increased on third class matter so as to yield about $18,000,000 more each year, and on fourth class matter to increase the income by $12,000,000, while $12,500,000 would be sought from postal cards and miscellaneous first class mail. $16,676,000 from second class, including newspapers and $4,161,000 from insured and C. O. D. mail. Chairman Sterling expressed the hope that hearings might be started at once before the sub-committee which, he said, would be appointed as soon as the senate authorized reference to the bill.

SECY WILBUR APPROVES NAVY WAGE SCALES

Washington, Dec. 16.—The report of the navy wage board fixing wage scales for civilian employes at all navy yards and stations was approved today by Secretary Wilbur.

While it was announced that in general the new schedules conform closely to those in effect last year with a considerable number of minor increases and a very few reductions in rates, the individual schedules for each yard will not be available for several days.

The board is required to report annually on wage conditions scales at the various yards and to recommend such changes in wage scales as are necessary to make the government rate equivalent to the prevailing rate of pay for similar trades in private industry in the general vicinity of each yard. The report is based upon the findings of local boards at the various yards.

The new scale takes effect January 1. The delay in publication of the individual schedules is due to the requirement that they be printed and checked for errors in the hundreds of specific items covered.

The money would be taken from the $4,150,000 naval hospital fund to which 20 cents a month is contributed by officers and men. It is planned to add this bill as an amendment to the pending naval supply bill.

Rift in The Transit Probe in New York

New York, Dec. 16.—Counsel for the city of New York withdrew from the investigation of the city's transit tangle today as the climax of a series of striking events which marked the second day of the inquiry ordered by Governor Smith.

The lawyers gave as their reason the refusal of Supreme Court Justice McAvoy, investigator by appointment of the governor, to permit direct or cross-examination of witnesses by attorneys other than Henry L. Sherman, neutral attorney named by the investigation for the presentation of all evidence.

In withdrawing, each of the attorneys—Max D. Steur and Harry A. Gordon, special counsel for Mayor Hylan and the city board of estimate, and Corporation Counsel Nicholson and his special assistant, Louis Landee—told Justice McAvoy that they considered their appearance of no value to the city in view of his ruling. They objected to some of the questions Mr. Sherman had put to George McAneny, chairman of the state transit commission, who has been the sole witness so far.

Mayor Hylan later approved the action of the lawyers. One attorney with a municipal affiliation remained, Edmund L. Mooney, special counsel for the city board of transportation. William DeFord, a member of that board and an attorney as well, said he could continue to attend the meetings.

The attorneys' decision to withdraw came in the midst of Mr. McAneny's continued attack on the city administration.

GOMPERS' BODY LYING IN STATE IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Dec. 16.—The body of Samuel Gompers, late president of the American Federation of Labor, reached the capital late today and lay in state in the federation's building to receive the homage of friends and followers here before being taken on to New York.

Members of the late labor leader's family, his widow, and three sons, with many government and national labor officials, met the train as it came in from San Antonio, Texts, where Mr. Gompers died Saturday.

The casket was borne from the train on an artillery caisson escorted by a military detachment from Fort Myer, Virginia. The floral offerings were taken to the labor building with the casket.

The executive committee of the federation marched behind the casket, in the procession also were delegates from national and international labor organs, 50 women from the bureau of engraving and printing and other government departments whose workers are organized.

Delegations also were present from Masonic, Eagles, Odd Fellows, Elks, and other fraternities of which Mr. Gompers was a member.

One of the large delegations was from the Mexican embassy. The acute illness which brought on Mr. Gompers' death developed in Mexico City a week ago, just after he had been elected president of the Pan-American Labor Council and had taken a prominent part in the inauguration of President Calles. Two Cuban labor men also paid their respects as representative of the Latin-American labor fraternity.

The line included Ambassadors Jusserand, of France, Senators Brookhart, Iowa, Harris, Georgia, Harrison, Mississippi, and Stanley, Kentucky; Mrs. Mae Nolan, representative from California, whose husband was a labor leader on the coast; Representatives Connelly, Gallivan and Tague of Massachusetts; Hill of Washington; Casey of Pennsylvania and Hock of Kansas. Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, who has been in the capital for several days, also passed the body.

Upon arrival at the headquarters of the federation, the casket was placed over an imprint of the official seal of the organization designed by Mr. Gompers in 1880.

Mr. Gompers' private office in the labor building had been closed upon receipt of news of his death and nothing in it had been disturbed. It will remain as he left it until his successor is selected by the executive council in a few days.

The body is to lie in state in the Elks' Temple at New York tomorrow. The funeral will be held there Thursday morning, and the final rites will be said at the grave in Sleepy Hollow cemetery near Tarrytown, N. Y.

TO BROADCAST FUNERAL SERVICES OF GOMPERS

New York, Dec. 16.—Plans are under way to broadcast by radio the funeral services of Samuel Gompers, late president of the American Federation of Labor, when they are held Thursday morning in the great lodge room of the Elks' clubhouse here, Hugh Frayne, general organizer, announced tonight.

Town hall, across the street, has been engaged to accommodate mourners who will be unable to gain admittance to the clubhouse. This overflow attendance will receive the broadcasting through amplifiers as it is placed on the air for the eastern seaboard.

The body of Mr. Gompers will arrive from Washington at the Pennsylvania station tomorrow at 7 a. m., according to present plans.

The State Federation of Labor has postponed its meeting at Albany scheduled for tomorrow until Monday. The board of aldermen today passed resolutions of condolence for the Gompers family. The joint advisory board of the Cigarmakers' International union, of which Mr. Gompers was vice president, announced that its 15,000 members in the metropolitan district would stop work for an hour at the time of the funeral.

COOLIDGE WOULD PREVENT COMPETITIVE NAVAL POLICY

The President Regards Adequate Defense as the Real Guide in Naval Building—Disapproves Endeavor Solely to Build Ship For Ship With Other Nations—White House Will Oppose Congressional Inquiry Into the State of the Navy.

Washington, Dec. 16.—The move to bring about a congressional inquiry into the state of the navy today encountered opposition at the White House and delay in the senate naval committee.

The opposition from the White House was based on the grounds that a general investigation, such as proposed in the senate, was unnecessary. The postponement of action by the naval committee, called upon to consider an investigation resolution by Senator King, democrat, Utah, was decided upon to permit study of what was described by Chairman Hale as a "substitute plan."

Without waiting for the question of an investigation to be decided the house began general debate on the annual naval appropriation bill with its provision for an expenditure of nearly $300,000,000 in the naval establishment during the next fiscal year. The controversy as to whether the navy is deficient and how it compares with other sea fighting forces immediately became a subject of discussion.

The matter of relative strength, however has been largely disregarded by President Coolidge in the consideration he is giving the naval question. He regards adequate defense as the real guide in naval building rather than endeavor solely to build ship for ship with other nations.

Competition in naval building in reality is viewed with apprehension by the president. A statement of his views obtained today at the White House brought out that he sees little hope for the future if American naval strength is to be determined wholly by the programs of the other powers.

Secretary Wilbur is to appear tomorrow before the house naval committee and a further presentation of the views of his department on the naval question is expected. The secretary has had several conferences recently with the president, including one today after the cabinet meeting, and it is assumed he has been thoroughly acquainted with the thoughts of the president.

The immediate matter before the house committee is the Britten bill to expend $6,500,000 in elevating the guns on 13 of the navy's 18 capital ships so as to give them greater range. Whether the committee will ask Mr. Wilbur about other new legislation along lines recommended by the navy department will await developments in the committee session.

Representative Britten of Illinois, ranking republican member of the house committee and author of the gun elevation bill, discussed the legislation today with the president. The views of the executive regarding the bill have never been disclosed, but it has been made plain that he does not regard gun elevation legislation as of prime importance.

The president's position is that the whole question of gun elevation must be considered in its relation to the naval armament treaty, and also from the standpoint of economy. He has been advised that five of the 18 ships need no modernization with respect to gun elevation, that five others have guns with ranges comparable with offensive strength of the capital ships of other powers, and that really the elevation question pertains only to eight ships.

The stand of the president with respect to the proposed congressional investigation is based on the conclusion that annual inquiry into the state of the navy is brought about through consideration of the naval appropriation bill. The stages through which such legislation passes, Mr. Coolidge believes, involves a most thorough study of naval needs.

The president cited for the benefit of those seeking the truth in the present controversy the address made in the senate last May by Chairman Hale of the senate naval committee. This address also was chosen as an exact statement as to the status of the navy by Secretary Wilbur in appearing recently before the house naval committee.

The attitude of the senate committee toward a naval investigation was not fully developed at today's meeting, the session having been curtailed by the representation of the substitute poposition. It was not disclosed what the substitute contemplates, but the matter will be considered again on Friday.

The house debate on the naval appropriations bill began with an explanation of its provisions by Representative French, republican, Idaho, chairman of the sub-committee which framed the measure. Facts available as to the state of the navy, he told the house would support the conclusion "The ships of the navy are splendid ships, that our naval establishment is adequate, that is is not being reduced to rust and ruin, but that it is an establishment that may arouse the pride and enthusiasm of the people of our country."

A somewhat opposite view was taken, however, by Representative Byrnes of South Carolina, ranking democratic member of the same sub-committee who declared that "when the American people realize that its navy is deficient they will demand the best navy in the world."

"The British will then realize that this would mean competive building, a breeder of war, and would be anxious to reach a limitation agreement," he added.

Although President Coolidge is giving little attention to relative strength as a factor standing alone, the debate in the house in its initial stages today showed an inclination by congress to attach considerable importance to that element. Inquiries along this line probably will be made on Secretary Wilbur at tomorrow's session of the house naval committee and in that connection it is recalled that Captain Henry B. Hough, director of naval intelligence informed the house appropriations sub-committee that Great Britain had a programme which would add 50 of the 10,000 ton type post-treaty cruisers to her navy during the next ten years.

GOVT TO KEEP ALOOF IN NEW JERSEY RUM SCANDAL

Washington, Dec. 16.—Attorney General Stone announced after a conference tonight with Senator Edge, New Jersey, United States District Attorney Winne, and assistant U. S. Attorney Van Riper, of that state, that, pending an examination into the administration of Mr. Winne's office, no action would be taken by the department of justice to alter the conditions there.

The conference resulted from a series of circumstances which included the dispatch of a telegram yesterday by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, informing Mr. Winne that Mr. Van Riper should not handle prohibition cases. The message was construed to a large extent as an expression by Mrs. Willebrandt with the approval of Mr. Stone of a lack of confidence in Mr. Van Riper.

The telegram stated expressly that Assistant United States Attorneys Besson and Plummer, were to handle prohibition prosecutions and at the same time ordered Mr. Winne to hold in abeyance plans to present evidence in the Weehawken rum scandal to the federal grand jury.

A thorough search of the city was made for the escaped prisoner but the police have been unable to locate her. The Westfield officer returned home empty handed.

The Sullivan girl, the police say, was arranged in the Westfield court yesterday on a charge of being a delinquent and was sentenced to the women's prison at Sherburne.

VIOLENT BOMBARDMENT ON SERBIAN FRONTIER

London, Dec. 16.—(By The A. P.)—The Albanian legation in London this evening received a message from Tirana stating that "the prefecture of Dibra wires that a violent bombardment began early this morning on the Serbian frontier against the Albanian troops."

The message declared that the Albanian commander of the Cosovo district "wires that the first attack of the Albanian frontier was made by Serbian troops who, after they crossed the frontier, were replaced by irregulars. Fighting continued all along the frontier. Yesterday the customs authorities of Scutari captured at Zogari a boat full of ammunition coming from the Montenegro frontier."

RAILROADS PLACE EMBARGO ON POULTRY SHIPMENTS

New York, Dec. 16.—Fear of the "chicken plague" prevalent in certain mid-western states has so intimidated the housewives of New York that all railroads serving the city today set up a solid embargo against shipments of live turkeys, chickens, ducks and geese.

The railroads acted after a host of inspectors representing federal, state and civic agencies of health had rejected many cars of poultry which yesterday arrived in the yards at Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken for New York city markets.

Even the cars that passed inspection were refused by local receivers with the terse statement that there was "no market." Commission merchants and carriers tonight took steps to have express companies establish an embargo on fowl as rigid as that declared today by the railroads.

"There will be no live fowl of any kind on the market in New York city for the holidays," said heads of the Live Poultry Merchants' association "There is no prospect that the fears of housewives can be allayed, and order restored from the chaos in which the market now finds itself in time for the Christmas and New Year's trade."

Starr in the act of passing a bottle of intoxicants to a prisoner. He is held at the Hartford police station awaiting a hearing in the Wethersfield town court tomorrow night.

The prisoner to whom the intoxicant was being passed is Wilbur Bonim, who was sentenced in 1921 for a term of 3 to 5 years for robbery of two Hartford jewelry stores.

RENEWAL OF APPEAL FOR PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

Washington, Dec. 16.—Renewing his appeal for Philippine independence, Pedro Guevara, one of the resident commissioners from the islands, declared today in the house that the "settlement of the Philippine problem" would result in a needed readjustment of international affairs in the Far East.

Declaring it a clear case of duty for the United States to initiate a Far Eastern readjustment, based on Philippine independence, the commissioner urged enactment by congress at this session of legislation proposing immediate withdrawal of American sovereignty over the islands.

There was a 100 per cent. attendance meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club, Tuesday noon. The club entertainment was much appreciated. President Harry W. Standish was in charge. In addition to the 100 per cent strong attendance there were six visitors, Ruel Gray and Francis J. McGerty of New London, Henry S. Bryan of this city, "Lou" Webster of the American Optical company, Dr. George E. Wilcox, president of the Willimantic Exchange club and George Hatch of South Windham. Gus E. Greene gave a talk on Responsibility, stressing the responsibility of the individual member to his club, to his community and to the public in general. Al B. Smith spoke on Friendship and George H. Shafer talked on Fellowship, all being Rotary subjects and embodying principles of the code of [illegible] tendance contest was to come to a conclusion Tuesday, but as two previous meeting were not included in the contest it was voted to continue it to include the January 15th meeting. Mention of the community Christmas celebration was made by Acting Mayor George W. Hickey and Albert B. Smith. The financial co-operation of the members was asked for. At the request of District Governor "Al" Lavery of Bridgeport, the club is to set a date within the next thirty days for the annual visitation of that official. The session adjourned at 2 o'clock.

Postmaster Walter R. King stated Tuesday that the public was responding to the appeal for the early mailing of Christmas gifts. There is a large amount of incoming mail and to handle the rush, two members of the staff of substitutes have been called in to assist the regular carriers. Every endeavor will be made to have all the Christmas mail delivered by eleven o'clock Christmas forenoon, at which time all postoffice activities will cease for the remainder of the day.

The amusement program planned Christmas celebration by the committee, of which Valentine L. Murphy is chairman and Charles F. Beck, secretary, will be carried out at the state armory on Pleasant street from 3.30 to 5.30 o'clock on Christmas afternoon it was made known Tuesday. The merrymaking will be for children from five to fifteen inclusive. The Windham Girls' club, with Miss Alice Peterson, chairman, will decorate a large Christmas tree which will be conspicuously placed in the drill shed. Egbert A. Case is chairman of the sub-committee on games; Thomas OBrien on refreshments and William A. Costello on entertainment.

Cynthia Lincoln, 85, widow of Albert H. Bates, died at her home in Windham Center, Tuesday morning at three o'clock. Mrs. Bates was born in North Windham, September 18, 1839, a daughter of Samuel Austin and Johanna Barrows Lincoln. Surviving her are two daughters, Misses Anna L. and Grace B. Bates of Windham Center and a sister, Miss Elizabeth Lincoln of Hartford.

Mrs. Martha Fuller, 82, died Tuesday morning at 7.30, at St. Joseph's hospital where she had been a patient for two years. She was the widow of Asa Fuller, of Middletown and a former resident of Windham Center, where she lived with her brother, George Manley. She was born in Columbia, November 24, 1842, and leaves a brother, Hubbard Manley of Middletown and a sister, Mrs. Bailey of Springfield, Mass.

A charge of intoxication was lodged Tuesday morning in police court against John Lamphrey one of the famous rounders who made the duties of policemen here interesting and oftentimes dangerous, some years ago. Lamphrey retains convincing traces of the rugged frame which often matched in strength and endurance to the "bulls" of the department. Lamphrey has steered clear of the police court here since 1914. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $15 and costs, amounting to $22.15 which the accused was unable to pay and he was taken to Brooklyn jail.

The marriage of Mrs. Hessie W. Wade and John Irving Hammond, both of Hampton took place in the Congregational parsonage at Hampton Sunday afternoon. Rev. A. Avery Gates performed the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Ruth Wade, also of Hampton. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond will reside at Clark's Corners.

...One of the feature numbers on the entertainment program at the toy sale at the State Normal school Tuesday evening was a series of three selections by Master Leonard Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Davis of this city, a prodigy with the violin and pupil in the second grade at the Model school.

The contract to carry the mail from the local post office to the railroad station is to change hands February 1. Wilbur Hobby started the work less than one year ago at a salary of $1,500 but he found that he could not make a go of it for that money. His predecessor tried to sneak through by using a horse and wagon but that scheme proved unsatisfactory and it was definitely established that an automobile conveyance is needed for the work.

The articles sold which have been on exhibition in a window downtown, was charming little toy animals, bears, rabbits, leopards, fat squirrels that say "Keep Off the Grass," all sorts of cats, also dolls voluminously hoop skirted in crepe paper. The animals, the children cut from pieces of soft pine board with a sharp knife and painted in brilliant colors. There are painted jars, calendars, weighted blotters and very unusual little Christmas cards designed by the children and printed from the wood blocks they made from the pattern. The proceeds are to be used for the school. The fair was under the direction of Miss Lucy Murdock and the program of Miss Mary Quinn.

LORENZO DOW'S OLD HOME AT HEBRON HAS BEEN SOLD

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Dec. 16—The sale of the old home in Hebron of Lorenzo Dow, the famous itinerant New England preacher, is of interest to the many people familiar with the life of Dow. The house was built for him, and occ[illegible] years. This is the house said to contain the fire-board on which, some time after his second marriage, he is said to have sorrowfully inscribed "Women rule here." And rumor adds a post-script to the effect that a neighbor, after seeing it, scrawled on his, "And so they do here."

The farm, which has been owned by Joseph Slater, has been purchased by J. Howell Conklin of East Hampton and will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones and family of Amston.

ONLY 2713 VOTES CAST, MAJORITY FOR BINGHAM

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Dec. 15—The return tide of the sweeping republican majority recorded by the town of Windham in the November election carried with it, Tuesday, a majority of 485 votes for Hiram Bingham for successor to the late Frank B. Brandegee as United States Senator. There was a total of 2713 votes cast, 464 in the first district, 1005 in the second, 562 in the third and 682 in the fourth. The totals were, republican 1594, democratic 1109, socialist, 8 and for Tilson 2. The apparent lack of interest in the special election was manifested by the small total vote cast, which compares most unfavorably with the 5757 votes cast in November.

The third district took a lonely toss and gave Hamilton Holt the majority of 56 in that ward.

Martin F. Plunkett, the socialist candidate, received a total of 8 votes, 2 in the first, 4 in the second and 2 in the third district. Two complimentary votes, one in the second and one in the fourth were thrown to Tilson.

The counters displayed amazing speed and at 5.40 o'clock, 40 minutes after the closing of the polls, the results were officially announced at the headquarters of the first district in the town building by Moderator Raymond C. Cummins. The results of the second district, which scored the largest number of votes, were the last to be presented. There were no ballots thrown out, there being but one blank ballot discarded.

As noted, the voting was light during the eleven hours allotted for voting. When called for by party workers there were many who showed surprise and inquired what it was all about. There was no rush at any of the polling places at any time during the day, the voters merely trickling in singly or in pairs.

Walter Timmins and Carrie Place were the first to vote in the first district, where Chief Moderator Comins presided. John C. Barstow was the official checker, William C. Palmer, ballot box tender, Dennis S. Shea and Frank Munroe, challengers, James O. Bacon and Maurice Moran, ballot clerks, John McQuillan and F. M. Beebe, booth tenders.

At the second district, Arthur P. Bergeron and Ellen Lynch were the first to vote, William A. Buck was moderator, Charles H. Beebe, official checker, Anthony Hevrin, ballot box tender, William S. Congdon and Frank M. Lincoln, challengers, Charles H. Baker and Michael Moriarty ballot clerk, Paul Dubreuil and Herbert L. Tifft, booth tenders.

The moderator in the third district was Alfred P. Abbe, of Windham Center, John O'Rourke was official checker, Charles Cone, ballot box tender, G. Leroy Howlett and L. Vincent Sweeney, challengers, moderator Abbe and Eliza J. O'Brien were first to cast their ballots.

Lyman Maine was moderator at the fourth district booth. E. P. [illegible] was official checker, James [illegible]mey, ballot box tender, E. I[illegible] Ralph Snow, ballot clerks, J[illegible] Donahue and Dennis McCarth[illegible] tenders, John B. Edgarton a[illegible] Donohue, challengers, John Erickson, of South Windham and Miss Anna Hoey were first to vote.

ROCKVILLE

Mrs. Ina Barber Stone, 62, was the eldest daughter of the late John Nelson and Clarinda Burdick Barber and was born in Hopkinton, near Rockville, R. I., Dec. 29, 1860. She died at West Kingston, Dec. 7. She married Charles Stone, April 2, 1888 coming into his home to take the place of mother to his three daughters, by a previous marriage—Mrs. Grace Stone of Boston, Mrs. Emma Tuffts of Toronto, Canada and Mrs. Myrtle Main of North Stonington. Besides her husband she leaves a son, Charles A. Stone of Wakefield and two brothers, Orville G. of Westerly and Erlo W. G. Barber of this place.

She was genial and hospitable, and made many friends. For a number of years she corresponded for papers and in this she showed her practical talent.

She was baptised October 11, 1873 by Rev. J. R. Irish and united with the Rockville Seventh Day Baptist church of which she has always remained a member and where the funeral services were held Tuesday, Dec. 9, Rev. Paul S. Burdick, the pastor, officiating.

At the close of the services and by Mrs. Stone's request "Autumn Leaves" a reverie, was softly played on the piano, by Mrs. Carlton Irish. The floral tributes were beautiful.

The bearers were four nephews, William Barber, Fred Pendleton, Elbert Blacklock and Harry Lewis. Burial was in Rockville cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Erlo Barber and son Wilfred Barber called on Charles Stone at West Kingston Saturday.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Killingly gave a liberal majority to the republican candidate in Tuesday's election. The vote was: Bingham 785, Holt 394. Three votes were cast in the town for Plunkett, socialist candidate, all of these coming from the Second district. Only about 49 per cent. of the voters participated in the election and the ballots were all counted and the result declared at 6.30. Attorney Louis A. Wolsard was moderator.

A review of Tuesday's election in this town would appear to indicate that hundreds of Killingly's voters did not care the worth of a last year's Christmas wreath who was elected a United States senator from Connecticut. Old General Apathy was in the saddle, peacefully dozing, while his cohorts let the world roll by.

There did not seem to be any real interest in the balloting. Scores of voters walked right by the polling place here and did not bother to stop in and record their choice. Neither did anyone particularly urge them so to do. Up to the noon hour only 250 ballots had been cast in the First District, of which Danielson is a part. Election officials had an easy time of it. The voters just dribbled through in a thin stream that absolutely dried up at times. Apparently battalions of voters here used up all their political enthusiasm in November. They had no stomach for Tuesday's election. Individuals who talked about the election showed only a minimum of interest in it. Scores who work said they could not afford to lose an hour to cast a ballot. Taking it as a foregone conclusion that Colonel Bingham would win in any event, many republicans did not take the trouble to go to the polls. Scores of democrats, disheartened by the republican landslide in Connecticut last month, assumed a what's-the-use attitude and let the election go without voting.

Eleven more cases having to do with non-payment of personal taxes received the consideration of the town court Tuesday. Of these two were nolled, being the cases of an ex-service man and a person resident in Rhode Island for several years. In disposing of others of the cases costs were assessed in connection with the collection of the taxes.

Nearly 40 more warrants were issued Tuesday and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer for service. These complaints will be served without delay and the work of the court will continue until more than 100 cases have been disposed of, as each case warrants.

One man who has a little business place in the center of the business section has solved the fuel problem for his shop in about as economical a manner as anyone hereabouts. He keeps the place warm by cutting up old automobile shoes into about 10-inch lengths and feeding them into the stove as occasion requires. His business brings him into possession of many worn out tires. Cut up and used as fuel they develop a tremendous amount of heat and a piece or two at a time is all that is required to keep his place comfortably warm. To a casual observer there is nothing to indicate that the fire is not being kept going with either coal, wood or oil.

Once more, as is customary at this time of year, the attention of the public is being directed to the desirability of mailing Christmas packages early. This need was stressed at the post office Tuesday, on the eve of the real advent of the holiday rush. Although the postal force always does its very best to forward all mail matter promptly, there is a limit beyond which a restricted force of employes cannot physically go in handling veritable mountains of mail. Therefore, mail matter that gets out ahead of this jam has, under the unchanging law of averages, a better chance of reaching its destination more promptly and in better condition.

The office suggests the usual advice as to wrapping packages securely and addressing them plainly, not forgetting to accentuate the need of placing one's own name and address in the upper left hand corner of each package, in order that it may be returned to the sender in case the one to whom it is sent cannot be reached.

Among the U. S. Marines recently assigned to duty in Central America is David Joseph Touchette, of Putnam. He is now a member of the American legation guard at Managua, Nicaragua. He is 22, a son of Mrs. Antonia Touchette of Powhatan street. He joined the marines at Boston last August and until recently has been stationed at Paris Island, S. C.

A small guard of marines has been maintained in Nicaragua since 1913, when they were sent there to restore and keep order during a revolution.

Not more than two-thirds of the children who had money deposited in the school savings fund of the wrecked First National bank have taken advantage of the offer of the directors of the Citizens National bank to make good their accounts in full at once. Especially as Christmas time approaches it would be natural for the children to want all the money available, but they don't seem to be worrying about it.

It is an interesting fact, however, disclosed by a careful checking up of those who withdrew their money, that more than one-half of those immediately, or within the space of 24 hours re-deposited their money in the savings department of one of the three banks of the city.

For a child to lose the first money that he had ever saved through a bank's failure would have had an undesirable effect upon him, especially after he had been urged and urged again to be thrifty and saving. The matter was discussed at a meeting of the school committee and they co-operated with the banks in trying to restore any confidence that may have been lost.

At the annual meeting of the Putnam Chapter of the Red Cross, Monday evening, officers were elected as follows: Chairman, George W. Baker; secretary, Miss Edith C. Bowen; treasurer, Miss Harriet H. Brown; executive committee, Joseph J. Dupre, Putnam; John Ash, Pomfret; Joseph L. Miller, Dayville; Mrs. Chester Green, North Grosvenordale; Mrs. S. Fletcher, Thompson; Mrs. Joseph A. P. Gagne, Miss S. Elizabeth Clarke, Mrs. Ernest C. Morse, Miss Harriet H. Brown, Miss Edith C. Bowen, Mrs. N. B. Burton, Mrs. Andrew C. Frost, Putnam; Mrs. George M. Sampson, Woodstock. Committee on public health nursing, Mrs. Ernest C. Morse, Miss Ellen Wheelock, Miss Elizabeth Clarke, Miss Elizabeth Child, Miss Clara Larned, Miss Jennie Miller.

The choir of the Congregational church is to give a cantata, Adoration, Sunday evening. There will be other musical numbers, including an organ and piano number by Kenneth Sharpe and Mrs. Nelson D. Lown. In the gymnasium room of the church Tuesday afternoon there will be a Christmas tree for the beginners, primary and junior classes. There will be a program for the children and then there will be a visit from Santa Claus who will have a gift for each child, besides a bag of candy and an orange. The doors will be opened at 3.45.

A. L. Skinner, car inspector of the New Haven road, is confined to the house by two broken ribs and other minor injuries, caused by a door of a freight car falling on him.

The basketball team of Headquarters Co., 43rd Division, National Guard, played the Thompson town team on the armory floor Monday night, winning, 33 to 24. A Willimantic team will play here Thursday evening.

Louis Prendergast has a position at Worcester.

Miss Florence Bizaillon of Moosup has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Albert Bizaillon of Church street.

At a recent meeting of the Woodstock Academy Association, Rev. David Hatch, who has acted as coach during the football season was presented two pair of handsome silver candlesticks.

The bureau of pensions at Washington has announced the award of $30 a month to Mrs. Delia M. Holbrook, widow of Sheriff George F. Holbrook, and an award of $15 a month to Stephen St. Martin.

Included in a recently published list of income tax refunds was $652.75 to the Bowditch Works, East Putnam, and $11 to the Wheaton Building and Lumber Co. The Bowditch Works went out of existence several years ago. It occupied the pant that afterward was eased to the Lockwood Cotton Co., and which was destroyed by fire three years ago.

Rockville High School at Rockville; Friday, March 6, Tourtellotte Memorial High at North Grosvenordale; Friday, March 13, Putnam at Putnam; Wednesday, March 18, Stafford Springs High at Danielson.

A recital by piano pupils of Miss Margaret Blum, in the Majestic theatre, Monday evening, was a pronounced success and attracted a large attendance. The entertainment was for the benefit of St. James' church.

Hope of tracing the stolen car of Walter E. Musgrave dwindled when no clue to its whereabouts had been obtained up to Tuesday. The car was taken from the Musgrave garage sometime during the early hours of last Saturday morning.

Danielson's shopping district is the best lighted this year of any season since the white ways were developed at Christmas time. Larger and better street lights, numbers of outside electric signs and more elaborate interior lighting arrangements all contribute to the making of a brilliantly illuminated business section.

The first of the Christmas greens have made their appearance on the doors and at the windows of Danielson's homes. This pretty custom appears to grow in Danielson from season to season and will be more widespread here than ever this year.

Cold weather that has prevailed since Sunday has again made possible skating on some of the smaller ponds in this vicinity, although venturing upon river surfaces here is still regarded as extremely dangerous by most of those who like to skate.

Not much sleep was lost by Danielson people in getting election returns from Monday's election. Early Tuesday evening telephone calls relative to the result were quite numerous, but the interest never reached anywhere near that usual in an election.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Henry Myers of Mechanic street, had the members of the Queen Esther circle of the Methodist church at her home for a meeting.

There is to be a Christmas programme and tree at the Valley school Friday of this week, the event marking the end of the fall term and beginning of the vacation period extending over the holidays.

Beale A. Kensley of Springfield, Mass., was a visitor with friends in Danielson, Tuesday.

THE ELECTION RESULT.

Faced with the necessity of filling the vacancy in the United States senate caused by the death of Frank B. Brandegee, and at the same time providing a senator who would be unwavering in his support of republican and Coolidge principles, the voters of Connecticut did what was expected of them on Tuesday and insisted that such representation should be furnished by Hiram Bingham.

The majority by which he was elected as governor last month was greatly reduced, but in proportion, considering the smaller vote cast. In certain centers, where party strife and the stay at home vote appears to have been effective, there were small majorities for Hamilton Holt, but it is significant that 151 of the towns of the state were for Governor-elect Bingham with but 17 for Hamilton Holt, with one tied.

The voters of Connecticut, responsive to the needs of a republican majority in the United States senate, have insisted upon sending a man with a long established state residence, with unquestioned ability, with sound qualifications and an attitude toward such questions as may come up for consideration during the present or the next congress that inspires confidence.

In spite of the efforts that have been made to bring about other results Connecticut has refused to be budged. The election must be regarded as an endorsement not only of the fitness of Colonel Bingham for the office but of the action of the republican convention which selected him. Whatever may have been the views previous to that time the need of backing the convention's choice for the good of the state was recognized. Unquestionably the outstanding feature was the appreciation of the importance of having a republican step into the Brandegee vacancy.

Norwich shared in this view as is shown from the majority of 1161 obtained in a total vote of about 4200, while President Coolidge was given a plurality of 1950 out of a total vote of 8823.

ONE CROSSING TEST.

Tests at grade crossings have frequently been made by railroads for the purpose of getting first hand information as to the manner in which those using the highways at such points look after their own safety.

For a period of eight hours the Reading railroad stationed three men at what was considered a busy crossing in New Jersey to watch traffic with the result that during that time there were 6,643 autos driven over the tracks, and of that number of drivers there were 5,108 which apparently gave no consideration to the fact that it was a railroad crossing. There were 734 who took a look in the direction while there were ten drivers who stopped their cars and made sure it was safe to cross.

It doesn't appear that this was a bling crossing and it doesn't appear that there were any signals there for the warning of the highway users, and from the report it isn't disclosed that there were any close calls. If the observers were actually able to say that none of the 5,108 drivers looked neither to the right or left, or had others with them do so, it certainly represents the height of folly on the part of those drivers, and it is deplorable if their attitude in regard to such a matter can be regarded as representing that of the big majority of those negotiating railroad crossings.

With 520 of the cars driven across the tracks at a speed in excess of 30 miles an hour it cannot be considered that they were in such control that a crash could have been prevented had a locomotive suddenly loomed up. The absence of precautions is a serious reflection on the drivers. But with a crossing where there are 6643 users in an eight-hour day, or 830 an hour, it is only fair to the highway users that there should be some fitting warning of the approach to a railroad and signal of one kind or another to denote the approach of a train. Nothing is worse than an unguarded crossing and heedless drivers.

MAKING TERMS WITH FRANCE.

Some of these days we will get down to the business of arranging a debt settlement with France. There have been conversations. Such inquiries and suggestions as have been made have been regarded as a basis for action in the not distant future. The indications are that France is virtually ready to agree upon terms, and from all indications there appears to be a thorough understanding between the representatives of the respective governments.

From British sources there comes an indication that Great Britain is not disposed to look with favor upon the extension by this country of more favorable terms to France than were given to Great Britain. The intimation is that all should be dealt with alike, and the hint has been extended from certain directions that if France is to pay its debts to this country it should also be called upon to pay Great Britain, which country borrowed that it might loan to that and other countries. From authoritative sources there is the assertion that any such claims do not represent the government's attitude, and such is the view accepted by this government.

When the time comes for the adjustment of the debt there is no doubt that this country will endeavor to deal with France in the same favorable manner that it did with Great Britain. If conditions make it advisable to make the period longer over which France can settle it will doubtless be done. That is no more than would be done in case of adjustments between creditor and debtor, or than is being arranged every day. It doesn't appear that there is any obligation to hold France to terms given Great Britain if the insistence upon such would work any recognized hardship upon France, and it is evident that Great Britain hasn't asked for any such arrangement. In fact from official statements it does not appear that it has any such intention. The fact is that the payment of loans obtained by France would certainly be hastened if a non-antagonistic attitude were taken by the British. The British are not likely to undertake to influence terms with France when France kept its hands strictly off the negotiations between this country and Great Britain.

BETTER STREET LIGHTS.

In the national capital at the present time there is a demand for better street lights. That Washington wants them is certain. Whether it gets them depends upon the disposition of congress to provide the money. It is nevertheless making the claim and insisting that traffic conditions and safety in the streets demand it.

Better lighted streets have always been advocated in the interest of protection. With the big increase in the number of autos the safety factor through better lights is easily recognized.

In planning the proposed betterments for Washington the district engineer has proposed special types of illumination for the streets and avenues that are natural traffic arteries, and he has pointed out that a large percentage of serious accidents occur at night.

Up to date cities have long since appreciated the advantages offered by the best possible lighting of their streets. That it is an excellent method of advertising the progressiveness of a community goes without saying. Dark and dingy streets never make the good impression that is to be obtained by the brightly lighted ones. Washington is doing no more than others have done and are doing. It is, however, giving consideration to traffic conditions which is of course faced elsewhere.

Norwich has rather tardily obtained a certain amount of better lighting. It certainly speaks for itself, and now that the good results are obvious it remains for it to see that there is the much needed extension of it that is necessary to meet the contrast that has been created in the much traveled and much used thoroughfares.

TRUCKS AND RAILROADS.

Transportation lines have been watching with interest the experiment which has been undertaken by certain railroads of turning over part of their former business to trucks, and studying the idea of furnishing door to door service by adding trucks to their present equipment.

The Pennsylvania was one of the leaders in this response to the demand of trade, and the experiment has not only proved successful but has made such a good impression that it is to be extended. In the opinion of Vice President Lee of that road the motor truck will share with the railroad the movement of freight in the future. According to this official's terms the steam roads can be expected to do the "wholesale" business in the movement of freight while the "retail" service will be handled to an increasing extent by the motor trucks. The relief obtained by the farmer as the result of the experiments with the latter is of sufficient proportions to warrant its continuance.

Less than carload lots have been one of the problems and the cause of much expense to the railroads. If the steam road equipment can be devoted to the movement of carload lots over long distances, and the trucks can be employed for the handling of the smaller than carload lots for the shorter distances, a new service that will not only mean much to the railroads but to the shippers and receivers of freight will be provided.

What the Pennsylvania has done and contemplates doing indicates what can be expected from the other railroads of the country. The decision of the Pennsylvania is only what was forecast when it undertook the tryout.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The state has effectively indicated at the polls where its faith lies.

Have you given due consideration to the Salvation Army kettles?

It isn't always possible to combine a visit to the polls and a Christmas shopping trip.

Those who expect to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by leap year must step lively.

So far as can be determined now the elections are all over for this year, and most everybody is satisfied.

Just because Secretary Mellon has predicted prosperity don't set back and wait for it, but help it along.

Connecticut has said once more that it wants President Coolidge properly supported, and it wants Bingham to do it.

Those caught in the Christmas crowds think that all the others ought to have done their shopping earlier.

You can't blame the ice man if he so directs his steps as to be able to harvest ice when enough of it is available.

The man on the corner says: With election out of the way there's nothing to interfere with the Christmas shopping.

That Ohio coroner who declares he has no faith in expert testimony is likely to get a whole bundle of compulsory witnesses.

MARTS OF TRADE

"Did the nice little woman with the good business head who was going to lease your flat building for ten years complete the deal today?" asked the clever wife who pretended to her bamboozled husband that she was deeply interested in dry details.

The bamboozled husband jumped right up in the air, waved his arms and yelled. "I've no doubt you women make fine state governors, congressmen, diplomats, manufacturers and novelists!" he said in frightful sarcasm. "But when it comes to a measly little $60,000 deal something snaps in your brains!

"This little Mrs. Hooser quite took my fancy when the agent brought her to my attention. She listened to what we men said and didn't talk—for quite a while. And when she did open her mouth she talked to the point.

"She knew what a lease was and a mortgage and that she would be boiled in oil should she fail to slank down the monthly rent for the building for the next ten years. And she had turned the trick with two previous buildings, selling her leases at a profit and her banker said she was O. K., so I thanked my stars for the find and thought I was sitting pretty.

"I turned down two earnest business men who romped in after the dates were closed wishing to lease the building for some purpose, and I did so because I felt that Mrs. Hooser would give a womanly touch to the family hotel proposition which would be excellent for the building.

"I chased lawyers to get the lease accurate, promising to let her know when things were ready for her signature. And today I phoned her to come down at 2 o'clock sharp and everybody concerned would be on hand.

"Oh, Mr. Cakebite!" her voice thrilled over the wire, 'now isn't that too bad! I simply can't come in today—I have one of my best friends in town and I am taking her to the matinee this afternoon! You see it's my only chance to see Evelyn and we have so much to talk over—you know! I'll phone you some time next week.'

"Right back to the primitive, see? Ten years at six thousand rent a year, three men spending days to get the thing fixed up, everybody canceling everything else for the afternoon and holding his fountain pen—but little Suey says, 'Dear me, I've just got to go to the matinee because I've bought the tickets and everything and you sweet things don't mind waiting a few thousand hours or so for me, do you, dearies?'

"Bah! Three times! She's going to get such a stony face when she dares appear at my office that with one look she'll slide into oblivion fast and furious, grabbing wildly at the iceberg as she shoots by!

" 'Madam,' I shall say bitingly, 'I don't know you! You don't look to me like a person I would trust to run a lemonade stand, let alone a family hotel! I don't know how they ever allowed you to go out without an attendant! Run away and gurgle at the moon and the cute stars and lemme alone!"

"If that woman was fifteen years younger she would be the sort of girl who calls her boss a mean old thing because he won't stop the wheels of commerce and let her off Wednesday afternoon to go to Berenice's pink party! All the girls are going and the prizes are to be just darling and here he makes her miss it just to thump a beastly old typewriter getting out some letters that don't matter anyhow! The kind of business girl who orders a pickle and a cream puff for lunch and gets more excited over a new power on the market than over finding Mars' third moon or nominating a president! Some man marries her who thinks a liquid eye signifies a fine womanly character and a sweet smile means brains ambition, logic, genius and all the other virtues he yearns for a wife to have! When he finds out his mistake he skins out or dies and she becomes a business woman like this Mrs. Hooser! Woof! Doggone her!"

"And now we have for dessert, deep apple pie and cream," commented the clever wife brightly. "Eat this large piece and in a very few moments you will begin to feel much better!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who is being groomed by certain democratic leaders as the likeliest man in sight to become chairman of the national committee, is a former United States senator from Nebraska, who has long held a high place at the council table of the Democratic party, although he often differed from President Wilson and his administration on questions relating to the national policy during the war. Mr. Hitchcock was born and grew up in Omaha, where he now resides when not in Washington. His education was received in Omaha and in Baden-Baden, Germany. He is a lawyer by profession and a journalist by choice, his success in gaining control of newspapers in Omaha, and in administering them, having been notable in the history of mid-western journalism. His experience as a national lawmaker began in 1903, when he first entered the house. In 1911 he won a seat in the senate. In Washington he is known as a man of ability, force of character and a liking for the contest of politics.

Franklin Mistreated, Deceived and Sued

It was a desire of both Benjamin Franklin and his father that the boy be given a college education, but the support of 17 children, of which Benjamin was the fifteenth, was too great a demand on the family finances.

At eight the lad entered the Boston grammar school, then attended a school for writing and arithmetic. At 10 he became helper in his father's tallow and soap business, but disliked the trade and desired to go to sea.

At 12 he was induced to sign as apprentice to his brother, who published a newspaper, and who proved such a hard taskmaster that Ben ran away at 17, raising funds for the trip by selling some of his precious books. Arriving a stranger in Philadelphia, with a Dutch dollar his only funds, he found work with a printer. Flattered when the governor of the province said he should go into business for himself, he went to Boston in an unsuccessful effort to secure aid from his father, then to England to buy supplies, only to find that the governor had played him false from the start.

Obtaining work as a printer, he remained in London 18 months, then returned to Philadelphia to act as clerk in a store. Soon afterward he and his employer were taken in and his employer died. Franklin again became a printer, but his employer was so harsh that he resigned and with a fellow worker, whose father was to advance the money necessary, started a printing shop. The sponsor failed to make a subsequent payment and all concerned were sued. Friends came to Franklin's rescue and he bought out his partner. His business prospered he started a stationery shop, published a newspaper and other periodicals and magazines. At 27 he was rich and retired from active business.

Franklin held several public offices and introduced many ideas for public betterment. He became a writer, an inventor, and a scientist. He championed the colonies' cause in Great Britain, signed the Declaration of Independence, enlisted France in our efforts and was honored as one of America's greatest men.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Willing to Give Christmas Trees.

Mr. Editor: I saw in your paper, where some are not able to have a Christmas tree owing to the stingy farmers not letting them cut trees or branches on their farms. No doubt had the parties gone to the owner of trees in a Christian like way and asked for them, gladly would he or she have given them all they wanted. But stolen fruit is not always sweet; it proves bitter in the end. I always thought if anything was worth having it was worth asking for.

Again perhaps the farmer had a market for all his trees. Now I have an abundance of red and white cedars, sometimes called juniper trees and I would only be too glad to give anyone that wants them for Christmas or for decorating, all they want, if it is a truckload, if they will come to me. I will show them where and help what I can to get them, to make happy hearts for the holidays. I used to carry flowers for decoration, greens for holidays, but since my loved ones have gone, leaving me alone, it is impossible for me to do the charity work I always loved to do for others, but I still would be glad to do what I can. I also have a lot of creeping Jenny for trimming and would like to give it to those working so hard to make the poor children happy for the holidays, also the shut-ins. If it be but a cup of cold water that is given it is something for heaven.

Yours kindly,

L. H. TUCKER.

CHILD TRAINING

A PLEA FOR SANTA CLAUS

Ethel Clark Bickel

Much has been said in the last few years for and against allowing children to believe in Santa Claus. Primary schools besides Sunday schools have taken up the subject of whether or not it is right to lead little folks into belief in the dear old saint. The first primary teacher in a certain well known school considers it very wrong and tells every one of her children "the real truth" as she sees it, and they rapidly spread the sad news to all their little friends. The superintendent of the Sunday school in another town is of similar opinion, and from every Christmas program in his school all allusion to Santa is omitted. No merry songs of mysterious sleigh-bells are heard there; no little red fireplaces, no tiny stockings ever decorate the stage for festivities in connection with that Sunday school.

I wonder how the readers of these columns feel on this subject? I for one am heartily in favor of Santa Claus. In my childhood I happened to be one of a family of six children, and we were all told of "Santy" when scarcely out of babyhood. The happiness of Christmas time in our home will always be a cherished memory, and it was the "Santy" part of it that made it so joyous, for our gifts were costly, in fact, compared with the toys that little folks receive nowadays, they were almost insignificant.

As for the "terrible disillusionment" that is so often suggested as the natural outcome of telling children of Santa Claus, we never suffered any such misfortune. As we grew older and began to question, our mother explained to us very beautifully the real meaning of the dear old saint. "Santa Claus is the spirit of Christmas, somewhat as Jack Frost is the spirit of cold and frost," she told us. "Santa is the soul of merriment, cheer, the spirit of loving and giving." Very easily she made us understand why we had been led to believe in him—just to make Christmas time more bright and gay. Following her explanation, we were always ready to help foster the belief in younger children.

Now I have a little daughter of my own. Her father and I led her to believe in "Santy," for surely we should have been selfish parents had we deprived her of a joy that had meant so much to us. The year that Barbara was eight years old, I explained to her about "Santy." "Oh, Mother," she exclaimed happily, when she understood it all, "now this year I'll be Santy Claus to cousin John and Herbert and little Mary Elizabeth!" You see how thoroughly she grasped the meaning. No disillusionment, no feeling of having been hoodwinked!

Once, when Barbara was only a little over four, some child tried to shake her belief. "Well of tourse," answered Barbara, "if you don't believe in Santy Taus, there jus' isn't any Santy for you, that's all!" Her father later confirmed her reply and the danger of having to tell her at that tender age was averted.

I have never favored "dressing up" to imitate Santa. Rather do I favor the keeping of his personality delightfully mysterious and vague. Let the kiddies set their impressions of the jolly old fellow from colored pictures and verbal descriptions rather than from masked men. Then, when the time of revelation comes, one can make the story more charming by comparing Santa's red cheeks to the bright Christmas holly, his white beard to the snow and frost; his little fat form may be symbolic of laughter and jollity, and so on. Even his mysterious method of coming down the chimney may be made to symbolize the fascinating secrecy of the Christmastide.

Old Dog Tramp Arrives

Dear me, the air was cold and chill
As down the road came Breezy Bill,
His tiny snowflake horses neighing;
"Tomorrow there'll be dandy sleighing!"

I guess dear Uncle Lucky heard them in his sleep, although he was tucked into bed with his woolen nightcap over his head, for the first thing he did in the morning was to hop over to the window.

"Well, well, well," he exclaimed, quickly pulling on his socks. "Glad I ordered the little red sleds to be varnished. I'll put them on the Lucky-mobile after breakfast," and dressing himself in a minute or three he hopped downstairs for his Turnip Tea. Goodness gracious, there goes my typewriter again turning my stories into poetry. I'll have to name it Shakespeare or Eddie Guest! Yes, I will, as sure as I'm your Uncle Dave and you're a Little Jack Rabbit Fan.

Yes, every day with a doodle-do,
The paper on the porch he threw.
Then quickerty quick the little Mouse
Carried it into the tiny house.

"Yes, here's the Clover Cereal," answered the old gentleman bunny's neat little housekeeper. "By the time you've eaten it, the carrot cakes will be sizzling hot and the Turnip Tea steaming in the old teapot," and the busy little mousie tossed her bobbed head and scampered back to the stove. In a few minutes she had seated herself at the other end of the table and was about to drop three lumps of sugar into the teacup when, all of a sudden, just like that, quick as a lightning bug or a peal of thunder, somebody knocked at the door.

"Who can it be so early in the morning?" asked dear Uncle Lucky in a whisper. Then, with a brave shout, he answered:

"Come in, come in, don't hesitate,
Better be early than too late."

The next minute, the door opened and in trotted the Old Dog Tramp, the tattered brim of his old straw hat heaped high with snow and his fur coat streaked with snow.

Picking up the broom from behind the door, the good tramp dog went out on the back porch, and in a few minutes came back looking quite neat considering this old tattered straw hat and threadbare suit.

And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

Stories That Recall Others

Knew She Was a Flapper

One day while members of the family were seated on the porch a young woman passed attired in a red hat, red dress, red hose and red pumps. Lewis' father remarked: "There goes a flapper."

A short time later the minister's daughter was calling and she had on a red dress. Lewis, who is about five, watched her intently, and after a while walked over to her, looked her over and said: "Well, you're a flapper." The young woman replied: "Why do you say that?"

"'Cause you got on a red dress," he said.

She Had the Last Word

A minister's small daughter was fond of arguments with the equally youthful son of the neighbor. Generally she had the better of the repartee.

One evening the boy, with a gleam of victory in his eyes, followed her to the parsonage, talking and gesticulating rapidly. But her confidence returned as she reached the shelter of her home, and she exclaimed as she opened the door:

"I don't care everything you say goes right back in your own family."

Before the members of the Norwich Medical Association at its meeting at the Backus hospital this week, Dr. E. S. BULKELEY AND W. M. I. STUDENTS IN PLAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 16.—The presentation of the annual Bulkeley-Williams Memoiral Institute senior class play will take place at the Bulkeley auditorium, the play selected this year being Honor Bright, a farce in three acts.

A clever cast of fifteen players, of which six are students from the W. M. I. and nine from Bulkeley will give an enjoyable entertainment which will last three hours. Rehearsals have been going on for over a month under the direction of Coach Thomas R. Cook. The selection of the cast was made after several preliminary showings of the play.

The finishing touches will be made this week before the play is shown to the public. Approximately 1,500 people will view the two performances.

The play deals with a Harvard law students who falls in love with a chorus girl. Coming from an old fashioned family that controlled the fortune of the Barringtons, Dick Barrington immediately made arrangements for the presentation of the chorus girl, Tot Marvel to his folks at home. Many trying and funny situations follow with Tot Marve failing to appear on time for presentation. Through mistaken identity a book agent, Honor Bright, is taken for the missing Tot Marvel, and a really trying situation is presented when Tot Marvel arrives from Boston after a spree in that city. An attempt to hide from Dicks parents and relatives the real Tot Marvel, shows Dick Barrington attempting to extract himself with no little difficulty from trying places.

BINGHAM LEADS HOLT IN QUIET NORWICH ELECTION BY 1,101

Some last minute voter in one of the six districts of the town of Norwich gave Hiram Bingham, republican, a plurality of one more than 1,100 in Norwich Tuesday in the special election for United States senator. Mr. Bingham received 2,673 votes to 1,571 for his democratic opponent, Hamilton Holt of Woodstock, a majority of 1,101. The socialist candidate, Martin F. Plunkett, polled 38 votes.

Out of the 11,130 registered voters in the town, there were 4,802 who cast ballots, a little over 43 percent of the eligible voters.

Bingham polled but 2,672 votes as compared with 5,028 he received when he ran for governor in the November election, and Holt secured 1,571 votes in contrast to the democratic vote in the November election of 3,153 for Charles G. Morris, who was Bingham's opponent for election to the governorship.

Every Norwich district went republican, Bingham leading Holt in the first district by 505, in the second by 174, in the third by 82, in the fourth by 130, in the fifth by 65 and in the sixth by 145.

WILLIMANTIC REVALUATION RAISED LIST $10,000,000

Dr. George E. Wilcox of Willimantic explained the problems faced in Willimantic when property was revalued there in 1912, to members of the tax analysis committee, at a meeting held Tuesday night in the assessors' office in the court house.

Chairman James L. Case presided at the meeting and after the report of the last meeting of the committee was read by Secretary John J. O'Rourke, introduced Dr. Wilcox as the speaker.

Prior to 1911, said Dr. Wilcox, the tax situation in Willimantic was bad. At that time he was chairman of the board of assessors, and, with the aid of the other assessors, he decided to revalue property and put in a system in that city. Dr. Wilcox gave up his profession for a year and worked at the problem and also assisted in installing a follow-up system. Lack of sufficient appropriations by the town, to continue this follow-up work, has caused the value of the system to become practically nil during the years following 1912.

As a result of the revaluation the Willimantic tax list was raised from about $5,000,000 to around $15,000,000, property then being at approximately 100 per cent of value. A vast majority of citizens, house owners, merchants and manufacturers acted most favorably with the assessors during this work in placing values on their property.

The assessors were given from April 1 until the following Feb. 1 to do this work but the time was not long enough, over 45 miles of streets being covered in the work. Lack of time made it impossible to get a list 100 per cent perfect.

Since 1912 all valuations have been based on the 1912 figures for 100 per cent of value, much property, land and buildings, being placed in the list during that year, that had never appeared before. Willimantic pays the three assessors $500 each, or $5 for 100 days, the length of time they are employed in assessing.

In 1912 the town of Windham gave the men employed in revaluing the property the sum of $4,000 for expenses. This sum was too small to properly cover the cost of the work in Willimantic in 1912.

Asked what would have been a sufficient amount in 1912, Dr. Wilcox replied that at least $7,000 would have been necessary. To do the same work today, he said, would cost nearly $15,000, as the grand list of Windham is $17,229,000 and there are over 3000 lists, but in Norwich, where the list is nearly double that amount and the tax question is more difficult, he felt that the cost would move up in proportion.

Asked if a tax map would be a saving, Dr. Wilcox said that it would save time and be of aid in keeping up the system after it had been installed. Lack of money to provide proper clerical assistance has meant the loss of the greater value of the revaluation of 1912 in Willimantic, he said.

After Dr. Wilcox had been given a rising vote of thanks for his talk, Secretary O'Rourke read a telegram from Senator Robert J. Smith of Manchester, who stated that he was sorry that he could not be present at the meeting. Senator Smith, who has been assessor in Manchester, is well versed in tax matters.

Two reports given at the meeting were that Manchester, where a local revaluation was made in 1920, is not satisfied with the system and is looking for outside experts to revalue the city, that Meriden, which also had a revaluation several years ago, is now looking for outside experts' advice for a new system.

ANOTHER BIDDER FOR CITY G. AND E. PLANT

Legal notice has been given by the old Norwich Gas & Electric Co., from which the city of Norwich bought the gas and electric plant twenty years ago, that it is to file a petition in the general assembly when it convenes to enable the city to sell the gas and electric plant to the company or such other person or corporation as the general assembly may approve.

This company has previously given notice that it thought it ought to be considered as the logical purchaser for the plant, but it was not known that it was to enter actively before the legislature as a bidder for the plant against E. A. Fitkin & Co., of New York, which has made a bid of $3,000,000.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN LANDIS AND JOHNSON MAY BE SETTLED AT MEETING

Chicago, Dec. 16.—(By The A. P.)—Settlement of all grievances existing between Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, and President Ban Johnson, of the American league, is expected to be reached when the sixteen club owners of the American and National league reconvene here tomorrow in the joint session postponed in New York a week ago.

Prior to the opening of this meeting, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, of the New York Americans, E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland club, and president Thomas Shibe, of the Philadelphia Americans, will extend the olive branch to Commissioner Landis at his office in an attempt to effect a reconciliation between him and the American executive. After this meeting the club owners will go into a business session.

Commissioner Landis said he had nothing to say as to what may happen at tomorrow's meeting.

President Johnson, returned from a visit to St. Louis which he said was for the purpose of paying a personal call on President Phil Ball of the St. Louis Americans, who has been ill for several weeks, said he had no statement to make. He assured interviewers, however, that he would be present at the meeting, the first over which Commissioner Landis had presided since their break in relations.

President Johnson attended the adjourned New York meeting, but the commissioner was absent owing to the illness of his wife.

Intimations that Commissioner Landis might resign if Johnson remains as president of the American league were discounted in baseball circles tonight. Everywhere the statement was made that the principal business before the meeting will be to bring Johnson and Landis together and urge cooperation between Johnson, Landis and President John Heydler, of the National league, composing the baseball advisory council. Certain club owners hoped to convince Commissioner Landis that he could consult with other members of the advisory council before deciding important issues, particularly those affecting the Major leagues.

The resolutions adopted at the meeting at New York upholding Landis' administration and giving him a vote of confidence will be presented at tomorrow's session. Whatever action the commissioner will take these resolutions is known only to himself, but the remarks he is expected to make to the 16 club owners probably will be worth hearing, baseball men say.

Whenever Major league club owners gather, trade talk prevails, but so far the only deal on the tire is the one involving Urban Shocker, veteran St. Louis American league spitball pitcher, whose services are sought by the Yankees. The White Sox are understood to be bidding for Shocker. A deal involving him may be consummated tomorrow.

MERIDEN CAN'T TAKE BRASS BAND TO KAPLAN BOUT

New York, Dec. 16. — Contending that the Louis (Kid) Kaplan-Danny Kramer featherweight title match at Madison Square Garden Friday, Jan. 2, was to be a legitimate title match and not a "three ring circus," the state athletic commission today refused a request of the Meriden, Conn., Chamber of Commerce that it be allowed to bring a brass band along on the night Kaplan, a Meriden product, meets Danny Kramer of Philadelphia in the final round of the featherweight tournament.

At the same time a request for 1,000 seats for Meriden supporters of Kaplan was granted with the provision that the Chamber of Commerce be responsible for keeping the tickets out of the hands of speculators.

ITALIAN JOE GANS CANCELS BOUT WITH TED MOORE

New York, Dec. 16.—Italian Joe Gans, New York middleweight, who was carded to meet Ted Moore, English middleweight, in the Knickerbocker A. C. in Albany tonight, appeared before the State Athletic Commission today and asked to be released from his contract to meet Moore because of an injured hand. The commission ordered Dr. Walker, the board's official physician, to examine the member.

Dr. Walker reported that there was no evidence of any injury but Gans persisted that the hand hurt him and the commission decided to give him sixty days in which to recover from the injury.

Tom Luzuko of Patterson, N. J., who has been under suspension for failing to appear on a fight card for which he was contracted, was reinstated today.

PRINCETON BASKETBALL TEAM WILL TAKE XMAS TOUR

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 16.—Manager Ralph Kinder of the Princeton basketball team tonight announced that the Tigers will take a Christmas trip, playing four teams: Westminster College at New Wilmington, Pa., Dec. 27; Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh, Dec. 29; Firestone Tire Rubber Company at Akron, Dec. 30, and Ohio State at Columbus, Jan. 3.

CHAPMAN TECH ADDS SEVERAL TEAMS TO SCHEDULE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 16.—Several new teams appear on the Chapman Technical High basketball schedule which was let out for publication today. There is a total of 20 games already definitely scheduled with several pending contests, which if scheduled will swell the number of games which will make up the permanent schedule to 30 games if not more. Any number of games ranging from 4 to 8 will be played in the annual tournament held at Storrs Agricultural college.

Among the new comers which are included in a mostly home and home schedule are Westerly High, Norwich Free Academy, South Willington, Naugatuck and Bridgeport High. Norwich Free Academy has never been known to have a basketball team but from the schedule which was released for publication the Academy team appeared twice on the Red and Black schedule. The games between the Academy and Tech are pending, and whether the Norwich school is reviving basketball at the Academy is a question which will have to be verified by the school's principal.

Westerly High is also included on the schedule, and Westerly like the Academy is known to exclude basketball from her program of sports. Naugatuck High and Bridgeport High are the strongest opponents which the Tech players will stack up against, but Rhode Island State College freshmen and Killingly High are each expected to make the going a difficult one for the Red and Black machine. Windham High and Plainfield High will also be met in a home and home schedule. The tournament at the Connecticut Aricultural college gym will end the Chapman Tech season.

TEXAS LEAGUE SENDS 28 PLAYERS TO MAJORS

Texas, land of wide open spaces, oil millionaires and big-horned cattle, now takes rank with darkest Africa as a producer of ivory. No less than 28 players will be imported from the Texas league next spring for major league trial and no doubt many of them will make good.

The remarkable success of Al Simmons his first year out was the magnet that attracted the attention of the magnates to the Lone Star loop. Stars of the league were rubber-heeled by an army of scouts all season and judging from the number plucked the picking was enough to satisfy even the hungry magnates, which is saying something.

Of the batch, Connie Mack grabbed two hefty stickers in Bagwell of the Galveston club and French, the former West Point star. Both are clubbers from Clubberville and may give Sir Cornelius the punch that was missing last season. The Texas leaguers who go up for trial follow:

FORDHAM OVERWHELMS YALE ON BASKETBALL COURT

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 16.—The Yale University basketball team was defeated 31 to 8 by the Fordham University quintet on the Yale gym court tonight. It was Yale's second defeat of the season. Fordham started an entire second string team and when Yale was leading 6 to 3, after eight minutes of play the regular Maroon line-up took the floor and from then on the Blue players scored but twice, both on foul throw.

At the end of the half the score was tied 7 to 7.

In the second half, Yale scored but once on a free throw while the New York College team caged baskets from all angles. Zakszewski led the Fordham team in scoring with six field goals while Captain Luman of Yale, with two baskets, headed the Elis.

RICE IS EXPELLED FROM BULKELEY SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 16.—Permanent expulsion from school was the penalty meted out to Walter Rice, brilliant athletic performer at Bulkeley school, for the verbal argument which he engaged in with an instructor at the local institution. The dismissal from school was at first thought to be but temporary but Head Master Homer K. Underwood expelled Rice on Monday after he was allowed to return to his studies.

The circumstances surrounding the expulsion of Rice came about on Friday afternoon only a short time before Bulkeley opened its basketball season at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Rice was to play a guard position on the Orange and Black five, but as soon as the office was notified that he was dismissed from school temporarily, he was not allowed to participate in the contest. At first there seemed to be an indication that the matter would be dropped, but a meeting of the master's on Monday afternoon terminated in the announcement that Rice was permanently expelled.

It is not the first offense Rice has been guilty of, but it was reported that he expects to ask readmittance, basing his arguments upon the fact that he was not entirely at fault for the misunderstanding between himself and one of the masters.

Rice was probably the most brilliant all round athlete who has entered Bulkeley without a single exception. Considering as one does, the number of prominent athletes Bulkeley has produced, it is quite an honor to confer on Rice. But Rice deserved every commendation he received upon his versatile performances in the various branches of athletics. He recently closed his football career at Bulkeley and was mentioned several times on mythical all-state elevens. His ability as a broken field runner accuracy won for him admiration throughout the state.

However he was tempermental, and seemed gamely to fight against this weakness which gripped him. Rice meant right, and his absence will be keenly felt when the baseball season rolls around once again. He was last year's team captain, playing left field on the nine. His work in that territory marked him as an outer gardner of ability. His hitting was a potent factor in several victories but he fell down in the last several games in attaining the leader's position in batting which he occupied the season before with an average of .529. This is a good record especially considering the fact that he faced some of the best pitching in the state.

Basketball is another sport Rice excels in. He was a fast guard and very few forwards had him guessing on the offense. Although hockey is not a recognized sport at Bulkeley, Rice was considered one of the best skaters and hockey players in the city.

LONDON TEAM WILL TAKE PART IN INTERNATIONAL BOUTS

New York, Dec. 16.—The British amateur boxing team of four regulars and two alternates, selected to invade the United States, probably will take part in international meets against crack American talent in New York and Boston early next year.

The Britons include two Olympic champions, Harry Mallin, London policeman, who captured the middleweight crown in the tournament at Paris, and H. J. Mitchell, winner in the light heavyweight division.

The invasion is the outgrowth of an invitation extended to British boxing authorities by William H. Cuddy, of Boston, chairman of the boxing committee of the Amateur Athletic union, who also has figured in the promotion of amateur ring relations with South America.

According to present plans, the British boxers will compete in a tournament at Boston early in February, but this may be contingent upon arrangement of a tourney here on Feb. 2, when Madison Square Garden will be available for such an event.

The invaders also may be invited to remain in this country to participate in the national championships at Boston in April.

RAY IN PRIME CONDITION TO MEET FINNISH RUNNER

New York, Dec. 16.—Joie Ray, veteran Chicago runner and former national mile champion, has regained his old-time form in preparation for an indoor campaign in which he hopes to match strides with Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, famous Finnish champions.

This information was contained today in word received from Ray in accepting an invitation to compete in the 3,000 metre Olympic special at the Wilco A. C., when he won the race last winter for the third straight year. Both Nurmi and Ritola have been invited to take part in this race, the distance of which is suited to all three athletes.

According to Ray, he has experienced more difficulty than usual in getting into condition but is confident now he is back in the form which enabled him to shatter numerous indoor records two years ago. He recently reeled off a mile in 4.20.

HUSSEY TO COMPETE IN FINNISH-AMERICAN GAMES

New York, Dec. 16.—Frank Hussey, sensational New York schoolboy sprinter, who was a member of the record-breaking American 400-metre relay team at the Olympics last summer, will make his debut in open indoor competition in the Finnish-American games at Madison Square Garden January 6. This meet also will mark the first American appearance of Paavo Nurmi, famous Finnish distance runner.

Hussey, who will enter Boston college in February, has done most of his running outdoors, confining his indoor races to schoolboy ranks. Among his opponents at the Finnish games will be Loren Murchison, of Newark, former national champion.

TAFTVILLE ARMY-NAVY TEAM SWAMPS WESTERLY CYCLE CLUB FIVE, 35 TO 14

The Army-Navy Five of Taftville rode rough-shod over the Westerly Cycle club Tuesday evening at Parish hall when they trimmed the visitors handily by a 35 to 14 score. The Westerly five was unable to organize any consistent attack and the majority of their goals were chance shots. All attempts at pass work were broken up by the five man defense that the Army-Navy team worked. On the other hand the Army-Navy team displayed some brilliant floor work, especially Joe Belair, Harris and Tommy Coleman.

T. Coleman was the leading scorer of the game, casing five baskets from the floor while Jack Murphy was a close second with 4. Harry Mills, the regular center, is still unable to play as his injury received in one of the early season games, refuses to heal. Harris, however, is filling in very acceptably as his work last evening demonstrates, and if his work continues to improve he will be sure of a berth on the team, either in a guard or center position.

Rolph was the leading scorer for Westerly. In the preliminary game the Army-Navy Seconds won easily from the Harddigs, 44 to 21. The summary:

BULKELEY TO HOLD TRACK MEET WITH HARTFORD HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 16.—Track activities were elevated to a new high plane when an announcement was made by Manager Lorentz Bellinger of the Bulkeley track team that the Orange and Black would engage in a dual meet with Hartford High school on Saturday, February 21. Although this meet was pending Manager Bellinger of the track team had to receive a favorable reply from Coach Thomas R. Cook, coach of the team that this meet would be possible.

While the reviving of this sport is being made on a large scale, it is feared that unless some unusually good track material is unearthed in the near future, the Bulkeley team will have little chance of coming out a victor in this meet. Track was first resumed with Stonington High in November, but since has failed to rouse enthusiasm. Track is one of the biggest success on the entire athletic calendar of the Capitol City High school. Much attention has been given this sport and Hartford is known yearly to turn out a fine team. But the experience will be benefiting to the track men at Bulkeley if nothing more.

Coach Thomas Cook is busy at present coaching the senior class play, and he has had no opportunity to look over candidates for the track team at Bulkeley. However he will devote more time the beginning of the new year, and his efforts should result in some definite steps taken towards conditioning the aspirants for track in preparation for the dual meet with Hartford High. All players of a current sport when a track meet is schedule will be barred from competition.

VINEZ DECISIVELY BEATS FRITSCH IN 20-ROUND BOUT

Paris, Dec. 16.—(By The A. P.)—Lucien Vinez, who two months ago won the European lightweight championship from Fred Bretonnel, tonight decisively outpointed Paul Fritsch in a 20-round bout in which the title was at stake. Vinez had all the better of the bout throughout. He inflicted severe punishment on Fritsch, who belongs to the "stable" of Francois Descamps, the mentor of Georges Carpentier.

Bruno Frattini of Italy, who won the middleweight championship from Roland Todd some time ago, boxed 15 slow rounds to a draw with Francis Charles of France. It was the opinion of experts at the ringside that Frattini showed little to warrant his taking on the American star middleweight.

Michel Montreuil, the Belgian lad who holds the flyweight championship of Europe, received an artistic beating from "Kid" Francis, a French boy, in a 10 round bout. Johnny Dundee, the American fighter, refereed this bout. During the evening Edouard Mascart, featherweight champion of Europe, challenged Dundee to a fight, and it is probable that a bout between the two boys will be arranged before Dundee returns to New York.

"Bud" Dempsey of New York, won the verdict over the French featherweight Devevey after 10 rounds of fast fighting. This bout was the best on the program.

LONDON AMATEUR BOXING TO COMPETE IN AMERICA

London, Dec. 16 (By the A. P.)—The Amateur Boxing association of Great Britain has selected a team of amateur boxers to go to the United States to oppose the best of the American amateur boxers early in 1925. The British team consists of G. Gogay, Oxford and Bermondsey Boxing club (lightweight); Pat O'Hanrahan, Polytechnic Boxing club (welterweight); Harry Malin, "F" division, Metropolitan Police (middleweight); Reserve: J. Elliot, Polytechnic Boxing club (middleweight amateur champion); and H. J. Mitchell, Polytechnic Boxing club, (lightheavyweight).

FIRPO PLANS TO STAGE COMEBACK UNDER DE FOREST

New York, Dec. 16.—Louis Angel Firpo plans a come-back by which he hopes to climb into the ring for another title match with Jack Dempsey, who came within a few seconds of losing his crown to the giant Argentine a year ago.

This was disclosed today when Firpo, departing suddenly on a six weeks' pleasure trip to France, Spain and Italy, equally as unexpectedly announced he had again arranged to train, on his return, under Jimmy DeForest, who piloted the South American to most of his important victories prior to the Dempsey match.

Firpo's decision to go back to DeForest, from whom the Argentine separated after becoming dissatisfied with the veteran trainer's discipline, was said to have been influenced by the Argentine's conviction that he needed more expert handling if he was not to pass into fistic oblivion. His successive defeat this year at the hands of Harry Wills and Charley Weinert proved to him, his friends say, that his own methods of training were not productive of successful results.

Firpo plans a busy ring campaign upon his return from Europe. He has eight matches under consideration, including a return bout with Weinert, and is confident that he can climb back into the front ranks of Dempsey's rivals.

DeForest tonight confirmed the arrangements announced by Firpo but said he had not yet signed a formal contract. He expects to do this within a few days.

CALIFORNIA TO HAVE STATE BOXING COMMISSION

Los Angeles, Dec. 16.—Gov. Friend W. Richardson arrived at his southern California offices here today and took under consideration the appointment of a state boxing commission, as adopted at a recent election, to control what the executive in a statement termed the "alleged sport" in California.

"I am anxious to obtain the best men possible on the athletic commission as the initiative law politely, but incorrectly calls it," said the governor in a statement. "I want men of high character, courage and some knowledge of this alleged sport in order that the fight game be kept as clean as possible. I doubt the ability of any commission to put prize fighting on a plane of cleanliness and squareness but will do my part by appointing the best commission obtainable.

"The people have decreed by a majority vote that they want prize fighting, and I must carry out their will by appointing a commission regardless of the fact that I did not support the measure."

COURT TO DECIDE ON STATUS OF BISHOP BAST

Copenhagen, Dec. 16.—The superior court will decide Thursday whether Dr. Anton Bast, Methodist Episcopal bishop for Scandinavia, who is being held in connection with alleged misappropriation of charity funds, can be released pending further proceedings, it was announced this afternoon.

In the meantime, it was learned that Bishop John L. Nuelsen and Bishop Edgar Blake, who arrived here last evening for the purpose of demanding the immediate release of Dr. Bast, had discussed the case today with local Methodists and had decided to offer the Danish authorities bail for the church official should the court refuse to intervene otherwise.

It was understood that Bishops Nuelson and Blake intend to present a protest to American Minister Prince tomorrow against the detention of Dr. Bast.

TO RAISE STANDARDS OF LICENSING PHYSICIANS

Boston, Dec. 16.—Recommendations aimed to raise the Massachusetts standards of licensing physicians to a par with that of other states in the union were presented yesterday by a special committee appointed by the state legislature to pursue investigations started last year in connection with the nation-wide scandals concerning medical "diploma mills."

The committee suggested the creation of a board, appointed by the governor, to supervise all licensed professions and trades. The board should also be given power to supervise educational standards in all schools and colleges which prepare students for state examinations, the committee's report said.

The committee also recommended a continuation of the present policy of not licensing chiropractors and midwives.

CONTRACT WAS APPROVED BY SHIPPING BOARD

Washington, Dec. 16—The shipping board today approved the plan of the American-Hawaiian Steamship company to build a passenger ship, the total cost of which will be $6,5&0,000.

The board also approved the award of the contract to the William Cramp and Son Ship and Engine Building Company of Philadelphia. The marine architects in charge of the work are Gibbs Brothers, Inc., of New York.

Approval of the board was necessary under the merchant marine act of 1920 providing that any excess profits taxes due under the revenue act of 1918 will be waived by the government if the amount of tax, with addition of a sum twice the amount of the tax, is invested in the building of a new vessel in a private American shipyard, the vessel to fly the American flag.

The new ship will operate between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Island, and represents the largest merchant shipbuilding contract for a single vessel ever awarded by private contract to an American yard. It will be 582 feet long, and will have about 20,000 tons diplacement, and a speed of at least 22 knots.

WESTERLY

A Ford runabout, 47,457, Conn., was reported Tuesday afternoon to Westerly Police Officer George H. Champline, by Samuel Green of Charlestown, R. I., on the Boston Post road about 13 miles from Westerly as having been parked in front of his store there since Sunday. A quantity of gasolene remained in the tank. Thinking the automobile a stolen one, Officer Champlin found that an automobile of that number stood in the name of James E. Harrison, of Branford. Officer Champlin soon had Deputy Sheriff Robert W. Rice of New Haven county on the telephone. He resides in Branford and he found that an automobile of that number had been stolen in Branford Saturday night. The description of the car given him tallied with the one found deserted in Charlestown and the Westerly police were informed that the owner or his representative would come to Westerly Wednesday to claim the automobile.

Judge Edward M. Burke on Tuesday afternoon, the bi-monthly session of the Westerly Probate court in the court rooms of the Westerly town hall disposed of business as follows:

Estate of Julia E. Smith. Petition of Olando R. Smith for the admission of the will of the deceased whose death occurred Nov. 15th to probate, received. Will was read in which Olando R. Smith was named sole executor, with bond with surety. The petition was continued one month to Jan. 20th, 1925, to allow depositions to be taken of witnesses of the will not residing in Florida. Petition of O. R. Smith that D. Niel Ferguson of Ocala, Fla., to be commissioned to take depositions of Alice L. Clark and Emory S. Hodge, witnesses of the will, received, granted and ordered commissioned.

Estate of John W. Conant. Petition of Washington Trust company, Thomas Perry, trust officer, for the admission of the will of the deceased whose death occurred on Nov. 17th received. Will read, proved and admitted to probate with Washington Trust company confirmed as executor. Bond of $20,000 made without surety and O. R. Smith named appraiser.

Estate of Benjamin Dower. Receipt and release from Sarah W. Dower to herself as executrix of the will of Benjamin Dower, received and recorded.

Estate of Marie and Dores Paff. Petition of Ella Gordon that she be appointed guardian of the persons and estates of minor children of 11 and 9 years, their father being the petitioners half brother, and mother deceased, received and granted. A joint and several bond of $400 made with Timothy Gordon surety. James A. Dunn named as appraiser.

A session of Stonington probate court was held in the probate court rooms in the Walton block on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, Tuesday, by Probate Judge Frank H. Hinckley of Mystic.

Fred S. Opie of the P. H. Opie store, Westerly, who recently became one of the purchasers of the Harris and Mowry company department store, Woonsocket, also one of the incorporators, several months ago of the J. W. Dobby company department store in Webster, Mass., was the host Tuesday evening to a party of a hundred store executives and workers of the three stores at the Colonial club. The following menu was served at 7.30 o'clock in the dining room of the club to the department store employees and a few guests.

Vegetable Soup
Mixed Pickles Saltines Olives
Roast Chicken with Dressing
Mashed Potatoes
Sweet Sifted June Peas
Hot Rolls Creamery Butter
Coffee
Ice Cream Cake

Those who were at our introductory get-together dinner at Woonsocket, some four weeks ago, will remember that the subject I discussed was co-operation; also that I read a clipping from the Dry Goods Economist on the same lines. Tonight I am going to speak a few minutes on the same subject, Co-operation, but tonight's will be directed principally to the buyers, while that a few weeks ago emphasized the need of co-operation between the salespeople of the Harris & Mowry Co., and the management.

This evening we will speak to you buyers about co-operation between the buyers from Harris & Mowry Co., The J. W. Dobbie Co., the P. H. Opie Co., Stone & Co. You buyers must have the combined cooperation of every one in the department; including the advertising men and window dressers, as well as the management and assistants. But I have a little different kind of cooperation in mind. I am asking it for the good of all the stores in our association. I am asking that all buyers from the Harris & Mowry, J. W. Dobbie Co., Stone & Co., and the P. H. Opie Co., get acquainted and work together. These stores I have mentioned have the combined purchasing power of nearly two million dollars. You can readily see what an advantage this can be made to any buyer.

We now have a much bigger association than these five stores, for by the recent acquisition of the Harris & Mowry store in Woonsocket, we have become a member of the Dry Goods Alliance, one of the strongest and largest associated department store organizations in the country, with purchasing power of over one hundred million dollars. You can readily see the immense advantage to you as buyers of these stores represented here, if you only use these big opportunities to their best advantage. You should make every effort to purchase your lines in combination with each other on all possible occasions and your much larger purchases, when offered the manufacturers in combination will demand and receive much more consideration and attention, as well as a much better price concession.

The speaker, as president of the Harris & Mowry Co., was given every assurance in the offices of the Dry Goods Alliance two weeks ago that they would give us every possible assistance in making our stores grow. This association, the Dry Goods Alliance in addition to our own stores will put us on a plane with the biggest buyers in the country, and place us in the enviable position of being able to meet or undersell any store in the United States. You must appreciate what this means to us. Now, buyers, get acquainted! Get together, cooperate! Let the buyers from the other stores know when you procure a good seller, and let us buyers be so interested in each other, that we will see that the buyer who has helped us in procuring desired merchandise, or has helped us in securing a proper price for any line of merchandise, or has helped his efforts are appreciated. If we pull together New England will realize in a few years that there is a new association of department stores looming up big on the horizon!

Other speakers were the following store executives: Elmer J. Stone, president of Stone & Co., of Providence and North Attleboro, Mass.; Oscar Mayer, vice president and superintendent of Marris & Mowry Co., of Woonsocket, R. I.; Frederick E. Redfern, treasurer of Harris & Mowry, Woonsocket; C. H. Chappy, director of Harris & Mowry Co.; T. A. Engleback, a director of Harris & Mowry Co.; V. C. Carney, assistant superintendent of Harris & Mowry Co.; W. J. Brown, president of J. B. Farnham Co.; William Dick, manager of J. W. Dobby Co., of Webster, Mass. An interesting speaker was William Brown, president of the J. B. Farnham Co., and President C. H. Darling and a director of the Harris & Mowry Co.

Rose Mulholland of Woonsocket gave a number of dramatic selections which were well received. Numbered in the dinner party were about twenty-five representatives from the Woonsocket store, eight from the Webster store and four from Providence, together with more than sixty from the Westerly store, bringing the number to about a hundred. When the speaking part of the evening's program was completed, adjournment was taken to the store of the Opie company for a tour of inspection and a general get-together of the dry goods tradespeople.

Extremely light was the vote cast in the Liberty street court house, Pawcatuck, Tuesday, in the special election for a United States senator to succeed the late Senator Brandegee of Connecticut. At 8 o'clock but thirty ballots had been cast as compared with six times that number cast at the same time at the November election. At 11 o'clock 171 votes had been cast, at 12 about 265 were the number deposited and at 6 o'clock, closing time the total number cast wes 665. The first man to vote in Pawcatuck this morning was Herbert Hoxie and the first woman voter was Mary O'Connell. The following officials were in charge: Moderator, Byron J. Peckham; registrars, Joseph McGuinness and George Lord; deputy registrars, Walter Fitzgerald and William Lord; checkers on women's list, Walter J. Duggan and George Sheldon; checkers on men's lists, Martin Devine, John Sullivan; box tenders, David Myers, Richard Morrison; ballot clerks, George Robinson, Thomas Donahue; booth tenders, Thomas Thorp, John Rain, Francis McMahon and J. Sullivan.

In the borough voting was slow in the morning hours, only seven voting during the first hour.

FORMER NORWICH MAN BUYS MANSFIELD PROPERTY, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 16.—The Savings Bank of New London today sold the property on Ocean avenue, formerly the residence of the famous actor, Richard Mansfield and familiarly known to New Londoners and summer residents as Seven Acres, and latterly owned by John Kerbaugh, to Lawrence B. Brockett, formerly of Norwich and New London, of Johnsonville, N. Y. The price paid was $71,000. The property consists of the former residence of Mr. Mansfield and of two tracts of land. It is understood that Mr. Brockett purchased the residence on speculation.

Patrick J. Corcoran, about 65, died this afternoon at his residence, 400 Broad street, after an illness of several weeks brought about by a general collapse. Mr. Corcoran's wife died a comparatively short time ago and since then his health had gradually failed. He is survived by a brother, Patrolman Michael Corcoran. Mr. Corcoran was for many years a hack driver, but for a number of years had operated a public service automobile.

The funeral of Mildred, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Peckham, 89 Pequot avenue, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of the Montauk Avenue Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

John Joseph Barry, who says he has been employed at the Frink rooming house on Huntington street, made a fine exhibition of stupidity when he stole an automobile that was parked on Meridian street, last Friday night or Saturday morning. He also put Tom Devoe into a bad mess for both men were in the police court today charged with the theft of the machine. DeVoe pleaded not guilty, but Barry owned right up and expected the consequences evidently. He was fined $100 and was ordered to jail for a stay of 90 days. DeVoe was fine $50 without any jail flourishes.

The men practically accused each other, for Barry, after admitting the theft, declared that DeVoe knew he was to steal the car and was a party to the theft. The car stolen was a Hudson coupe in which Artemas Gunahl came to New London on business. He left a portfolio in which he carried valuable papers, to him valuable, and even these the crooks stole and destroyed, so that Gunahl has lost the use of them. The crooks declared that they threw them in a sewer catch basin at Washington and Huntington streets, but of that there is doubt for one of the pair later declared that the papers were taken to the DeVoe rooms and put into a bureau. From that place it is claimed they disappeared. The men evidently had in mind the sale of the automobile for they changed the number plates from those they found on it and which were issued at Springfield, to one Mr. Gunahl resides, to Connecticut plates. DeVoe's wife and William D. Tracy endeavored to help out the accused with testimony, but that was an impossible thing to accomplish after the testimony of the accused parties. They were in it up to their necks and there was nothing that could be said to extricate them.

Harry Hall, a sailor from a barge, was found drunk and down and was taken to shelter last night. When in the police court today, he said he was guilty, and had no excuse to make, he just drank too much. Hall was so told by the court that he was allowed his liberty on a suspended judgment.

The Learned Mission is to arrange for the carrying on of its rescue work in the brick building on North Bank street recently purchased by Mr. Marcus, transferring the furniture of the old mission to that building and refurnishing the property on Main street with new furniture. Welfare work will be carried on at the Main street building. There the male and female charges will be separated, when they are taken in for the building.

The police probe, which was started a week ago by a special committee of the city council, consisting of Councilors Streeter, Murray and Whittemore and City Manager Holt, for the purpose of determining the efficiency of the police department, and which was adjourned to be resumed in the municipal building this evening, has been postponed. The postponement is the result of Director of Law Frank L. Fenton being called from the city for a few days. It is probable that the probe will be resumed the latter part of the week, probably Thursday or Friday, at which time Street Sergeants Patrick Murphy and Samuel Hick will be interrogated. Following the taking of the statements of the two sergeants it is understood that several of the patrolmen will be quizzed, as will be a few citizens. So far the probe has not revealed any serious violations of the rules and regulations of the department, according to some of the officers who have revealed the nature of the interrogations meted out by the committee.

Lieut. Leslie Arnold, U. S. A., one of the world fliers, who piloted their planes over New London on the return flight, several months ago, paid a visit to his home town last night and today. Lieut. Arnold operated his plane to Hartford yesterday afternoon and then continued to this city by automobile, stopping last night at the Hotel Mohican. He was entertained last evening by Dr. Joseph M. Ganey at the home of the physician on Williams street and this afternoon went to New Haven where tonight he will address a distinguished gathering in Woolsey Hall.

Edward T. Leary, a local undertaker, has entered the Norwich State Tuberculosis Sanatorium having recently been dismissed from St. Francis' hospital, Hartford.

Mrs. Robert Manning, an actress who appeared in the Columbia burlesque at the Lyceum theatre last evening, complained to the police at the conclusion of the performance that a gold wrist watch that she had removed from her arm while she appeared in her act had been stolen from her dressing room. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman John Foley were assigned to the case and going to the playhouse the officers found the time-piece in possession of Harry Beatley, one of the members of the troupe. The watch was returned to Mrs. Manning, who stated that she did not care to prosecute Beatley, inasmuch as her property had been returned to her.

Mrs. Marcia Morgan has returned to her home, 71 Blackhall street, after spending a fortnight with relatives in Boston.

Robert B. Chappell, deputy fish and game commissioner, was in Hartford Monday and attended a meeting of the state fish and game clubs.

Mrs. P. J. Scanlon, 71 Crystal avenue, and her daughter, Loretta, are in Rutland, Vt., being called there by the serious illness of Mrs. Scanlon's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Mazson and little son, of Bolles avenue, are spending a few days in New York.

Sergeant Clifford Gorgas, of Groton state police barracks, is absent from duty being in Bridgeport where he will remain a few days.

Mrs. John McCarthy, 13 Ashcraft road, is visiting relatives in Northampton, Mass.

Miss Harriet Allen, of Hope street, is confined to her home, suffering from a fractured arm sustained yesterday afternoon, when the automobile in which she was riding crashed against a stone wall, near Colchester. Miss Allen, accompanied by W. S. Young, of Jay street, went to Colchester early in the day where Mr. Young had business to attend to. On the return trip and with Mr. Young at the wheel of the automobile, a large truck was approaching the larger vehicle headed in the opposite direction to that in which the Young automobile was traveling. In attempting to avoid a collision in passing the truck, Young lost control of his car, the machine leaving the concrete road and plunging against the wall. The automobile was badly damaged.

An automobile owned and operated by Earl J. Newell, chief petty officer, assigned to the submarine S-49, in passing through the safety zone on State street this morning, collided with one of the traffic signals and damaged it. Newell reported the accident to the police station and later went to the highway department where he arranged to pay for the damage he had caused.

The condition of Howard Wootten, freight brakeman in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, who sustained a lacerated right arm, as a result of its being crushed when he fell from his train at East Lyme, several days ago, and which injury resulted in the amputation of the member at the shoulder, is reported tonight as resting comfortably at Lawrence hospital.

Mrs. Kenneth Holmes and infant son of Ann street, and Mrs. Ralph Thayer, of East Lyme, patients at Lawrence hospital were dismissed today.

Mrs. Alice E. Savage, 106 Williams street, complained to the police today that during last night a thief removed a number of Christmas wreaths that had been placed upon the windows of her residence.

The contractors are making a very large excavation for the new Klinck building, that is to be erected on Bank street just south of Pearl street, on the site of the former Abner Bassett house. The cellar is already down about two stories. It is understood that the super-structure will be an innovation. In that the front will be thrown back so that about two feet of sidewalk will be gained that otherwise would not be available, while the second story will overhang the first. The entrances will be so constructed that the entire show windows there will be such as to permit of the best possible display. As soon as the excavation is complete the building proper will be erected so it may be available for rent in the spring.

One of the smallest ballots ever cast in New London was that cast today, in the special election to name a successor to the late Senator Frank B. Brandegee. Of a vote of approximately 2,000 in the five wards Bingham carried the city by a majority of 988. In Groton the republican nominee was victorious over Holt, democrat candidate by about 350.

The letter carriers in this city declare that the Christmas mail is not so heavy this week as it was a month ago, but that it is heavy enough now. They say that the mails were utilized earlier than usual this season.

On the 26th inst a large steamer is to come to the state pier to load with automobiles for Australia. The automobiles come here in crates and are shipped by thousands to foreign fields. The autos are put together when they reach their destination.

It is decared that if an earnest movement is made to purchase the vacant lot on the corner of Main and Douglass streets for a children's playground that there will be a remonstrance made by citizens who do not believe there is any need of such a purchase being made by the city. It is declared that the children have enough playgrounds at present and that all the school houses are surrounded by wide grounds. There are several parks, including the so-called Bates woods that are not now used for playground purposes. There are two public ocks in the heart of the city, Riveside park, Calkins park and the beach and surrounding fields. There has not been a project proposed in a long time that has met with the opposition thus early that the Douglass street place has encountered.

YELLOW TAXI GETS INJUNCTION AGAINST RIVAL

Joseph Siragusa of New London must discontinue using his taxi club of a yellow color according to a temporary injunction that has been issued against him on the petition of the Yellow Cab company of New London, but the injunction does not extend to the checker band along the side of the car or the label on the sidedoor.

The law firm of Geary, Davis & Keefe has now brought a suit on account of the Yellow Cab Co., of which Meyer Rubin is proprietor, for a permanent injunction against Siragusa.

Judge G. E. Hinman handed down his decision on the application for a temporary injunction Tuesday, giving his memorandum of decision as follows:

Upon hearing had, at which the respondent appeared, these allegations of the complaint which set forth that the color scheme of the plaintiff's cabs has come to be well established as a distinctive mark of association with the plaintiff's business, methods and reputation were substantiated.

It also appeared that the respondent has recently caused his cab to be painted according to a color scheme radically different from that of other service cabs operating in New London other than those of the plaintiff and similar to that of the plaintiff's cabs. The differences in shade of yellow, markings ,etc., are of so minor a nature that casual customers not making a minute examination would be quite likely to take the respondent's cab for one operated by the plaintiff. A purpose on the part of the respondent to unfairly profit by appropriation of the plaintiff's distinctive color is sufficiently indicated to at least entitle the plaintiff to temporary protection pending a determination on the merits.

Counsel may submit a form of temporary injunction in accordance with the prayer for relief, except as to the checkered belt and the inscription on the doors which will not be enjoined.

Advances in Every Phase of Operation and Ownership

Before a car can attain a success as complete and all-inclusive as the Chrysler Six it must present advances bearing materially on all phases of performance and ownership. No matter how powerful and flexible the engine, no matter how sturdy the construction, no matter how economical the operation—there must also be superior riding qualities and superior appearance.

The Chrysler Six, sweeping aside tradition, offered advances in every one of these particulars. It scored on all counts. No wonder, then, that it won an unprecedented success almost overnight and a victory that is complete.

ESTIMATED VALUE OF IMPORTANT FARM CROPS THIS YEAR GIVEN AS $9,479,902,000

Washington, Dec. 16.—This year's harvest of important farm crops, the highest priced in five years though not the greatest volume of products, was valued at $9,479,902,000 today by the department of agriculture.

Better prices than last year placed the value $753,913,000 higher than last year when the total, as revised was $8,726,589,000 and $1,663,853,000 higher than in 1922 when they aggregated $7,816,926,000.

The combined acreage of the principal farm crops was smaller this year than last, there having been a total of 455,210,400 acres as compared with 455,594,730 in 1923.

Both the spring and winter wheat crops were extremely satisfactory but corn had an unfavorable season. Cotton, planted late, was affected by drought to some extent but a fair crop was produced. A large crop of potatoes on a smaller acreage than in recent years resulted from unusually favorable weather.

Corn maintained its rank as king of crops, and although production was 600,000,000 less than last year, its value was $1,000,000,000 more than the 1923 crop. The total value of corn was placed at $2,405,468,000, of which $1,467,-[illegible],000 was the value of lint and $196,-[illegible],000 the value of seed. Hay, with a total value for tame and wild of $1,-[illegible],000 was third crop in point of [illegible]come. Wheat fourth with a total [illegible]ue for spring and winter of $1,786,-[illegible],000.

Colonel Bingham was nominated on the first ballot, and the nomination was at once made unanimous.

After the fact became known that that Colonel Bingham had been elected many persons went to his residence in Prospect street to greet him, and he was also the recipient of telephonic and telegraphic congratulations.

The vote today showed a great decrease from that cast in the November election which Mr. Bingham for governor had a total vote of 246,336 as against 118,676 which was cast for Charles S. Morris, his democratic opponent. His plurality at that time was 127,660 while today it was 40,542 over Mr. Holt, his opponent for thesenatorship.

In the voting today the only democratic strength to any noticeable extent was in the cities of Hartford New Haven and Waterbury, each of which was carried by Mr. Holt but his advantage in those places was offset by the exceedingly large plurality by which Colonel Bingham carried Bridgeport. The republicans carried among the other cities New Britain, Ansonia, Stamford, New London, Norwich, Middletown, Danbury, Norwalk, Shelton and Derby, each by a substantial margin.

In spite of the slump of the vote very few of the towns went into the democratic columns although in a number of instances, the vote was close.

There were few scattering votes, J. H. Roraback receiving a single vote in North Branford, Mr. Tilson one in another town and Frank Hart a vote in New Hartford.

The democratic state headquarters in this city remained open during the evening but after the result was evident it was stated by those there that no statement would be made as to the state committee's opinion of the election.

STATEMENT BY BINGHAM ON OUTCOME OF ELECTION

New Haven, Dec. 16.—Senator-elect Bingham said, after he had received word of the outcome of the election: "Although the official result of the election will not be known for two weeks, it appears from the unofficial returns that a republican senator has been elected. I appreciate most sincerely the very great honor which my fellow citizens have conferred upon me. I know that it has been due in large measure to the tireless efforts of many friends whose loyalty and faith have never wavered. I would like to take this opportunity to express my deep appreciation to those faithful workers and also to those who patriotically and generously accepted the decision of the republican convention and refrained from any personal disappointment or misgiving. I realize that the votes which I have just received have come to me not as a personal tribute but as an expression of faith in the republican party and a desire to see the hands of its great leader upheld. Personally, it is a keen disappointment to me not to be able to carry out my term as governor. I must now look forward to being the junior member of the greatest deliberative body in the world, a position requiring patience and self-restraint rather than aggressive action or oratory.

"In the words of our great Senator Platt, 'I am going to listen and learn.' I shall try to do right and it is my hope to be able to render to the people of Connecticut that service which they expect of me. The happiest aspect of the whole affair is the opportunity which it gives me to aid President Coolidge in carrying out those sound principles of political economy which have endeared him to the hearts of the American people."

COOLIDGE GRATIFIED BY ELECTION OF BINGHAM

Hartford, Dec. 16.—President Coolidge was much gratified at the victory of Col. Hiram Bingham in the senatorial fight waged in Connecticut today, according to a telegram received tonight by Chairman J. Henry Roraback of the republican state central committee. Earlier in the evening Mr. Roraback had sent a message to the president informing him that Colonel Bingham had been elected "United States senator from this state by the largest majority ever received by any candidate voted for at any election not a presidential one."

The president's reply, sent by C. Bascom Slemp, his secretary, follows: "Thanks for your wire. The president is much gratified at the victory of Governor Bingham.

(Signed) "C. B. SLEMP."

STATEMENT ON ELECTION BY J. HENRY RORABACK

Hartford, Dec. 16.—J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the republican state central committee, issued the following statement tonight:

"The result, while not unexpected, is nevertheless gratifying. Now with all of the offices filled by satisfactory men and no more special elections in sight, we can resume a condition of normalcy. Too much credit cannot be given to the republican organization throughout the state. The majority of 40,000 based upon a ttoal vote of somewhat less than 40 per cent. of the vote cast in the November election, figured upon a percentage basis, exceeds that given the ticket in November. In fact, Colonel Bingham received the largest majority ever given any candidate in Connecticut in any other than a presidential election. Without doubt the size of the vote was greatly increased by the hysterical democratic press. All that was needed was to wake up the republicans, and they did it."

Senator George P. McLean, who received the returns in the state central committee headquarters in the Allyn house tonight, made the following statement:

"I congratulate the state and the country as well as the senator-elect. It was a most convincing and satisfactory result for a non-presidential election."

BINGHAM WAS ALLOWED TO VOTE WITHOUT CHALLENGE

New Haven, Dec. 16.—Colonel Hiram Bingham, who was elected United States senator today, was permitted to cast his vote without challenge here today. It had been reported during the campaign that the republican nominee, who was declared to have failed to appear before the board of selectmen and registration when he came to this city years ago and therefore was not a registered voter, would not be allowed to cast his vote in the senatorial election without a challenge.

HOLT CONGRATULATED BINGHAM BY WIRE

Hartford, Dec. 16.—Hamilton Holt, the defeated democratic candidate for United States senator, tonight wired his congratulations to Colonel Hiram Bingham, the victor. The telegram read as follows:

"Please accept my congratulations on your election to the senate and my best wishes for the success of your work there for the welfare of our state and our nation and for the maintenance of peace throughout the world."

DISCUSSION OF MUSCLE SHOALS BILL IN SENATE

Washington, Dec. 16.—The Underwood Muscle Shoals bill today hurdled the most formidable obstacle that has yet been placed in its path when it weathered a determined attempt to eliminate its private operation feature and limit it to government operation.

The amendment of Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, which would have struck out all of the leasing provisions of the bill, was defeated by a vote of 49 to 32.

The vote was split widely, more republicans than democrats voting to sustain the Alabama senator's bill. Thirty-four republicans and 15 democrats voted against the amendment and eight republicans, 21 democrats and one farmer-labor member and two insurgents voted for it.

Senator Underwood today again took notice of the Washington Herald editorial attacking him and his bill by charging on the senate floor that the editorial had been influenced by the fertilizer interests.

Declaring he had found proof of his statement that a lobby had influenced the editorial, he read a bulletin, which he said had been issued by the National Fertilizer Association, with officers in Washington. The organization, he asserted, was referred to by farmers as the "Fertilizer Trust."

The bulletin said the Underwood bill was as objectionable as the Ford proposal.

DEEP RIVER MEN INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

New Haven, Dec. 16.—Four men from Deep River, were taken to St. Raphael's hospital today, suffering from injuries received when their machine struck a dog on the Litchfiel turnpike, opposite home of Clarence B. Hotchkiss, causing the operator to lose control of the automobile which plunged down a ten-foot embankment. The men were rescued from under the wreckage and rushed to the hospital.

Icquistapace Battista received cuts and abrasions about the face and legs.

PUBLIC BEQUESTS IN THE WILL OF FRANK C. SUMNER

Hartford, Dec. 16.—Bequests of $150,000 each to the Hartford hospital and the Wadsworth Atheneum are contained in the will of Frank C. Sumner, late president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, filed for probate today. A bequest of $50,000 is also made to Trinity college, and one of $10,000 to St. Francis hospital.

The gift to Wadsworth Atheneum is to provide for the purchase of choice paintings.

INSURANCE MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF GRAND LARCENY

New York, Dec. 16.—In a case which the police say may involve a number of prominent general insurance agents of the city, Thomas MacIntosh, 37, an auditor of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity company, was held in Tombs court in $2,000 bail on a charge of grand larceny.

Counsel for MacIntosh told the court that the defendant had made a confession regarding operations which, it was reported, have resulted in losses amounting to between $30,000 and $40,000. He informed the magistrate that MacIntosh has expressed willingness to assist the authorities in proceeding against the agents said to be involved.

MacIntosh was arrested in complaint of Paul Rutherford, New York manager of the company. The specific charge against him is the theft of $60.75 from a woman last January in connection with the settlement of a compensation insurance claim.

TESTIMONY CLOSED IN THE HAARMANN MURDER TRIAL

Hanover, Germany, Dec. 16—The taking of testimony in the trial of Fritz Haarmann, accused of the murders of more than a score of men and boys, closed this afternoon after the public had repeatedly been excluded from the hearings because of the revolting details recounted by the witnesses.

Interest in this afternoon's proceedings centered in the testimony of Herr Witzel whose son was alleged to have been among Haarmann's victims. The witness stated that when the police found some human skulls in the River Lenne, he and his wife went to police headquarters to identify one of them as their son's, while waiting in the ante-room, he said, Haarmann's landlady appeared with her son who was dressed in young Witzel's clothes, given her, she was alleged to have said, by Haarmann. The defendant, upon being brought face to face with the Witzels and his landlady, is declared to have confessed to his first murder which paved the way for other confessions.

Attempts of the prosecution again today to connect Haarmann's friend, Hang Grans, with the various murders, met with no success. Grans denied all the charges, although he admitted receiving clothes from the defendant.

REPORTS OF GRAVITY OF SITUATION IN ALBANIA

Rome, Dec. 16—The gravity of the situation in Albania is emphasized by official reports to the Italian government, and admitted by the Albanian legation here. It is generally believed that the present regime is threatened.

It is reported that numerous bands, well-equipped and armed with bombs, machine guns and cannon are partici-pating in a revolutionary movement in Northern Albania. These bands, it is said, are composed of Serbians, Montenegrins, Russians, Bulgarians, Jugoslavians and natives. Some of the newspapers here report that Premier Mussolini and the Jugoslav government have agreed on a hands-off policy in the present situation.

POETRY

BOOKS.

My books, companions of my lonely days,
How can I speak too highly in your praise?
When I am moody and my spirits low,
If I but cast my eyes along the row,
You never fail to meet my every need—
Always supplying the right thing to read.

Even your bindings are of different hue,
Running from cosy red to sober blue—
Texture: soft leather lettered o'er with gold,
Substantial calf too ponderous to hold:
And slim and dainty volumes here I find
To suit the taste of my fastidious mind.

Here's deep philosophy to ponder o'er,
And the vast field of science to explore;
A book of travel for an idle hour—
A group of essays of unusual power—
Some books of fiction in a lighter vein,
And treatises that make their subject plain.

Dear to my heart—the immortal poet band,
The simple bard—he lofty and the grand;
O noble soul, oft 'mid adversity
In sweetest strains you poured forth melody—
Kind, thoughtful books, I would be poor indeed
Had I not you to minister to my need.

—A. L. Read, in Christian Guardian.

FAITH.

He who has seen
Wind-flowers, breeze-caressed,
Swaying in new grasses,
In May woods;

He who has seen
White roses, sun be-streamed,
Climbing over stone walls,
Down by the sea;

He who has seen
Asters blue be-haloed,
Twinkling through gold leaves,
On October days;

He who has seen
Tall reeds, ice be-jeweled
Tinkling to the North wind,
Down on the marshes;

He who has seen these things,
Has heard a song from heaven,
Has seen a poet's poem,
His seen the Hand of God.

Fifty-three years ago Akron, O., was selected as the site for the first rubber factory to be established west of the Allegheny mountains. At that time it was an easy going little city of less than 10,000 inhabitants, covering only a few square miles of ground. The Akron of today as compared with fifty-three years ago is vastly different, says the India Rubber Review. The city now covers more than twenty-five square miles. It has a population in excess of 200,000. Its many rubber and tire factories employ more than 60,000 persons. More than 50 per cent of all rubber tires made in the world are products of Akron factories. The value of the output of tires and other rubber products exceeds $500,000,000 a year. Compared to the first rubber factory of half a century ago, run by water power, Akron's rubber factories of today consume more than 500,000 horsepower of steam and electrical energy every twenty-four hours.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

STOCKS LOST GROUND

New York, Dec. 16—Heavy profit taking and bear selling checked the brisk advance of prices in today's market closing quotations showing a curious mixture of gains and losses. The average of twenty leading rails attained the highest level since 1917 but the general industrial average lost ground. The day's sales fell slightly short of 3,000,000 shares.

Sixty issues, including ten motors and accessories, nine rails and eight public utilities attained new peak prices for the year.

Jersey Central was the sensational performer, soaring 21 points to 295, a record top after its remarkable 19 point gain of yesterday. Wall Street was obviously mystified as to the reasons behind this advance although the concurrent strength of the reading issues which touched the highest prices since the segregation of the coal properties, and Baltimore and Ohio, which also established a new top at 81 7-8 led to widespread reports of a deal involving these three properties.

Buying of the other rails was stimulated by the publication of the freight loadings statistics for the week ended Dec. 6 which totalled 963,-644 cars, the greatest volume ever handled, during the first week in December. Lehigh Valley, Great Northern preferred and Southern Railway preferred, all broke through their previous 1924 maximum quotations, the gains running as high as four points. Wabash preferred A was heavily bought just before the close, climbing more than 3 points to 60 1-4.

The spirited advance in United States Cast Iron Pipe, Worthington Pump and Savage Arms indicated to many observers the partial retreat of an overcrowded short interest, which has been stubbornly contesting the rise of these non-dividend paying issues to new high ground.

Another brisk advance took place in the Commercial Solvents issues, the A stock showing a net gain of 3 3-4 at 119, and the B stock, closing 10 points higher at 119 1-2. Allied Chemical and Mathiesen Alkali also were under accumulation. Motors continued to give a good demonstration of group strength, Jordan touching a new high at 53 5-8, as compared with a low of 21 3-4 last May, and Maxwell A attaining a new peak price at 34 1-8 as against a low of 33 last April. The list of highs also included American Water Works, American Express, Allis Chalmers, Brooklyn Union Gas, Federal Light and Traction, General Electric, Gimbel Brothers and Montana Power.

United States Steel common closed 1-4 lower at 118 after having sold nearly a point above that figure. American showed a net gain of 1 3-4 at 150 1-2 and Baldwin closed fractionally higher at 124 7-8. Other strong spots included American Sugar, Colorado Fuel, Woolworth, American Chicle, Iron Products, Martin Perry and Universal Pipe preferred, all of which closed from 2 1-2 to 7 points higher.

Call money ruled unchanged at 3 per cent. the time money and commercial paper markets were more active but the rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held steady with trading fairly brisk. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.69 and francs at 5 3-8c. The so-called silver exchanges were lower in sympathy with the decline in silver metal prices.

BOND MARKET

New York, Dec. 16.—Bond prices worked moderately higher today, with trading featured by a number of independent advances in railroad, public utility and industrial issues. Renewed buying of standard investment rail liens was in evidence.

Trading in the public utility group was enlivened by a rally of 6 points in Brooklyn Union Gas 7's of 1929, while the companion issue, maturing in 1932, moved up two points. Traction bonds shared in the strength of the other utilities, although the list as a whole showed little change.

Strength of various railroad shares and continuation of freight traffic at an unusually heavy volume for this period of the year promoted accumulation of the carrier bonds. Atlantic Coast Line first 4's were one of the chief gainers, advancing 3 3-4 points. Central of New Jersey 5's influenced by the spectacular jump in the road's stock moved up a point, and "Big Four" refunding 5's "D" scored a similar gain. St. Paul issues were lower on reports that the company might fail to earn its fixed charges this year and the bonds of the so-called Van Sweringen roads yielded to profit-taking.

With the possibility that funds may be remitted to meet the interest payments on the Chinese Hukuang Railway 5's, which were defaulted yesterday, the bonds recovered partially from their sharp break.

Success of the $11,000,000 American portion of the Greek loan, to be offered tomorrow, already has been assured by the large number of advance subscriptions. Bankers are prepared to place a Belgian loan on the market Thursday morning if negotiations now pending in Brussels are concluded in time. Wall Street heard today that the offering probably would take the form of a 30 year six per cent. issue, priced to yield about 7 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 16.—New high price records for the season were scored today by all deliveries of wheat, rye and oats. Wheat led the way with active buying due more or less to reports of a wet harvest both in Argentina and Australia. Closing quotations for wheat were firm, 1 1-4 to 2 1-2c net higher, May 1.70 1-2 to 1.70 3-4 and July 1.49 5-8 to 1.49 3-4. Corn finished at 1-2 to 1c gain, oats 1 to 1 3-4c up and provisions showing 20 to 60c advance.

In connection with reports of rain interfering with harvest progress in the southern hemisphere, the fact that Liverpool quotations showed an unexpected advance was taken as significant by wheat traders here and so too, were announcements that for the first time this season the world's available supply of wheat had been reduced to less than at a corresponding date last year.

Cold weather likely to increase feeding helped to lift corn and oats, but heavy profit-taking sales of corn were something of an offset, despite well founded gossip current that the government report on corn would prove bullish.

Unlooked for decrease in stocks of lard strengthened the provision market.

CURB MARKET

New York, Dec. 16.—Curb prices today resumed their upward movement but the spirited advance in many issues naturally invited profit-taking, which caused some irregularity in the later dealings.

Declaration of the regular dividend on Prairie Oil and Gas, which had been reported in danger, resulted in an initial advance of 7 points to 212 in that stock. It later fell back to 203 1-2 and then rallied to 206 for a net gain of one point on the day. Prairie Pipe, Imperial of Canada and Cities Service also closed a point or so higher while Galena Signal, Standard Oil of Kansas and Vacuum were heavy.

Public Utilities developed several points of strength, American Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction, American Power and Light, Appalachian Power, Lehigh Power securities and Tennessee Electric Power closed one to three points higher.

Revival of speculative activity in the Curtis Airplane issues and the establishment of a new high record by Centrifugal Pipe at 30 were the features of the industrial list. Radio issues were mixed, Thermiodyne and Hazeltine touching new peak prices. Fisher Body (new stock) was admitted to trading.

SUES FOR VALUE OF 7,244 YARDS OF GRAVEL

Damages of $8,500 are sought by Alpheus N. Williams of Groton in a suit brought in the superior court against Frank and Clarence Arrigoni of Durham, comprising the firm of Frank Arrigoni & Son, for the alleged unlawful taking of 7,244 cubic yards of gravel sand and burrow since May 29, 1924 from a tract of land on the turnpike road Groton. This is worth $1.25 per cubic yard, it is alleged, and the defendants have refused to pay for it upon demand.

TO ATTEND PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS

John Oliver LaGorce, vice president of the National Geographic society, has sailed from New York to attend the Third Pan-American scientific congress to be held in Lima, Peru, December 20 to January 7. He is a member of the United States delegation to the congress.

Mr. LaGorce will convey to the congress the greetings of American geographers who will be meeting in the national geographic society headquarters in Washington while the Pan-American congress is in progress. He will deliver an address before the congress on the far-reaching contributions Latin-America has made to science and to humanity.

"The gifts of Latin-America to the world are greater than generally is realized," Mr. LaGorce said. "From Peru, where the congress meets, came quinine, which helps men to shake off one of the most prevalent diseases that afflict them. Peru also has contributed to civilization the greatest single crop that helps feed the world—the white potato. The origin of the potato was found during the explorations of a National Geographic society expedition at Machu Picchu, Peru, home of the ancient Incas civilization, where the hanging gardens outrivalled those of ancient Babylon and where may first have been cultivated.

"Our society today is finding in Mexico an American Pompeii which is revealing tangible evidence of a civilization 7,000 years old. Not only are they yielding secrets of pre-Columbian times, but virtually every Latin-American country, either in resources, in some distinctive product, or in scientific achievement, has contributed to world progress.

"To the geographer South America is exceptionally fascinating. Hundreds of thousands of square miles await transformation from unmapped areas to surveyed regions; methods must be studied by which these resources may be brought into production. The fortunes of geography make the North American and South American continents complementary in many ways. Their products meet our needs, and, conversely, many of our manufactured products are in demand among their markets. This not only is a trade fact, but a geographical fact, pointing to an enduring relationship based on mutual interest."

STATE HAS SPENT $5,395,258 ON 104 MILES OF HIGHWAYS

An aggregate of 104 miles of improved Connecticut roads was completed and accepted by the State Highway Department since June 30th, it was shown by a statement issued Tuesday covering the department's activities for the past six months. This was done at a cost of $5,395,258.56 and represents a period crowded with construction work as a result of favorable weather conditions.

The months of July, August, September and October are usually those in which the bulk of road construction is carried on. This year, however, the character of the weather has been such as to permit full activity up to about two weeks ago, when contractors working on concrete improvements were forced to stop laying this material.

At the end of the fiscal period, June 30th, a total of 112.31 miles of roadway remained uncompleted, and analysis of division reports to the department shows that the major portion of these roads has been completed, together with additional contracts for short pieces of construction let since then.

The financial statement for this period, showing expenditures of $5,395,259.56 includes payments made to contractors for jobs completed prior to July 1, as the law requires that 15 per cent of the contract price be withheld up to sixty days after the road is finished, to insure satisfactory completion of the contract.

Concrete surfacing comprised more than one-half the work accomplished during the half year, a total of 54.67 miles of this material having been laid the report shows, costing $3,335,277.16. Macadam surfacing was laid on 33.46 miles, at a cost of $1,380,918.69, and of which represented payments on aspnalt work, $363,000 was paid, part asphalt was used on 1.64 miles. For previous contracts to meet the legal requirements. Bituminous macadam was the surfacing used on 9.18 miles, payments under this classification totalling $316,062.70.

Elimination of numerous bad curves and steep grades on trunk lines and the improvement of several bridges marked the period covered by the report, it is shown. Important among these, in New London county was the work on Baptist Hill, so called, in Mystic, where a narrow, double curve, atop a steep hill, was eliminated, the road widened and the grade reduced from 12 to 8.8 per cent to accomplish this it was necessary to remove entirely several houses and stores.

On Bank Street in New London, the road was widened to forty-three feet. This highway carried much of the summer automobile traffic to shore resorts along the Sound. Re-surfacing of the New London-Saybrook Highway with concrete is also an interesting improvement.

Special features in the southwestern section included the elimination of a bad curve Sport Hill bridge in Easton and the completion of the Trumbull-Nichols and the Shelton-Nichols concrete road, making through connection with Bridgeport. In Brookfield and Newtown, the Whisconeer Hill road was improved by reducing the grade from 15.3 to 10 per cent. In Ridgefield, the North Salem road is practically complete, connecting the Connecticut trunk line system with the New York state line, where a new road is under construction by that state to connect with the New York trunk line system.

In Greenwich, elimination of a combination of four bad curves on the Boston Post Road is in progress, which will greatly increase the safety of the road. One of the most notable grade reductions was in Sharon and Salisbury on the west side of the Housatonic River, where the former maximum grade of 20 per cent. was reduced to 7 per cent.

The Farmington-Plainville highway, with new concrete surface, greatly improves this section. Other interesting improvements included sections of the Post Road in Guilford, Madison, Clinton, Westbrook and Old Saybrook with concrete surfacing. This represents part of the proposal for a through concrete highway from New Haven to New London.

SALVATION ARMY IS MAKING CHRISTMAS APPEAL

In the Salvation Army appeal for aid in supplying Christmas dinners for needy families, the officers of the local corps have sent out 700 letters by mail inviting contributions and have the Christmas kettles on the streets where the general public may respond as the appeal comes to them in this visible form.

Capt. E. W. Wilbur, who is in charge of the local corps, is anxious that he shall receive early responses to the appeals by mail so that he may know what arrangements he will be able to make. Checks may be sent to him at the headquarters, 10 Cliff street.

Captain Wilbur is very anxious that when Norwich people sit down to their Christmas dinners they shall feel contented that every deserving family in the city which finds itself in distressful circumstances is also provided with a Christmas dinner.

Owing to the economic conditions due to many of the mills working part time and some having been entirely closed for sometime, it has caused more distress in the city among the very poor and dependents, than during Christmas of last year. Therefore, the need of bringing some Christmas cheer to the houses of the unfortunate poor is very urgent this year.

Captain Wilbur is very earnest in his appeal to the magnanimous people who feel touched by this most worthy charity. He can furnish names known to him only of families to whom a contribution for Christmas would be not only the greatest Christian charity, but a God's blessing also.

There are those in the city, especially this Christmas, who would rather spend the Christmas holiday amidst hunger and distress, than to extend a hand in appeal for charity. To make the lot of such unfortunate citizens a little happier at least in the greatest of all yearly holidays, is the plea of Captain Wilbur.

SCHOOL CHILDREN SAVINGS IN SCHOOL THRIFT CLUB

The following is the Chelsea School Thrift club report for the towns of Canterbury, Lisbon, Voluntown and Sterling. Although this does not give the exact amount that the pupils of these schools have saved during the past three months because many pupils have their personal accounts in other banks, it gives ground for pride in what the children are doing along the line of thrift.

It is hoped that as the parents of the children in the various schools of their town read this report, they will take a greater interest and encourage their children to more systematic banking.

DISTINGUISHED MUSICIAN IS NORWICH RESIDENT

A Norwich resident, who is interested in things musical, had the following to say Tuesday of a resident of Norwich:

It will interest all music lovers of our city to learn that Norwich possesses a musician of the highest talent and ability in Professor Pasquale Puca, the leader of the Italian band of our city. Professor Pasquale Puca is a graduate from Santo Cicilia Conservatory of Music of Rome, Italy, where he took the highest honors. He was leader of S. Donato band of Rome; Pesco Solido band of Napoli; Planella band of Abruzzi; and the Spolatore band of the same city. Professor Pasquale Puca devoted 23 years of his life as leader of the above bands having successfully conducted each of the above bands for a period of time. In recognition for his services and devotion to his profession, he was decorated with gold medals by the dignitories of the following Italian cities: Torino, Perugia, Milano and Napoli.

The professor, unfamiliar with the English language, when interviewed through an interpreter felt very modest in discussing the honors conferred upon him in his native country in recognition for his life's effort and interest for music, claiming that his love for music, for art's sake, sufficiently recompensed him for his life's toil. He also added that in all his career he never aspired to turn his ability into a money making medium, professing to be a poor business man, like many other great artists who had not made a success in worldly weal.

Many music lovers in our city will recollect the grand concert given by the Italian band, under the leadership of Professor Pasquale Puca, at the Community House, on May 27, last year. The audience on that evening was charmed and astonished by the caliber and beauty of the music, especially by the able and masterful leadership of Professor Puca, and the applause was commensurate with the delight of the audience.

Frank Rinella, knowing the life history of Professor Puca, became sincerely interested in the Italian band and in recognition for his services to the band, he was elected president of the band which is an incorporated organization. Mr. Rinella succeeded in interesting several citizens who have the civic welfare of our city at heart, who are now striving to support this organization and give the Norwich public an opportunity of enjoying several concerts to be given during the year by this musical organization which is composed of 30 talented musicians, each a master of the instrument which he played since boyhood.

At a meeting of the Italian band, held at its headquarters, at Steiner's hall on Monday, December 15th, it was decided to give a concert in the near future, in our city, also in Westerly and New London. Edward Connelly of our city, being present at several rehearsals of the Italian band, was so enthusiastic about the possibilities of the band, that he volunteered to be the soloist at these concerts and also to assist the band in every other way possible in order to help this worthy musical unit, to a successful recognition of its merits by the music-loving public.

DENIES DEFENDANT'S MOTION, CALLING VERDICT MODERATE

Judge G. E. Hinman of the superior court has denied the motion of the defendant to set aside the verdict on the suit of Mrs. Sarah Menghi of New London against Flanders Garage, Inc., in which the jury gave Mrs. Menghi a verdict for $1,500 for injuries she received in an automobile accident near Trail's Corner, Groton, on March 6, 1924.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Hinman says:

The defendant's liability depended mainly upon determination of the question as to on which side of the highway the collison occurred. There was abundant evidence from which the jury might legitimately find, as it evidently did, that the car in which the plaintiff was riding was on its own right hand side when struck. Indeed such a conclusion accords with that of the court as to this essential fact. The verdict is amply supported by the evidence.

The uncontradicted evidence as to the injuries, pain and suffering, and continuing disabilities of the plaintiff renders the amount of damages not only not excessive but moderate.

The motion to set aside the verdict is denied.

DIVORCE FOR DESERTION GRANTED EUGENE GRONEAU

On the ground of desertion since March 1, 1920, Eugent F. Groneau of Norwich was granted a divorce from Ida Gadbois Groneau of Norwich by Judge G. E. Hinman in the superior court here Tuesday. The case was heard on the uncontested list. The couple was married Nov. 21, 1910, at Plainfield.fl

BUILDING LOAN VOTES 6½ PER CENT. DIVIDEND

The regular monthly meeting of the shareholders of the Norwich Building and Loan association was held Tuesday evening in the new rooms of the Chamber of Commerce on Shetucket street.

Many members paid their monthly dues to the association and the officers made reports of the mortgage and share loans granted to members during the past month.

The shareholders' meeting was followed by the meeting of the board of management. President E. O. Rodier presided and nearly all the officers and directors were present.

A dividend at the rate of 6½ per cent. was declared from the earnings of the past six months.

MINISTERS' ASSOCIATION HAS LETTER REPRINTED

At the request of the Norwich Ministers' Association, for which there was recently printed some correspondence between the association, G. Warren Davis of this city and Rev. James Gordon Gilkey of Springfield, the accompanying letters are published because of the omission of a certain paragraph in the letter of Mr. Davis to Rev. Dr. Gilkey. The omitted paragraph is the second in the letter to Dr. Gilkey, the omission having occurred in making a transcript of the letter.

December 16, 1924

Mr. G. Warren Davis,
Corning Road,
Norwich, Conn.
Dear Sir:

We thank you for calling our attention to the fact that in the printing of a copy of your letter to Dr. Gilkey something had been left out. We were not aware, until the reception of your letterfi that a single sentence had been omitted; our intention was to print it complete. Inadvertently the transcriber omitted one short paragraph.

We are asking the editor to print again the copy of your letter to Dr. Gilkey, with our desire that every word of it shall appear as you wrote it.

Very truly yours
DAVID A. PITT
Norwich, Connecticut.
December 1st, 1924

Pastor Congregational Church.
Springfield, Massachusetts.
My dear Doctor Gilkey:

Your "What's Right With America," Thanksgiving Night here in Norwich last week prompts this note. I did not hear your address. I have read the press account of it. Others who were present have told me of one or two things the press omitted to mention, but I'll not discuss those omitted things here. A difficult thing about your lecture is that you think so much is right in America, while other observers see quite a good many things in America that are quite unright. If I can manage to do it, I will outline with pencil a stone that was thrown at the head of an American on the night of July 15th, last, while he was quietly seated on private property listening to matters of the Ku Klux Klan. He was in an assembly which should have been peaceful. Had his head been within about one inch more of the line of the path of the missile, his soul would likely have been on its way to its Creator shortly after.

Police officers were standing near. Unspeakable epithets were in the air. The stones and epithets, wre not thrown by the Ku Klux Klan. Your own presence would have afforded your experience opportunity for expansion.

A copy of a beastly letter is herewith. For nearly sixty years I thought I had lived here at peace with my varied associates. Yet some of those same persons devised the letter. The only offense of mine of which I am conscious is that I own the land upon which was burned "an emblem of hideous intolerance" as you called it in your lecture the other night. Please read the letter at least once.

Not long ago through Doctor Pitt, in whose church you spoke, I asked the ministers of Norwich if they would either support, or be supported, in a movement to replace the Bible in our public schools. Delayed acknowledgment was made, which may have been due to unusual stresses upon Doctor Pitt himself; but your coming to represent the ministers of Norwich, and in outspoken opposition to the Ku Klux Klan, suggests the impression that you made their answer for them, and that they do not want anything to do with a movement to restore the Bible to the public schools. Upon other occasions they have disclosed themselves as somewhat inclined to spaghetti spines —moist spaghetti, please—Please try to learn something true about the Klan.

(Signed) G. WARREN DAVIS

IRISH TENOR'S REAL NAME DISCLOSED BY WIFE

The real name of Walter Scanlan, "the Irish tenor," is Walter J. Van Brunt, according to papers filed in the supreme court in New York. He was directed to pay $50 a week alimony to Mrs. Lillian Van Brunt, pending trial of a suit in which the plaintiff alleges he has neglected her and has been attentive to other women.

Mrs. Van Brundt alleges that the singer deserted her in 1920 and that she would have sued him earlier had he not pleaded with her to "spare the publicity that would result from the disclosure of the fact that Walter Scanlan, known to the public as the 'Irish tenor,' was Walter Van Brunt, who deserted his wife and lived with another woman, representing her to be his wife."

The so-called Irish tenor appeared at a Norwich theatre here several years ago and was the subject of considerable discussion at that time when the report was current locally that it had been discovered he was Irish only in name. A local organization had announced its intention to have him as their guest at a reception but the reception was not held along the lines that had been planned. At that time it was reported here that it had been discovered the tenor's name was Van Brunt.

Was Native of Lebanon.

Mrs. Martha M. Pennell, 83, widow of Robert F. Pennell, former professor of Latin at Phillips Exeter, died Sunday at Exeter, N. H., after a long illness. She was born at Lebanon, Conn., Oct. 17, 1841, daughter of Israel T. and Olive M. Otis and lived at Exeter 59 years. She leaves two sons, Walter O. of St. Louis and Robert F., of Newark, N. J., and a brother, Dr. Edward O. Otis of Boston.

Mayflower Sentiments.

Asserting that war cannot be prevented by "pious words on scraps of paper," the General Society of Mayflower Descendants announced in New York Monday that it favored adequate military protection and that it would seek to make its action nation-wide by sending to each of the state societies a copy of a resolution adopted Saturday last.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rose of Mansfield Center of their safe arrival in California after three weeks' trip by way of the Panama Canal and their establishment in their new home at La Jolla. Mr. Rose has been greatly benefitted by the trip and change.

Trying Suit Over Screens.

Before Judge Charles B. Waller and a jury, the suit brought by the Keene Screen Co., of Keene, N. H., against Sidney H. Sulman of New London to recover the sum of $160 on an order for screens for the defendant's home, went on trial Tuesday morning in the court of common pleas in New London. Sullman contests the action, claiming that he cancelled the order when the screens were not delivered on time.

CONN. FARM BUREAU AGENTS TO FIGHT CHICKEN MALADY

Mysterious Epidemic is Killing Thousands of Chickens Owned by Poultry Raisers in Connecticut—Members of the Bureau Vote to Cooperate With State Health Officers and Others in Fighting the Disease—Commissioner Whittlesey Has Established an Embargo and Quarantine.

New Haven, Dec. 17.—Means of combatting the mysterious epidemic which is killing thousands of chickens owned by poultry raisers in Connecticut were considered at the annual conference of farm bureau agents of the state here today. Agents from every county in the state were present and it was voted to cooperate in everyway with the state health authorities and others in in fighting the disease.

Furtherance of the dairy, fruit and poultry industries in this state was considered at the session at which W. B. Ellis, state director of the extension service of the Connecticut agricultural experimental station at Storrs, presided.

The agents present included: B. G. Southwick, Hartford county; Harry Naveron, Litchfield county; L. M. Chapman, Fairfield county; Sidney Edwards, Middlesex county; Walter Clark, New London county; E. E. Tucker, Tolland county; Frank G. Davis, Windham county; Raymond Clapp, New Haven county.

EMBARGO AND QUARANTINE PLACED ON LIVE POULTRY

Hartford, Dec. 17.—An embargo on the importation or transportation of live poultry into this state was ordered today by James M. Whittlesey, commissioner of domestic animals, with the approval of Governor Templeton, in continuation of the effort to stamp out a mysterious infectious and contagious disease which has attacked poultry. A strict quarantine is being maintained at all poultry yards and farms of the state where the disease has appeared and holding of poultry shows and exhibits has been forbidden, temporarily.

Commissioner Whittlesey has requested that all communication between poultry farms be limited as much as possible to prevent spread of the disease. The officers of the Connecticut Poultry association are cooperating with the department in urging a special clean-up at all farms which it is hoped will with the embargo on out of state stock, effectually eradicate the disease. In all instances of its appearance here, the disease has been traced back to infection from imported stock.

The resources of the bureau of laboratories of the state department of health in this city have been put at disposal of Dr. Jakeman of Boston a pathologist who is making a study of the disease to determine if possible its nature and a remedy.

The disease reached Hartford today through New Haven, affecting the poultry supply of two dealers. Both places were immediately quarantined. Dr. C. L. Colton, of the department assisted members of the Hartford health department institute a thorough cleaning and disinfecting of the quarters and the dealers will be ready to handle poultry within 48 hours.

The mysterious infection was discovered at Springfield today and local dealers are refusing shipments from there.

The embargo prohibiting shipments of live fowls into Connecticut, issued by Commissioner Whittlesey is as follows:

"Whereas, it has been determined that a dangerously communicable, infectious and contagious disease exists among hens, roosters, capons, chickens and turkeys, in the state of New York and a considerable number of the middle western states, and that the infection of this disease is existing in a large number of the shipping centers of market poultry without the state of Connecticut, and Whereas, there is danger that such disease may be brought into this state.

"Therefore, as commissioner of domestic animals under the authority given in section 2091 of the general statutes and with the approval of the governor, to prevent such disease from being brought into the state do hereby make the following order, embargo and quarantine:

"All movement, importation or transportation of live hens, roosters, capons, chickens and turkeys into the state of Connecticut, is hereby prohibited, except as may be specially permitted in writing by the commission of domestic animals, under conditions and regulations hereafter to be made known.

"JAMES M. WHITTLESEY,
Commissioner.

"By approval of
"CHARLES A. TEMPLETON, Governor."

BELIEVE DISEASE IS THE EUROPEAN CHICKEN PEST

New York, Dec. 17.—Health officials concluded today after extended investigations with experts at the state agricultural school at Farmingdale, L. I., that the disease ravaging western poultry farms is the European chicken pest.

No cure for the plague is known. Slaughter of infected fowl and strict quarantine and sanitation measures would prove effective in stamping it out, it was announced.

The disease appeared two years ago in Europe and soon wiped out chicken flocks in large areas. The only method found to check the plague was quarantine and disinfection. Experiments here showed that turkeys, ducks, geese, guinea pigs and rats were not affected. The bacillus cannot be isolated. The disease kills chickens within six hours after infection.

The disease does not attack humans, but health officials will continue the embargo.

SAYS POULTRY DISEASE HAS BEEN EXAGGERATED

Washington, Dec. 17.—President Kilbourne, of the National Poultry Council, conferred today with Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, and other officials in connection with the poultry disease which caused New York to declare an embargo against western poultry shipments.

It is understood Mr. Kilbourne told the conferees that reports of the disease in the mid-west had been exaggerated and that the infection, said to be bronchitis, has easily been eliminated where found.

Dr. Mohler announced after the meeting that two specialists sent to New York to investigate chicken deaths there had discovered presence of the European fowl plague, for the first time in this country. He said he had no knowledge that the plague had been found among mid-western chickens.

MIDDLE WEST EXPERIENCING AN EXTREMELY COLD WAVE

Chicago, Dec. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Winter tonight was firmly enthroned in the west and middle west and his heralds had reached eastward to the Ohio valley region.

The arrival of the most severe weather of the season in the northwest and west was responsible, directly or indirectly, for the loss of more than a dozen lives, while in the Rocky Mountain region huge snow drifts delayed trains and interrupted wire communications.

While the entire northwest including Minnesota, the Dakotas, Northern Iowa, Western Wisconsin and the Canadian provinces were in the grip of the sub-zero weather, the nip of the cold in the middle western and central states was not as severe as had been anticipated.

The extreme cold that had spread throughout the northwest was expected to continue for another 24 hours.

Red Deer, Alberta, with 62 degrees below zero was conceded to be the coldest spot on the North American continent.

In the Rocky Mountain region a moderation of the cold was accompanied by a heavy snow fall, the snow area extending into western Wyoming and through virtually all of Idaho and Utah and into eastern Nevada. The Rocky Mountain storm, entering on its third day, and in Montana roads were reported almost impassable with the snow drifting badly and range stock suffering to some extent. The cold weather in this region will continue, it was predicted.

In the Pacific coast states, temperatures several degrees below freezing were reported, with Baker, Ore., announcing a temperature of 10 degrees below zero. Southern California citrus growers were warned to prepare for below freezing temperatures tonight and tomorrow.

In Chicago people awoke today to find streets and sidewalks covered with ice.

SUCCESSOR OF GOMPERS TO BE SELECTED FRIDAY

New York, Dec. 17.—The ten members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor will meet here Friday morning to select the man to succeed the late Samuel Gompers as president for his unexpired term of 16 months. The choice is expected to fall on one of their own number.

Among the hundreds of labor leaders pouring into the city tonight for the Gompers funeral tomorrow the consensus of opinion seems to be that the choice lies between William Green, United Mine Workers, Matthew Woll, International Photo-Engravers, and James Duncan, Granite Workers, and senior vice president of the A. F. of L. in the order named.

The executive council might have made its choice yesterday. In conformity with the six-day requirement of the A. F. of L. constitution, it met in Washington, but it adjourned at once out of respect to Mr. Gompers.

William Green is mentioned most often as the logical choice in that he commands the 4,037 convention votes of the United Mine Workers of America, the largest union in the federation. He is also said to have with him the "Indianapolis crowd," five groups in all which include the carpenters, the second largest union. This would give him five of the executive council's ten votes—within one of election.

But while Green is popular, and "receptive," according to one of the leaders tonight, he may not be free to accept. John L. Lewis, president of the Coal Miners' organization in which Green is secretary-treasurer, is being boomed by labor men with a view to have him invited to enter the Coolidge cabinet as secretary of labor. The miners could not spare two such executives as Lewis and Green at once.

Matthew Woll, whose union carries only 65 convention votes, has long been Gompers' favorite for the succession. His election, according to labor chiefs, would be satisfactory to James M. Lynch and John W. Hays, president and secretary of the International Typographical union.

James Duncan is reported to have said he would resign from the executive council altogether if it did not reward his forty years' service by elevating him to the Gompers' post. According to the best opinion, his assets in the race are sentiment or a Green-Woll deadlock.

Gardner, Mass., Dec. 17.—With a bullet wound through her heart, Mary, four weeks' bride of Charles Klemek, was found dead in a pew of the Sacred Heart church here late today. Medical Examiner Edward A. Sawyer pronounced it a case of suicide. A new revolver with one empty cartridge lay on the floor close by the body. The woman had gone to the church during the afternoon.

COUNSEL OF KID M'COY REARRANGING PROCEDURE

Los Angeles, Dec. 17.—Defense counsel of Kid M'Coy, ex-prize fighter, charged with the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mors, began rearranging plans of attacks upon prosecution testimony here tonight as a result of the abrupt closing of the state's case late today.

Albert A. Mors, husband of the slain woman, was not called to the witness stand, leaving the defense unprepared to continue and court adjourned one hour early. A subpoena was served by the defense on Mors immediately upon adjournment.

Letters from Mors to McCoy's brother-in-law, Roy Davis, a Los Angeles banker, in which the former predicted "insanity and death, murder and suicide,' as a result of the-fighter's relations with his wife, were placed in the court records.

"I beg you to call him away, else I may be forced to kill him for betraying my home and dishonoring my hearth."

The second letter, written by Mors to Davis from San Luis Obispo, June 2, 1924, revealed that the antique dealer sought to "buy off" McCoy's attentions.

WOULD MODIFY COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH GERMANY

Washington, Dec. 17.—The administration is to be asked by the senate foreign relations committee to seek modification of the commercial treaty negotiated with Germany and intended as a model for similar treaties with other countries.

Chairman Borah was authorized today to appoint a sub-committee to confer with Secretary Hughes after long discussion in the committee had developed unyielding opposition to articles in the convention by which neither country could grant discriminatory tariff duties on articles carried in ships flying its own flag.

Both republicans and democrats expressed opposition to a departure from what they contend has been a traditional policy of the United States of granting tariff subsidies in favor of its own ships, and they freely predicted that a treaty embodying such a proposal would not receive the necessary two-thirds majority in the senate, nor even a bare majority.

State department officials made no comment on the action of the committee.

COMPLICATIONS FOLLOW MAN'S DEATH FROM RAT POISON

New Haven, Dec. 17.—Following the death today of William Patterson, of this city, as the result, it was stated, of mistaking rat poison for a dose of salts, Mrs. Patterson, his wife, complained to the police that her husband had become crazed after drinking alleged whiskey purchased from a woman on Ashmun street. Claiming that she could secure the necessary evidence, Mrs. Patterson took the police to a store on Ashmun street conducted by Dora Axelrod. Mrs. Patterson entered alone and when she reappeared she handed a pint bottle of alleged whiskey to the detectives, claiming that she had purchased it from the woman in the store. The detectives then placed Dora Axelrod under arrest, charging her with violation of the liquor laws. She was released on bonds of $500.

Medical Examiner Marvin M. Scarbrough conducted an investigation into the death of Patterson and announced that the man had died from rat poison. Mrs. Patterson, according to the police, believes that the alleged whiskey secured by her husband affected his mind and caused him to make the mistake which caused his death.

ELSIE SWEETIN ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF HUSBAND

Mount Vernon, Illinois, Dec. 17.—Declaring Elsie Sweetin had always been like a daughter to him, C. C. Sweetin, aged father of Wilford Sweetin, took the stand against her late today in her joint trial with Lawrence M. Hight, former clergyman, for the murder of her husband, Wilford, and told how she admitted to him she had three times administered poison to the old man's son.

This testimony which closed the state's evidence, held in reserve for the final effort to strengthen the case against Mrs. Sweetin. It ended a day devoted almost entirely to testimony of Ina, Illinois, villagers as to what they had seen and heard that made them suspicious.

PUBLIC OFFERING OF BELGIAN GOV'T LOAN TODAY

New York, Dec. 17.—Public offering of a $50,000,000 loan for the Belgian government, to provide funds for fiscal stabilization and consolidation of its floating debt, will be made tomorrow through a nation wide syndicate, headed jointly by J. P. Morgan & Co., and the Guaranty Trust Co.

Sale of the issue will bring Belgium's total borrowings in the United States this year up to $80,000,000.

ITALY SENDING WARSHIPS TO ALBANIAN WATERS

Rome, Dec. 17.—The Italian government is sending two warships to Albanian waters immediately in view of possible complications arising out of the recent troubles there.

It is semi-officially announced that a report current alleging that arrangements have been entered into between Italy and Jugoslavia affecting the independence of Albania is without foundation.

Senate to Vote on The Postal Pay Bill Jan. 6

To Await Legislation to Meet the Wage Increase by Raising Postal Rates.

Washington, Dec. 17.—While President Coolidge continued today his efforts to prevent the overriding of his veto of the postal pay increase bill by the senate, that body entered into an unanimous consent agreement for a vote on the veto not later than January 6.

Calling a number of republican senate leaders to the White House, the executive again informed them of his desire that the veto be sustained, because any other action in advance of the enactment of a revenue measure to take care of the pay raise would interfere with the economy policy of his administration and continue what he regards as a harmful practice of leaving to the future the matter of providing for present authorized expenditures.

After these leaders had visited the White House, renewed efforts were made to get unanimous consent agreement for senate action. Immediately after the unanimous consent agreement had been entered into the administration measure increasing postal rates to all except letter mail was referred to the post office committee, with a view to hearings and action during the Christmas holidays.

Some administration leaders are of the opinion that there will be a sufficient number of senators in accord with the president's programme to sustain his veto.

Thirty-three votes would be necessary to accomplish this result provided all senators were present and voting.

These leaders are proceeding now under plan for senate consideration of both the pay increase and the maximum rate advance as companion measures, if not a joint measure. There is rather widespread opposition, however, to hitching the two propositions together in a single bill.

Vote on a bill which would permit the postmaster general to contract with private aviation firms for carrying the air mail was delayed by parliamentary tactics but proponents said they expected it would be brought up tomorrow.

Representative Griffin, democrat, New York, speaking in opposition to the bill, declared the government should not surrender the carrying of mail through air to private concerns after spending millions of dollars on aviation.

The bill's supporters explained that the employment of privately owned air route was proposed to supplement the trans-continental government owned lines.

HOUSE VOTES TO MAINTAIN NEW MAIL AIR ROUTES

Washington, Dec. 17.—The house today took favorable action on a bill that would permit the postmaster general to maintain new air mail routes in any part of the United States and territories.

PUBLIC OPINION MORE POTENT THAN ARMIES

Philadelphia, Dec. 17.—Public opinion would be more potent and more powerful in the enforcement of judgments handed down by the world court than either armies or navies, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho said in an address on "The Outlawry of War" before the Philadelphia Forum tonight.

"Although force unfortunately has its place in the administration of law," he said, "it is nevertheless subordinate to public opinion, and to public opinion and moral force we must appeal if we are to have peace."

Referring to a statement made by the late President Woodrow Wilson, in which he asserted that "people do not make wars," the Idaho senator proposed that in the future no war should be begun until it had been submitted to a referendum in which the people "who will fight and die, and who must bear the brunt of the burden, will have the choice, instead of a clique of scheming men who have the power to choose peace the same way as they have to choose war."

TRIAL OF FORMER DISTRICT ATTORNEY CORCORAN

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 17.—According to an affidavit by Mrs. Abraham Levy, formerly Eleanor Barnes, introduced today in support of Mrs. Levy's testimony in the trial of William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, and others charged with conspiring to extort $50,000 from Victor Albert Searles, Boston artist, Mrs. Levy was shown the stub of a check for $50,000 by Searles which he said he had given Corcoran. According to the charge, the attempt to extort was based on a raid by supposed police officers on a Back Bay apartment in the summer of 1920.

Mrs. Blanche Paul and Mrs. Levy, alleged lures of a Boston blackmailing which is alleged to have extorted thousands of dollars from New England business men and others, were indicted in the Searles case and pleaded guilty. Searles is a nephew of the late Edward S. Searles, railroad multi-millionaire. Others indicted with Corcoran are William J. Kelly, William J. Hartnett, J. Warren Kane, Michael Lyons and Thomas Devine.

REPORT ON COCAINE AND COCA LEAVES

Geneva, Dec. 17 (By the A. P.)—The sub-committee of experts of the opium conference, which is dealing with various technical aspects of the drug problem, tonight drew up a provisory report on the general question of cocaine and coca leaves.

The experts agreed that they could not limit the growing of coca leaves, because the plant often grows wild, but they recommended that all governments exercise strict control over traffic in them by means of exports and imports certificates.

HI-JACKERS TAKE LIQUOR FROM TWO "DRY" AGENTS

Newark, N. J., Dec. 17.—While two prohibition agents were confiscating a large quantity of alleged liquor at a private home here today in the presence of a crowd, a gang of bootleggers drove up in an automobile and made off with 16 cases of the contraband.

The agents said they were afraid to use their guns to halt the robbers because of the presence of a group of children.

Italian Chamber of Deputies in Uproar

Rome, Dec. 17 (By the A. P.)—The chamber of deputies was thrown into an uproar this afternoon such as is seldom witnessed in the Italian legislative body. The immediate cause was a resolution relating to the acceptance of the resignation of Signor Guinta, vice president of the chamber against whom charges have been made of instituting at Milan an attack on Deputy Ferni, a dissident member of the fascist party.

Signor Guinta offered his resignation, so that a full inquiry could be made, but the chamber declined to accept it.

The disorders today were really the culmination of irritations that have been growing for some weeks between the majority and the opposition.

The climax of the tumult was reached when the liberal deputy, Signor Boeri, attempted to speak in favor of accepting Guinta's resignation. He was constantly interrupted, and finally announced his resignation as a deputy.

The majority held a meeting later and discussed the situation.

Deputy Boeri said he hoped Signor Guinta would be able to show before a court his own innocence, but Premier Mussolini interrupted him, crying: "He does not need to."

Finally Boeri in a state of great excitement approached the government benches, speaking directly at Mussolini, who, fixing him with his eye, said: "You are a member of the majority. After what you have said, resign as deputy."

The entire chamber arose and applauded Mussolini who answered with the fascist salute. Immediately afterwards Boeri sent his letter of resignation to the president of the chamber. In the letter he said: "After the interpretation given by the premier to the limit of political action allowed to deputies elected in the majority list, I present my resignation as deputy."

Excitement in the chamber continued, and was accentuated by the act of former Premier Salandra in quitting the hall immediately after the vote not accepting Guinta's resignation. He was followed by Deputy Ducos. Observing this, Deputy Suardo called out: "I am surprised at Salandra's leaving, but I am not surprised at Ducos doing so, as we know his precedents."

Signor Ducos resented this sally, and Suardo shouted fiercely: "Send your seconds to me."

The adversaries were separated by friends, but the incident is expected to have a sequel on the field, as Ducos appointed Deputies Mazzini and Oliveth as his seconds.

NEW YORK PAYS HOMAGE TO SAMUEL GOMPERS

New York, Dec. 17—The body of Samuel Gompers, in its bronze casket, lay in state at the Elks Club today and tonight, while thousands filed by in silent tribute. Tomorrow, burial will take place in Sleepy Hollow cemetery at Tarrytown.

Those who joined the crowd that went to the club saw a building of many stories draped in black from pavement to parapet. They saw a huge assembly hall, its balconies and stations dimmed by purple draper; an honor guard of veteran unionists by the casket; hundreds of floral tributes. Near the casket were the crossed antlers and a bible, the Elks symbols of sorrow.

All day and far into the night the slow procession of men and women moved through the dimness of the room of state. The labor leader's widow, his sons, daughters, grandchildren and brothers, joined the throng late in the afternoon, when Mrs. Gompers arrived from Washington.

Final arrangements for the services were completed with the announcement that an asphalt sarcophagus, provided by labor unions at Baltimore, had been transported from that city to Sleepy Hollow cemetery to receive the casket.

The Central Trades & Labor council of greater New York ordered all union men to lay down tools for two minutes at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, at which time it is expected the funeral cortege will start for Tarrytown, after a two hour service at the Elk's Club.

Metropolitan police will give the funeral train honorary escort to the suburbs; then mounted state troopers will perform the civil honors to the end of the journey.

PROVED TO POLICE THAT HE WAS STILL ALIVE

New York, Dec. 17.—Robert O'Donnell, 52, of Tompkinsville, S. I., today walked into the St. George police station and told Captain Van Wagner he wished to impress upon him that he still was alive. O'Donnell had been thought dead by the police since Sept. 25, when his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Schnurr, identified a body taken out of the Narrows near Tompkinsville on Sept. 17 as that of her son-in-law, and Mrs. Mary O'Donnell, the "dead" man's wife, declared it to be that of her husband.

A neighbor also identified the body as O'Donnell's. They all said O'Donnell had been missing six weeks. Mrs. Schnurr and Mrs. O'Donnell claimed the body and had it buried in a Staten Island cemetery.

O'Donnell told Captain Van Wagner he had been a patient at the Burke Foundation in White Plains and later at St. Vincent's hospital in Staten Island. He said he called his wife on the telephone yesterday and that she told him her husband was dead and hung up the receiver.

Several friends in Tompkinsville upon whom he called told him the same thing and slammed their doors in his face, O'Donnell asserted.

Today in the presence of health department officials, to whom O'Donnell was referred by Captain Van Wagner, Mrs. Schnurr and Mrs. O'Donnell identified him as their son-in-law and husband, respectively. O'Donnell said he would take legal steps to re-establish his identity.

LARGE DISTILLING PLANT RAIDED IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Dec. 17.—A large distilling plant located in a sub-cellar beneath a six-car garage in the rear of 82 Fillmore street, was raided today by the police, who seized a 100-gallon still in operation, 325 gallons of denatured alcohol, 44 quarts of "pure rye imported whiskey" and other apparatus.

Samuel Nacca, of this city, who was found coming out of the cellar when the police arrived, was arrested and charged with violation of the liquor laws. He was released on bonds of $3,000.

Chief of Police Philip T. Smith and Assistant City Attorney Clarence E. Clarton, who visited the establishment after the raid, said that they had never seen such a modern distilling plant and one so well concealed.

The entire ground floor of the garage was of concrete and to enter the sub cellar it was necessary to lift a cement block which concealed a trap door.

ORVILLE WRIGHT TALKS OF EARLY FLIGHT DAYS

Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 17.—(By The A. P.)—Orville Wgirht, who with his brother, Wilbur, invented the airplane, celebrated the twenty-first anniversary of the first successful flight today by working in his shop. Many congratulatory messages from aeronautical societies in America and abroad were received.

"When my brother, Wilbur, and I made the first flight on December 17, 1903, we did not picture, even in imagination, the crossing of the American continent in a single flight; nor the encircling of the globe by an airplane. We did not dream of such speed as 266 miles an hour," he said. "But all of these are now achievements of the past. With the rate of progress increasing with the years, I am not bold enough even to try to predict a limit for the future."

Orville Wright made his first flight at Kittyhawk, N. C., in a crude biplane which attained a speed of 30 miles an hour. The flight lasted 59 seconds.

PENALIZED FOR SELLING ALMOST WORTHLESS STOCKS

New Haven, Dec. 17.—Damages of $1,421.20 were awarded Edwin J. and Jennie E. Ford, of this city against the H. W. Dubiske company, of Chicago by a jury in civil superior court today. The Dubiske company was accused of having defrauded the New Haven couple of selling them almost worthless stocks at exhorbitant prices, using falst representations to effect the sale.

It is believed that the jury in finding its verdict gave the plaintiffs the difference between the value of the stocks on the day they were purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Ford and the date of the complaint. In their original complaint the Fords sued for full value, $5,000.

SECRECY MAINTAINED ABOUT WEEHAWKEN LIQUOR SCANDAL

Washington, Dec. 17.—The department of justice continued today to exercise extreme secrecy with respect to conditions in the office of United States Attorney Winne of New Jersey, the administration of which, Attorney General Stone announced last night, is being examined.

Department officials also were silent with reference to the attitude of federal authorities on the Weehawken liquor scandal, over which a controversy with United States Attorney Winne appears to have developed.

Reports were circulated here that the New Jersey Anti-Saloon league had filed protests with Attorney General Stone against certain acts either by Mr. Winne or Assistant United States Attorney Van Ripe, who has been specifically barred from participation in prosecution of the Weehawken case by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, even if the federal government should take a hand in the case. Department officials declined to deny or affirm the reports, saying only that pending the examination by the federal attorney's office there could be no statement by them.

It was further reported that Attorney General Stone had found Anti-Saloon league charges lacking in specific information and had advised its officials to that effect, telling them he must have facts supported by evidence.

The department carefully veiled the manner in which its examination of the administration of affairs in Mr. Winne's office is being made. When Mrs. Willebrandt made public her telegram to Mr. Winne Monday ordering him not to present evidence in the Weehawken case to the federal grand jury, it was interpreted here as an expression of a lack of confidence. Its dispatch was quickly followed by Mr. Winne's appearance here, with Mr. Van Riper, for a conference with Mr. Stone and Mrs. Willebrandt. Whether the two department officials went deep into Mr. Winne's administration or merely talked over with him the information already in hand was not disclosed. It was apparent today, however, that the conference had a bearing on the department's procedure with its inquiry.

Mrs. Willebrandt said again tonight that the department had every confidence in George Vickers, the special prosecutor named to handle the Weehawken case, and she believed the prosecution would be conducted as well under the state laws as under the Volstead act, explaining that the New Jersey code is almost identical with the federal laws.

AMERICAN PORTION GREEK LOAN WAS OVERSUBSCRIBED

New York, Dec. 17.—Twenty-fold oversubscription of the $11,000,000 American portion of the $60,000,000 Greek government loan today repeated the success of the initial offering of bonds in London and marked one of the most enthusiastic receptions ever accorded a foreign loan in this market. Allotments, averaging 5 per cent. of subscriptions, are the smallest which have been made in connection with an offering of this type.

Closing of the subscription lists on the loan, immediately after the opening, was followed by a rise of the bonds to a premium of 1 3-4 points in stock exchange trading. Demand for the issue was stimulated by the comparatively low offering price and the high yield, which approximated 8 per cent.

Proceeds of the loan will be applied to the Greek government's refugee program through which more than a million Greeks will be re-established on land or in industry.

Bankruptcy is the latest gag tried on local people in the ripe old scheme well known hereabouts to induce sympathizers to send money to a prisoners in Old Madrid, Spain, who in former letters has been said to be dying and just before expiring wants a reliable persons in the United States who will accept his fortune or at least a part of it. The sender of the letters has probably gotten sick of being on a death bed since 1830 and has resorted to a new wrinkle, in which he states that he has been placed in jail for bankruptcy. As the evidence unfolded, the charge was modified to one of simple assault and Brousseau was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $15.55 which he paid. The house on the farm had been broken into about a week ago and when three unknown men walked unannounced into the house Sunday afternoon and started to look it over, Brousseau's suspicions were aroused. He asked the men what they wanted and when they refused to explain he ordered them off. They persisted in remaining and pulled a regular Kentucky moonshiner act. He got his shot gun, slipped two shells in the barrel and then gave the party two minutes in which to make themselves scarce. They lost little time in leaving and headed by Berkowitz they went to Grand Juror Joseph N. Clark and had a warrant sworn out for Brousseau's arrest. Deputy Sheriff Addison L. Frink served the warrant and Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins held the special court session.

This is the opportune time to remember the duty of every resident to his home town. It is the merchant on his own Main street and not those progressive business men of surrounding cities who has made the town what it is. It is the home town merchant who pays the taxes which support the community, he is the one, and the only one, from whom one can get "trust" in time of need, he supports all local civic and social organizations and movements. ASHFORD BOY, 8, KILLS SISTER, SHOWING GUN

Willimantic, Dec. 17.—"This is father's gun that shoots bears," said 8 year old Jan Belogh, Jr., while showing the shotgun to his two younger sisters in a bedroom of the Belogh home in Ashford Tuesday night. With that, the weapon was accidentally discharged, the charge tearing through the right side of the neck of his sister, Elizabeth, 6. Death was almost instantaneous. The parents were out in the barn near by milking, and at the sound of the gunshot they rushed into the house, where they found the lifeless body of their little daughter lying across the bed. The smell of gunpowder and smoke issuing from the muzzle of the gun told the story of the tragedy. To Medical Examiner Dr. F. B. Converse of Willington the parents, who are Hungarians and speak little English, said that the gun had been cleaned a few days before, loaded and placed in a closet of the bedroom. The Belogns reside on the old Whittaker farm in a thinly populated section of the town of Ashford. Jan is the oldest of four children, the others being Irene and Wallace.

He was chairman of the committee in charge of the building of the new grammar school a few years ago and a member of the committee in charge of the erection of the Charles Warren memorial town hall. He also served on the committee which selected the granite memorial monument now in Hyde park, said to be one of the finest granite shafts in New England. He was one of the Hyde park commissioners. Burns or Carlson as he is known to the Massachusetts authorities is said to be an escaped convict from the Massachusetts state prison where he was serving a term of ten to fifteen years for rape of a minor female child. He is alleged to have escaped from the prison camp and hospital at West Rutland, Mass., in 1918. Identification was by finger prints.

REV. HOWARD KANTER RELEASED IN $500 BAIL

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 17—Rev. Howard Kanter, pastor of the Reform Church of Wallkill, Ulster County, today was released in $500 bail after arraignment in superior court here, on a charge of violating section 483 of the penal code.

The indictment of the pastor resulted from a John Doe investigation conducted by special County Judge Fowler. Authorities said Mr. Kanter was charged with endangering the morals and health of minors.

GERMANY TO PARTICIPATE IN TRAFFIC IN ARMS CONFERENCE

Geneva, Dec. 17—(By the A. P.)—Germany's acceptance of the invitation to participate in the conference at Geneva May 4, 1925, on the control of traffic in arms, was announced today by the secretariat of the League of Nations. This brings the number of acceptances to 23, France, Persia, Finland, Esthonia, China and India having accepted since sixteen acceptances were announced at the recent council meeting in Rome.

Statistics compiled by the league on the commerce in arms, munitions and war materials, designed for the guidance of delegates to the coming conference, were published today.

The figures show that, while the traffic in arms has fallen consistently since the war, there is a great discrepancy between imports and exports. It is shown that arms exports from 23 nations in 1922 amounted to $42,300,000, whereas the same nations registered only $26,900,000 in imports for the same period. It is supposed that the discrepancy is explainable by the fact that such countries as Turkey, Moroccan Russia, China, Persia and Central American states, Java not yet sent in the import and export statistics which the league is trying to obtain from all possible sources for the benefit of the conference delegates.

SAYS GOV'T SHOULD ALTER SHIPPING BOARD POLICY

Washington, Dec. 17.—Present operation of American shipping is "no credit" to the government and it should either go into the business and "do it right or quit," Thomas H. Rossbottom, manager of the United States lines of the Emergency Fleet corporation, today told the house committee investigating the shipping board.

A definite policy as to continuance of the lines should be formulated and the word "Emergency" dropped from the fleet corporation's name, he said, expressing the opinion that the lines should be maintained and the present indefinite status removed.

Many of the problems entering into operation of the lines were discussed by the witness. One objection to hiring American crews to run the ships, he declared, was a tendency to "do too much firing" by those in authority.

Ticket agents in Europe "work fairly well for us," he added, and "it is right here in the United States that our trouble is," in selling passages. He said, however, that the agents were given only $5 a day for traveling expenses and had difficulty in meeting competition on private corporation solicitors who "wine and dine" prospective passengers.

BUNCO GAME VICTIM SAYS CIGARETTE COST HIM $4,000

Hartford, Dec. 17.—It cost Frank Domanski $4,000 for a cigarette, according to the remarkable story of a bunco game he related to Judge L. P. Marvin in the superior criminal court today. One of the men who worked the game on him is identified by Domanski as Antonio Astolsh, who was on trial today on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and also on a charge of theft. The defense is said to be an alibi. Astolsh claiming to have been in Detroit on October 5, 1923, the date that Domanski lost his money. Alexander Borewitz, now serving time in Detroit is named as an accomplice.

Through a court interpreter it took Domanski all the forenoon to give his narrative. He is a cobbler with a little shop on North street in New Britain.

GEORGE F. WILLETT ILL WITH TYPHOID FEVER

Norwood, Mass., Dec. 17—George F. Willett, whose $15,000,000 damage suit against a group of Boston bankers is in the hands of a jury at Dedham, is dangerously ill at his home here. Physicians in attendance said late today that he had grown weaker. The trial consumed 184 court days, setting a new American record for length.

Mr. Willett became ill of typhoid fever two weeks ago while the trial was in progress.

BUSINESS IN GERMANY MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

New York, Dec. 17—General business in Germany is making good progress and the outlook is encouraging, according to Gates W. McGarrah, chairman of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, who returned to his desk today after spending two months in Berlin aiding in the organization of the new Reichsbank. He emphasized that there were several difficult situations to overcome, one being to reduce the cost of production, but on the other hand, he asserted, the energy and willingness to carry out the program they have accepted, should not be underrated.

"As trade expands," he added "credits and loans will be required but undue haste to grant them is unwise."

SURPLUS IN FREIGHT CARS SHOWS DECLINE IN TRAFFIC

Washington, Dec. 17—A surplus of 208,461 freight cars in serviceable condition were on hand Dec. 7. This figure made public today by the American Railway association, represents an increase of 34,537 over the previous week's surplus and was attributed to the seasonal decline in freight traffic.

The Nicaragua congress ratified the national electoral board resolution declaring Carlos Solorzano and Juan Bautista Sacha president and vice president, respectively, for the term of 1925-29.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This paper will not be accountable for the accuracy of a statement that for the first time in 49 years every one of the fifteen towns in Windham county turned in a republican majority in Tuesday's election. but that claim has been set up by one long familiar and intimately associated with county politics and may be true.

Scores of people are prepared to attest out of memory that Windham county has not been unanimous in its republicanism for well over a score of years and it is not at all improbable that the man who says it has been 49 years since it happened is entirely correct. At time of writing data for a checkup is not available.

Looking back over elections covering a long period of years one will recall that at least one Windham county town, and sometimes three or four, have turned down the republicans and registered a democratic majority. Plainfield, Sterling, Brooklyn, Windham and Putnam have done it, and probably others that are not recalled.

Tuesday every town in the county helped elect Colonel Bingham as a United States senator from Connecticut by turning in a republican majority. Incidentally, New London county was the only other county of the state that almost did likewise. the town of Bozrah going democratic. Candidate Holt did not win a single town in what are considered the eastern counties of the state.

Here in Windham county the trend to the republicans has been impressive during the past year. Scores of opinions have been advanced as explaining this fact. What they are is immaterial. Outstanding among all the reasons, however, is that democratic national convention in New York last summer. That impasse of intolerance will live to plague the democratic party in the east for years. That has been twice demonstrated in eastern Connecticut since November 1.

Here is something for you to try in your back yard any one of these December days or later in the winter if you prefer: First collect some large field stones and erect a kiosk—something like the magazine or candy booths one encounters on street corners and other convenient places in the large cities.

This kiosk, looking much like an old smoke house, is roofed over and a door put on—a fireproof door. Having erected your building you may then proceed to follow a custom of a foreign people who are becoming quite numerous in nearby farming territory and who prefer a steaming out to a bath.

A fire is built within the kiosk and fed with four foot sticks of wood. This fire burns until the stones are cracking hot, much after the manner of heating stones for an old-fashioned New England clambake. Having attained the proper degree of heat the stones are soaked with a dozen or more pails of water thrown upon them at close range, the embers of the fire in the meantime having been withdrawn from the interior of the structure and a temporary flooring of heavy planks put in.

The cold water thrown upon the hot stones immediately gives rise to clouds of steam. It is at this time that your foreign resident, following an old country custom, gets the benefit of all his labor. Covered only with a bath robe, he emerges from his home, goes to the kiosk, slips off his footgear and his bath robe and enters the steam filled chamber. He appears to enjoy and greatly benefit from the boiling out he undergoes, much after the manner of one indulging in a Turkish bath. He emerges thoroughly cleansed and reenters his home for a brisk rub down.

These outdoor steaming-out plants are in operation hereabouts this month. They will continue to be throughout the winter. Residents of many years hereabouts have been amazed upon first seeing one of these kiosks in operation, but have found on investigation that they are great institutions. A steaming out in one of them is one great method of cleansing the body. If you do not believe it, build one and try it. But there are many hereabouts that will testify as to their worth.

Wednesday evening a number of employes of the S. N. E. Telephone company in the Danielson division were at Putnam to attend a Christmas tree party arranged jointly with employes in the Putnam division. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served.

Doris Comes to Town, a comedy-drama in three acts, was presented at the Orpheum theater Wednesday evening by a cast from the senior class of Killingly High school. The traditionally large attendance was on hand to enjoy the play, which was very smoothly presented. The cast was made up of Philip W. Armington, Thelma J. Kinder, William House, John C. Moody, Owen W. Fryling, Frances B. Tillinghast, Madelyn V. Cronin, Mariette E. Paine.

A lone candidate for examination by the town court as to why he had not paid personal taxes assessed against him appeared before Judge Benner Woodward Wednesday morning. Display of an honorable discharge from the United States navy was accepted by the court as ample evidence that he was not liable for the tax, so the case against him was nolled. He was not allowed to go, however, without the inquiry being made as to whether his wife owed a personal tax. Again the former sailor was prepared. "She is not liable for such tax," he explained; "she is only 16 years of age!" And that was the fact.

Again Wednesday morning there was a demonstration that the narrow highway bridge at Central Village is a menace to the traffic moving over that much traveled route. A Norwich traveling man, halfway across the bridge in his car, was unable to get off the structure before a large car bearing a Rhode Island number and driven by a woman, came bowling along and forced him over until his car crashed against the bridge side. Then there was some fiery talk. This happens from time to time. A number of accidents have occurred there. Eventually this bridge must go, but when eventually is, no one can definitely say!

By districts, Tuesday, Killingly gave Bingham a majority in each instance. In the First district the vote was Bingham, 440; Holt 144; in the Second district the vote was Bingham, 216; Holt, 130; Plunkett, 3; in the Third district, Bingham, 139; Holt, 50. Over in the Third district one ballot was rejected because it was mutilated.

It has been said that death and taxes are unavoidable, but there may be some question about that as to taxes. Over in the eastern part of the town a man and his wife, hearing of the campaign that is on to collect personal taxes and knowing that they were due to pay $4 each, with the costs that are assessed, have left the state, it is said, rather than pay.

Wednesday, Witter brothers conducted an auction sale of pure bred cattle at the Darnley farm in Plainfield.

Wednesday must have been the shortest afternoon in the year; in any event, lights were needed in many places from 3 o'clock on.

The boxing exhibition here this evening will attract fans from all sections of eastern Connecticut.

Only two weeks more for driving under the automobile registration markers of 1924! This fact has been noted by many drivers, but not by many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Morrisson are planning to spend the Christmas season at Atlanta, Ga., where Mr. Morrisson's father is resident.

Christmas musical programs will be given in some of Danielson's churches next Sunday.

At this date dances have hit their low ebb of the season, but New Year's eve will bring more of that sort of diversion for the hundreds with whom it is popular.

Not so many native turkeys will be available here for Christmas dinners as at Thanksgiving, but there will be an ample supply of native chickens.

James Monohan, who has been seriously ill at his home on Riverview, was reported Wednesday as improved and resting more comfortably.

PUTNAM

The state utilities commission met here Wednesday to listen to the reasons why the Farnum stag line should be permitted to carry passengers in Connecticut on their busses now running to and from Providence, R. I., and Springfield, Mass. Residents of Putnam, Woodstock and Quinebaug were very much in favor of the granting of the certificate asked for, saying that it would prove a great convenience to them. Representatives of of the New Haven railroad and of the Connecticut company opposed it, claiming that they could not compete with the jitneys, and that to grant the application might result in the cutting down of their service. Putnam jitney operators also opposed it, asserting that Woodstock passengers paid them a good part of their income. One owner of a public service car created a laugh by saying that if the sought-for permission were granted he "would jack up his car and go to work." C. C. Elwell, president of the state commission, presided, and the taking of evidence was not concluded Wednesday.

Leonard Beausoleil, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Beausoleil of this city, who is a first class musician on the United States steamship Antares, has arrived home on a 15-day furlough.

He has been stationed at Norfolk yards, Va., the Antares being the flagship of the Atlantic supply fleet, under Admiral McDougall. The fleet has orders to sail on Jan. 1st for Honolulu to join the Pacific fleet, going, of course, through the Panama canal. Unless there is a change in present plans, they will be back on this side of the continent in July.

Young Beausoleil had not been home for several months and his parents and other relatives have been looking with pleasure for some time to see him during the holidays. On Saturday word was received from him that his furlough had been revoked because his testimony was needed as a witness in the investigation of the accidental drowning of one of the crew. Mr. and Mrs. Beausoleil were naturally greatly disappointed. Sunday afternoon they went to the Bradley theatre to hear the address by Hamilton Holt. When they got home they found their son had arrived before them. Through the good offices of the chaplian of the ship his original leave of absence was restored to him and he had taken the first train for Putnam.

Arthur E. Smith, cashier of the Citizens National bank, has leased the house formerly occupied by the late Mrs. Jerome Douty and will move his family here from Hyde Park, Mass., as soon as possible. His daughter, who is a member of the staff in the laboratory of the Massachusetts state health department at Harvard college, will remain in Boston for the present.

The every member canvass for the Woodstock Congregational church exceeded the expectations of those who had it in charge. Pledges for next year's budget are nearly up to the amount required for expenses and there are a number of out of town members from whom assistance is expected.

BAPTIST CHURCH QUARREL; MINISTER TO LEAVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Dec. 17.—There is a wide-reaching dissension in the First Baptist church of Putnam; in other words, a church quarrel, that is splitting the membership into two factions and that has resulted in the termination of the pastorate of Rev. John C. Stoddard, the date of his leaving to be effective Jan. 26, 1925. At a meeting of the state council of ordination held in Putnam a few days ago to inquire into the situation, a resolution was passed exonerating Mr. Stoddard of any wrongdoing and declaring that the charges against him were false and malicious.

The permanent council of organization met at the Stafford Baptist church Nov. 29th, 1924, and at its session voted to express its full confidence in Rev. John C. Stoddard, pastor of the Baptist church at Putnam. The motion was made by Rev. E. E. Gates, secretary of the Connecticut Baptist convention, who with other members of the committee on ministerial standing had investigated the charges against Rev. Mr. Stoddard and had found the charges malicious and false. The motion of Rev. Mr. Gates was seconded by Rev. E. E. Sundt and unanimously favored by the council. The resolution was signed by W. H. Brackett, president, C. J. Armstrong, and F. W. Tholen, clerk.

The statement from the Putnam church reads

The Putnam Baptist church by vote declares that the recent action of the church taken to terminate the pastorate of the pastor, Rev. John C. Stoddard, was not intended to, and, the church believes, did not, in any way reflect on his moral character, any purported reports to the contrary notwithstanding. (Signed) Dr. J. B. Kent, Henry L. Converse, Carlton W. Durfee and Clarence E. Pierce, clerk.

The feeling among members and of others who are not members, but who attend the church and contribute to its financial support, is intense. The first intimation that came to the public that there was dissension and dissatisfaction among the members came in the form of a written notice posted on the door of the church six weeks ago that there would be a meeting of the "membership of the church that evening to consider the question of terminating the pastorate of Rev. John C. Stoddard." At that meeting, which was exclusively for the members of the church, there was a more or less heated controversy which ended in a majority of those present voting in favor of a resolution that Mr. Stoddard should retire as pastor.

Then followed a general discussion of the affair among the public, the calling of the state council, and the passage of the two votes given above. Mr. Stoddard has made himself widely known since he came to Putnam more than two years ago. He has also made many friends both in and out of the church. He is an outspoken, public-spirited, well-meaning man, and, as set forth in the above statements, his moral character is above reproach. The membership of the church has increased under his leadership.

HAMILTON HOLT PLEASED WITH VOTE IN HOME TOWN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Dec. 17.—Hamilton Holt, defeated democratic candidate for United States senator, has expressed himself as well satisfied with the vote that was given him in Tuesday's election, and particularly gratified with the results in Woodstock, his home town, in Putnam and adjoining sections. Woodstock as a rule shows about 45 democratic votes in an ordinary election. In the presidential contest Nov. 4 69 voted for Davis. Tuesday Mr. Holt polled a total of 119 votes with less than 50 per cent. of the electors exercising their right of franchise. The republican vote was 244. There are three voting districts in Woodstock, and in the one in which he lives Mr. Holt received 90 votes to 94 for Bingham. He feels that in getting nearly double the number of votes in Woodstock that were given John W. Davis, and less than 50 per cent. of the vote out, he received a very handsome personal tribute. In Putnam his vote was gratifyingly large, considering the fact that there was no organization and no funds for hiring cars or for checkers and other workers. His vote here was 735. In the November election Colonel Bingham carried the town by 738. In Pomfret he had a majority of 8, receiving 174 to 166.

WILBUR ORDERS NAVAL COURT OF INQUIRY

Washington, Dec. 17—Secretary Wilbur announced today that he had ordered a naval court of inquiry to be convened at the New York navy yard to investigate the unauthorized publication of information regarding naval matters which might be of value to a possible enemy country.

The secretary said the inquiry would deal specifically with the question of how a communication which passed between Captain Ousterhaus at the naval war college, Newport, R. I., and Captain Berry, in charge of naval recruiting, New York city, came to find its way into a number of papers recently.

The secretary further explained that in the publication of this communication, names of the writer and the addresses and certain other identifying sections had been deleted.

The navy department, he said, is not contemplating any general order muzzling navy officers in the free expression of their opinions, but it is determined to prevent the giving out of information of military value to another nation.

On the report of the board of inquiry the secretary will determine whether the facts developed warrant the ordering of a court martial for any officer for the purpose of taking disciplinary measures.

$1,000 PRIZE FOR NEW YALE SONG IS TO BE RENEWED

New Haven, Dec. 17—The committee of judges serving under the auspices of the alumni advisory board of Yale university announced tonight that no award will be made in the recently finished competition for the anonymously offered prize of $1,000 for a new Yale song. As in the preceding competition words were invited only from Yale students and alumni. Upon recommendation of the committee, the anonymous offer for a Yale song is to be renewed.

NEW BRITISH GOVERNMENT INCLINED TO FREE TRADE

London, Dec. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Baldwin today outlined, somewhat briefly and vaguely, the British governments intentions for reversing the policy of the late MacDonald government, which on the ground that they were of a protective tendency, abolishing a number of war duties imposed on various commodities under the safeguarding of industries act.

Mr. Baldwin repudiated the idea of using the safeguarding of industries act as a wedge to introduce a protective tariff and admitted that taxation of goods was not practical politics. He also stipulated that any industries requesting to be safeguarded must prove themselves important and efficient and to be suffering from exceptional competition through depreciated exchanges, bounties, subsidies or debased labor conditions in competing countries.

The premier suggested submitting the question of lapsed duties and the like to an economist committee, which he said first should deal with meat and fruit. These articles could not be dealt with by taxes, but he hoped it was not beyond the wit of man to devise some plan by which, without taxing the food of the British people, it might be possible to modify the course of trade for the benefit of the empire.

CHOSEN RECIPIENT OF PRINCEON SCHOLARSHIP

New Haven, Dec. 17.—Edward C. Bench, of Galena, Ill., a member of the class of 1925, Yale college, has been chosen the first recipient of the Princeton club of New York scholarship, according to an announcement by the under-graduate scholarship committee tonight. In accordance with the provisions of the scholarship, Bench is chosen for this award because "of his outstanding character, personality, and capacity for leadership and service as evidenced by excellence in scholarship, athletics and other under-graduate activities."

In his freshman year he was captain of his class team in basketball and played on his class football and track teams, thereby winning his numerals in three sports. During his sophomore year he was a member of the university football, swimming and track teams and of the discipline committee.

In addition to winning athletic honors as a member of the varsity football and track teams during his junior year he served as chairman of the junior promenade committee, a high social honor at Yale. He was also president of the inter-fraternity council and a member of the student council. This year Bench played quarterback on the Yale football eleven and is chairman of the student council. He is a member of Psi Upsilon.

The Princeton club of New York scholarship consists of the income from a fund of $15,000, established this year by the Princeton club of New York in honor of the Yale club of New York, in commemoration of their joint association during the World war when both clubs occupied the Yale building.

MUST STAND TRIAL FOR MURDER OF HIS NIECES

Fredericton, N. B., Dec. 17.—Harry D. Williams, of Fosterville, must stand trial for the murder of his nieces, Cynthia Foster, 14 and Necia, 10, Judge Walter Limerick ruled today after a preliminary examination in the city police court at which 18 witnesses testified for the crown.

Evidence given this morning by Enoch Peck, of Fosterville, corroborated that given yesterday by his brother, who stated that Williams had admitted to him that he had killed the two girls.

Williams declined to say anything on his ownbehalf and did not call any witnesses.

PHILIPPINE LETTER TO THE INT'AL LABOR BUREAU

Geneva, Dec. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The Philipinese department of labor and communications has addressed a letter to the International Labor Bureau asking what steps the Philippine Island can take with a view to joining the international bureau. The letter also expresses the hope that the Philippines one day will be permitted to join the league of nations.

Officials of the labor bureau said tonight they would send to the Philippines department of labor and communicate full information with regard to joining the international bureau, but without comment.

While recognizing that the Philippines are not qualified in the league of nations, officials of the bureau took occasion to point out that the United States, if it became a league member, perhaps could save Philippine problem by applying for a league mandate for the Philippines, thereby making the league responsible for the future of the Philippines and saving the islands from the possibility of domination and utilization as a war base by another power and the sidetracking of the Filipinos who are agitating for independence.

Some anxiety was expressed as to whether the Filipinos were not following the policies of Egypt and Ireland as regards appeals to the league, with the intention of taking future action under the article of the covenant by which the league council would be justified in intervening if the peace of the world were threatened.

SHARP DEBATE IN SENATE ON MUSCLE SHOALS ISSUE

Washington, Dec. 17—President Coolidge and the Underwood bill were attacked and defended in the senate today in a debate on the Muscle Shoals issue.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, charged that the measure would make "Teapot Dome look like a pinhead" and "Doheny and Sinclair look like pikers," and asserted that enactment of the legislation later would become known as the "rape of the treasury."

He accused the previsent of overriding the will of the state agriculture committee which reported the Norris government ownership bill and on attempting to solve the Muscle Shoals problem with midnight conferences on the Mayflower."

Replying to the charges, Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, author of the government ownership leasing bill pending as a substitute for the Norris measure, declared Muscle Shoals legislation should not be regarded as a political measure and he was glad that he and the president were in accord on the question.

He declared the president was observing custom when he made known his attitude on the Muscle Shoals question in his message to congress, and accused Senator Norris of being a follower of populist principles in advocating government instead of private operation.

Senator Underwood also charged that "an organized filibuster to prevent action on the Muscle Shoals bill" was in progress and warned the senate that unless some bill was passed and sent to the house for passage before March 4, the water would be allowed to go over the spillways and property worth two million dollars "would be dead to the world."

Few men would trouble themselves to look for work if they didn't need the money.

BASELESS CAMPAIGN CHARGES.

It is said that all is fair in love and war. Many there are who seem to think this includes political warfare, or at least it would seem so from the charges that were made in the recent national campaign concerning the use of "slush" funds by the republican party.

Such charges were made and brought under investigation at such a time that it was figured it would be impossible to disprove them before election. The inquiry by the congressional committee was in fact not completed before election, but it was evident from such testimony as was produced and from the efforts that were made that there was no foundation for the claims. It was a piece of political trickery for the purpose of swinging votes away from the republican candidate to one of the other two. It failed quite the same as a similar stunt four years ago.

But while the inquiry before the election knocked out the effect which the charges were expected to produce, there remained the charges that a million had been sent from the east in four installments to boost the campaign in certain western states, that this money was forwarded through banks, including the federal reserve banks, and came from big corporations.

"Faked" is the term applied to such charges and that promises to be the finding of the committee which has been taking evidence concerning them. No better evidence along that line can be asked than the fact that those who are alleged to have sent certain telegrams denied that anything of the kind was ever sent, and the counsel who were pushing the inquiry into the charges have admitted that they were engaged in a wild goose chase.

The failure of the charges and the evidence on which they were based is no more than was expected. The outcome is in keeping with the wildness of the claims, but when the time comes around for the next campaign there will be those who will try to startle the country by similar efforts and strange as it may seem there will be those who will swallow not only the bait but the line, bob and sinker.

ONE MAN CARS.

Not so many months ago there was a disposition in many places to have the trolleys replaced by the jitneys. It was certain that there would be better attention given to the needs of the public, more accommodations, quicker and better service. In some places the competition was encouraged, the trolleys withdrew, but it was not long before there was a clamor for their return. For several reasons they were wanted back. They came back and invariably on their own terms, and where the jitneys continued to operate it was without entering into competition with the electrics.

It is much the same kind of a fight that is being waged in connection with the one man cars. The trolley roads, which have been forced to adopt economies in order to avoid bankruptcy through giving service for less than it cost them, found the one man car not only practical but necessary. Certain communities have fought it and even allowed it to become a political issue.

While New Haven is just entering upon such a struggle, Worcester has just emerged therefrom. The fight against the one man car was not endorsed at the polls and those who made it got little satisfaction. In fact the appeal which was made by the city council of Worcester to the public utilities commission of that state to have the danger of the one man cars eliminated has been turned down. Investigation showed that the operation of one man cars is not attended with such dangers as represented, but can be carried on with safety. It is such a decision as has invariably been rendered where the question has been raised. Most of the opposition to the one man cars is based upon false claims and a refusal to realize the economic conditions which have forced their introduction.

Whether New Haven is headed for the same decision as Worcester received remains to be seen. That trolley patrons in the latter city should be told that they could help to better car service and overcome certain objections to the one man car by having their proper change ready may cause them to take a different view of the situation. When employes in other cities admit that the one man cars are "here to stay" it shows they recognize the inevitable and the uselessness of trying to fight them.

SAVING A MILLION.

When President Coolidge went to Chicago recently, all that was necessary to cause him to decide to save the difference between taking a berth in a Pullman and the cost of a special train, or even a special car, was the quoting of the difference in the rates.

The treasury department has let it be known that it is possible for the people of the country to save nearly a million dollars for themselves a year if they will aid in the circulation of 40,000,000 more silver dollars than are now being used and eliminate the necessity of making and using the equivalent in paper money. Some departments of the government have already responded, but are the people of the country going to look upon it as a chance to help themselves and do as requested?

It means that instead of carrying your money in the form of bills that you have a part of it in silver dollars, which the treasury department is prepared to furnish and which it desides to get into circulation because the expense attached is much less than in the case of the paper money.

At the present time in order to meet the demands for clean, new money it is necessary for the department to print 48,000,000 new one dollar notes for circulation each month. Silver doesn't wear out like paper and this replacement expense in connection with the paper dollars could be eliminated to just that degree that silver dollars are used.

It means toting silver dollars. That in some sections of the country is not new. Silver and gold are in fact demanded and little paper is seen. Those acquainted with the convenience of paper are not likely to change from choice, but the possibility of participating in a bit of government economy may receive some response. It will all depend upon whether the people are willing to carry the silver that it may be put into circulation instead of the bills.

As a matter of preference there can be no question. As for the chance to save opinions will differ as to whether the saving is worth the trouble.

MASSACHUSETTS COAL.

New England is interested in cheaper fuel. It wishes that it had its fuel supply ready for use much nearer its factories and homes. It doesn't like to be dependent upon Pennsylvania or other states which make a long haul necessary. Possibly that is why there are those who have come forward with the proposition to spend $50,000 in Massachusetts for the purpose of investigating a coal deposit in that state with a view to development.

Coal in New England—burnable coal—would be grand. The fact is of course that the state of Rhode Island has a coal mine. Coal is produced and distributed in comparatively small quantities. It isn't what can be considered first class coal. It is particularly hard and requires no little trouble to burn it. No one would use it from choice if anything else was obtainable.

It seems highly probable that if it is found that Massachusetts has a coal deposit it will not be so different in character from that in Rhode Island, and therefore make no appeal to the consumer. Such opposition as is being shown to the expenditure of $50,000 for the purpose of learning that fact doesn't seem to be unreasonable. The prospects of putting such a sum into a hole in the ground without any return do not make a favorable impression. New England wants cheaper fuel but it would not be satisfied with something black, or dark brown, and hard to burn. Till there is some possibility of finding real coal Massachusetts bids fair to keep its loose change in its pockets, or to turn it toward hydroelectric development.

AUTOMOBILE TERRORS.

Much is expected from the national conference on street and highway safety which opened this week at Washington. Secretary Hoover in addressing it said: "The automobile is the greatest development of 20 years, both economically and socially. But if we wish for its fullest development we must reduce its terrors."

Those terrors are measured by the fact that the automobile was responsible during the past year for 22,600 deaths and 678,000 serious personal injuries. In the opinion of the secretary the remedy for this deplorable situation is to be approached "through prevention and safeguard, through much stronger punishment for violation of the rights of others and through public education as to its responsibilities."

In every state and in every community there is faced the necessity of dealing with the automobile. The victims are those in machines as well as those afoot. There is a growing recklessness on the part of many drivers, and especially by those who insist upon driving cars after they have been using intoxicating liquor.

The terrors of the auto are not imaginary. They stand out in bold shape. They are to be seen almost every morning in the news reports, and the fact cannot be dodged that the sooner there is a determined effort made to fight them along the lines suggested by the secretary of the department of commerce the easy the struggle will be in eliminating them. It calls for a general and unwavering application of drastic remedies.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There will be no reason for a special election to break that tie in the town of Bethlehem.

Isn't it about time for Grover C. Bergdoll to ask for permission to come home for Christmas?

The man on the corner says: Elections come and elections go but Connecticut stands positively republican.

It cannot be regarded as especially healthy in Egypt when the British officers there plan to resign just as soon as possible.

About all that third party conference in Washington has to do is to see that the tombstone is properly inscribed, adjourn and go home.

It is well at this time to give a bit of thought and as much of the long green as possible to help provide a Christmas dinner for those who will not have one otherwise. . . .

A federal judge in Philadelphia has announced that henceforth dry law violators will go to jail. Whether the jails will prove adequate will depend on the comforts that are provided there.

When Chairman Johnson of the immigration committee says there are a million waiting to come to this country he shows how wise we were in establishing our immigration restrictions.

SUCCESSFUL STRATEGY

Mrs. McBride had laid down her patching to answer the door when the visitor had thrust an informal rolled-up bit of white goods into her hand. "Mrs. Nelson, next door, isn't home," she had said, "so would you please give her this?"

What could Mrs. McBride do? She couldn't tell the hurrying woman that she and Mrs. Nelson didn't speak! That would sound foolish. So she stood for a minute—then laid it down on the library table. It was one of Mrs. Nelson's aprons, she supposed, that she had let some one borrow it in order to copy, for Mrs. Nelson had charge of the apron booth at the church bazar.

There was a glimpse of a blue ruffle peeking out—the blue that wasn't dark, yet it wasn't too bright. It was Mrs. McBride's favorite shade.

She went on patching overalls, but her eyes kept wandering to the bundle there. She loved pretty things, though she wasn't handy with the needle, like Mrs. Nelson. Her fingers strayed to it—hm, cross-barred muslin—she unpinned it, unrolled it.

It was like the things Mrs. Nelson made, ruffly, dainty, embroidered with gay laughing colors. Mrs. McBride tried it on, preening, stretching to see every bit of her stout figure in the mirror over the mantel.

She sighed a bit wistfully; for they had hurled angry words at each other over the back fence, but the cause of the trouble was the same Buddy McBride and Johnny Nelson that now tumbled in friendly abandon on the lawn, though their mothers still passed each other with averted eyes.

With milk she brushed the crusts of the freshly baked bread. It was nine months and more now—but it still seemed strange to not run over with the nicest loaf to Nelsons'.

That evening she watched from behind kitchen curtains while Mrs. Nelson fed her chickens. Should she take it over or should she send Buddy?

Mrs. Nelson, coming up the walk, stopped to take some stockings off the line as Mrs. McBride stepped out the back door. "Here is the ap—er—bundle a lady left for you." It was a little hard to make her voice behave.

"Oh—the apron. Oh, thank you, Mrs. McBride. I'm glad she brought it back."

Mrs. McBride half turned from the fence, though she had lowered the gas carefully under her potatoes. "How is your apron booth coming?" she asked.

"Just fine," said little Mrs. Nelson, "just fine." Oh—did you see this?" She shook out the ruffled apron.

"Well, isn't it pretty!" said Mrs. McBride in surprised tones. "Right pretty—them blue ruffles. You know—I always liked that blue—"

"Yes, I know," said Mrs. Nelson. "It's funny about this apron," she was scrapping every infinitesimal crumb out of the chicken pan, "that blue for those ruffles—I knew you liked that blue. I — well—I made that apron for you for Christmas before we—

"Well, said Mrs. McBride, "I don't believe I ever saw a prettier apron."

Mrs. Nelson handed it over eagerly and her voice broke on the laughter she tried to summon. "Take it Mrs. McBride. I made it for you."

But Mrs. McBride was hurrying toward the house. "Wait one minute," she said. She returned with a square box in her hand. It was tied with holly ribbon. "Here," she said. "It's pretty late to be giving Christmas presents but this is what I had for you before we—"

Mrs. Nelson lifted the tissue paper to view the rough richness of Irish linen, beneath. "Twas sent from the old country," said the donor proudly.

"Oh, Mrs. McBride, you shouldn't."

"Oh, Mrs. Nelson, you shouldn't have put in all these stitches—"

And then, "A body's a fool to pay any mind to their kids' troubles," tendered Mrs. McBride.

The McBride potatoes were rescued from a scorchy ignomy and Jim Nelson who was leaving in an hour for his night run, had impatiently started to dish up the supper.

He looked at his wife's flushed cheeks. "But what I can't see," he said, puzzled, "is why the lady left the apron next door. I was here if she had come here first—"

"Well because, Jim Nelson," she said defiantly, "I told her to—to leave the apron next door."—Exchange.

George Cohan's Songs Brought $1

As a boy George M. Cohan did not like to act, he preferred to write and his father thought he should be a musician.

Son of vaudeville performers, he left school at 5 and became second violinist in the theatre orchestra of his native town, Providence, R. I. A year later he peddled songs among audiences. At 12 he picked out original songs on the piano with one finger and sold them to performers, charging from $1 to $3 apiece.

At nine he appeared in Daniel Boone and at 12 in the title role of Peck's Bad Boy, then he joined with his parents and sister and they presented vaudeville sketches as The Four Cohans. He did not like to dance or act and in odd moments composed Venus, My Shining Star, and I Guess I'll Have to Telegraph My Baby, which were sung round the world.

Tiring of his part, he wrote a sketch The Professor's Wife, and at 16 finally persuaded the manager to let the family try it out. It made a hit and he wrote The Governor's Son and other successes. Then his manager persuaded him to write a full production. After much effort he made The Governor's Son into a musical play—and it failed.

Then he wrote and starred in Little Johnny Jones. Broadway sneered at play and star; so he took it on the road and every night for two weeks rewrote and remade the play. Back on Broadway it became the rage. Other successes followed and Cohan became "the Yankee Doodle Boy" and was a favorite as writer, singer and dancer. Then he wrote popularity, omitting music and dancing—and it failed.

Filling the play with Cohan songs and changing the title to The Man Who Owns Broadway caused it to score a big success. Other popular productions followed and Cohan found himself a millionaire, with theaters in New York.

After retirement for a year, he produced the all-speaking play, Get-Rich-quick Wallingford. It was a success, as were Seven Keys to Baldpate and other non-musical productions. Then he wrote Over There, the song hit of the last war, and sold it for $25,000.

At 46 Cohan owns several theaters, is still writing plays and comprising songs, and once in a while he takes part on the stage.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

Getting Ready for Sleighing

When the Yellow Dog Tramp had brushed his coat,
And shaken his old straw hat,
A pile of snow ten inches high
Covered the back porch mat.

You see, he had been tramping through the snowstorm all the way from the Shady Forest and was mighty glad to be invited into the little white house on the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Carrot street. You remember, of course, that he had knocked on the door in the last story and that Uncle Lucky had shouted "Come in!"

"You're just in time for breakfast," said the kind old gentleman bunny. "Have a saucer of Clover Cereal?"

"Drink this hot cup of Turnip Tea," added Little Miss Mousie, setting it down by the old dog's plate.

"Dear me," he sighed, leaning back in his chair to give the hot tea time to make him feel nice and warm and comfy, "the woods are very lonely. All the birds have gone south."

"Not all," chirped a pretty voice at the window, and there stood Boddie Redvest on the sill, his little bright eyes twinkling with fun.

"Well, maybe I shouldn't have said they all had gone south," admitted the Yellow Dog Tramp. "I remember seeing Charlie Chickadee only yesterday. But, just the same, the woods are lonely. Yes, they certainly are."

"Cheer up," laughed happy Uncle Lucky. "I'll give you a job. You can fasten on the sleds to the Lucky-mobile. Of course, you must first take off the wheels. You know how, I imagine."

"Yes, indeed. I once worked in a carriage factory," answered the old dog, with a wag of his tail. "I've put many a spoke in a hub and many a hoop 'round an old butter tub."

By and by, after the dear old gentleman bunny had looked over the Bunnybridge Bugle and smoked his cabbage leaf cigar, opened the morning mail and slipped into his purple cravat the big diamond horseshoe pin which he always locked in the iron safe in the corner of the sitting room every evening, he buttoned up his fur overcoat and hopped out to the garage with the Yellow Dog Tramp. The Old Red Rooster was up and about, taking good care to busy himself in the barn where it was dry and warm. He didn't like to walk in the snow because of a corn on his pinky toe,—the little yellow one, I mean.

"Well, the snowstorm came all right, all right," laughed merry Uncle Lucky, stamping his feet on the barn floor.

"Cock-a-doodle-do,
I wish I had a shoe
On my left fool and my right,
But I wouldn't want them tight," answered the Old Red Rooster.

"The Yellow Dog Tramp will unscrew the wheels and fasten on the little red sleds. Do you think the Lucky-mobile will stand still?" asked the funny old gentleman bunny with a wink at his feathered friend. And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Henry K. Hadley, the composer, whose assured rank in the musical world has just been further evidenced by his election to membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters, is a native of Somerville, Mass. For awhile he was prominent in Boston musical circles, but of late years he has made New York and vicinity his base of operations, with longer or shorter excursions into the national field. Thus, for several seasons he was conductor of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra. Mr. Hadley has been a prolific composer of songs and piano pieces, and has done work in chamber music and combined chorus and orchestra production. Of the several symphonies that he has composed, one has been rendered in Boston, by the Symphony orchestra of that city, and another. The Four Seasons, in 1902 won the Paderewski and New England Conservatory prizes for such works. In 1915 he won the $1000 Hinshaw Opera Prize with his opera Bianca.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

HOW YOUR NEWSPAPER'S PAPER IS MADE

Every person who buys a 24-page newspaper for two cents cuts out of the forests of the United States or Canada a block of wood two inches high, three inches wide and four inches long. With the help of a paper mill a cord of wood informs 3,600 people of the day's news.

"To convert that cord and millions more into newsprint man has created a huge mechanical silkworm which munches its way through piles of spruce and balsam logs instead of mulberry leaves, digests with chemicals instead of secretions, stores its product in concrete tanks instead of thin-walled sacks, and spins its white thread, which is twelve and a half feet wide, with a copper tonsure instead of a delicate membrane," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters at Washington, D. C.

"One plant produces in a single day, sufficient paper to supply one 24-page paper apiece to about 1,800,000 subscribers. A single day's output of this mill, unrolled on the countryside, would cover a 1,400 acre ranch.

"Rivers are the maidservants of the mechanical caterpillars that spin paper. They serve in three ways: as power and transportation and they supply water for pulp. Some modern mills use electricity exclusively. On the St. Maurice river's broad back are carried annually logs enough to make a raft four feet wide, four feet high and nearly 200 miles long, or nearly two-thirds of the river's total length, all to supply one mill's maw. At the river's edge are located water-pumps that would meet the needs of a city the size of Baltimore or Boston. The electric power from Shawinigan Falls used by this one mill would fill the daily requirement of Atlanta, Georgia or Omaha, Nebraska.

"Colossal machinery, capable of grasping the river's might, looms within the modern 'newsprint' mill. From great piles of pulp wood, clear of bark and cut to four-foot lengths, automatic conveyors bring logs to the grinding room. The principle of this room's task is simple—it is that of a pencil pushed with its long side against a whirling grindstone. But the grindstone of a paper mill looks like the wheel of a terrible juggernaut; it is solid sandstone five feet in diameter and nearly as broad on the face. Such stones are generally hitched in pairs on a axle whose cross-section is as big as a large pie plate. Batteries of huge, whirring electric motors drive the great stones. Each stone reduces to pulp 17 cords of wood a day. A full-flowing creek plays over every grinder constantly to carry away and cool the pulp.

"'Newsprint' cannot be made from wood alone, for this wood has no long fibers to hold like muscles when the metropolitan presses tear at the web. To three-fourths ground wood pulp must be added one-fourth 'sulphite.' Part of the logs received from storage yards go to a machine which chips them into inch-long pieces. These chips are packed into tanks 50 feet high. In another section of the mill sulphur from Louisiana, converted into sulphur dioxide gas, is filtered through a tank of limestone rock to get a solution of sulphur and lime. This also goes to the 'digester' holding the chips. Under pressure of steam the wood cooks for eight hours. When the tanks contents are discharged into the 'blow pit' beneath, the binding material of the wood has been dissolved and the long, natural fibers left. After thorough washing and screening it is fit to join the ground pulp and serve as muscles and tendons in the paper.

"Man has many ways of taking solids from liquids, such as freezing, evaporating, filtering and applying centrifugal action, but the transformation of a broth 99 per cent water to air dry 'newsprint' in 45 seconds is unique. Proper amounts of ground pulp and sulphite are slushed into a mixing box together with alum and blue color. The 'liquid paper' feeder is located at one end of a huge mass of machinery 250 feet long. Leaving the feeder tank in a cascade twelve and a half feet wide and half an inch deep, it falls on a belt of copper screening. As the screen moves swiftly along water falls through and is also pulled through by vacuum chambers.

"Under one's eyes a stream of broth running three times as fast as a man can walk changes to a wet sheet of pulp. This sheet swings across a gap, leaving the wire to land on a woolen blanket which, followed by cotton blankets, will carry it 300 feet to the other end of the room. On the way the blankets carry it between huge rolls that press out more water and wind it about 44 super-heated drums as big around as hogsheads, which rob the paper of still more water. After running it nearly 500 feet, in and about, all in 45 seconds, the gargantuan machine delivers the twelve and a half foot sheet air dry to the calenders. This set of polished steel rolls put on a finish.

"The starting of a paper machine holds all the thrills of those well-known dramas of industry, 'The Arrival of the Limited,' or 'Pouring Steel.' Like a railroad train, the paper machine starts on schedule. Ranging themselves alongside, the crew nervously rush final details. One hurriedly darns a 'run,' in the big copper screen belt. The man who watches the flow takes his place in a 'crow's nest.' Somewhere a powerful whistle lets go. The wire screen belt starts, gathers speed—faster, faster. A bare-foot man wearing brief trousers and an amputated shirt turns a compressed air hose on the steam-heated rolls and blankets still waiting motionless, to drive out any dust. Now the pulp river is falling on the wire belt but it goes on around and drops into a pit below.

"Near the 'dropping off' end of the wire belt a mounted compressed air nozzle slits the twelve and a half foot sheet of wet pulp four inches from the edge. 'Watch this!' a guide shouts above the din. Now the felt blanket, rollers and drums start. Both blanket and screen belts are running at 1000 feet per minute, with a six inch gap between. How to bridge the gap? An Horatio of the mills stands there gripping a compressed air gun instead of sword. The four inch strip is to be the thread. When it has made the jump the remaining twelve feet two inches will follow like sheep crossing a stream after a leader. Horatio turns the air gun on the strip, cuts it off and lifts it across to the spinning felt belt on a bed of air. If it piles up in the rolls other barefoot men with similar handy air hoses scoot it out of the way. When the thread is running free the cutting nozzle on the screen belt is moved across until the whole twelve and a half feet of wet pulp flies across the gap to its fate.

"To convert that block of spruce wood 2 inches by 3 inches by 4 inches into your newspaper, it has required enough electricity to light four 60-watt lamps one hour, nearly 3 pounds of steam, two-tenths of a pint of fuel oil, and 10 seconds of one man's labor. But it took, on an average, for all the production processes, only five one-hundredths of a second per 24 page paper, which is much quicker than a cat can wink its eye."

Max Agel of Burlington, Vt., known as the king of rum runners in Vermont, was sentenced to a year of hard labor in the House of Correction at Windsor and fined $500 in county court at Middlebury.

Stories That Recall Others

A Good Recommendation.

There are those who have an original way of expressing things they have to say. Jim is one of them. He was trying to convey to his lunch-cart friends that he did not consider a certain man a good salesman.

"That egg," snorted Jim. "Why, say, he couldn't sell sandwiches at a famine."

"Me, Too," Says Buddy.

It was in the dining room that a great American food received quite a setback, and this is how it came about.

Little Buddy and Betty, age 6 and 8, were eating their dinner by themselves, their mother and father having gone out with friends. The maid, of whom the children were quite fond, was removing the dishes when Betty interrupted. "See those potatoes?" she inquired.

"Yes," replied the maid, "but what of it?"

"Well," sighed Betty, "I just thought I'd tell you not to mention to mother that I didn't eat them." To which Buddy added, "Me, too."

An invitation to attend the celebration next June of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the city of Quincy, Mass., was presented to President Coolidge by Russell A. Sears of Boston.

FATE OF BELMONT RACING STABLES UNDETERMINED

New York, Dec. 17.—The will of August Belmont which was filed for probate at Mineola, Monday, leaves undetermined the fate of his racing stables, his breeding farm in Kentucky and his interests in the Belmont race track.

By many Mr. Belmont's racing properties were considered the most important in the country. He owned two horses, Ladkin and Ordinance, the value of which alone is estimated at $200,000-$100,000 each. The total value of horses in the stable is estimated at from $250,000 to $400,000.

The breeding farm at Babylon must be kept intact, under the terms of the will, during the life of Mrs. Belmont. Any other racing properties or interests may be disposed of at any time by the executors, or may be retained at their discretion.

Nothing in the will confirms a recent despatch from Lexington, Ky., according to which Raymond Belmont was to receive the Kentucky farm.

LOCAL ROTARIANS HEAR ADDRESS ON MIND HEALTH

The weekly luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club which was held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel and which was addressed by Cheney C. Jones, superintendent of the Boston Home for Little Wanderers was largely attended and the members of the Norwich Neuropsychiatric clinic were guests of the club, together with the Public Health Nurses and several of the local physicians.

Mr. Jones' talk was on "Mind Health" and dealt largely with the mental status of the child, the care that is given the child at the home and the method of correcting the child. He told of many cases that had come under his observation saying that many children had normal and some even brilliant minds but that their environments during their most impressionable age had given them a warped view of life. With proper care the larger percent of these cases can be cured and the children made to see things in a very different light. At the conclusion of Mr. Jones' most interesting talk he was given a hearty vote of appreciation.

DEFENDANT DENIES HE AGREED TO PAY PLAINTIFF WEEKLY SALARY

William F. McNeely, defendant in a $2,200 damage action brought against him by his sister, Mrs. Mary E. Robinson of East Great Plain, for services which she claims she rendered him and his mother and for which she has not been paid, testified in the superior court late Wednesday afternoon that he did not make any agreement to pay her $25 a week wages. He further testified that when the arrangements were made whereby Mrs. Robinson was to care for his mother and cook for him nothing was said about money. Trial of the case was started in the superior court Wednesday before Judge George E. Hinman and a jury. The jury was chosen as follows:

The plaintiff, Mrs. Mary Robinson, in the bill of particulars sets forth the following items: Food furnished to the defendant and the mother, at Mr. McNeely's request, from October 24, 1921 to December 26, 1921, nine weeks, at $10 a week; total $90; moving expenses on several occasions, $25; 30 yards of matting at 25 cents a yard, $7.50; two springs and mattresses, $30; to services acting as nurse and cooking, washing and general housework for the defendant and the mother, at his request from October 24, 1921, to April 3, 1923, at $100 per month, $1,850. The total of the claim is $2,010.50, with interest to be added at the rate of 6 per cent.

Attorney Henry H. Pettis is appearing for the plaintiff and Attorney Charles L. Stewart for the defendant. Mrs. Mary E. Robinson, the plantiff, was the first witness called to the stand. She is the wife of Frederick E. Robinson. She testified that the defendant (her brother) and her mother were living at No. 480 Boswell avenue. Mrs. McNeely having the life use of the property. She said that both she and her husband worked. Her husband earned about $30 a week while she did work at various places, receiving from $8 to $12 a week. Her husband was employed at the United States Finishing Company where the defendant was also employed.

She testified that one day her brother came over to where she was living on Laurel Hill and told her that both he and the mother were sick and asked her if she and her family wouldn't come over to their home, No. 480 Boswell avenue, and take care of both he and the mother.

Later, Mrs. Robinson testified, the defendant called on her again to learn her decision. She told him that they had decided not to go. Finally, she consented to go to the Boswell avenue house and look after the defendant and the mother but before moving in she testified she made an oral agreement with the defendant that she was to be paid $25 a week. The mother was about 75 years old, and was subject to heart attacks. She required much attention, Mrs. Robinson testified.

She testifeid that in March, 1923, she told the defendant that she could not stand the arrangements any longer and was going to move. However, she stayed six weeks more to take care of the mother who had a heart attack and was forced to remain in bed. After that she moved out and six months later her mother died. She testified that she had never received any money for her services.

Other witnesses for the plaintiff were Fred E. Robinson, Edward J. Brophy, Grace A. Mumford, Phoebe J. Wightman, Herbert B. Wightman, Caroline Shaw, Ada Mary Eaton and George H. Stanton.

The plaintiff rested at 3.22 o'clock after which testimony by the defense was taken up. The first witness for the defense was Joseph E. Portelance, and he was followed by Georgina Kimball and Margaret E. Ranger. Shortly after four o'clock the defendant, William F. McNeely took the stand.

He testified that during the period from October, 1921 to April, 1923, he was employed at the plant of the United States Finishing company and was making between $18 and $25 a week. He was then living with his mother at No. 480 Boswell avenue. He had lived with her since 1912. Defendant testified that he has one brother and five sisters, all married. He is single himself. His mother was between 73 and 75 years of age when she died. Defendant testified that at his mother's request he went to see Mrs. Robinson. He had heard that Mrs. Robinson was looking for a tenement.

Defendant told of the arrangements made with Mrs. Robinson whereby she was to take care of Mrs. McNeely and cook the defendants meals for him. He told of going back later to find out from Mrs. Robinson her decision regarding the matter.

In answer to a question as to whether he made any promise to pay her $25 a week the defendant said, "I did not." Nothing at all was said about paying her money, according to the defendant's testimony. Defendant said that Mrs. Robinson, his sister, went to his mother's house about two weeks later.

He testified that while Mrs. Robinson was living with them his mother did most of her own general housework. She had one serious illness in February, 1923 and was ill for five or six weeks. Mrs. Robinson was taking care of her in the day time, and he took care of her at night after his day's work. He had no assistance in caring for her at night. While Mrs. Robinson was living wit hthem, the defendant testified, she worked out at places on Laurel Hill. The Robinsons left the McNeely home in April, 1923, when they moved directly across the street. After Mrs. Robinson left the defendant and stated that he, with the aid of Miss Mary Shea, took care of Mrs. McNeely. Mrs. McNeely died Oct. 22, 1923.

At this point court was adjourned for the day to come in at 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning when the case will be resumed.

SAYS INFECTIONS ARE LESS IN COLD ROOM

Infections are less in a cold room, says the weekly health bulletin issued by the state department of health. The bulletin advocates 68 degrees as the ideal health temperature. It says:

"Keep your rooms in winter at a temperature of 68 degrees or as near it as possible, better less; never more.

"Air at a high temperature, around 75 degrees especially when it is moist, interferes with the normal loss of body heat. When air becomes excessively warm the body cannot lose heat to the surrounding air.

"Discomfort soon arises as a consequence of this interference with the normal loss of heat. A burden is thrown on the heat-regulating mechanism. An increase in the body temperature, in the rapidity of the heart rate, in the rate of breathing, and a fall in the general tone of the circulatory system follow. In fact, the responses of the body to any interference with its normal heat losing function are strikingly similar to those induced under conditions of fever.

"In addition to the discomfort brought on by overheating, this condition also reduces physical efficiency. Under cooler atmospheres experimental subjects were able to perform a larger amount of physical work than was performed in warmer air conditions. This finding seems to work out in practical experience, for when it is hot, one is less inclined to undertake or to continue any physical exertion, especially when one tends to become quickly overheated.

"Overheating causes other harmful effects. It induces a swelling of the membranes and structures in the nose. The mucous membrane becomes much redder and also more moist with nasal secretion. When the air passages are then exposed to rapidly moving cold air, the nasal membranes are rendered suddenly anemic. They become pale but still remain swollen.

"The normal lining of the nose acts as a defensive barrier against such bacteria as may be responsible for a cold in the head. The exposure of the nasal membranes to wide fluctuations of temperature causes a reaction that weakens the powers of defense of the membranes against the invasion of bacteria. Yet this is just the type of exposure which the membranes experience when one goes out doors from an overheated room on a cold, wintry day.

"Since an ordinary cold is likely to usher in a train of undesirable and dangerous after-effects, it would seem worthwhile to avoid this unhygienic and unnatural exposure of the nasal membranes first to immoderate heat and then to extreme cold."

Quoted from an article by Dr. Joseph Hertzstein, former secretary of the New York state commission on ventilation, "Ventilating Home, School and Workshop," appearing in the December Hygeia.

FEAST OF LIGHTS COMING NEXT WEEK

Chanukah, a minor festival of the Synagog, sometimes called the Feast of Lights, will be observed in Jewish circles, beginning Sunday evening, December 21st and for eight days thereafter.

With the Feast of Lights there is coupled an historical event, the Maccabean revolt which proved to be of supreme national importance to the people of Israel.

The years 168 and 165 B. C. E., were eventful in Palestine, even epochal. In those stirring years Antiochus Epiphanes, King of Syria, ambitious to unite all provinces of his domain into one nation, resorted to the crude method of compelling all his subject peoples to use one language and worship in one established and certified religious ceremonial, namely, the polytheistic ritualism of his model, the Greeks.

The enforcement of this royal decree was mandatory on all peoples including the Jews. The Temple of Jerusalem was defiled by the erection of altars where idols were worshipped and Greek religious practices introduced not only hostile to the sensibilities of the Jewish people but regarded by them as abominations which had been uprooted from their religious many centuries before the Syrian tyrant plotted to restore them.

The enforcement of these idolatrous ceremonials, coupled with intense oppression, geraminated hatred in the hearts of the Jewish people of Palestine which burst into a revolt and instantly led to war against the mad despot of Syria.

This insurrection was instigated by Mattathias, a priest of Modin, who rallied his countrymen around him him and defied the King of Syria to force them to bend the knee before an image made by man instead of the one and only Creator who made heaven and earth.

Sustained by his son Judah, called the Maccabee, and his four heroic brothers, the mighty armies of Syria were defeated after successive campaigns covering a period of four years.

The final victory of the Maccabean armies over all the hosts of Syria happened according to the Hebrew calendar on the 25th of Kisley, which corresponds to the month of December, in the year 165 B. C. On this eventful day the various images and ritual paraphernalia brought into the Temple at Jerusalem were removed and the altar rededicated to the worship of the God of Israel who is the symbol of truth and justice, love and mercy.

Many legends have been preserved in post-Biblical literature concerning Chanukah. The martyrdom of Hannah and her seven sons is the most popular. This story relates the heroism of a devoted mother who, rather than submit to the defilements of pagan worship on the part of her sons and herself, is finally put to death together with her sons.

All stories, however, recount the loyalty of the people of Israel to their religious heritage and awaken in the hearts of their modern descendants a consciousness of the ultimate triumph of righteousness over the aggression of tyranny and might. That man does not prevail by the exercise of might but by the spirit of God working for justice and fair play is the keynote of the feast as celebrated today in Jewish homes and schools and synagogues.

AMERICAN LEAGUE OWNERS REBUKE JOHNSON FOR CRITICIZING LANDIS

Chicago, Dec. 17.—(By The A. P.)—Byron Bancroft Johnson, founder and president of the American League since its inception 23 years ago, tonight was partly stripped of his power in organized baseball and threatened with deposition.

The club owners of the American League, meeting in joint session with the eight club owners of the National League, pledged to Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, at a salary of $50,000 a year that President Johnson would be removed from office if he did not immediately cease what was termed his "misconduct" meaning criticism of Landis' administration.

The following was the communication, addressed to Commissioner Landis, which was presented to the joint major league meeting by Colonel Jacob Ruppert, of the New York American League club:

"We recognize that conditions have arisen that are gravely harmful to baseball and that must be intolerable to you and that these conditions have been created by the activities of the president of the American League.

"While you were dealing promptly and efficiently with a most deplorable exception to baseball's honorable record, our president sought to discredit your action and to cast suspicion upon the 1924 world series.

"One year ago you made known to us in his presence various of his activities and it was our expectation and hope that the unanimous action then taken certainly would operate as a corrective but in this expectation and hope we have been disappointed.

"We do not extenuate these things or question their harmful effect on baseball. However, he has been president of our league since its inception and we ask you to again overlook his conduct and accept from us these guarantees:

"First, That his misconduct will cease or his immediate removal from office will follow.

"Second, That legislation will be adopted that will limit his activities to the internal affairs of the American League.

"Third, That any and all measures which you may deem advisable to secure the above will be adopted.

"As expressing our attitude toward your administration of the commissioner's office, we tender you herewith a copy of the resolution unanimously adopted by the American League, at its annual meeting in New York, December 10, 1924.

"(Signed.)

"THOMAS S. SHIBE, Philadelphia.
"CLARK C. GRIFFITH, Washington.
"ROBERT QUINN, Boston,
"CHARLES A. COMISKY, Chicago.
"E. S. BARNARD, Cleveland,
"JACOB RUPPERT, New York,
"FRANK J. NAVIN, Detroit."

The American league owners also removed Johnson from membership on the baseball advisory council and guaranteed to Landis that legislation would be adopted to limit Johnson's activities in the internal affairs of the American league. In addition they pledged that they would sanction any measures which Commissioner Landis thought advisable, including the removal of Johnson, if necessary.

This startling action, resulting after a series of secret meetings in which American leaguers participated during the day, exploded like a bombshell in the ranks of organized baseball.

The American league club owners, after a peace committee had twice conferred with Commissioner Landis, held a meeting at which the letter publicly denouncing Johnson for his criticism of Commissioner Landis' administration was drawn up, signed by all of the club owners excepting St. Louis, and later presented to Landis for adoption at the joint session.

Johnson Quits the Conference.

President Johnson, after a conference with his club owners prior to the joint meeting, suddenly left the hotel without announcing his destination and was not in attendance when the rebuke of his attacks on the commissioner was presented.

The action of the American league club owners in publicly denouncing Johnson for his attacks on Landis and his administration was regarded as a sweeping triumph for the commissioner, who since the scandal involving Cozy Dolan and Jimmie O'Connell of the Giants, before the 1924 world's series, has been severely criticized by Johnson.

Johnson, after Landis banished Dolan and O'Connell from organized baseball, referred to the commissioner as a "wild eyed crazy nut," and also said Landis should have called off the 1924 world's series because of the scandal on the eve of the baseball classic.

Landis made no reply to this criticism, keeping silent as he carried on his investigation of baseball crookedness and ordered the world's series played with O'Connell, substitute outfielder of the Giants, out of the line-up.

Navin Elected to Council.

The American leaguers, after proposing an amendment to the major league agreement removing Johnson from membership on the advisory council, elected Frank J. Navin of the Detroit club as his successor.

When the advisory council was created after the national commission passed out of existence it was composed of Commissioner Landis, John A. Heydler, president of the National league, and President Johnson of the American league. Under the terms of this agreement it was provided that its membership should be made up of the two major league presidents and the commissioner.

The amendment to this agreement changed it to provide that any club president could be elected to membership on the advisory council by a majority vote of its league members, in the event the league president is not chosen to serve.

The letter from the American league club owners to Landis guaranteed that legislation would be adopted that if Landis did not approve of Johnson's conduct in the future, the American leaguers would adopt any and all measures that Commissioner Landis considered advisable.

The letter further declared that conditions created by President Johnson were intolerable to Landis and gravely harmful to baseball and that Johnson sought to cast suspicion on the 1924 worlds series and discredit Landis' action in dealing with the crookedness.

The communication to Landis was the outgrowth of the American league peace committee composed of Thomas S. Shibe of the Philadelphia club, Colonel Ruppert of the New York Yankees and E. S. Barnard of the Cleveland club, and their efforts to effect a reconciliation between Johnson and Landis.

This committee conferred with Landis before noon and evidently failed in its efforts to close the breach. Landis instructed them to return to their American league associates, carrying with them his suggestions to the proposals they had submitted to him.

After a second conference after noon, the announcement was made that the joint session originally scheduled for 11 a. m., and four times postponed, would be held at 3 p. m. They finally went into session at 3.30 p. m., and after nearly three hours of deliberations newspapermen were called.

Landis Only Smiles.

Commissioner Landis, smiling broadly, gave no hint of what action had been taken, referring his interviewers to his secretary, who began reading the communication from the American league club owners.

When the reading was finished Landis, still smiling, refused to make any comment, except to say this:

"I have nothing to say. The letter speaks for itself."

After disposing of the Johnson issue American and National league club owners adopted many minor resolutions. Commissioner Landis was permitted to grant to players the right to play exhibition games on Armistice day, provided the games were for charity.

A request of the umpires for increased compensation for officiating in a world's series was referred to the commission for final action.

Johnson's Salary is $30,000.

The proposal of Charles Ebbets of the Brooklyn Nationals that opening games of the world's series be held in National league parks one year and American league parks the next, instead of deciding the issue by the flip of a coin, was tabled for consideration at the spring schedule meetings. President Johnson is under a 20-year contract at a salary of $30,000 a year. His term of office does not expire until 1930. He was elected in 1910 for the 20-year period, at an increase in salary, after serving as president of the league he founded with the co-operation of Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, for almost a decade.

SOUTHPAW HURLERS SHOW THEIR WORTH IN MAJORS

Reasons why the major league managers are willing to try any kind of a southpaw may be found in the pitching averages of the American league, which for the first time in many years show that the so-called lack of control on the part of the portsiders is a myth. They also show that in point of effectiveness the old southpaw pitchers are equaling the great right hand moundsmen.

The American league, generally a step or as in advance of the senior circuit in matters of this kind, has combed the minor leagues for southpaws even going to the extent of grabbing the 40-year-old Vean Gregg from the Pacific Coast league to do mound duty at the national capital with the world champion Washington team.

Cleveland is angling hard to get Jess Petty, star portsider of the Indianapolis club, who won 29 games last season for the Indians. Two of Tris Speakers young players already have gone to the American association in what is believed to be the first payment for the crack portsider, who also no longer is a toiling youth. Washington, too, is seeking this player, fearing that the veteran Vean Gregg may crack under the strain.

The fact that major league managers take players of advanced years and experience is explained by Manager Clark Griffith as showing that big league clubs build only for the present nowadays, and if they can get a seasoned southpaw good perhaps only for a year they will have been amply repaid.

Mack Cracks Purchase Price

How valuable southpaws are may be gained from the announcement of Connie Mack that he parted with $100,000, a record price for a pitcher in the Johnson circuit. Groves is the man for whose services Mack paid such a great sum, because of his outstanding work on the mound for four seasons with Baltimore. While no marvel at control Groves' feats of fanning opposing batsmen remind fans of Rube Waddell, the king of southpaws.

Joe Pate, a veteran left hander of the Texas league, pitched the Fort Worth club to a flag last season and turned round and won enough games from the champion Memphis team of the Southern association to insure the Lone Star club the Dixie title. Ty Cobb said that he would like to make a place on the Detroit club for this veteran and told him that if he had come to Detroit last season the Tigers would have won the pennant.

Boston is going to give Lefty Fuhr another trial next season, as the Boston club is badly handicapped for southpaws. Fuhr pitched a couple of god games for the Red Sox last season, but went bad. He says illness, from which he is now entirely recovered, kept him from doing his best.

Big Ten of Johnson Loop

A statistically inclined writer in comparing the efforts of the first 10 right hand pitchers with the first 10 southpaws of last season in the American league, discovered that for control the southsiders seemed to have the best of it. The right handers walked 810 batters, hit 73 men and cut loose 32 wild pitches. The southpaws passed only 669 men, hit 51 and chucked 20 wild pitches.

On last seasons record it would seem that a right hand pitcher walked a batter about every three innings and the southpaws one every four innings. In point of earned runs per inning the edge is slightly in favor of the right handers, who permitted 3.45, as against 3.60 for the portsiders.

CHAPMAN TECH WINS EASILY FROM MADISON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 17.—Chapman Tech found Madison High no match for their basketball experience and as the result of the meeting of the two teams here last night at the school auditorium, the wearers of the Red and Black gained a 37 to 23 victory over the Valley quintet. With the exception of the third quarter, Chapman Tech completely outclassed the visiting team.

Deviating from the five-man defense in the second half, brought better results for the visitors in keeping down the score of the Tech machine in this quarter even though their team score did not hit any high mark in this same period. But with the fourth quarter, Chapman Tech began its offensive drives more fruitfully and this period with the first period netted Chapman Tech their largest scores of the evening. But then the low scores in the second and third quarters was due mainly to the fact that several combinations were tried in an endeavor to bring about a producing quintet.

Both teams scored with reckless abandon in the final quarter, and Madison scored more in this quarter than the entire total of the other three quarters.

Bernie Hewitt for Chapman Tech led his team in scoring with seven goals from the field and three baskets from the foul line. Parker for the visitors led his team in scoring.

EASTERN LEAGUE CUTS PLAYER LIMIT TO 15

Waterbury, Dec. 17.—Adhering to its avowed intention of enforcing economy through the Eastern league this season, the club owners of the loop assembled at the Elton here yesterday in their annual meeting, voted to make the player limit 15, exclusive of the manager, to limit each club to two optional players and to make each club carry two players who have had less than 180 innings of class A or higher baseball.

Last season the clubs were allowed 16 players, exclusive of manager and the number of optional players appeared to be limitless on some of the teams in the circuit. The league will open April 22 and will close September 20, playing 154 games. The opening date is practically the same as last year's, but the closing is delayed a week, in order to eliminate the week of double headers which cluttered the schedule before the teams opened the campaign last year.

YALE HOOPSTERS WILL NOT MAKE WESTERN TOUR

Fourteen men will be taken on the trip, it was announced tonight. They are Captain Luman, Sulsman, Clark, Brady, Simmon, Giblin, Carmody, Coleman, Hall, Reilly, Coach Fogarty, Manager Tibbs, Assistant Manager J. B. Davis and Walter Maos, treainer.

SHOCKER GOES TO YANKEES IN TRADE FOR JOE BUSH, GASTON AND GIRARD

New York, Dec. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The deal by which Urban Shocker, veteran St. Louis spit-ball pitcher, was traded today to the New York Yankees in exchange for "Bullet Joe" Bush and two rookie twirlers, not only ranks among the outstanding player transactions of the winter season but involves the transfer of two of the American league's most prominent boxmen. Along with Bush, the Yankees sent Milton Gaston, former semi-pro star, and Joseph Giard, obtained from Toledo, to the Browns. No cash was involved, according to announcement by the Yankee management.

The deal, which has been hanging fire ever since the Hartford convention, was consummated today at Chicago by Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees and Miller Huggins, manager, with George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis club. The Yankee bid was accepted by Sisler after proposals from Washington, Chicago and Boston had been considered by the St. Louis pilot.

It brings back to the Yankee fold a pitcher, whose effectiveness, especially against the Yankees, has been an important factor in keeping the St. Louis club in the running during the last five years. Shocker was a member of the New York club in 1916 and 1917, going to the Browns at the close of the 1917 season in the deal which brought Derrill Pratt and Eddie Plank to the Yankees. The latter, however, quit baseball without reporting to the Yanks.

Bush, a former member of Connie Mack's Philadelphia world's champions, saw service in Boston after his years with the Athletics, coming to the Yankees in 1922. He deported from Philadelphia when Mack broke up his team in the deal which sent Schang and Strunk with him to Boston for Thomas, Kopp and Gregg and a reported price of $60,000.

Bush came to the Yankees in 1922 with Sam Jones and Everett Scott in exchange for Roger Peckinpaugh, Bill Piercy, Jack Quinn and Rip Collins.

In age and experience there is little to choose between Shocker and Bush. The latter broke into major league baseball in 1913 with the Philadelphia Athletics after a year with the Missoula club of the Union association. He is 31 years of age, bats and throws right handed and is considered one of the best hitting pitchers in the American league. Shocker is 33 years of age, bats and throws right handed. He broke into the big leagues with New York in 1916 after three years with the Ottawa club of the Canadian league.

According to the official averages, Bush was slightly more effective last season than Shocker. Bush won 17 and lost 16 games and allowed 3.57 earned runs per game as compared to Shocker's mark of 4.18 runs per game although he won 16 and lost 13 games. Bush has played in five world's championships, two with Philadelphia and New York and one with Boston.

PLAINFIELD HIGH OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, Dec. 17.—Plainfield High opened their basketball season here Thursday evening by defeating the fast Woodstock Academy quintet by a close score of 21 to 15.

The game was very fastly played with Woodstock getting the best of the fray in the first half due to their wonderful passwork and five men defense. The score at half time was 7 to 4 with Plainfield on the short end.

The second half opened with a rush, Woodstock scoring two field goals but Plainfield tightened up her defense and started her first real offensive of the game. The score gradually drew closer and at three-quarter's time the count was fifteen all.

The start of the last quarter was very fast. Neither side being able to penetrate the other's defense. With about three minutes to play, Plainfield, with a burst of wonderful speed, scored three field goals in quick succession. This ended the scoring. Both teams played a wonderful game with each having their brilliant burst of speed which helps to keep spectators on edge. For the Plainfield team no one can be selected for any special praise as all played a sterling game. For Woodstock, W. Anderson was the shining light for his team.

BULKELEY PLAYERS TO BE PUBLICLY AWARDED LETTERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Dec. 17.—Formal presentation of the letter B to fifteen members of the Bulkeley High school football team will be made in the school auditorium at a special assembly which has been arranged for that purpose. Besides the awarding of letters at this assembly, an elaborate program will follow the presentation of the letters.

Among the special speakers for the occasion, Bulkeley is fortunate enough to secure the services of Franklin E. Pierce, state supervisor of high schools who will award the letters to those deserving them. Besides awarding the school letter, he will also speak briefly on a subject which has not been decided on as yet.

Besides Manager Herbert M. Fern, the remaining fifteen players who will receive their letter are as follows: Captain George H. Sheflott, Walter Rice, Edward Collins, Edward R. Henkle, Jeremiah Dillon, Alexander Brown, Horace Wilson, Walter J. Barry, Harold Hutchison, Joseph Watterson, Buck Gavitt Tillotson Daniels, Carl Graves, James Latham and captain elect Thomas Davis.

A brief review of the football season will be made by Edward R. Henkle, quarterback on the eleven. In speaking about the Bulkeley football team, Edward Henkle will mention the fact that the best team to ever represent the local school on the grid iron was the eleven members which made up the team of 1924. Henkles resume of the season is expected to revive pleasant memories of the football season to the many Bulkeley followers as well as the players themselves.

Chapman Tech vs. Plainfield.

After having successfully defeated Woodstock Academy, the Plainfield High team will take on the fast Chapman Tech Quintet, last year's Eastern Connecticut champions. The basketball spirit is at its height in the little town of Plainfield because when these two teams clash, there is always a good game to be expected and as both teams are playing a wonderful game, a fast and wonderful variety of basketball is expected. Last year's clash between these two teams ended in a victory for each team on its representative floor. Chapman Tech has in Hewitt and Andrews, a wonderful pair of forwards but the Plainfield team is expecting to offset this by their strong defense which showed its mettle in the Woodstock game.

This is one of Plainfield's objective games of the year and the squad has been having plenty of practice sessions in preparation for this contest which should be very gruelling as both teams are evenly matched. Plainfield will have its regular lineup as started against the Woodstock team. The student body feels confident of winning their second game of the season against one of the fastest teams in the state.

GOOD BOUT EXPECTED BETWEEN THOMAS AND ROBINSON AT DANIELSON TONIGHT

Danielson, Dec. 17.—George Robinson and Battling Thomas, dusky battlers of Greater Boston, are to meet each other in the main bout at the Casino Arena here this (Thursday) evening. They are to weight in at 165-168 pounds and are scheduled to go eight rounds.

On the records, these men should give the boxing fans such a thrill as they have not experienced in a blue moon at a bout in these parts. Thomas came down here from Boston last month and gave Baltimore Joe Gans of Norwich as nifty a trimming as can be handed to a man in the time he took to do it, and that just naturally set Promoter Frank Barber to looking around for a man that could make Thomas step. Without doubt he has located that person in George Robinson, rated as one of the five best colored fighters of his weight in these United States.

Robinson and Thomas are not strangers in the ring. They had it out at Bath, Me., two years ago and Robinson won the decision, though he has admitted within the past two weeks that it was one of the hottest sessions he has become involved in during his ring experience. Thomas has learned a lot since then and this will not operate to his disadvantage when he climbs through the ropes here this evening to take on Georgie, who cares not how much they know or how hard they can hit. Tonight's session between the pair should be a wow!

Robinson has beaten such men as Johnny Wilson, Tommy Robson of Malden, the Jamaica Kid, Panama Joe Gans and many others of the leaders in his class and is now matched to meet Tiger Flowers, newest of the colored stars in light-heavyweight firmament. Robinson rates a topnotcher.

Thomas gave the fans at the November meet here a line on what he can do. He is a regular boring machine and just naturally hates to take a step backward. He takes a wallop with as little concern as a xylophone absorbs a hammer tap. That boy just seems to love the ring game. He has an impressive record of victories and around Boston is rated as a very able performer.

In the semi-final tonight Young Pelky, a favorite with the fans here, will be on hand from Worcester to meet Honey Gil Wagner, the fighting farmer who hails from Hartford. They are to weigh between 165 and 168 this afternoon at 3 o'clock and when they step into the ring will be scheduled to go eight rounds. Maybe they will do it. Maybe not. Wagner is the lad that socked Sailor Andre one on the button at the town hall here a little more than a year ago and spun him out of the ring into the laps of ringside spectators. Andre promptly came back and returned the compliment to Wagner, who did not come back—not that night. Pelkey and Wagner should make a great bout. They both have peculiar styles of milling and that should help make their bout interesting. They both like action.

In the preliminaries tonight Young Baker of Sterling will meet Bill Wall, the Worcester boy who recently won the 130 pound class amateur championship in a series of bouts held in his home city. Tonight's appearance here will be his second as a professional. He should be a good opponent for Baker, who is a young boxer of much ability and promise.

Buck Shea and Jackie Serge, respectively of Colchester and Hartford, will have it out again tonight. When they met here Shea won a hard earned decision over the Hartford boy. Tonight they will weigh in at 118 pounds, so should be stronger for the six round route than they were at their last engagement here.

Promoter Frank Barber said Wednesday afternoon that every indications points to tonight's card drawing the largest attendance ever at the new Casino.

They will mark the first appearance of the English team in this country, Chairman Cuddy said, adding that the British boxers will come here directly on their arrival in this country, appearing elsewhere probably after the Boston matches. The American team probably will not be selected until the middle of January, he said. Whether the British boxers will stay over for the national amateur championships here in April is still uncertain.

Since the war golf has been steadily growing in popularity in Belgium and Spain and there are signs it is making an appeal to the Italians.

The first skates were made by the Hollanders and Scandinavians from the shank bones of deer and sheep. These were kept greased to prevent water and snow from freezing to them.

Golf was first introduced in France in 1856, when the course at Pau was made. Then followed the links at Biarritz and Cannes. Today there are facilities for play in all parts of the country.

Little is known of modern golf architecture in Australia, and green committees of golf clubs have, in most instances, assumed the roles of architects and contractors, guided considerably by the skill of professional golfers and greenkeepers. The game, however, has become vastly popular throughout the commonwealth.

A number of Westerly merchants have been approached recently with a proposition for a more active association which will include a paid secretary or administrative executive, with a progressive and intensive advertising and publicity campaign with especial emphasis on the attractiveness of Westerly shore resorts. Facts and figures of a comparative nature to bear out statements will undoubtedly be offered and comparisons drawn with other communities which have been successful in carrying on work of this character. AXEL DAHL, NEW LONDON WATCHMAN SUICIDES, MOURNING DEAD WIFE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Dec. 17.—Despondent over the death of his wife, three months ago, Axel Dahl, 65, employed several years as night watchman at the plant of the Standard Oil Company of New York, ended his life at his home, 33 Eighth street this noon, sending a bullet from a 33 calibre revolver through his brain. Dahl's lifeless body was found a short time after the commission of his act by his daughters, Miss Emma Dahl, with whom he resided and by Mrs. Henry J. Sullivan, residing at 29 Eighth street.

Dahl had appeared melancholy and despondent ever since his wife passed away and had repeatedly declared that he would shortly follow Mrs. Dahl to the grave. Members of the family did not take the threats seriously.

Dahl returned from work about 7 o'clock this morning and apparently was in good spirits, for there was nothing about his demeanor that would indicate that he was morose or despondent. About 11.30 o'clock Miss Dahl left the house and went to the home of her sister. Hardly had Miss Dahl left when her father went to the pantry and stood before a mirror. Pulling his revolver from his pocket, Dahl placed the barrel of the weapon against the middle of his forehead and pulling the trigger sent the bullet into his brain. The bullet plowed its way completely through the brain, emerging at the back of his head. Dahl collapsed, the lower part of his body falling into the room where his wife had passed away and the upper part resting just across the pantry threshold. Miss Dahl returned home shortly after noon and finding the body of her father ran to the home of her sister and told the latter. The two young women found their father in a pool of blood, the revolver lying close to the body. The police were notified, as was Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman. The latter conducted an investigation and gave permission for the removal of the body to an undertaking establishment.

S. J. Ellick, chief burgess, Humeville, Pa., today communicated with the New London police, requesting that Harry Schoenfield, a sailor stationed on the U. S. S. Cassin be taken into custody. Sergeant John Cavanaugh, who was assigned to the case, visited the state pier where the Cassin is moored and found that Schoenfield is being given a general court martial, which trial will occupy from five days to three weeks. When the case is disposed of Schoenfield will be delivered to the civil authorities, provided the authorities of Humeville forward a warrant for the arrest of the sailor.

About 150 members of the Northwest Hose company, together with a score of guests, including members of the city council, assembled at the banquet of the company last night at the company's quarters, Brainard street. Attorney Arthur B. Calkins was toastmaster and among the speakers heard were City Manager William A. Holt, foreman of the company a number of years and Councilor Malcolm McScott, who was at the head of the company for several years. Following the turkey supper, the members and their guests spent several hours in a social manner.

Artemus Gunahl, the Springfield flour salesman, whose automobile was stolen in this city a few days ago, admitted that though he had been coming to New London several years he never had his machine in a garage that it might be safely housed over night. He said the expense was what deterred him, but he did not take into consideration the risk he was running with his car locked and the wheels chained so that the auto could not be moved. In the event of fire Mr. Gunahl would, probably have a badly damaged car to claim his attention. Stories of automobilists have the same notions as Mr. Gunahl and do not patronize the garages. The streets about the center of the city provide a parking place for automobiles nightly, for an ordinance allows the cars to remain 12 consecutive hours.

There is considerable fault-finding because the ferry boat that plies between New London and Groton has abandoned Sunday morning trips. The patrons of the boat claim the ferry line is a street, in all senses of the word "street" and tha it should be treated as such. The city would not think of closing a street because there was some expense attached to the use of it. There is expense attending the use of every street in the city, but that expense is met by the taxpayers and they do not designate any particular street that shall be singled out for disuse. The abridgment of ferry service is declared to be the smallest sort of cutting off of expense.

The funeral of Miss Lucretia Jerome was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her residence, 258 Huntington street, and was attended by relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. The bearers were Charles Ogden, this city, and Frank Alexander, Lawrence Jerome, Prentice Alexander, Lawrence Perry and Benjamin Jerome, of Waterford. Burial was in the family plot in Union cemetery, Waterford.

Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, stationed at State and Main streets, was taken ill at his post. He went to his home where he must probably remain for several days.

Albert Banzero, U. S. S. Cassin, and Otto Bentz, U. S. S. Downes, patients at Lawrence hospital returned to their respective ships at the state pier this afternoon.

The New Haven police late this afternoon requested the New London authorities to be on the lookout for an automobile stolen from the former city. The car is a 1924 model Franklin coupe, registry number, 8418.

The storage at the customs house here has been relieved of approximately $100,000 worth of rye and Scotch whiskies and champagne, for yesterday the launch Pocomoke, hailing from Philadelphia, and which was captured several days ago 35 miles of Block Island, with about 1,000 cases of champagne, conveyed her own cargo, together with several hundred cases of whiskey, to New Haven, where the liquor was placed in storage. The transfer of the champagne and liquor was brought about because the storage rooms at the customs house are filled to capacity with contraband liquor. By removing a portion of the wet goods additional storage space is provided should another rum craft be seized.

Miss Evelyn Kaplan, of Mountain avenue; Hadley Larrabee, Huntington street; Mrs. Earle Gavitt, and infant daughter, Westerly; John Eldridge, Montauk avenue; Mrs. L. Frank Morgan, Williams street; Abraham Trustman, School street, and Ellsworth Williams, Rosemary street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

At the annual meeting of Brainard Lodge Masonic corporation, held last night, Carey Congdon was re-elected president for the ensuing year.

The New London police late this afternoon unearthed a small sized arsenal when they discovered 1500 rounds of ammunition, all 45-calibre cartridges, secreted upon the grounds of the Connecticut College for Women. The ammunition was taken charge of and placed in storage by the police.

The ammunition is property of the state of Connecticut and was stolen, together with 6,000 rounds of ammunition, from the shooting range used by state troopers and located on the grounds of the college and close to the tracks of the Central Vermont railroad. No report of the theft was made to the police, but shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon Patrolman William Graham observed two boys with cartridges. The officer questioned the youths, who stated that they had additional ammunition at their home. Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Graham accompanied the boys home, where numerous cartridges were recovered. The boys then led the officers to a ledge at the edge of the college grounds and close to the railroad tracks where boxes containing the 1500 rounds of ammunition was found buried.

Daniel S. Marsh Jr., of Bellevue place, and Edgar T. Thomas, State street, have returned to New London, having spent several weeks in North Carolina in search of game.

Joseph Pereira, a Portuguese, and a stranger to the police, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolmen William Graham and Dennis Murphy, charged with violation of the liquor law. The accused was locked up in default of securing a surety on his bond of $1,000 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. The officers seized a five-gallon can of alcohol, a gallon glass container, partially filled with alcohol and several small bottles of white mule, and drinking glasses as evidence against Pereira. Besides the seized evidence, the police have two distinct and separate sales by Pereira.

Pereira, less than a week ago, hired a tenement in the building, 25 Douglass street, and immediately started to engage in the liquor business, dispensing alcohol, cut down, by the drink and by the bottle. The police received information that the business was being conducted at the place and this afternoon Patrolman Dennis Murphy and a stool pigeon entered the place and purchased two rounds of drinks from Pereira. After the sale had been made, Sergeant Smith and Patrolman Graham, who had been in waiting were signalled to the place, and after the officers had procured a search warrant. The room used by Pereira was searched, the evidence of the conduct of a drinking place was seized and Pereira was taken into custody.

The Nicque Rod and Reel club, located in Waterford, which organization comprises among its members, P. LeRoy Harwood, treasurer of the Mariners Savings bank; Edward C. Hammond, wealthy Waterford resident; R. A. Brubeck and J. Warren Gay, New London businessmen, is appropriately named, for this evening in the Waterford town court, the treasury of the organization was "niked" $115.

The club maintains a cozy lodge on the Oil Hill road, Waterford, and recently a sign was placed at the entrance to the club's grounds and signed by Mr. Brubeck as president, that a reward of $100 would be paid for the conviction of anyone found trespassing or fishing upon the property. Constable John Malona Jr., observed the sign a few days ago, and then paid a visit to Mr. Brubeck, making inquiry of the president if the wording of the sign meant all that it implied. Mr. Brubeck stated that such was the case and that the reward would be paid to anyone convicted of fishing from the brooks of the property or trespassing upon the club's land. Monday afternoon Constable Malona observed William Neff, about 22, on the club's land and placed him under arrest as a trespasser. Neff was ordered to appear before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton this evening and answer to the charge of trespass. This Neff did and pleaded guilty of the charge. With the imposing of the sentence, $1 and costs of $14, Mr. Brubeck paid the fine of the accused and assured Constable Malona that the reward would be forwarded the officer in the form of a check within a few days, but Mr. Brubeck also requested Constable Malona to refrain from making additional arrests until such time as Constable Malona was communicated with by President Brubeck.

Anthony Koslawski, of Brown street, Jewett City, operated the automobile, owned by Bronick Kulas, Phillips street, Jewett City, in New London, Nov. 5, last, which car, it was believed struck and seriously injured Mrs. Florine Dow, wife of Charles Dow, on Green street, near the corner of Golden street, the driver then speeding away, leaving the woman in the highway. The accused was in New London today and was in conference with Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin. Koslawski declared that he was not in the central part of the city with the car the day that Mrs. Dow was struck and that he was only in the vicinity of Williams street and Mohegan avenue.

Alfred E. Osborne, 51, laborer, of Mystic, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, suffering from a fractured skull among other injuries which he sustained last night on Stanton Hill, Mystic, by being struck by an unidentified automobile. Besides the fractured skull, Osborne is injured internally and has a fractured shoulder. Osborne was found in the highway by occupants of a Rhode Island automobile. After residents in the section where Osborne was found were notified, the men was examined by a physician and was transferred to the local institution. The state police, who have been investigating the case, have been unsuccessful in obtaining clues that would lead to identifying the automobile that struck Osborne.

CONSTIPATION OVERCOME

The use of Foley Cathartic Tablets will bring speedy relief from constipation if taken promptly. They are purely vegetable and act on the liver. Mr. John D. McComb, Lucas Co. TO REPAY FEDERAL TAXES ILLEGALLY COLLECTED

Washington, Dec. 17—An appropriation of $50,000,000 to be used in repayment of federal taxes illegally collected was requested of congress today by the treasury.

Secretary Mellon estimated that between November 1, last, and June 30, 1926, claims to the amount of $94,000,000, in addition to those already adjusted, would be allowed for payment.

There is no hope for the man who refuses to let his friends lend him money.

CLAIMS RECORD FOR WHOLESALE MURDERS

Hannover, Germany, Dec. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Fritz Haarmann, on trial for the murder of more than a score of young men, although inferior mentally is not irresponsible under the definition of the law, according to the unanimous testimony of three alienists at the trial today.

From the testimony of the physicians, the attorneys stated that the issue seemed to devolve upon whether Haarmann's crimes could be construed as murder in the first degree or only manslaughter. Despite the defendant's alleged confession to 22 slayings, it was said that evidence of premeditation appeared difficult to establish. Haarman claiming that in the perpetration of the crimes he was in a state of abnormal excitement.

"Taarmann rejoices in a possible beheading as though it were his own wedding. He wants a big monument erected over his grave with an inscription testifying to his breaking the world's record for wholesale murders. During one of my interviews with him he told me: 'I am now a famous man; the whole world talks about me.'"

Ledard, president general of St. Jean Baptiste society, presided at the ceremony. He was assisted by officers of neighboring councils.

The degree team of Council Ste Cecile, of Willimantic, composed of 18 well trained young girls, directed with great skill the work of the initiation. After this ceremony the team gave a drill and exhibition which was appreciated by everyone present. In connection with the community Christmas tree Dec. 24th in Mystic, one of the carols will be Silent Night. Probably no carol is so universally known, loved and sung as this simple German song. For years it origin was unknown, but was supposed to date back centuries. A few years ago Ludwig Erk investigated and found that it was produced in 1818. The poem was written by Joseph Mohr, at the time assistant priest in Obernorf. The melody was composed by Franz Gruber, a schoolmaster. On Christmas eve of that year it was sung in the church at Obernorf. The poet, who had a tenor voice, sang the melody, the composer, the bass, sang a second part, and a hastily recruited choir of young women the refrain. A guitar furnished the accompaniment, the organ being out of order. Twenty years or so later a family of strolling singers from the Tyrol added it to their repertoire and in 1840 it was printed in Leipsic as a "genuine Tyrolean" song. For many years (and still in certain song books) the composer of the song was given as Joseph Hayden, probably meaning the great Franz Joseph Hayden.

A touching description of the effect of this song is given in Zona Gale's short story, "A Great Tree." Certainly nothing more quickly gives the spiritual atmosphere of the manger birth than the singing of this beautiful, simple song.

The meeting of Mystic grange is to be held this (Thursday) evening.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONG

New York, Dec. 17.—With speculative imagination fired by reports of forthcoming railroad mergers, involving some of the large eastern and western systems, stock prices today resumed their march to higher ground on an enormous volume of trading, the day's sales again aggregating nearly two million shares.

Both the rail and industrial averages were elevated to new high levels, the former reaching the highest figure in seven years and the latter attaining the highest point since 1919, when the post-war boom was at its height. Sixty issues, including 16 rails, broke through their previous 1924 maximum quotations.

Chief speculative interest centered in the eastern rail shares. Lehigh Valley recorded an extreme gain of 7 1-2 points at 85, the highest price in eight years, and then fell back to 12 3-4; Reading common advanced 5 3-4 to 79, the highest price since the segregation of the coal properties, and then slipped back to 7 3-4; Baltimore and Ohio touched 84 7-8 for the first time since 1917 and then yielded to 83 5-8.

Net gains of one to four points were recorded by New Haven, Lackawanna, Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific, Norfolk and Western, South Pacific, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago and Northwestern, Delaware and Hudson, Louisville and Nashville, "Soo", Rutland preferred, Western Maryland second preferred, Western Pacific and a few others.

American Can was run up to 153 1-4 for a net gain of 1 1-4 on the day, but the other pivotal industrials showed little change. United States Steel common closed one-eighth lower at 117 7-8 and Baldwin was unchanged at 124 7-8.

Professional bear traders threw large blocks of stocks into the market in an effort to check the advance, but they met with little success. American Woolen and Woolworth, in each of which a large short interest is supposed to exist, were run up 5 3-8 and 3 1-8 points, respectively, on urgent short covering.

Commercial Solvents issues continued their sensational gains. The A being boosted 12 points and the B 10, but the A stock forfeited about half of its gain and the B fell back 3 1-2 points from the high. Net gains of two points or more were scattered throughout the list and included such issues as American Locomotive, American Car and Foundry, Certain-teed Products, Goodyear Tire preferred, Matheson Alkali, Stewart Warner, United States Distributing and Universal Pipe.

Among the many issues to attain new top prices were Lima Locomotive, American Water Works, Iron Products, International Business Machines, National Biscuit, United States Industrial Alcohol, American Tobacco A and B and Worthington Pump.

Call money held steady at 3 per cent. all day. Time funds were plentiful at 3 1-4 to 3 3-4 per cent., but leaders were disinclined to make any concessions in rates. Commercial paper rates held firm at 3 1-2 to 4 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates moved irregularly within narrow limits. Demand sterling held fairly steady just above $4.69 but French francs were slightly reactionary, being quoted around 5.35 1-2 cents. Spanish exchange was weak, dropping about 10 points to around 13.97 cents. Czecho-Slovakian exchange developed pronounced strength, establishing a new high record for the year at 2.83 3-8 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, Dec. 17—Foreign financing monopolized interest in the investment market today. Preparations were completed for the public offering tomorrow of a $50,000,000 Belgian loan, in the form of 20 year six per cent. bonds priced at 97 1-2 to yield about seven per cent.

Twenty-fold over-subscription of the $11,000,000 American portion of the Greek government loan, repeating the success of an earlier offering in London, was followed by the rise of the bonds to a premium of 1 3-4 points, although they subsequently fell back to around the offering price of $8. Allotments of the issue, it was announced, would average about five per cent.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Reports were current in the financial district that bankers were about to complete negotiations for a $15,000,000 loan to the Krupp Works of Germany, to be followed by a public offering of securities. The International Match Corporation, controlled by Swedish interests, will offer holders of its $15,000,000 convertible 6 1-2 per cent. debentures the right to exchange them into a new issue of participating preference shares.

Acceptance of the "nickel plate" lease terms by the Pere Marquette railway aided the bonds of the so-called Van Sweringen roads, the Erie General 4s gaining a point. Magma Copper 7s, moving up 1 3-8, led an advance in copper company liens, based on the rising price trend of the red metal and gains of a point or so were scored by a variety of other industrial liens.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Export business on a large scale helped to lift wheat and rye today to the highest prices yet this season, but heavy selling to realize profits gave the market a setback later. Wheat closed unsettled at 1 1-2 cents net lower to 3-8c advance, with December 176 to 170 1-8 and May, 147 1-4 to 147 3-8. Corn finished 2 1-2 to 3 1-8c down, oats, 3-8 to 3-4c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 30c gain.

According to some estimates, new export business today in wheat and flour was equal to more than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat. With domestic milling demand for wheat said also to be active, the wheat market quickly began to climb. Meanwhile, reports which were current that Russia was purchasing large quantities of rye through Finland tended further to emphasize talk of world shortage of breadstuffs. After all deliveries of wheat and rye, however, had outdone the season's previous top quotations, sellers were in a majority.

Corn selling of large extent from a house that has been conspicuous on the bull side of the market did a good deal to depress corn values, and oats and other grains as well.

Chances of a future shortage of hogs were more or less responsible for new high record prices on provisions.

TRIAL OF ALBANIANS CHARGED WITH MURDER

Boston, Dec. 17.—The details of the findings in the trial of the Albanians who were charged with the murder of the Americans, George B. De Long and Robert Lewis Coleman in that country last April, were continued in a cablegram from the Albanian government headed by Bishop Fan Noli, which was made public by the Pan-Albanian Federation of America here today. Ahmet Zogu, former premier, who is still a fugitive, was among several found guilty, and sentenced to serve ten years at hard labor. A sentence of death was imposed against five of the defendants, four of whom are fugitives. The cablegram follows:

"We communicate to you the verdict in the trial of the murder of the Americans in the trial ended on December 13. Vesel Idrizi, Ali Quinami, Zub Sulzana, Hasan Nelkegi, all four fugitives from justice, have been condemned to death. A fifth, Vesel Lan Hardi, who is in jail at Tirana, has also been condemned to death. Ahmet Zogu, Less Topallaj, Kurt Sulzana, fugitives from justice, ten years of hard labor. Eles Hasani, who is in jail, penal serviture for life. The former subprefect of Croya, who is in jail, eight months of prison. Lieutenant Ali Mishiza, former commander of the District of Croya, four months of prison; this individual having already served seven months in preventive detention, was set free. Abas Zani, Djafer Taga, fugitives from justice, were found not guilty. Todja Nexhipi, who was under arrest, was found not guilty and set free. Bajram Bahillu and Hairar Bega, who were under arrest for having given shelter and food to the fugnitives, were found not guilty and set free."

PROSECUTION CLOSES IN FORBES CONSPIRACY CASE

Chicago, Dec. 17 (By the A. P.).—The prosecution closed its case in the Veterans' bureau conspiracy trial today with another story of "a general social good time" in a New York hotel in which Charles R. Forbes, former director of the bureau, J. W. Thompson, contractor, Elias H. Mortimer, Thompson's agent, Mrs. Mortimer and two New York actresses participated.

Refreshments were served and then Mrs. Mortimer proposed a crap game. McGill Connor, a clerk in the bureau, and the last government witness, testified.

The two actresses identified from the witness stand were the Larrimore girls, sisters." Miss Frances Larrimore had been mentioned by previous witnesses as having been a member of a party by the same group at Atlantic City, N. J., a few weeks later.

The defense developed on cross-examination that Forbes left the suite about 4 o'clock in the afternoon to catch a train to Ohio to inspect a hospital site, but that the good time continued for some hours.

Defense motions for an instructed verdict of not guilty, entered at the close of the government's case, were denied by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter, as were later motions for the elimination of certain portions of the testimony of Mortimer. Defense then began the presentation of evidence, calling to the stand Miss Augusta Landis, a clerk on the bureau under Forbes, who told of the circumstances under which the bid of the Pontiac Construction company, a Thompson concern, was received at the bureau close to the time limit set in the public advertisements for Northampton hospital bids.

The Northampton foundation job, which went to the Pontiac company on a bid of $27,000 higher than that of the Northeastern Construction company, was the central transaction about which the government sought to establish evidence of conspiracy, corruption and collusion in the awarding of hospital contracts during Forbes' administration. It had been intimated by previous witnesses, representing competitive bidders for the foundation, that the Pontiac bid was entered after the time specified in the advertisements.

Miss Landis testified today that the bid lay on her desk for two days before it was turned over to the proper official of the bureau on July 5, two days after the date set for opening the bids. She identified an affidavit in the officer in charge at the time, setting forth the circumstances which delayed the bid at her desk.

Fourteen witnesses out of a list of sixty submitted to the defense counsel had been called when the government rested.

The defense probably will require more than a week for the presentation of its case.

GOODYEAR BALLOONS MAKE MOTORING CHEAPER

It's actually a fact. They do.

Because—they really absorb the shocks and jolts that loosen belts, run up repair bills, and generally rack your car to pieces.

They save you time on the road because they smooth out the bumps.

And Goodyear Balloons wear better and longer because they are built of a new Goodyear invention — Supertwist—a special cord material that stretches under impact, yields and absorbs the blow without breaking.

It makes the tires last longer, and protects them against injury.

Cost is very low.. In fact, Goodyear Balloons today cost less than you have been paying for regular tires.

Drive around today and get our proposition.

STUDENTS GOING TO THEIR HOMES FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Boston, Dec. 17—The evacuation of New England's college towns by students going to their homes over the Christmas and New Year holidays began today, and the terminal stations here were all busy with the student throng as the smaller stations at the colleges.

The young women of Wellesley college and of the several preparatory schools in the vicinity, went out by special train to the west, and by extra cars on regular trains to other sections. The specials are headed through to Chicago and St. Louis. Dartmouth students abandon the little hill town of Hanover, N. H., tomorrow, when special trains will leave for New York, Boston and Chicago.

The Christmas recess at Harvard begins Saturday, and, at Medford, with the outgoing Tufts students: in the Connecticut valley, with Amherst, Smith, Mount Holyoke, Williams, Wesleyan, Springfield College and other institutions releasing their students to enable them to join their home groups in time to get settled for the holiday-making, a railroad movement that will take rank in numbers with the greatest will be under way.

RUMORS OF RAILROAD MERGERS AFFECTED STOCKS

New York, Dec. 17—(By the A. P.)—Unconfirmed rumors of railroad mergers, involving some of the most important eastern and western systems, today furnished the basis for widespread speculation in stock prices 60 issues smashing their previous 1924 high records on total sales that again came close to two million shares. The average of twenty leading industrial stocks touched the highest level since the peak of the post-War boom in 1919 while the average of twenty leading rails reached the highest point since 1917.

Chief speculative interests centered in Lehigh Valley common stock, which was pushed 7 1-2 points to 85, the highest price in eight years, on reports that the New York Central railroad was seeking control of that property. While both bankers and railroad officials declined to comment on these reports, a tentative plan for the consolidation of eastern railways, which was agreed upon a few weeks ago by the executives of the New York Central, Nickel Plate and Baltimore & Ohio systems and objected to by the Pennsylvania provided that the Lehigh Valley should become a part of the New York Central family.

With President Coolidge having expressed his approval of voluntary railroad consolidation in his annual message to congress, several brokers declared that the New York Central's acquisition of Lehigh stock would not be unusual under the circumstances. The Pennsylvania railroad which also has expressed a desire to take over the Lehigh Valley officially denied it was purchasing the stock.

This same grouping plan provided that the Baltimore and Ohio should take over the Reading and Jersey Central systems and while President Willard, of the Baltimore and Ohio, today

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE HENRY HOWARD OBSERVE 50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Attorney and Mrs. George Henry Howard quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned of No. 180 Broadway. The couple received a number of their local friends during the day and cards and messages of congratulation were also received. No formal reception was held but friends who called were welcomed by the couple and partook of the golden wedding anniversary cake. Mr. and Mrs. Howard are enjoying good health and it is the wish of their many friends here that they may live to celebrate many more happy anniversaries of their marriage.

George Henry Howard was born in Yorkshire, England, October 5, 1844, son of William and Mabel Hornby (Thompson) Howard and came to this country in 1858. He received his early education in private schools and continued his studies in the Maryland Institute and School of Design, Baltimore, completing his course in 1863. He then entered Trinity college but was compelled to discontinue his course at that institution in 1868 because of ill health.

He was admitted to the bar by the supreme bench in Baltimore in 1876, practicing in the U. S. Patent office, title of G. H. & W. T. Howard, from 1871 until his retirement in 1920. While engaged as a patient lawyer with his brother, Attorney Howard appeared before the United States courts from 1876 until 1920. He also appeared in ten states and before the supreme court of the United States from 1883 to 1920.

From 1873 until 1876 Mr. Howard was joint editor and publisher of the American Engineer and for a number of years was trustee and director of the House of the Good Shepherd, Washington. He is also an accomplished writer, articles written by him having appeared in the press and magazines.

Attorney Howard is a member of the American Bar Association and the Delta Psi fraternity, and, while in Washington was a member of the Bar Association of Washington and the Patent Law Association of Washington. He is also a member of the Metropolitan, Chevy Chase and Loch Tavern clubs of Washington.

On December 17, 1874 he was united in marriage in Trinity church, Towson, Maryland, with Roberta Traill Brooke Macgill, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Lockwood, rector of St. Thomas' church, Green Springs Valley, Baltimore, where Mrs. Howard's father owned a country residence. Rev. Dr. Hoff, rector of Trinity church assisted Rev. Mr. Lockwood in the service.

Immediately following their wedding tour Attorney and Mrs. Howard went to Washington, D. C., to reside, making their home there until 1920, since which time they have spent considerable time at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned of this city.

Mrs. Howard was born October 6, 1850, daughter of Oliver P. and Mary Clare Carroll Spence Macgill of Green Springs Valley, Baltimore. Her early education was furnished chiefly by governesses. She is a member of the Colonial Dames of America, of Baltimore and a member of the Washington club, Washington, D. C.

Attorney and Mrs. Howard have five children, four married daughters being Mrs. L. Warrington Cottman of Baltimore, Mrs. Eben Learned of Norwich, Mrs. John H. Russell, wife of present Brig. General Russell, U. S. M. C., now United States high commissioner to Haiti and Mrs. Christopher A. Russell, wife of Lieut. (retired) Russell, U. S. N., graduate of Annapolis, now engaged in business in Baltimore. There is one son, Charles L. Howard, of Chicago, Ill., secretary of the Western Railroad association; six grandchildren, two of whom are Miss Constance Learned of Norwich and Eben Learned, Jr., Yale university, children of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned and one great-grandchild, son of Mrs John Dryden Kuser, daughter of General and Mrs. John H. Russell of Haiti.

THE WINNING FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

That the fight against tuberculosis is being won is indicated by figures furnished by the state department of health. These statistics show a rapid decline in death rate from tuberculosis during the past few years. Taking the averages for 5 year periods to even up any irregularity in annual rates, it is found that the average number of deaths per year per 100,000 population from all forms of tuberculosis for the past 29 years has shown a very marked decline.

The lowest rate for any one year was 89.3 in 1923. Present indications are that the 1924 rate will be still lower. The tuberculosis death rate has already been lowered to such an extent that a number of diseases now cause more deaths than tuberculosis. Death rates for the past four years from tuberculosis, cancer and pneumonia indicate that cancer and pneumonia now each exceeds tuberculosis in the number of deaths caused.

Still other diseases that rival or even exceed tuberculosis in number of deaths caused are apoplexy, heart disease and Bright's disease. Thus tuberculosis has already yielded first place among the causes of death in Connecticut and appears destined to continue on the downgrade as an important cause of death, provided the attack upon it is continued with unabated vigor. To this end all agencies concerned in combatting tuberculosis should keep up their work.

Investigations have shown that from one-fourth to one-half of the cases of certain forms of tuberculosis among children are caused by germs of the bovine type which means that these germs were obtained by drinking milk from tuberculous cows. In their work of protecting children from this hazard the State Commissioner on Domestic Animals weeds out tuberculous cows and the State Dairy and Food Commissioner fosters and supervises the pasteurization of milk to kill the dangerous germs.

There should be no let-up at any point in the campaign. Children must not be exposed to tuberculous parents. To adequately protect children from this danger requires the coordinated efforts of the State Tuberculosis Commission, the Tuberculosis Societies, Visiting Nurse Associations and health officials throughout the State. In order that the tuberculosis associations may be able to continue their work the cooperation of the public is necessary in the purchase of Christmas seals.

RECEIVE LAST MINUTE INCOME TAX PAYMENTS

While the last day for payment of the fourth installment of income taxes was Monday, nearly $1,000,000 has been received in payments at the internal revenue collector's office in the mails. As the entire amount was in the mail Monday night it came within the legal time limit and was delayed until the "zero hour" by corporations and individuals in order to save interest on their money.

The amount received at the office Monday was $542,855.73, making the total for the month, inclusive of Monday, $1,616,365.34.

The penalty for failure to file within the time limit, is five per cent. fine on the total tax due. This is increased by one per cent. for each month the payment continues overdue.

Although the estimate of the amount due is approximately $1,000,000 it is expected that there will be a number of tardy payments which will keep the amount now due at the collector's office below the million-mark.

STORES WILL HAVE FOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NIGHTS

Saturday evening of this week and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week are the times adopted by the Retail Merchants' Association for the Norwich stores to be open evenings for the Christmas shopping period.

This gives four evenings immediately before Christmas for the shoppers to extend their purchasing time beyond the daylight hours and will be a great convenience for those who find this extra time necessary in order to meet the demands of their Christmas needs.

Entertained at Their Home

An entertainment was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Greiner on the Canterbury turnpike. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Cruthers and daughters Hazel and Gladys, the Misses Alice and Grace Beetham, Archie Grainer, Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Fred Rodman and daughter, Ines, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Greiner and infant daughter Irene.

FIND NO TRACE OF MISSING NORWICH BROKER

Representatives of Gabriel C. Berker, for whom Chief of Police Linton of Norwich has a warrant charging theft of $50,000 from the Bankers' Trust Co., of Norwich, missing about ten weeks, have said he was in New York and would surrender this week upon the floating of bonds to net him $250,000, but investigation in New York failed to reveal either Berker or any trace of the reported bond issue, says The Hartford Courant.

There have been several reports from those said to be close to Berker that he would surrender to the authorities at Norwich this week. In this connection it also has been stated, that an issue of $5,000,000 worth of bonds is to be floated in New York this week. The flotation of the bonds was said to be expected to yield Berker funds with which he proposed to make good losses sustained by the Bankers' Trust Co. Berker has been reported as arranging to float the bond issue for the development of the J. C. Allen Coal Co., near Lexington, Ky.

The surrender of Berker was reported to be on his own promise—one more of many preceding ones, Berker, his friends say has been in New York recently.

Berker was sought in New York by a representative of "The Courant" but the effort was unsuccessful. At places where his friends said Berker was known, and where he was supposed to have business relations, he was reported "unknown."

And as regard the flotation of the bonds, companies named in connection with it disclaimed knowledge. The American Bank Note Co., was one of these. The imprint of the American Bank Note Co., has implied value, since before they undertake the contract of engraving certificates an investigation of the project and all connected with it is made. According to one of Berker's office managers the flotation of the Bonds has been delayed because of the volume of business of this company, but the certificates would be delivered this week. At the office of the American Bank Note Co., it was stated that they had no order for bonds for the J. C. Allen Coal Co., or for Mr. Berker; and, as far as recollections served, there were no orders of any business that answers the description of the coal industry. There has never been any investigation by them in this connection.

Broun-Green Co., engravers, were interviewed with similar results.

According to reports current in Norwich, Berker is supposed to have a checking account at the American Exchange National Bank at No. 128 Broadway, but it was learned there that no such account existed. This bank was said to have made an investigation of the coal project in which Berker is interested. In this connection it was stated that this bank had not made the investigation as reported.

The National City Bank of No. 55 Wall street is another bank which is said to have made an investigation of the coal project, but the inquirer was advised that there was no investigation by this company. Its only knowledge of Mr. Berker was a request from Norwich for credit information concerning Berker.

A commercial publication co-operated in an effort to ascertain information concerning the bond issue, but inquiries covering a couple hours were unfruitful.

Through one of Berker's branch office representatives it was learned some time ago that the brokerage business handled by the Gabriel C. Berker Company was placed through W. F. Dowler, No. 66 Broadway. That office was visited and in Mr. Dowler's absence one of three employes in the small office, said that Berker was only slightly known.

In Norwich it is common talk that Berker has been making his headquarters at a hotel near the Grand Central terminal. He is now registered under the name of Berker at the hotel mentioned, and has not been there records a month back show.

About October 26, when it was known Berker might be wanted in connection with the case of former Treasurer George Finn of the Bankers' Trust Company, his counsel promptly gave assurance that Berker would appear within a reasonable time.

His conception of "reasonable time" about ten weeks ago was "forty-eight or seventy-two hours." It is reported that the counselor recently saw his client and since reiterated that Berker will surrender.

According to understanding Berker has been allowed time in which to cash in on rights that he is said to have in coal property in Kentucky. These rights, according to the information given persons in authority are bona fide. They have been told that of the mentioned bond issue a sum of $1,000,000 would be forthcoming to those having rights. Berker's share would be approximately $250,000 and his friends said with this he intended at once to make up his overdraft of approximately $50,000 to the Bankers' Trust Company and the losses through Finn's operations. He also proposed to pay clients buying stocks through his offices the peak prices for the issues between the time of the closing of the branches and the time of settlement.

LIONS TO ENTERTAIN BOYS AND GIRLS

Through the courtesy of the Palace theatre the Norwich Lions club is planning a free entertainment for the boys and girls of Norwich. The Christmas entertainment will be held at the Palace theatre Saturday morning at 10.30 o'clock. The children of the New London County Home have been invited to attend and will be furnished transportation to and from the theatre by a committee comprising Rudolph Henschel, Harlow Bogue and Jean Kieffer.

There will be candy and favors for each child present at the entertainment and in addition C. Edward Carpenter has donated three prizes for girls and three prizes for boys for securing lucky seats. The general committee in charge of the Christmas entertainment for the juveniles comprises J. B. Caron, Louis Fontaine and John Barry.

FLETCHER POST AUXILIARY ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1925

At the business meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of R. O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, Monday evening in the legion rooms, Mrs. Louise Leipold was elected president for the coming year. Other officers chosen were as follows:

First vice president, Mrs. William Bogue; second vice president, Mrs. William R. Denison; treasurer, Mrs. F. S. Kimball; secretary, Miss Evon M. Broadhurst.

Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Conducted Campaign

Dr. A. Karl Kernahan, who spoke in Norwich some months ago, director of the Visitation Evangelism Campaigns, closed the first of the series of three campaigns in the city of Providence, R. I., last week. There were seven churches co-operating; five white churches and two colored. The last report showed that the workers of these seven churches had won in six days work over five hundred decisions for Christ and for the Church. This number will be increased very materially.

New Patterns in Blanket Lines.

Lines of all wool — wool and cotton mixed blankets which the American Woolen company, with mills in Norwich, opened Tuesday, feature a large variety of new patterns and color effects. Prices range from $2.60 to $11.50, it being estimated that this level is slightly higher compared with that of the 1924 season. The showing comprises cotton and wool mixed plaids, all wool plaids, cotton double woven "singles" and wool and cotton double woven "singles." The leading patterns stress Pompeian and Scotch effects, the color range being composed of 11 different shades. A striking departure in color treatment is the use of a colored ground, the plaid pattern being white instead of the reverse, as has been the case heretofore. The ground colors showing this treatment are pink, gray, blue and tan.

POETRY

WHAT OF THAT?

Tired! Well, what of that?
Didst fancy life was spent on beds of ease,
Fluttering the rose leaves scattered by the breeze?
Come, rouse thee! work while it is called today!
Coward, arise! go forth upon thy way!

Lonely! And what of that?
Some must be lonely! 'Tis not given to all
To feel a heart responsive rise and fall,
To blend another life into its own.
Work may be done in loneliness. Work on!

Dark! Well, and what of that?
Didst fondly dream the sun would never set?
Dost fear to lose thy way? Take courage yet!
Learn thou to walk by faith and not by sight;
Thy steps will guided be, and guided right.

Hard! Well, and what of that?
Didst fancy life one summer holiday,
With lessons none to learn, and naught but play?
Go, get thee to thy task! Conquer or die!
It must be learned! Learn it, then patiently.

No help? Nay, 'tis not so!
Though human help be far, thy God is nigh.
Who feeds the ravens, hears His children's cry.
He's near thee, wheresoe'er thy footsteps roam;
And He will guide thee, light thee, help thee home.
—George E. Woods, in Pearson's.

A MORAL IN SEVRES.

Upon my mantel-piece they stand,
While all its length between them lies
He throws a kiss with graceful hand,
She glances back with bashful eyes.

The china Shepherdess is fair,
The Shepherd's face denotes a heart
Burning with ardor and despair.
Alas, they stand so far apart!

And yet, perhaps, if they were moved,
And stood together day by day,
Their love had not so constant proved,
Nor would they still have smiled so gay.

His hand the Shepherd might have filmed
The match-box Angel's heart to win;
The Shepherdess, his love have missed,
And flirted with the Mandarin.

But on my mantel-piece they stand,
While all its length between them lies
He throws a kiss with graceful hand,
She glances back with bashful eyes.
—Mildred Howells.

SAMUEL GOMPERS' FUNERAL IMPRESSIVLY DESCRIBED

Services Consisted of Simple Jewish Ritual For the Dead, With Eulogy by Rabbi Wise, Address by by James Duncan and the Solemn "Lodge of Sorrow" Services by the Elks—Impressive Mansonic Services Were Conducted at the Grave—Body Laid to Rest With Some of America's Most Noted Personages in Sleepy Hollows Cemetery, Tarrytown, N. Y.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 18—Samuel Gompers was buried today, on a little knoll in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

His body was laid to rest in company with some of America's most noted personages, in a spot famous in tradition and history.

To the right of his grave flowed the Hudson; to the left wound the picturesque wooded glens of Sleepy Hollow. 'Round about, peeping from the grass or reaching toward the sky, were the simple markers or massive mausoleums of Washington Irving, Andrew Carnegie, William Rockefeller, Carl Schurz, and of the Dupuys, the Van Dorns, the McCoombs, the Van Cortlandts, the Beekmans, the Delavans, and the Boocks of earlier generations.

After a two-hour service at the Elks Club in New York city, where the body of Mr. Gompers lay in state yesterday and last night, a funeral train of scores of automobiles brought him here. Preceded by an honorary escort of motorcycle police from the metropolis, the cortege made the journey in two hours, passing en route through many suburban hamlets where the streets were lined with those who stood with doffed hats.

Through the crooked streets of Tarrytown, the cortege drove; across the Headless Horseman Bridge where Ichabod Crane made his traditional ride, and through the ranks of waiting automobiles, men and women, to a canopy and headed evergreens which marked the Gompers plot.

The burial place was just a short distance beyond the massive pillars which marked the entrance to the ancient cemetery.

A misty rain was falling as the silence among the hundreds who waited there was broken by the chapel bell tolling "Nearer, My God to Thee," and the van of the cortege entered the grounds. There followed limousines bearing Mr. Gomper's widow, his sons and daughters, his brothers and grandchildren, his associate officials of the American Federation of Labor, delegations of labor union chiefs of all trades, gathered from far and near, and free masons of St. Cecile Lodge of New York having charge of rites at the grave.

The impressive ceremonies lasted but a few moments. As the bronze casket was lowered into the pit of evergreens, banked with huge floral wreaths the Masons sang "Lead Kindly Light."

They chanted the twenty-third Psalm and sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." A sheep-skin apron fluttered into the grave, and sprigs of symbolic evergreen from the lapels of Masons followed. The chaplain uttered a few words. "He had discovered the secret of peace without which there is no understanding." "Now the laborer's task is o'er."

Then there was brief prayer, another softly chanted hymn, and the relatives and friends of Mr. Gompers were led back to waiting automobiles.

Funeral services were held earlier in the day at New York in the Elks club which were attended by a throng that crowded the great assembly hall to its capacity. Fifteen hundred others heard the services broadcast by radio in the town hall, nearby, while hundreds of others, unable to gain admittance into either hall, stood silently in the streets.

The services consisted of the simple Jewish service for the dead and eulogy by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synogogue, New York; an address by James Duncan, first vice-president of the American Federation of Mr. Gompers to American labor to keep the faith and cherish American ideals, and the solemn "Lodge of Sorrow" services of the Elks.

In the lodge hall were Governor Smith, Mayor Hylan, Major General Robert L. Bulard, Rear Admiral C. P. Plunkett, leading labor officials, and prominent men in nation, state and city.

CABINET DINNER GIVEN AT WHITE HOUSE LAST NIGHT

Washington, Dec. 18.—The cabinet dinner, first of the state functions of the White House social season, was given tonight by President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Expensive caterers have been retained by previous White House occupants for the four state dinners of the social season, but President and Mrs. Coolidge have abandoned the practice. No reasons for the change were forthcoming today from the White House, but there was intimation that it was a part of the president's economy program. Funds for the state dinners are provided in the president's travel and entertainment allowance, of which the unexpended balance is returned annually to the treasury.

The guests at tonight's dinner, in addition to the members of the cabinet included Senator Warren of Wyoming and Mrs. Warren; Senator Borah of Idaho and Mrs. Borah; Senator Wadsworth of New York and Mrs. Wadsworth; Senator Curtis of Kansas; Senator Butler of Massachusetts and Mrs. Butler; Representative Madden of Illinois; Representative Longworth of Ohio; Representative Snell of New York and Mrs. Snell; Representative Sanders of Indiana and Mrs. Sanders; Representative Mae E. POLICE IN NEW HAVEN SEARCH FOR TONGMEN

New Haven, Dec. 18.—Search for Chinese tongmen was being continued here tonight following reports received by the police during the day that the automobile reported to be bringing Hip Sing tongmen here from New York city, again had been seen. Up until a late hour tonight, however, the efforts of the police were fruitless.

The New York automobile was reported seen on the Milford turnpike this morning and detectives were rushed there to guard the entrance to the city and cross roads. No trace of the Chinese was found, however, and it is thought by the police that the Chinese may have skirted the city and headed north toward Waterbury.

The first information to the police that New York tongmen were headed for this city came from Jim Lee, a laundryman here, who is said to be a member of the On Leong tong. Jim Lee's place of business was dark tonight, its doors heavily barricaded and the interior of the shop a maze of wire entanglements and netting. Following a request to the police for protection, the laundryman's shop was guarded by a policeman today and tonight.

Other Chinese shops here were dark or heavily guarded tonight and the police reported the Chinese population in a highly nervous state.

TESTIFIED THAT SEARLES PAID CORCORAN $50,000

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 18.—Victor Albert Searles, Boston artist, paid William J. Corcoran $50,000 and said that he had "fixed it up" after a raid on the Searles apartment, Mrs. Abraham Levy, formerly Eleanor Barnes, testified today in the trial of Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, and five co-defendants on charges of conspiring to extort $50,000 from Searles. A conversation overheard by Mrs. Levy in a Boston law office, stating that a "John McCormick" was made to pay $100,000 to avoid publicity, was read into the record in the form of an affidavit introduced by the defense. There was nothing in the affidavit to indicate the residence of the "Mr. McCormick" mentioned or to show his line of business or profession.

Mrs. Blanche Paul and Mrs. Levy, alleged lures of a Boston blackmail ring, pleaded guilty when indicted in the Searles case. According to the charge the alleged conspiracy to extort was based on a raid by supposed police officers on a Back Bay apartment in August, 1920. Searles, a nephew of the late Edward S. Searles, multi-millionaire, inherited a portion of his estate. William J. Kelly, William Hartnett, J. Warren Kane, Mitchel Lyons and Thomas Devine were indicted with Corcoran.

Mrs. Levy was being questioned by Prosecutor Schatz of Hartford when she made the affidavit introduced in today's session of court. She told of being in the law office of Attorney William J. Kelly at the time when he was absent. Asked by Schatz what she knew about the "Gwendolyn Sears affair," she said:

"I overheard a conversation between Thomas Zinitti, Devine and Mr. Hartnett about how she (Gwendolyn Sears' tricked them into the lobby of the Copley Plaza and hurt her foot and John McCormick escorted her to a room, and she had but few clothse on. All she had to do was to throw off her coat before the detectives came in, and and they were talking about how soft Coakley and Pelletier got $100,000 of John McCormick. Mr. Hartnett, I know, does know this Gwendolyn and she writes to him and is in touch with him."

Rev. Mr. Reinicke will have to stand trial on a similar indictment brought by Mrs. Freda Numrick, who have him $1,000 to invest. Mrs. Block's investment was $3,000, and Judge White directed the jury to acquit when it was developed that the pastor actually delivered $3,000 worth of stock to the woman, who did not complain until it failed to pay dividends.

The defendant invested the money in the Byron Hefferman Chemical corporatino, a New Jersey concern, of which he was treasurer. It was not shown that he personally profited by the transactions.

Assurance of Cordial Relations With Japan

Measures Taken to Allay Suspicions Among the Peoples of America and Japan.

Washington, Dec. 18.—(By the A. P.)—Decisive measures to reassure the country against the scare of an American - Japanese estrangement were taken today both by the administration and in congress.

In a form statement which broke beyond the bounds of ordinary diplomatic courtesy, Secretary Hughes welcomed the appointment of a new Japanese ambassador to Washington and predicted an era of "the most cordial relations" between the two countries.

Almost at the same time the house was smothering in quick order a resolution designed to build up an anti-Japanese aligment among the white nations bordering the Pacific.

The proposal was befriended only by its author, Rep. Britten, Republican, Illinois, and found among its most earnest opponents house leaders who live on the Pacific coast.

Underlying these developments there was revealed a studied conviction among highest officials here that there is no threat of trouble between Washington and Tokio unless, by popular agitations, imagined dangers are magnified into real misunderstandings.

President Coolidge and those who share with him the responsibility for the foreign relations of the nation look upon their contemporaries in places of power across the Pacific as candid exponents of international friendship. It is the belief of the administration that Japan is performing faithfully her obligations under the arms treaty and the Washington agreements relating to the Far East; that her government is trying earnestly to keep pace with the new order of international relationship; and that her responsible leaders want nothing but amicable relations with the United States.

If the two governments are permitted to go along together, unhampered by agitation and suspicion among the two peoples themselves, it is the belief of the president an dhis advisers that the best of international relationships will rule between the two capitals. But they do not conceal their recognition that if the American and Japanese people aggravate their misunderstanding out of all proportion to their importance, the two governments will become increasingly embarrassed when they deal with one another.

Whether Mr. Hughes had in mind any particular subject of recent agitation when he issued his statement today was not revealed. State department officials declined to add anything to his pronouncement welcoming the new ambassador, but it was recalled significantly that such a statement on such an occasion stood virtually without precent in the history of American diplomacy. The statement was as follows:

"Not only is Mr. Matsudara a diplomat of most distinguished service, but Japan has paid us a signal honor in selecting as her ambassador for this post a man who through himself and his wife represents two of the most important and historically famous families of the empire.

"I am convinced that we can look forward now to the most cordial relations with Japan and that these relations will be greatly facilitated by the mission of Mr. Matsudaira."

This statement was prepfaced by the state department with the following paragraph, referring to an Associated Press dispatch from Tokio, in which Mr. Matsudaira confirmed his own appointment and declared he also looked looked forward to a period of close friendship between the two governments.

"When the attention of the secretary of state was called to a report in the press of this morning regarding the appointment of Mr. Tsuneo Matsudaira as Japanese ambassador to Washington and Mr. Matsudaira's remarks, the secretary expressed his gratification at this appointment.

Long before the secretary acted, word had reached the state department of Mr. Britten's plan to present his resolution. No official of the administration would comment on it publicly but it was apparent as soon as it reached the floor of the house that administration leaders there had sensed the possible effect of such a step at a time when the question of relative naval strength between the the United States and Japan already had led to widespread debate, almost without exception, with expressions of amazement and protest. Its text follows:

"Resolved, that for the purpose of promoting a solidarity of the white people of the Pacific, the president be and he is hereby authorized to call a conference of the white nations bordering on the Pacific ocean for the discussion of ways and means for promoting a better economic, commercial and political understanding between said nations."

Representative Johnson, republican, Washington, who is chairman of the house immigration committee, declared Mr. Britten's action "untimely and ill advised" and Representative Maclafferty, republican, California, said that "the thing to be avoided now is the expression of ill advised opinion based upon a lack of understanding."

There was only a short flurry of discussion on the house floor, during which Representative Britten declared he was convinced Japan was making war preparations against the United States and a number of Pacific coast representatives, including Chairman Johnson of the immigration committee declared the resolution ill-advised and untimely.

Even the author of the proposal conceded after he witnesse dthe reception that there was no hope of its adoption. Undaunted by the attack, however, he announced that as a member of the naval committee he would present tomorrow another resolution, designed to insure a thorough investigation of the relative fighting strength of the navy.

Political Affairs in Germany Are Chaotic

Berlin, Dec. 18—(By the A. P.)—The parliamentary situation, up to a late hour this evening, apparently still was in a state of chaos and Chancellor Marx could see no prospect of evolving a workable coalition government out of the present party lineup.

Among the proposals made to overcome the impasse was a suggestion that the present Marx-Stresemann cabinet be formally reinstated as the functioning government, but that it be given one member of the cabinet from each of the German nationalist and socialist parties to serve without portfolio. These would officiate in the nature of laison officers between the cabinet and their respective parties, but would not pledge their parties to a formal responsibility respecting governmental policies.

In this manner, it was explained, both numerically strongest parties in the resurrected cabinet without forcing the latter to abandon its present line of policies.

This arrangement, however, would still leave the government at the mercy of fluctuating majorities on the floor of the house, as both ministers without portfolios would act only in the nature of confidential agents for their parties without pledging the latter to any measures determined by the majority cabinet comprising the clericals, Stresemann's peoples' party and the democrats.

The socialists, at their first party caucus, today adopted a resolution to oppose any so-called bourgeois cabinet whose obvious purpose would be to make a concerted war on the radicals. They voted to demand the restoration of the so-called Weimar coalition which was composed of the socialists, clericals and democrats, but which, as a result of the inconclusive outcome of the recent elections, would also be a minority cabinet. The socialists also announced that they would present Dr. Paul Loebe as a candidate for the presidency of the Reichstag.

Stresemann's party, at its caucus today, drafted a resolution to be introduced at the first session of the Reichstag demanding the restoration of the old monarchial flag.

In the event President Ebert concludes that the existing situation holds no prospect of devising a workable coalition of three or more parties, it is believed he may try another experiment, by selecting a public leader of not too pronounced party affiliations and commissioning him with the selection of a cabinet composed of reichstag members of all parties.

Dr. Gessler, minister of defense, who is known to possess Herr Ebert's confidence, is mentioned as a possible candidate for such a mission. Dr. Gessler declined to be renominated for the reichstag at the recent elections, although he retains his membership and influential position in the democratic party. He is still a member of the cabinet and it is assumed will continue as such, as his party desires to retain him at the head of the ministry of defense.

The attitude of the socialists, clericals and democrats tonight is one of determined opposition to the consummation of a bourgeois bloc, and unless Dr. Stresemann's party once more carries out one of its familiar quick change performances and concludes to accept a place in a four-party government, the only prospect of bringing the present crisis to an early termination is suggested in the resurrection of the present Marx government.

GREEN HAS BEST CHANCE TO SUCCEED GOMPERS

New York, Dec. 18.—William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, seemed to have the best chance to be elected successor to the late Samuel Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor for the unexpired term of ten months, in the opinion of many veteran labor leaders here for the Gompers funeral today.

The actual choice will be made by the executive council of ten which meets at the Elks club tomorrow morning. Matthew Woll and James Duncan, two other vice presidents and, like Green, members of the council, are the only ones who have been mentioned as rival candidates.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, went into conference with his advisors at the Cadillac hotel here after the burial of Mr. Gompers at Sleepy Hollow cemetery in Tarrytown. The conference was believed to have an important bearing upon the advisability of William Green for the federation presidency.

Mr. Lewis himself is being supported by strong labor interests for secretary of labor, and if he left the miners' organization to enter the cabinet it is thought doubtful that Mr. Green also could leave it to head the A. F. of L. The miners face too busy a year.

FATAL CHICKEN MALADY NO MENACE TO HUMAN HEALTH

Health Authorities Declare That All Poultry Now Being Offered For Sale is Safe to Eat—Embargoes Have Been Placed Primarily to Protect Poultry Flocks and Not Through Necessity of Protecting the Human Health.

Washington, Dec. 18.—There are no grounds for fear that human health may be endangered through the diseased condition of poultry in certain areas against which several cities and states have placed embargoes, in the opinion of the department of agriculture.

The department is convinced that measures being taken by health authorities are adequate and that all poultry now being offered for sale is safe to eat.

The embargoes were placed primarily to protect poultry flocks and not through necessity of protecting the public health, said a statement by Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of anima lindustry.

Cleansing and disinfection of poultry fattening pens and supply centers was urged and farmers were advised to report any cases of poultry disease.

The statement was issued after Dr. Mohler had conferred with other specialists in the department and with President Kilbourne of the national poultry council.

HYLAN'S DEFENSE OF TRANSIT ADMINISTRATION

New York, Dec. 18.—The transit investigation ordered by Governor Smith is a political blow at Mayor Hylan an attempt to discredit him in the eyes of the people of the city of New York, the mayor was told today by Max Steuer, the municipality's special counsel, who refused to have anything to do with the inquiry when told he could not cross-examine witnesses.

This was the first of two blows delivered by the mayor today in defense of transit administration by himself and his subordinates—attacks which were the high lights of the fourth day of the inquiry. The second blow was delivered by John H. Delaney, chairman of the city's board of transportation, who defended the city administration's transit actions when he took the stand for a brief period.

Mr. Steuer early made it plain that he did not consider that either the governor, Supreme Court Justice McAvoy, investigation commissioner, or Judge McAvoy's assistant, Attorney Henry L. Sherman had knowledge of the alleged conspiracy.

He contended that the governor must have been duped into ordering the investigation now proceeding under the Moreland act.

Both Justice McAvoy and Mr. Sherman declined to comment on Mr. Steuer's letter tonight. Governor Smith, before taking a train to return to Albany, also said he had nothing to say regarding it.

One of the fugitives is a woman, Dolinda Barros. Captain Hippolite Lamas said he thought the escape was made by boat which put out from shore while the schooner was anchored in Buzzard's Bay.

First reports of the flight of the deportees came from the Point Judith coist guards, and Immigration Inspector William Clark of Providence was awaiting the arrival of the Romance today to find out how the Bravas who had been held under close guard at Providence for three months, finally got away.

The Romance was a battered ship when she anchored here. Her topmost had been carried away, and a foresail also was gone. The schooner was leaking badly.

At that time the government, which contended for a continuance until Saturday morning, must either make a legal showing as to why a further continuance should be granted or consent to dismiss the warrants.

Sarsain and Fletcher were arrested on warrants charging them with soliciting and accepting bribes from prisoners upon information furnished by Graham Baughn, convicted in the Savannah rum ring sensation, and E. J. Sweeney of Detroit, reported to be a detective.

It was charged by the two convicts that Fletcher received $2,500 each from Emmanuel Kessler and Morris Sweetwood, wealthy New York bootleggers, for obtaining for them "soft snaps" from about the prison."

The warrants also charged Fletcher received $5,000 from Mrs. R. X. Walthall, who it is charged, it is said influenced him in showing favors to Kessler and Sweetwood.

Saratin is accused in the warrant of receiving $5,000 from Baughn and from C. C. Tuten to have Tuten appointed a chauffeur for the prison physician.

That even more arrests are in sight was intimated by District Attorney C. W. Hager, although he declined to state whether other officials are being investigated.

CONFISCATED LIQUOR SEIZED IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Dec. 18.—Liquor estimated at half a million dollars is now locked up in reconstructed vaults of the federal building here, according to figures secured tonight from government officials. New Haven is now considered the largest depository for liquor in New England outside of Boston and while more than 25,000 gallons of alcohol and more than 8,000 cases of imported whiskey is now stored here, the officials report they have additional facilities to care for 300,000 additional gallons.

Only the best of the liquors and alcohols that is smuggled into this country is stored here. The cheaper stuff is taken to the Smedley warehouse and after due court hearings is destroyed. The best liquors, however, come under the United States customs laws and is held by the government to be disposed of later.

All of the liquor stored here has some time or other been smuggled in from foreign lands by water, and has been seized by prohibition and customs officials off Montauk Point or along Long Island sound.

HERRIOT TO PROSECUTE SPANISH WRITER IBANEZ

Paris, Dec. 18.—Premier Herriot, according to La Liberte (independent republican), has decided to order the prosecution of Vincente Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish writer, for his pamphlet against King Alfonso, by virtue of a law dating from the second empire.

This proposed action, says the paper, is due to protests made by the Spanish government through the embassy against the violent attacks on the Spanish monarchy and government in French ministerial organs. To these protests M. Herriot responded, Expressing regret, but saying he was afraid he could not effectively interfere. The Spanish ambassador then informed him that one of these organs was reported to have received a substantial subsidy from the Catalonian Regionalist League. Whereupon, the paper asserts, M. Herriot, in order to give some sort of satisfaction to the Spanish government, decided to prosecute Ibanez.

TO STOP VIOLENCE BY MEN "MASKED OR UNMASKED"

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 18 (By the A. P.) —An order to his executive secretary to offer rewards for the apprehension of guilty parties on the receipt of notices of acts of violence, "by any number of men, masked, or unmasked" in Georgia and a call for a law enforcement conference to meet at the state chapel Jan. 15, tonight were issued by Governor Clifford Walker.

Simultaneously the governor offered a reward of $500 for the leader of a "band of unmasked men" that recently flogged E. J. Shelverton, Jr., in Cobb county, and an additional offer of $100 for each member of the group. The rewards call for "apprehension with proof to convict."

Charles F. Risedorf, who was elected for the thirty-first consecutive year treasurer of Eastern Star lodge, No. 44, A. F. and A. M., at the annual meeting held in Masonic hall Wednesday evening, holds the honor of being the oldest Masonic lodge treasurer, in point of service, in Connecticut. Mr. Risedorf has been a Mason for the past thirty-two years, joining the local lodge in 1892. In December, 1894, he was elected treasurer of Eastern Star lodge. He has also been treasurer of Trinity chapter, No. 9, R. A. M., for [illegible] years.

[illegible] was a good attendance at the annual meeting. The reports of the officers for the past year were read and approved. Other officers elected were: Worshipful master, Donald E. Crane; senior warden, Richard E. Wright; junior warden, Benjamin L. Larned; treasurer, Charles F. Risedorf; secretary, Harold J. Mason; senior deacon, Lyndon E. Little; junior deacon, William J. Button; trustees, Herbert R. Chappell, Edward W. Avery and Richard L. Wiggins.

A meeting of Francis S. Long Woman's Relief corps was held in Grand Army hall last evening. There was a good attendance of officers and members and considerable business was transacted. It was voted that each member bring a useful ten-cent gift for the Christmas tree celebration on installation night. Mrs. Frank McLean was reported ill at the Hartford hospital, while Mrs. Bertha Gridley and Mrs. Elizabeth Hanson were said to be improved in health. The following officers will be installed the first Wednesday in January: President, Lena Tripp; senior vice president, Alice Bentley; junior vice president, Amy Anderson; treasurer, Alice Easterbrooks; secretary, Helen French; chaplain, Margaret McArthur; conductor, Lucy Champlin; guard, Lucy Potter; first delegate to convention, Alice Easterbrooks; first alternate, Alice Bentley; second delegate, Mary Russ; second alternate, Ida Williams; third delegate, Jennie Randall; third alternate, Eleanor Benner; aide, Helen French. The other officers and assistants will be appointed by the incoming president. The birthday committee has postponed its entertainment. The meeting closed after a collection, flag salute and song.

The Brotherhood of the First Congregational church held its December meeting and supper in the church house Wednesday night with an attendance of 76. The supper was prepared and served at 6.30 o'clock by the Ladies' society of the church. President Dixon Van Zandt was in charge of the meeting that followed. During the session Robert O. Branch of the Boy Scout committee, on behalf of the Brotherhood, presented Scoutmaster Robert C. Rose a beautiful silver loving cup, to be contested for by the scout patrols connected with the parish. The speaker was the pastor, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, who delivered a fine address on his experiences during the World war, also of his trip to Europe during his honeymoon, several months ago.

Members of the state police department from Danielson barracks who are engaged in running down clues in the sandbagging of Robert S. Browning of Scotland road a week ago last Monday evening, will not divulge any information as to their progress, if any, in learning the identity of the parties who assaulted Browning while he was engaged in milking his cows. From what can be learned, the possibility that the act was committed by three bobbed-haired young women from Rhode Island is no longer considered by the police. The latter are now following up clues in this city and vicinity. Mr. Browning is at his home, where he is taking a complete rest on orders from his physicians. The X-ray picture of the base of his skull shows a slight fracture, which is expected to respond to treatment, and not leave any lasting effect.

A number of girls from the American Thread Co. met at the Y. M. C. A. for their first practice for a basketball team Thursday night. The best players, or those showing the most promise, were chosen to make up what will eventually be a very good team. An appropriation of $150 has already been made to it.

Following the custom adopted with the opening of the new dormitory on High street, the normal school girls are preparing for the annual singing of carols under the windows of certain houses about town Monday evening. The singing is under the direction of Mr. St. John. The girls are to be divided into three groups, two of juniors and one of seniors, and early in the evening, from 6.30 until about 8, they will visit the hospital, the Card Memorial home, the county farm and certain faculty houses. This is a pleasing adaptation of the old English custom of "wait" singing, when bashful suitors, wandering minstrels and larger groups of vocal and instrumental performers made the midnight merry (or miserable) with their "God rest ye." After the singing a Christmas party and a play will be given for the girls in the Normal school building.

SOCIAL WORKERS COUNCIL .. .. OF TWO COUNTIES MEETS

Willimantic, Dec. 18.—A meeting of the Social Workers' Council of New London and Windham counties was held Tuesday at local tea rooms. A luncheon was served to about 50 guests and members, after which an address was given the group by Prof. E. A. Winslow, of the department of public health, Yale University. Dr. Winslow gave a resume of the development of public health work since the end of the eighteenth century, explaining the present day attitude and program. He stated that there are at present two important questions concerning public health which would undoubtedly come before the next legislature, the first being a bill appointing a commission on industrial diseases prevalent in Connecticut, due to its large manufacturing industries. At present Connecticut is far behind other states in this respect, Dr. Winslow stated. This commission will report to the legislature in 1927.

The second question concerns a bill which will be introduced, providing state aid to the small towns under 1,500 population, for the employment of public health nurses. At present, the majority of towns of this size cannot afford the expense of a nurse without state aid, and there is no doubt that this procedure would result in better health conditions throughout the state. Miss Margaret Stack, R. N., of the bureau of public health nursing of Connecticut has drawn up a comprehensive program, which, when put in operation in the small towns in question, would cost not more than $35,000 altogether.

A short business meeting of the council was held, at which time it was voted to accept the invitation to join the Connecticut commission on social legislation recently organized.

VERDICT AWARDS $10,534,109 TO WILLETT AND SEARS

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 18.—A verdict awarding damages of $10,634,109 to George F. Willett and Edmund H. Sears was the result today of a jury's consideration over the longest trial period in the history of American jurisprudence of charges that a group of Boston bankers and financiers conspired to ruin the plaintiffs' credit and then capture their properties. The jury's finding was against all of the defendants against whom charges were outstanding, these including Robert F. Herrick, widely known as lawyer and college oarsman, and member of the firms of Kidder, Peabody & Company and F. S. Mosely & Company, both banking firms.

The suit pressed by Attorney Sherwin L. Whipple on behalf of the plaintiffs, was for $15,000,000. It had been heard during 184 actual trial days. The jury was out 70 hours. The trial period extended over 13 months, and in that time, one juror suffered a nervous breakdown and had to be discharged, the verdict being by 11 men.

It was indicated that the end of the long case has not been reached. Counsel for the defense, who include some of the leading members of the bar in this state, took numerous exceptions during the trial, and the court extended to June 1, 1925, the time for taking the issues to the supreme court on these exceptions.

The verdict was communicated to Willett on a sick bed at his home in Norwood. "Ten million dollars," he murmured, then tried to write it down. Physicians said the condition had improved slightly.

The charges, presented first in July, 1918, had to do with financial transactions affecting the Daniel Green Felt Shoe company, and the American Felt company, which Willett, Sears & Company, controlled. It was contended that the latter company, forced to borrow $3,000,000 in addition to their usual banking accommodations, selected F. S. Moseley & Company to raise the loan. Robert F. Herrick was engaged as counsel for the First National Bank of Boston and the Old Colony Trust company in drawing up the conditions under which a syndicate would supply the funds. To secure the loan Willett, Sears & Company transferred to the defendants stock in the two companies named and it was alleged that the confidential and fiduciary relations were violated to wreck the Willett Sears companies.

POINTS OUT DEFICIENCY OF THEOLOGICAL SEMINARIES

New York, Dec. 18.—Many theological seminaries do not efficiently instruct their pupils in the present day problems of religion, although some are installing more modern curriculums, according to a poll of 100 deans and presidents of church colleges, conducted by the homiletic review.

Lack of equipment for teaching business administration is a general complaint from the seminary officials, who say that the modern minister must be a business manager as well as spiritual adviser. To remedy this lack, the poll discloses, a number of seminaries are now establishing courses in business management, including office organization and financial efficiency.

Dean Willard H. Sperry of Harvard Theological seminary declared that "all of our present confusion arises from out impatience with a two-compartment world, where sacred and secular are kept apart," adding that "the usual college course and all post-graduate study are really a part of man's theological education."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

What has been termed "chicken cholera" in western states has resulted in a bar on live poultry shipments into New York market, is not a matter of hysteria in Windham county. Nothing approximating any such epidemic as has beset the hens of the western states is in evidence here. Such sickness as has developed in flocks in this section of eastern Connecticut is not of the type that has been wiping out hens by the hundreds in some states. There is nothing in the local situation to cause any alarm.

County Agent F. L. Davis, of the Windham County Farmers' association, said Thursday afternoon the Windham county poultry men have taken time by the forelock and have adopted precautions that should forestall any possibility of disastrous epidemics in flocks in this county. What is described as a disease control campaign has been inaugurated and it is anticipated that it will be effective. Poultry men have been advised by experts that certain sanitary and hygenic methods be adopted to proect their flocks from any epidemic. The program includes the whitewashing of coops and the duty of otherwise keeping them scrupulously clean. To further the advice recently given poultrymen by experts at a Brooklyn meeting at which about 80 of the best known poultrymen of the county were in attendance a plan has been worked out for disease control demonstrations at five different poultry farms in the county.

County Agent Davis made a splendid study of the poultry situation and will gladly give advice to those seeking knowledge as to how to properly care for their flocks that they may be properly protected from disease.

It is hoped that poultry diseases may be kept down to a minimum in Windham county by the methods that have been outlined here.

A. F. Wood was in Providence Thursday to bring from the Rhode Island hospital to the home of her parents in North Foster, the body of Miss Anna A. Hill, 10, who entered the hospital about a week ago to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hill. In addition to her parents she leaves two sisters.

Wednesday evening at their rooms in the Keystone block, a Christmas party was given by the member of McGregor, W. R. C., with members of McGregor post, G. A. R. attending. There was a Christmas tree, a Santa Claus and of course a distribution of gifts. Civil war veterans attending each received a box of home-made candy. Toys, books, games and other gifts that were collected by the corp are to be sent to the Newington home for crippled children. As in other years, it has been decided that the Relief Corps, the G. A. R. post and the Sons of Veterans will have a joint installation of officers on the first Wednesday in January. The committee of the Relief corps to arrange for this event is made up of Mrs. Homer Brown, Mrs. George Robertson, Mrs. William Watlers, Mrs. L. S. Ingalls and Mrs. Walter Ryder.

The body of Mrs. Eva Aubin, 43, wife of Felix Aubin, was brought to her home in Wauregan Thursday morning from St. Joseph's hospital at Providence, where she died following a surgical operation, death occurring early Thursday. She had been a patient at the hospital for about three weeks. Mrs. Aubin was a native of Canada, but had lived the greater part of her life in this country. She leaves her husband and seven children. Mrs. Elmer Brindamour of the West Side is a sister of Mrs. Aubin.

In the town court the Christmas rush continues. There were 15 cases for Judge W. Fenner Woodward to consider Thursday morning. Out of the batch one man had the doubtful distinction of being in for having been drunk. The others were personal tax cases. The man charged with having been intoxicated was fined 5 and costs paid the bill. Of the 14 personal tax cases seven were adjusted by the payment of the overdue taxes and the costs of court and seven cases were nolled. There were various reasons for nolling the cases, all good and sufficient. On man had a receipt showing that he had paid, some of the others were not liable for the tax being for the required legal period nonresidents of Killingly. In the long process of clearing up the personal tax record, this process now in full swing, officials will be able to clean the slate and establish who is and who is not liable to pay such taxes. It is anticipated that no such difficulty as is now being experienced will be encountered in the immediate future. Certainly those who have had to pay their taxes and heavy costs in addition will not be likely to be delinquent. It is too expensive.

An observer of Christmas shoppers expresses the opinion that this is a year in which the buyers are turning to practical gifts. They are purchasing wearables and many other sensible things for gift-giving. The day of the gew-gaws appears to have passed on.

During January, Danielson will figure in a tri-county campaign to raise $5,000 to pay the mortgage on the Tri-county Y. M. C. A. camp at Black Pond, in the town of Woodstock.

It should be made part of last Tuesday's election record in Killingly that Timothy Quinn, a resident of this town, received one vote, in the second district, for United States senator.

State officers continue to search for goods believed to have been included in loot obtained by Henry Breault of Putnam in a series of burglaries with which he is charged. Hundreds of dollars wort hof stolen goods were recovered at Breault's home.

East Killingly persists in getting into the news. Last week it was dandelions in bloom. This week a snake attracts attention. Working about the dam at the Hygeia reservoir, one of cold days the early part of the week, Julian Rainville killed a striped snake about two feet in length. The reptile had crawled out of a nearby wall for a sunning—and in December, too!

There appears to be nothing definite as to the placing regularly on the running schedule through Danielson of the motor driven passenger cars that are to replace certain steam trains. After a tryout the cars are off and the trains are still performing the service through this territory.

Through the courtesy of Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department, large numbers of homes in Danielson have been supplied with cards giving a list of the fire alarm boxes in the borough, instructions as to the use of them in case of fire and other interesting information relative to signals that are sounded from time to time on the fire siren.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Wood of Providence are visiting Mr. Wood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wood of Academy street. Mr. Wood is a member of the faculty of Brown university.

Beginning this Friday) evening there will be general adoption of the practice of keeping stores open evenings until Christmas.

Numbers of the schools in Killingly will have Christmas parties today which will mark the end of the winter term and the beginning of the Christmas vacation season.

Delinquent former service men are being urged to file their bonus claims before January 1. While there is no way of checking exactly, it is believed that the majority here entitled to a bonus already have filed their claims.

Many compliments were paid Thursday to the members of "Doris Comes to Town" cast of the Killingly High school senior play. It was a real good entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carl Witter were visitors in Providence Thursday.

No effort will be spared by Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bassett, superintendent and matron at the Killingly town farm, to make Christmas a happy holiday for the inmates of the institution.

Marked "Not to be opened until Christmas," pacakages mailed now will have the right of way over the mountains of matter that will go through the post office in the next few days and prompt delivery at destination will be assured. Mail packages early.

Many who come here to attend the boxing exhibition Thursday evening had to do some scurrying around to find places for their cars and avoid conflict with the parking regulations.

PUTNAM

Charles Munroe, colored, a veteran of the Civil war, died at 4 o'clock Thursday morning at the Day Kimball hospital from injuries caused by being struck by an automobile, a week ago. The only apparent injury that was found when taken to the hospital was a broken leg, but the shock to his system due to his age, he was past eighty, or internal injuries, resulted in his death.

He lived in Harrisville, near the dam, and was crossing the road from his house on Wednesday evening of last week carrying a pail of water from a spring when a car driven by Charles Sheldon, of South Woodstock, struck him. Mr. Sheldon said that it was just after dusk and he did not see the old man until it was too late to stop the car. He blew his horn, which, he says, Mr. Munroe apparently did not hear, as he made no effort to avoid the car. He pulled as far as possible to the side of the road but Mr. Munroe was caught by the fender and his leg was broken as he went down. Young Sheldon went to the nearest telephone and called Dr. Russell, who told him to bring Mr. Munroe to his office if he could, if not he would drive out. With the aid of another man Mr. Munroe was helped into Sheldon's car and taken to the physician's office, and after a brief examination to the Day Kimball hospital. Mr. Munroe had lived in Putnam for nearly fifty years. For the past twenty years he had been employed at the wood working plant of J. B. Tatem & Son, and had been at his usual employment on the day that he was injured.

He served on the Union side during the Civil war, spending two years in the navy and two with the land forces, having been a member of the 54th Massachusetts Infantry. His wife survives him, as do four children but none of them lives here.

Two basketball games will be played here this (Friday) evening. The Putnam High School will play the Alumni team and the Headquarters Company of the 43rd Division will play the Willimantic West Ends.

Putnam lodge of Elks is to hold its annual ball in the armory at Danielson, the third week in January.

The fact that the bill introduced in congress by Senator Fletcher, of Florida, for appropriations for public buildings in various cities includes $50,000 for a government building in Putnam should not raise expectations that such a structure will be built. In 1911 a site for a post office building was acquired, corner of South Main and Grove streets, at a cost of $8,000. There was a residence on it but this was not included in the purchase and it was removed to another lot. The corner site is still vacant. A measure carying the necessary amount for the building had passed one house of congress, and its passage was assured in the other, or the treasury department was about to issue orders for the erection of it, when a protest was sent to Washington signed by a large number of business men and other citizens objecting on account of the location of the site, which, it was claimed, would prove of great inconvenience to the majority of the people who used the office. This halted the proceedings and they have never been revived. Five years ago the lower flower of Union block was made over in accordance with the specifications of draughtsmen of the treasury department and the post office located there, and there is not much possibility that it will be changed very soon, even if President Coolidge were not committed to programme of economy.

Mrs. Jennie Simmons of Putnam died Tuesday at the state hospital in Norwich. The body was brought here for funeral services and will then be taken to Danielson for burial.

Members of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows were guests Thursday evening of Protection lodge, of Central Village, where candidates from here and Danielson were given the third degree.

The hearing Wednesday before the public utilities commission on the application of the Farnum Brothers, for permission for their motor buses to take on and discharge passengers while they are passing through Connecticut between Providence and Springfield, showed how acute th esituation is growing in the matter of transportation between the railroads, the trolley line and the motor buses. J. S. Hobbs, superintendent of the Midland Division of the New Haven Railroad, and E. C. Reegan, superintendent of the New Haven and New London division stated at the hearing that the granting of charters to motor bus lines had cut into the receipts of the railroad, that it had been necessary to cut down the number of passenger trains and that local passenger service would probably be still further reduced.

The owners of the stage line have not been operating for a year and have not passed through a winter with all that that means in the blocking of highways. It is not unlikely that there would be days when their buses could not run because of cold weather conditions. The residents of Woodstock, who have neither train nor trolley service would naturally welcome such a daily bus line, even if there are a few days when it might not be able to operate. Attorney Sabin Russell, of Danielson, was at the hearing representing Herbert Barnett who wants to operate a jitney between Putnam and Danielson to connect at the latter place with the line from Danielson to Providence. His proposal is to make three round trips a day.

The business section of the city is being strung with red and green electric light bulbs to be kept burning during the holiday season. It is part of the Progress programme of the merchants' commitee of the Chamber of Commerce.

CHILDREN AND FIREARMS.

Windham county has produced some deplorable tragedies. The latest is the shooting and killing of his six-year-old sister by an eight-year-old boy of Ashford, who had gone to a closet and obtained such a dangerous weapon as a loaded shotgun for a plaything. It was while having such fun as children might be expected to with such an instrument of death that it was discharged and as is so often the case the little child was the target for the charge.

Children of such an age are not apt to sense the danger connected with playing with a shotgun. They know not whether the weapon is loaded. Their concern is to imitate others and have a good time doing it if possible. What do they know of the danger that is involved, the chance of getting hurt or of hurting others? Perhaps they have been told and perhaps they have not. But it is well known that it is child nature to get what he is told he cannot have, if by any means there's a chance to do it.

The distressing fact about the frightful tragedy is that by any chance it should have been possible for the youngster to get his hands on a loaded shotgun, or a loaded weapon of any kind. The peril involved in leaving firearms within reach of children ought to be obvious. It is not much different than leaving poison where it can be gotten, or placing matches where they can be played with.

What has occurred at Ashford has happened repeatedly elsewhere. The lesson has been a conspicuous one in too many localities. Nothing stands out more prominently in connection with safety first efforts, and yet the frequent repetition of such sad affairs doesn't seem to make a sufficient impression to surround the children with what must be considered common safeguards. The farther apart children and firearms can be kept the better for all concerned.

CAPE COD CANAL.

Favorable is the outlook for the purchase of Cape Cod canal by the government. This shortcut along the New England coast has been of immense benefit and protection to shipping. It not only reduces by more than 60 miles the trip of vessels along the coast but it eliminates the navigation of a narrow and crooked channel through Vineyard sound and out and around the dangerous shoals that characterize Cape Cod. Fittingly has that tongue of land with its bars and shoals been referred to as the shipping graveyard of the New England coast. No navigator minimizes the dangers that it has so long held in store for coastwise shipping. Many are the vessels, steam as well as sail, that have been wrecked trying to get around Cape Cod.

What the canal has done for shipping in general, even though it doesn't attract all the traffic, it has also done for the navy up to the accommodations it has for such vessels. It furnishes an inside course, that same short cut and that removal of recognized dangers. That the waterway should be in the hands of the government that it can be still further developed and made more useful for all classes of vessels and for the navy in case of emergency has long been urged, and it is to be hoped that the movement now underway for acquisition will be successful.

When we consider the amount of money that is spent for the government in planting water lilies on certain southern streams, in removing them at a later date and in the development of rivers which have no traffic and no prospect of getting any it must be recognized that not only has the acquisition of the canal a legitimate claim upon government attention but deserves to be placed upon such control that it will not only be available for such uses as will be made of it in time of peace but put in condition for any and all uses that the navy department might have for it in case of war. As is well known the time for making such preparations is before any emergency arises.

USING MUSCLE SHOALS.

Senator Norris is making some statements in the Muscle Shoals discussions that are intended to be alarming. He is trying to carry his own pet scheme through by casting aspersions at others, and he doesn't restrain himself in any particular in the charges that he makes. Invariably it is the case that such wild assertions are heavily discounted. They are certain to be in this case.

Senator Norris is committed to government operation. He is unwilling to listen to anything else, and because there are those who desire the government to keep out of such business and to get the much more efficient results from private enterprise he seeks to have such an aim blasted through the charges he makes, and he cleverly draws them in such a way as to get attention and support for his undertaking.

From such an expression as has been given up to this time the senate seems to be clearly set against the idea of giving consideration to government operation only. The indications already point to the fact that that is the only method of utilizing the plant that Senator Norris is in favor of.

Those who support the Underwood bill have not shut the door in such a manner. They have indicated opposition to government operation, but they have not declared that such will never be favored. By the terms of the Underwood bill provision is made for the leasing of the Muscle Shoals plant under terms that will meet the requirements of the government. The inference is that it will be possible to lease under such conditions but it is not required that the government should place the big plant at the disposal of anyone that makes a bid, whether that bid is satisfactory or not. The fact is that if the leasing of Muscle Shoals under satisfactory terms cannot be accomplished there is nothing standing in the way of the government putting it to work under its own direction.

It is not believed that there is any great sentiment for government operation, knowing what that means, and the senate by its action indicates that it is aware of that fact.

POSTAL EXPENSES.

In connection with the efforts in behalf of increased pay in the postal service and the increasing of rates on all but one class, it is not surprising that attention is being called to the opportunity which exists for the cutting down of that large expense which is borne by the government in the sending of the huge volume of franked matter that is sent over the country.

Whenever efforts have been made to institute reforms concerning the franking privilege they have made no headway. As might be expected they encounter the opposition of those who make extensive use of the privilege, those who burden the mails with speeches which were never delivered but get into the Congressional Record under leave to print and a great volume of similar mail which is handled at large expense.

It is not improbable that attention will be called to other opportunities which it is believed exist for the introduction of large saving in the conduct of the department, or perhaps the elimination of much which now amounts to a heavy burden. Certainly these must get some consideration when it comes to making a serious effort to stop leaks. To anticipate the development of much opposition to any move that is made to restrict the franking privilege is only in keeping with what has resulted in the past. The present congress isn't constituted in the right way to accomplish any such reform. It must be realized that it comes pretty close home when the franking privilege is concerned and none understand it better than the members of congress who make the greatest use of it.

TRYING TO REDUCE CRIME.

For the purpose of reducing the great amount of crime in which the revolver plays a conspicuous part, cities and states have adopted laws for the prevention or regulation of the sale of firearms. Regardless of the purpose and the enforcement of the law, the legislation has worked to the advantage of the criminals. They have been able to obtain their guns outside the territory covered by the laws, but those who would protect themselves against the criminal have been forced to disarm, if they obeyed the law, or else obtain a permit to have a gun. Communities, or states, which had no such legislation did the business of those communities where restrictions were imposed.

For the purpose of doing for the country what was sought for state or city, the bill which has been passed by the lower house of congress will make it impossible for the mail order houses to send pistols through the mail, if it eventually becomes a law.

This very action has been anticipated by one or more mail order houses which announced some time ago that no further sales of revolvers would be made by them. They recognized the need of aiding in the effort to reduce crime by making it less easy to obtain revolvers, and they listened to the appeals of the police authorities throughout the country for regulation that would keep such weapons out of the hands of the hardened, or the would be, criminal.

The ease with which state and city regulations in this respect could be overcome has been recognized by one branch of congress. The legitimate business in the shipment of revolvers would not be interfered with. Whatever can be done to reduce murders, if it actually will, is praiseworthy.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

When father took mother down east for a few weeks' trip he suggested that I join Cousin Fannie and granny who are out at Uncle John's farm, but I told him that I preferred staying in town. I said I would have a quiet little vacation here at home with Tilly.

"Don't you think I'm being an inexpensive daughter?" I asked.

"That remains to be seen," said mother before dad could answer. "I hope you will be economical, dear."

I gave father a pathetic look, and he laughed and remarked that I wasn't expected to live on bread and water; that of course I was to have any reasonable pleasure I wished during their absence. It at once occurred to me that it would be a marvelous opportunity to have our library and the old fashioned parlor thrown into one large, beautiful room, and the very next day after dad and mother left I got a carpenter at it.

"What a dreadful mess you're in," remarked Esther Wilson, who dropped in one morning when the plaster was lying all over the floor. "How can you stand it, Lucile?"

"Well, it isn't exactly restful, but I'm so happy to do it for the folks while they're away that I don't mind so much. Sometimes, though, I do feel as if I must run away from it."

"Well, next time it gets on your nerves to that extent, come over and have dinner with Jim and me. We should love to have you."

"Thank you so much, Esther, I'll certainly do that." I replied, and on Thursday I told Tilly when she went out that she need not come home to get dinner for me.

"Oh, Lucile," exclaimed Esther when I called her to accept her dinner invitation, "could you come tomorrow just as well as today?"

"Why, no, Esther, to be perfectly frank, I couldn't. I simply have to go somewhere tonight, for the house is absolutely unlivable and Tilly is away. However, if it's inconvenient for you I can make some other arrangement. I thought of course that when you said any time you meant it. Now I'm dreadfully sorry I called you. You see I—"

"Of course I meant it, Lucile, and you must come. It just happened that Jim and I had made a plan for tonight, but — but we don't have to carry it out."

"It's certainly lovely of you to take pity on a nearly homeless orphan such as I am at present," I said gratefully, but just before dinner time I had to call her again and withdraw my acceptance.

"You see, Esther dear," I explained, "Dexter Haines has suddenly invited me to dine with him and go to the wonderful Morris dances that are to be given in the gardens of one of the loveliest estates on the north shore. He was lucky enough to secure tickets to this really exclusive affair and he would be dreadfully disappointed if I didn't go with him. You understand, don't you, darling?"

"I certainly do, Lucile, for it was those Morris dances that we gave up so you could dine with us tonight. Jim had a fearful time getting the tickets and I must confess he was quite cross when I phoned him this morning that he must dispose of them. Dexter bought them."

"Why, Esther, I never fancied—" I began, but she had broken the connection, most rudely I think.

I cannot see why she should have been so vexed. She had not told me what her and Jim's plans were. How was I to know? I suppose now I shall have some difficulty getting back into her good graces. If it weren't for her money and social position I should not care whether she was "off" me or not.

"What have you been doing, Lucile?" asked mother the moment she and dad entered the house on their return home. "Good gracious, you—"

"This is my surprise for you two dears," I replied. "Isn't this long, spacious room a perfect delight?"

"Lucile, all this work must have cost dreadfully!" exclaimed my ever-frugal mother. "How much have you spent?"

"Oh, I don't know yet. The bills haven't come yet, but daddy said I could have any reasonable pleasure, so I did this for all of us. I thought you'd be delighted."

But the funny thing is that neither mother nor dad appears at all pleased. —Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The American stage will suffer a distinct loss in the retirement of Leo Ditrichstein, who has not only held place among the most finished actors of his day but has also attained more than ordinary success as a playwright. Although not an American by birth, Mr. Ditrichstein is essentially an American star, and has appeared before the American public continuously for nearly 35 years. Born in Hungary, he was educated in Vienna and started upon his career as a singer in light opera. In 1890 he came to America and played for a time with a German stock company in New York. Having mastered the English quickly, he was engaged by Charles Brohman and played his first English-speaking part in John Drew's company. Then came his first great success, in the part of Zou Zou in the original production of Tribly. Once assured of his place on the stage, he set about the task of becoming a playwright. In recent years his name has figured as the author, co-author or adapter of many successful plays.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

CAN THE DEAD SEA HELP WORLD AGRICULTURE?

Enormous supplies of potash can be easily extracted from the waters of the Dead sea, according to recent assertions.

"The Dead Sea is the sink hole of the world," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "In no other continent is there such a deep depression in the earth's crust; nor will one find greater desolation or more uncomfortable conditions for man and most other living things even in the hearts of the greatest deserts.

"The Hebrew scriptures have thrown an atmosphere of tragedy about this country. There, the chronicle states, were situated the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrha, destroyed by the wrath of Jehovah; and there the modern reader sees the blasted region, seared by unbearable heat, with its bitter death-dealing waters, to prove the story to his satisfaction.

"According to the Biblical narrative the Jordan Valley, and the plain near its mouth on the shores of the Dead sea where the destroyed cities lay, shared the early good fortune of the Promised Land itself and 'flowed with milk and honey.' But an end was put to this pleasant condition by the rain of brimstone and fire.

"The story of the region deciphered from its rocks by zeologists begins much earlier than the days of the patriarchs whose actions are recorded in the Bible. This record seems to indicate that Palestine and the whole western end of Arabia rose from the sea a million or more years ago in what geologists term the Tertiary era. Shortly after the rise, it seems, a great slice of the land parallel to the coast of the Mediterranean sank to great depth, forming the huge rift valley, 'the Ghor,' now occupied by the Jordan river and the Dead sea.

"It is not clear whether there was a connection channel between the Mediterranean and the great valley; but a well defined ancient beach indicates that in those remote times the great depression held a sea or lake at about the same level as that of the Mediterranean. The Jordan did not then exist; its entire valley as well as the Sea of Galilee was swallowed up in the parent of the Dead sea, which was some 200 miles long and 10 to 15 miles wide.

"It is believed that the climate of Palestine in remote times was moist and that the great inland lake was for a while kept at its highest point. When drier conditions set in the lake began to shrink, eventually retreating into the present position of the Dead Sea and exposing the valley now occupied by the Jordan. This is practically the only large river in the world which flows in a valley ready-made for it almost from source to mouth.

"The Dead sea depression having no outlet, all the salts contained in the large original inland sea were retained when evaporation reduced the volume of the body of water to its present dimensions. In addition, for hundreds of thousands of years the Jordan and the other streams and torrents that flow from the desert hills into the basin have been carrying in additional salts until now the waters of the Dead sea constitute one of the most highly concentrated natural brines in existence. It is estimated that on the average some six million tons of water flow into the Dead sea daily, and since the level of the sea changes but little, an equal amount is pumped out daily by evaporation.

"Whereas ocean water contains about one-twentieth of its weight in dissolved solids, the solids in solution in Dead Sea water make up one-fourth its weight. Potassium cloride makes up about one-fifteenth of the total solids but common salt (sodium cloride) is fully five times as plentiful. The isolation of the potassium salts, therefore, might be somewhat difficult on a commercial scale.

"The present Dead sea is 47 miles long and about 10 miles wide. Its surface lies approximately 1300 feet lower than sea level and at its deepest point its bottom lies another 1300 feet down. This great rift in the earth's crust, therefore, lies 2600 feet below sea level and is the deepest hole in the land anywhere in the world. Because of the intense heat and dryness and the presence everywhere of salt the land immediately abou the Dead sea is a region of desolation. On some of the flats a few straggling, thorny desert plants grow and in some sheltered wadies where the springs are fresh, small groups of palms struggle for existence. Most of the area, however, is a dry, rocky waste encrusted with salt, or nearer the sea, with slimy salt mud flats.

"It is quite possible that even six or seven thousand years ago, in the era to which the Biblical chronicles reach, the then relatively moist climate of Palestine made the plain near the mouth of the Jordan a rich land such as that which Lot found. It is also quite possible that the 'Cities of the Plain'—Sodom, Gomorrha, and their fellows—perished in a cataclysm brought about by a modern secondary adjustment in this region of tremendous earlier geologic disturbance.

"Because the intense heat and pressure are almost sure to prove fatal to others than the few Arab nomads that manage to survive in the region, this area has not been intensively studied by scientists. It was a first thought that there is no evidence of recent volcanic action and that the traditional destruction of the cities by a rain of fire and brimstone may have referred to the explosion of pockets of crude petroleum. A scientist who visited the region in 1909, however, reported a small extinct volcano near the northeastern corner of the Dead sea near the reputed site of Sodom and concluded that a shower of ashes from this vent may have caused the catastrophe so vividly described in Genesis."

A Little Talk on Thrift

TIME TO TAKE STOCK

We have reached the final month of the year. We are approaching another 12 months period. It is a good time to take stock.

What has the past year meant for you in the way of success or failure? What are you going to make of yourself during the year that lies just ahead?

If you have been living beyond your means, now is a good time to pull yourself together and start on a new basis of spending less than you earn.

Byron said: "The best prophet of the future is the past." If during the past you have failed to get ahead and make provision for possible days of adversity, you can expect nothing but continued misspent time and neglected opportunities unless you make radical changes in your methods of living.

Some of the happiest people in the world are those who, having made their mistakes, have learned at last the value of prudent habits. They have found that no form of pleasure offers the substantial joy that comes with the realization that one's routine of life is well ordered and that each day means something saved and something gained.

The man who starts next year with a definite resolution to save money and get ahead will find that before he is far along in 1925 these fixed habits will accomplish far more for him than he ever dreamed could be the case.

If the old year and the ones preceding it have brought only failure and disappointment to you, do not be discouraged.

Let all the unpleasant memories of the past be buried with the years that have gone.

Let this new year, so rich in opportunities, bring a firm resolve to pull yourself out of the old rut of thriftless ways. Make of it a portal to the temple of success.

In this endeavor your first step must be a firm resolution to practice thrift. —American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

A Good Recommendation.

A few days ago a young man was seeking a room in a residential section. He looked at several and at last found one to his liking. The landlady however, was a little partcular as to the matter of reference. The young man had no identification card with him so he rather blushingly told the woman that he was going with a young woman whom she knew in that neighborhood and he wanted to move to that part of the city that he might be close to her. He got the room

A Disturbing Element.

Bobby came home from school with his books and school things in his hands.

"I'm not going to school again to that teacher," he said with a decisiveness that was characteristic of his words and acts. His mother deemed it best to leave the matter open for the father. Bobby told him that the teacher had called him "a scurvy elephant." Next morning father and mother went to the school and told the teacher. For half a minute she just laughed and that's all she said. Then she explained that Bobby had been diverting other pupils and she said to him: "Bobby, come here and sit beside me, you are a disturbing element."

Lungs Sore From Coughing Cured by ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER

Mr. Alfred Husson of 17 Cedar St., Lynn, Has Found This Remedy a Friend in Need

Mr. H. J. Allen:

Dear Sir:—I have used Allen's Lung Healer a number of years and as I have always found it very effective in all kinds of coughs, and colds, especially on the lungs, I want to tell you that I would not be without it in the house.

It was recommended to me at a time when I was suffering from a deep-seated cold on the lungs which had run me down badly. At times I was unable to work because of the distress in my lungs from coughing. The first bottle greatly relieved me and the second cured me entirely so that I felt like a different man. I consider it a most remarkable and reliable lung and cough medicine.

Gratefully, yours

"Of the fifty-five deaths announced in the Times of October 7," said the London Times, "one was given at 101 years of age, six at ninety years and over and nine at eighty years and over and above. The united ages of the sixteen total 1,386 years, an average of eighty-six and five-eighths years. Six deaths took place at seventy or over, the same number at sixty and above, and five only were given at under sixty, the ages of the remaining twenty-two not being stated. If figures are facts and speak for themselves these may be cited to prove that, in spite of their alleged shortcomings, the early Victorians at least knew how to lay the foundation of a long life."

The Dangerous Hour.

In London more accidents occur on Saturday than any other day of the week. The time favorable to accidents seems to be between 2 and 4 p. m., or much earlier than in the United States. The next most dangerous hour is that between 10 and 11 at night. This is not surprising, as the traffic is heavy and poorly regulated at night. It is as much as your life is worth to cross the Strand in the late evening. It has been urged, not only in London, but elsewhere, that an improvement of the street lighting would go far toward removing this danger.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Off For a Sleigh Ride

It took the Yellow Dog Tramp all the forenoon to unscrew and take off the Luckymobile wheels, and by the time he had fastened on the four little red sleds, Mr. Happy Sun was going down behind the western hill. It had stopped storming early in the afternoon, but by that time the snow was four inches deep, and Mr. North Wind was heaping up great drifts, hiding the Old Rail Fence and filling in the hollow spaces of the Pleasant Pasture.

"We'll light the lamps and take Little Jack Rabbit, Little Miss Mousie and Lady Love out for a drive," chuckled merry Uncle Lucky. "Brush the Buffalo robs with your feather duster tail," he added, turning to the Old Red Rooster, while I hop into the house and get Little Miss Mousie," and away went dear Uncle Lucky, hipperty hop over the snowdrifts.

"Put on your knitted bonnet"

"Put on your knitted bonnet
With the pretty ribbon on it.
And wrap yourself up nice and warm
So you won't feel the chilly storm.

he shouted in poetry, opening the kitchen door and closing it even quicker, for fear Mr. North Wind would sprinkle the floor with snowflakes.

It took his tiny mouse housekeeper but a few minutes to put on her warm fur coat and mittens, and in less time than I can take to tell it, she and Uncle Lucky and the Yellow Dog Tramp were speeding away to the little white house in the dear Old Bramble Patch for Lady Love and her bunny boy.

"Ring the old cow bell," shouted Uncle Lucky. "It's under the seat."

Goodness me, how the Yellow Dog Tramp rang that bell. Lady Love thought the fire engine from Rabbitville was coming, and opening the kitchen door, peeked out with fear and trembling. "Ha, ha!" shouted Little Jack Rabbit, standing on tip-toe just behind her. "It's not the fire engine, it's the Luckmobile. Hurrah!"

"Get on your warmest things," advised dear Uncle Lucky from under his old wedding stovepipe hat, over the top of which and under his chin he had tied his blue silk polkadot handkerchief.

"My, how Mr. North Wind blows! You mustn't let him nip your nose.

For a few minutes, the little lady bunny's house was all excitement. Little Jack Rabbit couldn't find his woolen muffler and Lady Love her diamond ring, which she had taken off when kneading the dough for the tea biscuits. But pretty soon, not so very long, they were both in the Luckymobile,—beg pardon, the Sledmobile now that it ran on four sleds—and away they sped, the old cow bell making such a ding-a-ling that it brought Squirrel Nutcracker to his front door as they whissed by the old chestnut tree into the next story.

Livingstone Toiled Under Torrid Suns

For 30 years David Livingstone, after his cherished ambition to be a missionary in China had been frustrated, endured the torrid suns of Central Africa, and battled with fevers and wild beasts to evangelize the native races, explore the undiscovered secrets and abolish the desolations slave trade.

Born at Blantyre, Scotland, he was trained to the trade of weaving. His peasant parents could not afford him an education and he was wont to place a book on his cotton-spinning machine and read a line at a time as the shuttle rattled back and forth. At 23 he was able to give himself part of a college course. Years later, he wrote:

"I should like to begin life over again, and to pass through the same hardy training."

Barred from China by war, he went as a medical missionary to Central Africa in 1841. At Kuruman he isolated himself six months to learn the native language; then he wed Mary Moffat, daughter of a missionary, and they penetrated farther into the wilderness. Once he was crippled when his arm was shattered by a raiding lion he had wounded.

In 1849 he crossed the scorching Kalahari desert, and a year later discovered the main stream of the Zambesi. To achieve his tasks better he sent his family back to England. At 40 he returned to England and wrote, Missionary Travels and Researches in Africa. A year later as British consul, he explored the Zambesi. In 1862 Mrs. Livingstone rejoined him, but died a few months later.

Recalled to England by the government, which was dissatisfied with results, and because missionary people expressed discouragement, he went to Africa again at 53 and was lost sight of for so long that Henry M. Stanley was sent to find him. Encouraged by Stanley's support, he set out with renewed courage, but became involved in swamps and his health broke. And England honored his memory by bearing his body back to England and placing it in Westminster Abbey.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, O. N. Johnson, 642 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

NORWICH HADASSAH CHAPTER HOLDS ANNUAL BALL

The annual ball of the Norwich chapter of Hadassah was held Tuesday evening at the Wauregan hotel ballroom.

The president, Mrs. Michael Levine, opened the evening with greetings to the patrons and then turned the affair over to Mrs. J. M. Rosenberg, committee chairman, and Mrs. Samuel Taylor, treasurer.

After a few remarks Mrs. Rosenberg introduced Attorney Reuben Taylor of Hartford, who spoke fluently and convincingly of conditions in Palestine. Mr. Taylor has just returned from a tour through Palestine and told of conditions just as they were seen and studied by him. The marked advances in construction of cities, establishment of hospitals and means of labor are such as is witnessed in any progressive city in the world.

He also told the Hadassah of their important work and aid to the colonists and hospitals and hoped they would continue with their good efforts.

Mrs. Cipa R. Taylor then rendered a few vocal selections and Henry Brynien, local violinist, played several numbers that pleased the audience.

The affair proved a success, the treasurer reporting that a good sum was realized to aid Hadassah work by the Norwich chapter.

JURY GIVES PLAINTIFF VERDICT FOR $1,070

Late Thursday afternoon the jury in the damage action brought by Mrs. Mary E. Robinson of East Great Plain against her brother, William F. McNeely, formerly of this city, now of Clinton, returned a verdict of $1,070 for the plaintiff. Thedamages asked were $2,200. The action was brought by Mrs. Robinson to collect for services, at the rate of $25 a week, taking care of her mother, now deceased, and cooking for the defendant, at her mother's home on Boswell avenue. She alleges in her complaint that she was asked by the defendant to go to their home and look after the mother and to cook for the defendant and she claimed that she was promised compensation of $25 a week by the defendant. He denied in his testimony that anything was said about paying her $25 a week.

When the case, which had been started Wednesday was taken up again Thursday morning William F. McNeely, the defendant, concluded his testimony. Other witnesses for the defense were Henry Metcalf, John H. McNeely and Mary E. Hollingsworth. The defendant rested at 12.18 p. m. and at 12.45 both sides rested.

A short recess was taken after which the arguments were started and following the arguments there was a shor recess to allow Attorneys Charles L. Stewart and Henry H. Pettis to attend the funeral of Captain James Lennen, both being honorary bearers.

About 4.20 o'clock Judge George E. Hinman started his charge to the jury and they took the case at 4.40 o'clock, returning their verdict shortly after 5 o'clock. This was the last jury case for this term of the court. A short calendar session will be held by the court today (Friday).

HARNESS SHOP FIRE CAUSES LOSS ESTIMATED AT $2,500

Fire which started from some unknown cause in the rear part of the harness shop of H. A. Heebner on the water street side of the Kenyon building about 8:45 o'clock Thursday evening resulted in a loss estimated at about $2,500. As Officer Henry Fenton was passing the harness store he discovered smoke coming from the store and immediately pulled in box 161, Water and Commerce streets. Harry Marcus, proprietor of the restaurant and delicatessen on the Main street side of the building, discovered smoke creeping up from the floor beneath him and he rushed to box 116 at the Breed corner, across the street. He attempted to pull the box, but box 161 had been pulled just at the same moment but as box 161 is of the non interference type the alarm came in at the stations from the Water street box.

The fire department made a quick response and a line of hose was run into the pool room under the restaurant from the Main street side. Another line was run into the harness shop on Water street. Dense smoke was pouring from both the Main and Water street sides of the building. The flames were confined to the rear of the store and were shortly under control. Partitions and heavy timbers were badly charred by the flames and the stock in the store was considerably damaged.

The fire started around a partition separating the harness room from the heater room and from the charred condition of the partition it is thought the fire originated on the harness room side. Smoke made its way into the pool room directly above the harness shop and the restaurant and apartments on the upper floors of the building. The undertaking rooms in the adjoining building conducted by Church and Allen were filled with smoke.

The building is owned by Daniel T. Shea. The pool room is conducted by H. Kotopoulos. On the ground floor, Main street side is located the restaurant conducted by Harry Marcus and the tenants on the second and third floors are Mrs. Florence L. Bliven and Theodore Lowenberger and family.

When the box was pulled the usual string of automobiles started for the scene of the blaze from all directions and one piece of the fire appartus was practically blocked while responding to the alarm. Chief Howard L. Stanton of the fire department said Thursday night after the fire that interference on the part of automobile drivers while the apparatus is responding to alarms is growing worse instead of better. Chief Stanton said such interference has got to be stopped, and that hereafter automible drivers who try to beat the apparatus to fires, and get in the path of the apparatus interferring with the response of the firemen, or get under foot by driving their machines as near the scene of fires as they possibly can get will be arrested and presented in court.

GASOLINE FIRE IN AUTOMOBILE PAINT SHOP

At 7.21 o'clock Thursday morning the fire department was called out by telephone for a small fire in the automobile paint shop conducted by Charles Geskovitz at No. 354 West Main street. Mr. Geskovitz had gone into the varnish room to light a fire in the stove. After lighting the fire he accidently tossed the match into a can of gasoline used for cleaning the bodies of machines from which the paint has been scraped.

The gasoline blazed up and the call for the fire department followed. Mr. Geskovitz attempted to carry the can of burning gasoline out of the building with the aid of a stick under the handle. The gasoline was blazing so fiercely that the heat melted the handle off and the can dropped to the floor spilling its blazing contents. By quick work Mr. Geskovitz practically had the blaze out when the firemen arrived. The damage was slight.

Box 14, Thames square, was pulled in calling out the fire department. The blaze was quickly extinguished. The paint on the hood was badly damaged by the heat from the fire around the engine.

The wisdom of nature is proverbial, but why she gave a man a jaw and teeth that enable him to bite off more than he can chew, is a mystery.

WESTERLY BOARD OF TRADE HOLDS BANQUET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Dec. 18.—About fifty members of Westerly Board of Trade assembled in the dining room of the Colonial club on High street, Thursday evening, when the following menu was served:

Tomato Soup
Olives Saltines
Tenderloin Steak
Mushroom Sauce
French Fried Potatoes June Peas
Hot Rolls Coffee
Ice Cream Mocha Cake

Harvey C. Perry, president of the Westerly Board of Trade, presided at the session which followed the serving of the dinner.

Previous to the evening session there was held a meeting of some 20 members of the Westerly Board of Trade when a voluntary association was formed to be known as the Rhode Island and Connecticut Shore Development company with annual dues of $25 and officers of the association were elected as follows: President, Daniel F. Larkin; first vice president, Frank W. Coy; second vice president, John O. Mills; third vice president, Frank N. Wilcox, and treasurer, Arthur L. Perry, with Charles Hammond to be actively engaged in promotion work.

The first business after the dinner was election of Col. A. E. Dick, a Watch Hill cottager, to board membership. President Perry stated that at a previous executive meeting the matter of spending money for advertising purposes was considered and it was decided to find out just what the wishes of the board members were in the matter.

Frank W. Coy said that if money was to be spent for advertising purposes the required legislation should be obtained at the earliest opportunity but this would not be available unless voted in a financial town meeting. It was voted that the recommendation of the executive committee favoring such expenditures be acted upon.

Secretary W. R. Fowler said that in the matter of a secretaryship there were three propositions to be considered: First, continue the $3 a year dues and get a secretary to contribute his services; to have 100 members pay $25 or $30 yearly dues instead of the 225 inactive members at $3 and hire a secretary at least $2,000 a year and third, to combine for a chamber of commerce the members of the new Rhode Island and Connecticut association, Colonial club and the board of trade whose dues now amounts to $25, $22 and $3 respectively, making $50, and get a paid secretary at $40 or $20 a week.

Representative S. H. Davis spoke of the accomplishment of the Chicago Boosters of the World's Fair and about St. Petersburg, Florida, which began by spending $500 and now spends $100,000, having ten times the former population. He favored the taking of decided steps and combining the three organizations.

Arthur N. Nash approved the larger chamber of commerce proposition. Supt of Water Works Thomas McKenzie thought it a fine thing. President Perry asked if the town planning committee could report and Samuel Girven wished to know how Pawcatuck was to be affected. For the town planning committee A. L. Perry said there were three schemes under consideration, one, widening Broad street, two, cut down Union street, and three, go on with Pierce street improvement and said that the school committee wished to enlarge the industrial school on Union street. President Perry said that the "Bottle" on West Broad street by the bridge should be opened up. It was the sense of the meeting that future sessions be held at the Colonial club. A. N. Nash thought that street cars and jitneys should not be allowed to stand on the Pawcatuck river bridge. At the close of the meeting Mr. Davis moved and it was voted to request Westerly and Pawcatuck officials to arrange for the widening at the earliest possible date of West Broad street from the railroad and Broad street to the Westerly High school.
